Herbie Mann to launch MU jazz festival

Clinics by jazz artists, jazz ensemble performances and a concert featuring Herbie Mann and the "New Family of Mann" will highlight the MU Jazz Festival, sponsored by Marshall University's Music Department.

The three-day festival, which opens Thursday, Feb. 1, will bring nearly 1,000 high school, college and university students from West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio to the campus where they will meet and play with noted jazz artists and educators, according to J.D. Folsom, MU assistant professor of music and festival director.

Serving as guest clinicians, in addition to Mann, will be Rich Matteson, co-founder of the Matteson-Phillips Tubajazz Jazz Ensemble, and Michael Woolf, assistant professor of music at Marshall. Woolf is a jazz percussion specialist on the vibraphone, and Michael Bard, a woodwind artist, who appeared with the Stan Keith-Albee as part of the Marshall Artists Series' Mount Mann and his group will perform in concert at 8 p.m. at the Student Activities Hall, Huntington.

A workshop by Mann, a jazz flutist, at 2 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 1, in the Kenton Student Center auditorium, will lead a clinic on that subject. Three clinics are scheduled for 2 p.m. these include:

- "Brass and Percussion Projection," Matteson in Smith Recital Hall.
- "Putti: Hair on the Woodwind and Horn," Bard in the Band Room.
- "Muscinaity in the Rhythm Section," Moleno in Room 107.

Friday's programming for the festival includes performances by the participating ensembles which will be judged by the guest artists. The competition will be held at 1:30 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall and continue throughout the day with the MU Jazz Ensemble scheduled for 8:45 p.m.

"Our festival is a little unusual in that the emphasis is on the educational aspects rather than on competition," Folsom noted. "All events are open to the public and are free except for the Herbie Mann concert," he said.

The Marshall Artists Series event is the Marshall Students with Activity Cards will be admitted free. Students with MU ID cards and youths through age 17 may purchase the cards for $2 each.

More jazz ensemble performances are scheduled for Saturday morning beginning at 9 a.m., in Smith Recital Hall, followed by a 2 p.m. performance.

At 11:30 a.m. Matteson, who is considered one of the foremost saxophonists on his instrument, will lead a clinic on that subject. Three clinics are scheduled for 2 p.m. these include:

- "Brass and Percussion Projection," Matteson in Smith Recital Hall.
- "Pituitary Hair on the Woodwind and Horn," Bard in the Band Room.
- "Music in the Rhythm Section," Moleno in Room 107.

As a state employee do you drive a state vehicle? Do you ever use a state vehicle for travel? Do you ever have occasion to drive a state vehicle? If you answered "yes" to any of the above questions, you should consider enrolling in a Defensive Driving Course (DDC).

Effective March, 1981, anyone wishing to drive a state vehicle will have to present a card certifying completion of a DDC program, or may obtain a vehicle.

Marshall University will offer free defensive driving classes to its employees during the spring semester. The course consists of four two-hour sessions in Harris Hall Rooms 444. DDC will be offered as follows:

- March 13, 15, 20, 22 2 p.m. - 4 p.m.
- April 2, 4, 9, 11 Noon - 2 p.m.
- April 17, 19, 24, 26 2 p.m. - 4 p.m.
- May 14, 16, 21, 23 10 a.m. - Noon
- May 20, 22, 26, 28 2 p.m. - 4 p.m.

If you answered "yes" to any of the above questions, you should consider taking the course," said Dr. Allan Stein, professor of psychology of OAS.

"Taking the course costs you only a few hours of time and those few hours just might save your life some day," he said.

Stein also pointed out that individuals completing the DDC program are eligible to receive a three point reduction on their driving record.

Registration forms have been distributed through campus mail and students at the School of Journalism and Mass Communications, who wish to enroll may call the OAP Department, 2380.

Herbie Mann's campus appearance has been made possible by a grant from the Ashland Oil Foundation, and is sponsored by the Center for the Arts and the Student Activities Administration.

Journalism students to participate in GM program

What are the roles of business and the news media? "New Family of Mann" journalist students will research this timely question as part of the 1979 General Motors Intercollegiate Business Understanding Program.

Starting in the 1976-77 academic year, a new student thought about business in America, this program is this year targeted to students at 20 leading schools of journalism across the country.

at Pennsylvania State University, and Dr. Robert Crapps, professor of history at the College of Business Administration at the State University of New York at Albany who has been serving as interim president of the University of the South in Sewanee, Tennessee.

The project is being initiated through the Marshall University Intercollegiate Business Understanding Program.

John M. Ewenison, who resigned as Marshall's sports information director in early November to accept an advertising and public relations firm in San Diego, Calif., will return to his old job Feb. 1, according to John M. Ewenison.

"I left Marshall, I said the SID job there is one of the best in the country. Obviously, I meant what I said," Ewenison commented. "It took some time to get the necessary paper work accomplished, but now and I'm delighted to welcome him back." He explained that the SID job there is one of the best in the country. Obviously, I meant what I said," Ewenison commented. "It didn't take long for me to realize that I had the wrong idea. I didn't want to spend the rest of my career marketing products. I missed working with teachers, coaches and the media people in Marshall's region."

"I have been blessed with Joe McMullen's understanding and his willingness to work hard and do the job properly. He will again consider the issue on Feb. 15 and desires statements of the policy must still be clarified, however. The Committee presented a recommendation to require a $3 fee to cover costs of refreshments and the luncheon. Those interested in participating may call Coffey at 866-6610.

"I am very pleased that the SID job there is one of the best in the country," Ewenison said. "I hope to return to Marshall's SID job there is one of the best in the country, obviously, I meant what I said," Ewenison commented.

The Committee also voted to rescind its previous recommendation to require a $3 fee to cover costs of refreshments and the luncheon. Those interested in participating may call Coffey at 866-6610.
