Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu_news_letter

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu_news_letter/25

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marshall Publications at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in Marshall University News Letter 1972-1986 by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu, martj@marshall.edu.
Chancellor to meet with campus groups

Dr. Ben L. Morton, West Virginia Board of Regents Chancellor, will visit the Marshall University campus Tuesday, Oct. 30, to discuss the "Profile of Progress" for the state system of higher education.

Interested faculty members, students and staff are invited to meet with the chancellor at 3 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room, Memorial Student Center.

In the informal session, the chancellor will discuss highlights of the plan, followed by comments from MU President Robert B. Hayes on Marshall’s particular institutional mission.

That same evening, the chancellor will meet with community representatives and area legislators at a by-invitation dinner to review the plan.

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY News Letter September 21, 1979 OFFICE OF UNIVERSITY RELATIONS • NEWS BUREAU • MARSHALL UNIVERSITY • HUNTINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA 25701

Ashland Oil gives $100,000, pledges more

Ashland Oil, Inc., has contributed $100,000 to the Marshall University Foundation for use by the University’s School of Medicine and has pledged an additional $200,000 over the next two years, Foundation Executive Director Bernard Queen has announced.

The $100,000 check was presented by Orin E. Atkins, chairman and chief executive officer of Ashland Oil, to Marshall President Robert B. Hayes.

Atkins said the contribution represents Ashland Oil’s continued interest in and support of the Marshall medical school as “an investment in the future of the Tri-State Area and Appalachia.” He added that area businesses and industries need to provide support for such a facility, which ultimately benefits all area residents through improved and expanded medical services.

Hayes expressed gratitude for the gift, adding, “Ashland Oil has been among Marshall University’s strongest and most consistent supporters for many years. This latest contribution is another indication of their interest not only in Marshall, but in the people of this region.

“I am particularly pleased that this gift is earmarked for the School of Medicine,” Hayes said. “Marshall is dedicated to developing a top-quality medical school and private assistance of this sort is invaluable as we strive to reach that goal.”

100 AS memberships remain for this season

Approximately 100 reserved seat tickets remain for the 1979-80 Marshall Artists Series, according to Mrs. Nancy P. Hindsley, MU cultural events coordinator.

“This year’s series, which opens Tuesday, Oct. 2, at the Keith-Albee Theater with a performance of the popular opera “La Traviata,” includes four outstanding programs for a season membership of $24 for balcony seats or $30 for orchestra seats,” Mrs. Hindsley said.

“We have a number of excellent balcony seats available, along with several in the orchestra section, located down front at the far left and right as well as in the back,” she said. Youth tickets may be purchased for balcony seating at half price by persons age 17 or younger.

Season membership tickets may be purchased by calling the

(continued on page 2)

$100,000 CHECK FOR MARSHALL

Orin E. Atkins, left, chairman and chief executive officer of Ashland Oil Inc., presents a $100,000 check to Marshall University President Robert B. Hayes, right, and Marshall Foundation Executive Director Bernard Queen. The gift to the Marshall Foundation is part of a three-year pledge totaling $300,000 from Ashland Oil for the university’s School of Medicine. (Marshall University Photo by Rick Haye)

DUES DUE

Faculty service dues of $3 are now payable, according to Maxine Phillips, associate professor of English and Faculty Service Committee member. Checks made out to Faculty Service Committee should be sent to Dr. Robert Maddox, associate professor of history.
William's drama theater opener

"The Night of the Iguana," considered by critics to be one of Tennessee Williams' masterpieces, will be presented by Marshall University Theatre at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 10, through Saturday, Oct. 13, Old Main Auditorium. "The Night of the Iguana," directed by Richard Burton and Deborah Kerr, according to Dr. William G. Kearns, MU professor of speech, will direct University Opera, "La Traviata," to launch new season

Artists Series Office, 696-6656, weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., or by visiting the office, located in Memorial Student Center Room 2W38, during the same hour.

This year transportation will be available to elderly Huntington residents who have season memberships, to and from the Huntington College to sponsor York City Ballet and Russia, Feb. 6.

It is taught with Linda Terhune, former HPER graduate student.

Absence have been excused by the respective college deans for the following:

Acrobatic clown trio to perform on Tuesday

"Loco-Motion Vaudiere," an acrobatic clown trio, will present a free, public performance at Marshall University on Tuesday, Sept. 26, in the Box Office, Old Main Room 107.

Christian Center offers weekly luncheons series

Each semester the Campus Christian Center sponsors a series of weekly luncheons designed to encourage faculty and student members to become better acquainted by sharing concerns and aspirations, according to Dr. Hugh B. Springer, campus Presbyterian minister.

"This is an especially good way for new faculty and staff to meet others. Thursdays between 11 and 1, in 437 Smith Hall. The instructor will be Dr. Donald Hall and cost will be $2.

Peace Studies, which has to do with methods for resolving international conflicts, will be conducted by Raymond Woodcraft in 222 Smith Hall on Tuesday, Sept. 14, and Thursday, Sept. 21, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. The course will meet on both days between Sept. 24 and Oct. 29. Cost will be $20.

Those wishing to register please call the University Relations Office, 696-2372.

To sign up, call Lita Greenwald at the Center, 2444.

Faculty and staff achievements, activities... DR. HOWARD C. PRICE, associate professor of pharmacy, presented two papers at the national meeting of the American Chemical Society. He was elected a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. One paper, "Micellar Ganglioside-Serotonin Interactions: Oligomeric Systems," was co-authored with former student Ryan B. Wilson (B.S., 1979), now at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine. The other paper, "New stalks of Circular Dichroism of Bafilomycin A2 and Lateral Lipid Mixtures," was co-authored by former student Robert B. David (B.S., 1979). Sawitz is now at the University of Cincinnati Pharmacology Department, while Labus is attending West Virginia University Department of Chemistry. Other courses were Dr. Raymond S. S. Schindler, associate professor of English and director of writing, participated in two sections of the Region II Education Service Agency annual conference, Aug. 30 at the Huntington Civic Center. He spoke to one group of educators on "Preparing High School Students for College Composition" and to another group on "Creating Writing and Grammar and Mechanics: Which Alternative?"

DR. RAM N. SINGH, associate professor of sociology/anthropology, continued research in Virginia Public Schools Association meeting in Charleston on Sept. 12-13.

Dr. Ruth Hall of the Office of Continuing Education participated in the "Computers in Education" Seminar at the West Virginia School of Continuing Education. The seminar will be held in Prichard Hall Room 102 from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Oct. 1, 8, 15, and 22. Mrs. King said that after the four group meetings, she will counsel participants individually and in groups. The cost is $25. Those who want more information or to sign up may call 696-3111 or 696-2324.

Dr. ARNOLD P. BAPPORAN, assistant professor and director of the Community College Legal Assistant Program, presented the West Virginia Bar Examination and was admitted to practice law in Sept. 11 in a ceremony in front of the West Virginia Supreme Court. O'Halloran previously had been admitted to the Arizona Bar, the District of Columbia Bar, the United States District Court Bar and the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Drs. JOHN E. NEUMAN, professor of health, physical education and recreation, co-authored two articles which appeared in the September issue of River Cities Monthly. The cover story, "When the Tanks Went Top," was written with Linda Terhune, former HPER graduate student. The second article, "Float a Boat to Rosco," was written with Lybeth Arner Barnett, a graduate student in the M.B.A. program.

Rhodes Scholarship applications encouraged

Faculty members with personal knowledge of outstanding students and faculty are encouraged to apply for the Rhodes Scholarships for graduate study at Oxford University in England, beginning in September, 1980. The competition is open to all American full-time undergraduate college students. No application is complete unless a transcript,成绩单, is submitted. The scholarship provides for a subsistence allowance in addition to payment of tuition and fees. The deadline for applying is Oct. 31, 1979. Interested applicants may obtain applications and further details by contacting Dr. R. R. Scharff, College of Science, Old Main 119, Telephone 696-2372.

Dr. Ward elected

Dr. Harold E. Ward, professor and chairman of the Biological Sciences Department, has been elected by the College of Science faculty to serve as their search committee for the dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

REMEMBER

The deadline for submitting articles for the University News, the weekly student newspaper, is the Friday prior to the desired Friday publication. Items may be personally delivered to the University Relations Office, Old Main 102, or sent through the campus mail.