

10-27-1988

MU NewsLetter, October 27, 1988

Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu\_newsletter

---

Recommended Citation

Office of University Relations, "MU NewsLetter, October 27, 1988" (1988). MU Newsletter 1987-1999. Paper 52.
http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu\_newsletter/52

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marshall Publications at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in MU Newsletter 1987-1999 by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu, martj@marshall.edu.

Broh will fill second Drinko Chair

Dr. C. Anthony Broh, political scientist and an authority on voting behavior, will be the second occupant of Marshall University's John Deaver Drinko and Elizabeth G. Drinko Distinguished Chair in Liberal Arts.

Broh, a 1967 graduate of Marshall, will make a number of campus and community appearances between Oct. 31 and Nov. 11, according to Dr. Simon D. Perry, chairman of the Department of Political Science and coordinator for Broh's visit.

Former U.S. Senator George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee, was the first occupant of the Drinko Chair, last fall. The program is made possible by a $1 million gift from a Marshall alumnus and his wife.

C. Anthony Broh

Currently the registrar at Princeton University, Broh has taught at Rutgers, Columbia, Duke and Southern Illinois universities, the State University of New York at Geneseo and Hobart and William Smith colleges. He earned his master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Wisconsin and also has attended the University of Maryland and Yale University.

He is best known for his book, "A Horse of a Different Color: Television Coverage of Jesse Jackson's 1984 Presidential Campaign." He also has published studies of voting behavior in the 1972, 1976 and 1980 elections and is the author of "Toward a Theory of Issue Voting."

He has written 12 articles and book chapters on politics and political behavior, as well as eight reports and reviews.

"We're very fortunate to be able to have Dr. Broh with us at this particular time – immediately before, during and after the 1988 presidential election," Perry said. "He should be able to add considerably to our insight into what happens November 8."

Broh will meet with a political science class, "Mass Media and Politics," Oct. 31 and Nov. 2, 7 and 9. He will meet with another political science class, "The American Legislative Process," Nov. 1 and with Marshall's Society of Yeager Scholars on Nov. 10. He will give a public address Thursday, Nov. 3, at 7 p.m. in Smith Hall Room
(Continued on page 2)

University receives $145,376 NEH grant

Marshall University, in cooperation with the Kanawha County school system, has been awarded a $145,376 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to develop a summer institute, "The Roman Family: A Bridge to Roman Culture, Values, and Literature," which will be presented at Marshall from June 30 through July 28, 1989.

The general purpose of the grant will be to strengthen at the secondary level the teaching of classical literature in the context of classical culture, according to Dr. Charles O. Lloyd, chairman of Marshall's Classical Studies Department and director of the project.

Marshall and the Kanawha County school system will provide funds and services in the amount of $45,255 to make the total grant for the project $190,631.

"The institute actually is an outgrowth of a program first started by Kanawha County," said Lloyd. "As a result of that program, language arts teachers developed a curriculum which integrated history, philosophy, art, music, and drama into the teaching of English.

"In abandoning the traditional sequence of teaching world literature in the 10th grade, American literature in the 11th grade and British literature in the 12th grade, they were able to create an approach that was still highly structured in its chronological approach to world literature, yet flexible enough to allow the cultural, intellectual, and artistic context of literature to enhance the study of literature itself," said Lloyd.

Rebecca Burns, English/Language Arts supervisor for
(Continued on page 2)

VA conference planned

An intensive, two-tiered conference offered Nov. 4-5 in Huntington will allow health professionals and veterans alike to explore problems and issues surrounding "Health Care of the Aging Veteran."

The event is sponsored by the Marshall University School of Medicine, the Huntington Veterans Administration Medical Center and the Veterans Committee for Civic Improvement. It will be at the Holiday Inn Gateway near Barboursville.

The Friday, Nov. 4, session will run from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. and is designed primarily for doctors and other health professionals. In addition to presentations on veterans' health issues, it will include sessions on such topics as heart and lung diseases, former prisoners of war, toxic exposure and post-traumatic stress disorder.

The Saturday, Nov. 5, session is titled "Staying Fit in Body and Mind: Health Issues for the Aging Veteran and His Family." It will meet from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will include presentations on wellness, smoking cessation, cancer screening, support from families, coping
(Continued on page 2)

Marshall receives $145,376 NEH grant

(Continued from page 1)

Kanawha County and associate director of the project, said Kanawha County actually began developing its award-winning and nationally recognized language arts program in 1983.

"There has been a major improvement in the way the humanities are taught," said Mrs. Burns. "Three of our high schools now have interdisciplinary teams of teachers who are teaching a chronological approach to the intellectual history of the world.

"Primarily at the 10th grade level, we study the classical period and have teachers of world culture, Latin, art, music, and English all teaching curriculum at the same time.

"The institute will be very important in order to move this program into all of our high schools and provide teachers with the kind of background they will need in the future to be more effective in the classroom. The institute will give the teachers intensive training in Roman culture and history and will give them the knowledge to utilize in their classes what they learn," said Mrs. Burns.

Forty teachers will be enrolled in the institute—30 from Kanawha County and 10 from other areas. They will receive all expenses, plus a $1,000 stipend for completing the program, which includes four follow-up workshops.

"We will have several distinguished faculty members serving as instructors for the institute, including Dr. Louise Hoy, professor emerita of classical studies at Marshall, who deserves much of the credit for developing the plan for the institute," Lloyd said.

"The institute will also have as instructors Professor Barbara Gold of Santa Clara University who has written a book on Roman literary patronage; Professor Judith Hallett of the University of Maryland, a noted scholar on women in the Roman family, and Professor Caroline Perkins of Marshall University whose expertise is the Roman historian Tacitus," he said.

"The ultimate purpose of the National Endowment for the Humanities in giving us this grant is to make possible the on-going cooperation of institutions of higher education with the public schools," said Lloyd. "We have had an excellent working relationship with Kanawha County schools and with the West Virginia College of Graduate Studies, which has been involved in previous programs with the Kanawha County school system, and we hope we will be able to continue this type of cooperation in the future.

"In the long run, it will be the high school students who receive the benefits of this project."

To obtain further details about the summer institute contact Dr. Charles O. Lloyd at Marshall University, (304) 696-4642, or Rebecca Burns in Kanawha County, (304) 348-6150.

VA conference planned

(Continued from page 1)

with post-traumatic stress, homeless veterans, and the future of veterans' health care.

There is no registration fee for persons attending only the Nov. 5 session. For persons attending both days, the cost is $60 for physicians, $30 for other health professionals, and $20 for members of the general public. This fee includes lunch Nov. 4. Continuing medical education credit is available for participants.

In addition to a number of local health and social service professionals, the conference will feature four national authorities on veterans' health problems and issues: Glenn Davis, M.D., chairman of psychiatry at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit; Paul Haber, M.D., the Veterans Administration's regional coordinator for aging; Frederico Juarbe, Jr., director of national veterans services for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and David Lipschitz, M.D., director of the Geriatric Research and Education Clinical Center of the VA Medical Center in Little Rock, Ark.

For more information or to register, call the School of Medicine at 696-7019.

Speech workshop set

Marshall University's Department of Speech, through the Center for Applied Communication, will sponsor a workshop titled "Communication, Conflict, and Dealing with Difficult People" on Saturday, Oct. 29, at 8:30 a.m. in Smith Hall Room 263.

Registration will be limited to 30 participants. The fee will be $55 for the seven-hour session. To obtain further details call 696-6786.

Broh fills Drinko post

(Continued from page 1)

154, "The Media's Treatment of the 1988 Presidential Candidates and a Prediction."

Friday, Nov. 4, Broh will address the B'Nai Sholom Congregation in Huntington at 7:45 p.m. on "Religion in the 1988 Election."

Tuesday, Nov. 8 -- election day -- he will join the political science faculty and other guests at Perry's home for dinner, to be followed by an election returns party.

Wednesday, Nov. 9, he will address honor students at Boyd County (Ky.) High School at 9:30 a.m. and select students at Ceredo-Kenova High School at 1 p.m. Both visits are sponsored by the River Cities Cultural Council.

Friday, Nov. 11, Broh will be honored at a reception at the Huntington Museum of Art, beginning at 7:30 p.m. He will speak on the topic, "The 1988 Election: The Next Four Years."

Dr. Broh is the son of Mrs. Shirley Broh Davis of Huntington and Charles S. Broh of Baltimore, Md.

Fifth Smith-Goodno fellowship awarded

Kimberly Ruggles of Tunnelton, a biological sciences graduate student at Marshall University, has been selected as the recipient of the university's fifth Lemotto Smith-John Goodno Fellowship in Biological Sciences.

The fellowship provides a stipend of $3,500 per year for two years to a Marshall student to conduct aquatic and environmental research.

Ms. Ruggles also will receive a tuition waiver, supplies and funds to attend a national meeting, where hopefully she will be able to present her research.

Ms. Ruggles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruggles of Tunnelton, currently is conducting research for her master's thesis on "Ecological Life History of Peltoperla tarteri from Buzzard Hollow of Paint Creek, West Virginia (Plecoptera: Peltoperlidae)."

Graduate/professional school day scheduled

Marshall University's Career Planning and Placement Center will sponsor a Graduate and Professional School Day on Thursday, Nov. 10, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

Approximately 20 representatives from graduate and professional schools will participate in the program, which will be an ideal opportunity for students to investigate post-graduate options, according to Reginald A. Spencer, director of the Marshall Career Planning and Placement Center.

The program format will be informal. Graduate school representatives will be at individual tables. Students can stop at the tables for literature, applications and information on costs, qualifications, assistantships and other subjects.

There will be no registration or admission charge for the activities and refreshments will be available.

To obtain further details or a list of participating institutions contact the Marshall University Career Planning and Placement Center, 696-2371.

Tragedy strikes family

The 16-year-old daughter of Dennis Montrella, former director of financial aid and associate dean of student affairs at Marshall, was abducted and murdered last week in Cleveland.

A suspect has been arrested and is in custody, with bond set at $250,000.

The funeral was held Monday, Oct. 24.

Friends of Dennis and the family may write to him at his home at the following address: Dennis Montrella, 39189 Johnnycake Ridge, Willoughby, Ohio, 44094.

Peltoperla tarteri is a recently discovered species of stonefly. The insect was discovered by Fred Kirchner and Larry Evans, former graduate students in Marshall's Department of Biological Sciences, and was named for Dr. Donald C. Tarter, professor of biological sciences at Marshall.

"At this time, we have no ecological information about Peltoperla tarteri," said Tarter. "Kim's research project will involve its feeding habits, reproductive cycle, growth and respiration rate, and tolerance to acidity. She will study the species for the next two years."

The fellowship is the result of a friendship that developed between Smith and Goodno.

In 1927, Lemotto Smith, then a 48-year-old resident of Martin's Ferry, Ohio, bought Huntington's Liberty Theatre and renamed it the Palace. Shortly afterward, John A. Goodno, a young Marshall student, went to work at the theatre.

Goodno, who graduated from Marshall in 1928, managed the Palace Theatre for Smith for many years and became involved in other business ventures with him.

In recognition of their friendship, Smith made his first contribution of Van Dorn Co. stock to Marshall in 1971. A major stockholder in the Van Dorn Co., Smith continued to make annual contributions until his death 12 years later.

The practice of assigning Van Dorn stock to The Marshall University Foundation has been continued by Goodno and his wife, Reba, who now reside in Bal Harbour, Fla.

Dr. Keith L. Scott, MU vice president for institutional advancement, said the accumulated stock, which has a market value of nearly $51,440, has been placed in a special account and the proceeds used to fund the fellowship.

The use of the endowment for environmental research was suggested by the Goodno's son, Edward, a former Marshall student who became interested in aquatic biology while studying with Tarter.

Open house to be held

Marshall University's Career Planning and Placement Center will celebrate its 30th anniversary with an open house on Friday, Nov. 11, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Career Planning and Placement Center in Prichard Hall.

Reginald A. Spencer, director of career planning and placement, said the staff would like to express their appreciation to all employers and alumni who have used the center's services during the last 30 years. He said he hopes to have all of the center's former staff members in attendance at the open house.

The activities, which will be co-hosted by the Marshall University Alumni Association, will be open to the public free of charge.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Career Planning and Placement Center, 696-2370.

University Library Committee meets

(The following summary of the Sept. 30, meeting of the Marshall University Library Committee was submitted by Sara B. Staats, secretary.)

The Faculty Library Committee met Friday, Sept. 30, with 11 members present and five members absent.

Josephine Fidler, interim library director, presented an oral report on the state of the library.

She noted three vacant faculty positions and reported on the formation of a library management group which will be responsible for planning and implementation of plans. It will oversee several standing committees which will work on various library programs.

Ms. Fidler said that librarians are making efforts to extend greater awareness of the library through Pathfinders and bibliographic instruction.

She stated that though the budget is the same as last year, periodical subscription rates, which rose 13 percent last year, will probably rise 7 to 10 percent this year. There are not sufficient funds to meet new needs, nor maintain the current technology. The automated systems must be continually upgraded or they will become obsolete and unusable.

The need to refurbish the library and the need for adequate general maintenance were stressed in Ms. Fidler's report. She also is concerned about graffiti throughout the building, and the pressing need for expansion of the building.

Three immediate concerns are: 1. Formation of a Library Planning Committee; 2. Review of loan privileges; 3. A request to inventory the black publications in the library.

Ms. Fidler noted that Dr. Kenneth Slack has been named Blake Collection bibliographer.

The committee established a regular meeting time of the last Friday of the month at 1 p.m. for the rest of the semester.

Costa Rica trip set

Marshall University's Center for International Studies is sponsoring a trip to Costa Rica from Dec. 28 through Jan. 5, according to Dr. Jane Rhoades, assistant professor of art at Marshall, who is organizing the trip.

Dr. Rhoades said Costa Rica is one of the most beautiful and popular tourist destinations in Latin America and is the safest and most toured country in Central America.

"The country boasts of having thousands of species of birds and other fascinating wildlife," said Dr. Rhoades.

Tour members will be able to participate in many activities including white water rafting, a train trip through the jungle, a boat trip to a deserted Pacific island, city and museum tours and shopping trips.

The cost of the trip will depend on the number of participants. Dr. Rhoades said the trip will cost approximately $850 per person.

To obtain further details contact Dr. Jane Rhoades at Marshall University, 696-2900.

Grants will be topic

A free public workshop at Marshall University Nov. 11 will describe grant funding opportunities available from the Water Resources Institute.

Part of a six-week series, the workshop will feature the institute's director, Dr. Charles R. Jenkins. He will describe the kinds of projects the institute supports and tell how to apply for funding. He will meet with individuals by appointment.

The workshop will be at 1 p.m. in Room 2W37 of Marshall's Memorial Student Center. Individual appointments may be made through Dr. Robert Barnett, MU grants officer, at 696-6797.

The last workshop in the series, to be presented Nov. 16, will feature the Employment and Training Division of the Governor's Office of Community and Industrial Development.

The series is sponsored by the Marshall University Office of Grants and Research Development, and is funded by the Marshall Foundation.

MU waivers available

Applications for a limited number of graduate student tuition waivers for Marshall University's spring semester will be accepted through Friday, Dec. 2, according to Graduate School Dean Leonard J. Deutsch.

In line with the West Virginia Board of Regents Policy Bulletin 49, priority will be given to faculty and staff of the state's colleges and universities and to West Virginia residents, said Deutsch. A small number of waivers will be awarded to nonresident students.

Academic merit will be the major consideration in awarding waivers, which cover tuition, registration and Higher Education and Faculty Improvement fees. Student Activity fees must be paid by the recipient.

Deutsch said if students are interested in being considered for a BOR tuition waiver based on financial need criteria, they should contact Ed Miller, student financial aid director at Marshall. Qualified students with a grade point average of 3.0 or higher may receive up to six waived hours. Financial need does not automatically guarantee tuition waivers.

Students who previously held waivers must reapply for the spring semester.

To obtain further details about graduate student tuition waivers contact the Marshall University Graduate School, 696-6606.

Committee discusses MU Commencement

(The following report on the Oct. 5 meeting of the Marshall University Functions Committee was submitted by Dr. Carl Johnson who presided at the meeting.)

Members present were: Linda Beegle, student; Sue Conley, Community College; John Fickle, graduate student; Laurie Hildreth, library; Carl Johnson, College of Education; Dale Kewitz, College of Business, and James Moloney, College of Science.

Members absent were: Earline Allen, College of Fine Arts; Allen Arbogast, College of Liberal Arts; Prathapa Chandran, liaison senator; Thomas Kiernan, School of Medicine, and Laura Lee Wilson, School of Nursing.

The meeting was called to order at 1:35 p.m. by Dr. Carl Johnson and the minutes of the April 15 meeting were accepted as read.

Order of Commencement Procession:

The committee discussed the distribution of the Order of Commencement Procession. It had been suggested that the Order lists not be distributed to every faculty member, but rather sent to the various deans to distribute as they decided.

James Moloney moved that we recommend to continue publishing the Order of Commencement Procession and to continue distributing it to each faculty member. The motion was seconded and passed.

Commencement Speakers:

No decision was reached on commencement speakers or honorary degrees. Anyone wishing to nominate a commencement speaker or nominate someone for an honorary degree is encouraged to do so by writing to Dr. Carl Johnson.

Commencement Ushers:

Dr. Johnson will send a letter to Ernest Cole. In particular, he will urge Mr. Cole to select some women as ushers. At the April 15 meeting the committee had discussed making the outstanding faculty member the Grand Marshall.

John Fickle moved that the outstanding faculty member (chosen for the same academic year) shall be designated as the Grand Marshall. The motion was seconded and passed.

Graduation Committee:

A Graduation Committee was chosen to consider changes in the Graduation ceremony. The committee will include Linda Beegle, chairwoman; John Fickle and James Moloney.

Recruiting fair slated

Marshall University's 12th annual Nurse Recruiting Fair will be held Tuesday, Nov. 15, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

The fair will provide an opportunity for representatives from local, state and out-of-state health facilities to meet with 1988-89 nursing graduates from Marshall and St. Mary's Hospital School of Nursing to discuss employment and related topics, according to Reginald A. Spencer, director of Marshall's Career Planning and Placement Center.

Spencer said the fair also will be open to Marshall and St. Mary's alumni who are seeking new job opportunities and graduates from Marshall's other health related programs.

The fair is being sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Center and the Marshall University School of Nursing.

There will be no registration or admission charge for the activities.

To obtain further details contact the MU Career Planning and Placement Center, 696-2371.

Percussion concert set

Marshall University's Percussion Ensemble will play the Thundering Herd defensive line Monday, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

The main selection, "Chaumpin," is an original piece created by Ensemble Director Ben Miller, associate professor of music, using very unusual instruments—the helmets and shoulder pads of football players while worn by the players.

Miller said he suggested the idea to MU Football Coach George Chaump after hearing some of the unusual percussion sounds made by football equipment on the playing field.

A number of more traditional works also will be performed during the concert which is open to the public free of charge.

Clinic offers services

The Marshall University Psychology Clinic offers several psychological services to the university and the greater Huntington community, according to Dr. Martin Amerikaner, director of the clinic.

Services are available for a wide range of psychological and interpersonal problems, including depression, anxiety, marital problems, family and relationship concerns, stress related problems, and for difficulties with children's behavior and learning.

Psychological evaluations are available and group programs which focus on problems such as weight reduction, smoking cessation, stress management, parenting and communication/assertiveness skills are offered periodically throughout the year.

Clinicians are advanced graduate students who work under the close supervision of psychology faculty members.

Services are offered at no cost to faculty, staff and students. A modest fee will be charged to persons not associated with the university.

The clinic is located in Harris Hall Room 449. To make an appointment or obtain further details contact the MU Psychology Department, 696-6446.

Dr. Esposito receives medical honor

Dr. Albert C. Esposito, whose contributions to the concept and the reality of the Marshall School of Medicine have spanned four decades, is the 1988 recipient of the Southern Medical Association's Distinguished Service Award.

The award will be presented Nov. 8 during the association's Annual Scientific Assembly in New Orleans.

SMA President J. Lee Dockery said Esposito was the selection committee's unanimous choice for the award. "It is an honor for me to have the opportunity to recognize a physician who has made outstanding achievements and contributions to the field of medicine and the Southern Medical Association," he said.

During his career, Esposito has served as president of

Community College program accredited

Marshall University's Community College has received accreditation for its Medical Record Technology Associate Degree Program from the Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation (CAHEA).

The program received accreditation for three years, the longest accreditation period granted by CAHEA, according to Jane Shortridge, coordinator of the Medical Record Technology Program.

Ms. Shortridge said the accreditation decision was based on a recommendation from the Council on Education of the American Medical Record Association, which is affiliated with the American Medical Association.

The Medical Record Technology Program prepares students for employment as medical record technicians in hospitals, clinics, public health departments, nursing homes and insurance companies.

To obtain further details about the program contact Jane Shortridge at Marshall University's Community College, 696-3646.

Musicians to compete

The annual convention of the West Virginia Music Teachers Association will be held at Marshall University on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 29-30, according to Dr. Leslie Petteys, assistant professor of music and convention chairman.

The event features competitions for students in high school through college, studying piano, woodwinds and percussion.

Several guest clinicians and recitalists will be featured during the convention. Performers will include Dr. Petteys on piano, and the Marshall University Chamber Choir under the direction of Dr. Joseph E. Line, associate professor of music.

The activities will begin at 9 a.m. each day and continue until 10 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday in Smith Music Hall.

To obtain further details contact Dr. Petteys, 696-2337.

the Southern Medical Association, the American Association of Ophthalmology, the West Virginia State Medical Association, the West Virginia Academy of Ophthalmology, and the Cabell County Medical Society. He also served as a delegate and alternate delegate from West Virginia to the American Medical Association.

In addition, Esposito was a two-term member of the West Virginia Legislature's House of Delegates.

He is a member of the medical honorary society Alpha Omega Alpha, and received that group's Honor Award in 1976. He was named "outstanding ophthalmologist in the South" in 1972 and received the American Academy of Ophthalmology Honor Award in 1978.

Esposito's significant efforts, beginning in the 1950s, to bring a medical school to Huntington have led many to call him the "Father of the Marshall University School of Medicine."

In recognition of those efforts, he received an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Marshall in 1972 and was named a lifetime member of the School of Medicine's Alumni Association in 1987. The Cabell County Medical Association established the Albert C. Esposito Lectureship in his honor, and commissioned a portrait of him which hangs in the school's Medical Education Building.

Esposito continues to contribute his time to the School of Medicine as a professor of surgery on the school's volunteer faculty.

Aaberg will perform

Windham Hill recording artist Philip Aaberg will perform in concert for Marshall University's Artists Series on Wednesday, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m. at the Keith-Albee Theatre.

Aaberg is considered a "new age" artist whose work combines both classical and popular music.

He presented his first piano concert at the age of seven, joined his first rock band at 14, and later won the Leonard Bernstein Music Scholarship at Harvard University where he majored in chamber music and theory.

Aaberg has toured with Elvin Bishop, Juice Newton, Eddie Rabbit, the Dirt Band, and Tom Johnston, former guitarist with the Doobie Brothers.

Tickets for the performance will be $6, $8 and $10, with half-price tickets for youth 17 and under. Full time MU students will be admitted free with a valid identification and activity card.

To order tickets or obtain further details contact the Marshall Artists Series Office, 696-6656.

Personnel personal . . .

Dr. Jane Anne Kurucz, assistant professor of surgery, and her husband, Dr. Paul A. Blair, became the parents of Elizabeth Anne Blair on Sept. 19.

Elizabeth weighed 7 pounds and ¼ ounce at birth.

Third MU student going to Hollywood

For the third time since January 1987, through the assistance of actor David Selby of the popular CBS night-time drama "Falcon Crest," a Marshall University student has received an eight-week internship with Lorimar Productions in Los Angeles.

Dan Henthorn, a senior acting/directing major from New Martinsville, has been selected as the recipient of the third "TV Media Internship" and will live in Los Angeles for eight weeks to work on one complete episode of "Falcon Crest," which is filmed at the CBS/MTM studio.

Henthorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Henthorn of New Martinsville, was selected by a committee of Marshall faculty and administrators to receive the internship based on his experience, academic standing and personality.

He left for California Oct. 18 with Matthew Shane Ross of Huntington the first recipient of the internship, according to Dr. N.B. East, chairman and professor of theatre/dance at Marshall. East said Ross accompanied Henthorn to help him get acquainted with the Los Angeles area.

Henthorn will work on one complete episode of "Falcon Crest" from its beginning to its end, according to East. He will go out with the directors to scout location shots, go out with the camera crews, and be involved in every aspect of the show from the makeup sessions to the pre-broadcast packaging.

"This will give Dan an overall view of each of the detailed aspects of the operation," said East. "Then he will be assigned to work with various people in specific areas such as lighting, sound production and stage management.

"This program has been an excellent learning experience for our students and we are very grateful to David Selby for making this program possible. In addition to developing the internship and making arrangements for the project with Lorimar Productions, he made a contribution to The Marshall University Foundation which will provide a weekly stipend to cover Dan's expenses in Los Angeles."

Henthorn has been featured in numerous MU productions, including musicals, dramas and comedies, and just finished the lead role in "Guys and Dolls" the day before he left for California. He worked for two years for Theatre West Virginia in "Hatfields and McCoys" and "Honey in the Rock," and performed professionally in productions of "Dracula," "The Shadow Box," "Tecumseh" and "The Nearsighted Knight and the Farsighted Dragon."

He also did several local commercials and played Capt. Lovitt in "A Miss in Her Teens" on WPBY public television.

Henthorn said if the opportunity arises he may move to Los Angeles after he graduates. After the current semester and the internship program, which carries college credit, he will need just one three-hour Spanish course to receive his degree.

He knows getting work as an actor won't be easy. It wasn't easy in New York. It won't be easy in Los Angeles.

Henthorn hopes the internship will give him an edge, give him the opportunity to make some contacts in Hollywood and perhaps be the key that opens the door to show business for him.

He hopes his experience, education and the internship will help him land a job in the film industry, any job, so he can work and keep striving to fulfill his ambition to be an actor.

Art exhibit continues

The work of Cincinnati artist Roy Cartwright, who specializes in ceramic sculpture, will be exhibited in Birke Art Gallery through Monday, Nov. 7.

Cartwright, a member of the University of Cincinnati faculty, will present a slide lecture on Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Gallery. The presentation will be open to the public free of charge and will be followed by a reception for the artist.

He also will present workshops in the MU Art Department Nov. 7 and 8.

To obtain further details call 696-6760.

MU thanks Ashland Oil

The Marshall University Picnic Committee would like to thank Ashland Oil's Super America on Sixth Avenue and Hal Greer Blvd. for 24 coupons which were given away as prizes during the first annual university picnic.

The coupons were awarded to participants in the athletic games held on Central Field and helped make the picnic a great success, according to Karen E. Kirtley, project assistant in the Auxiliary Services Department.

Committee pool needed

The Marshall University Faculty Senate is attempting to get a pool of names of faculty members who would like to serve on sub-committees or ad hoc committees.

The Faculty Senate Executive Committee requests that any faculty member interested in serving on a sub-committee or ad hoc committee contact Rainey Duke in the Faculty Senate Office, 209A Northcott Hall.

If there is a preference for a type of committee—faculty personnel matters, development, academic planning or standards, etc., please indicate your preference.

Lunchbag seminar set

The Marshall University Women's Center will sponsor a lunchbag seminar titled "Sexual Assault Prevention for Adolescents" on Wednesday, Nov. 2, from noon to 1 p.m. in Prichard Hall Room 143.

To obtain further details contact the Women's Center, 696-3112.

Marshall faculty/staff achievements

Dr. LINDA SPATIG, assistant professor of educational foundations, has published an article titled "Learning to Manage the Heart: Gender Relations in an Elementary Classroom" in the summer 1988 edition of Educational Foundations, a journal of the American Educational Studies Association.

Dr. CRAIG MONROE, professor of speech, and JOHN H. WOMACK, adjunct professor, have developed a training manual titled "Communication, Conflict, and Dealing with Difficult People" for the Center for Applied Communication.

Dr. CHARLES MABEE, associate professor of religious studies, chaired a seminar on "Bible, Narrative, and American Culture" held Oct. 13-16 in conjunction with the Westar Institute in Atlanta, Ga. During the meeting, final plans were made for an introductory volume on the study of religion based on the thoughts of Rene Girard. The work will be co-edited by Dr.

MABEE and a professor of religious studies from Emory University, and will represent a collaborative effort of 12 scholars of religion from the United States and Canada. MABEE currently has a faculty development grant to work on the project, which he hopes to have completed within two years.

Dr. JAMES HARLESS, director of admissions; JAMES GLOVER, assistant director of admissions; SHERRI STEPHENS, admissions counselor; ROBERT EDDINS, registrar, and PATRICIA GEBHART, assistant registrar, attended the fall conference of the West Virginia Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers held Oct. 5-7 at the Radisson Hotel in Huntington. Mrs. GEBHART assumed the presidency of the organization at the business meeting. Dr. ALAN GOULD, executive vice president, welcomed the group to Huntington, and Dr. DALE NITZSCHKE, MU president, delivered the Thursday evening banquet address.

Dr. NELL C. BAILEY, vice president/dean for student affairs, delivered the keynote address titled "The New Activism: Eighties and Beyond" at the Oct. 19 meeting of the Kentucky Student Personnel Association held at Morehead State College.

Dr. THOMAS J. MANAKKIL, university radiation officer, participated in a real-time dry run emergency exercise at Beaver Valley Nuclear Power Station in Shippingport, Pa., Oct. 4-5. The exercise was conducted by Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission under the Emergency Preparedness Plan. MANAKKIL was representing West Virginia as a member of the Emergency Response Team from the state.

Dr. ALLAN LUNDY, associate professor of psychology, recently had an article titled "Instructional Set and Thematic Apperception Test Validity" published in the Journal of Personality Assessment.

Dr. LEONARD J. DEUTSCH, dean of the MU Graduate School, has contributed an essay on Ralph Ellison to "Afro-American Writers, 1940-1955," volume 76 of the "Dictionary of Literary Biography," a Brucoli Clark Layman Book published by Gale Research Inc., pages 37-56. The book was edited by Dr. Trudier Harris of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

DONNALEE COCKRILLE, SHARLA HOFMANN, CARLA LAPELLE, KENNETH BLUE, STEVE HENSLEY, TONY DAVIS and DON ROBERTSON, all from the Marshall University Department of Student Affairs, participated in the annual fall conference of the West Virginia Association of Student Personnel Administrators held recently at Canaan Valley. John Gardner, founder of the "University 101" course at the University of South Carolina, which Marshall's New Student Seminar was patterned after, was the keynote speaker.

Excused absences...

Absences have been excused by the respective college deans for the following:

OCT. 14-15—Richard Atkinson, James Cunningham, Brian Cox, Steven Hansen, Duane Miller, Brad Studdard, Charles Ward, Joe Romeo, Joseph Wangugi, Christa Gibson, Denise Littleton, Ingrid Mason, Katrina Maynard, Marla Phillips, Laura Siverling, Dawn Wallace, Leslie Werthman, Laurie Boehm, Marnie Reymond, Mona Davidson, Angie Holland, Lisa Rutherford, Susan Stafford, Anna Beth Lamb.

OCT. 28—Barney Blankenship, John Boothe, Gina Calhoun, Amy Callaway, Pat Campbell, Larry Dorsch, Mike Evans, Ron Hill, Steve Holley, Sally Spoor, Paula Thomas, Mark Crutchfield.

Scholarships available

Information pertaining to Izaak Walton Killam Memorial Scholarships at the University of Alberta is available in the Marshall University Graduate School, Old Main Room 113.

Doctoral scholarships are valued at $13,500 for 12 months, with an additional $1,500 research grant attached to the award.

The value of the postdoctoral scholarship is $26,000 for 12 months, plus a $2,000 research grant and a travel allowance.

Letter of appreciation

Dear Marshall Faculty and Staff:

The family of Dr. Eugene Q. Hoak, emeritus professor of speech, wishes to thank the university community for your kind expressions of sympathy on the death of Dr. Hoak's wife, Thelma.

Mrs. Hoak died Aug. 28 at her home

Sincerely
Eugene Q. Hoak and family

Prize winner announced

The recipient of the Vending Promotional Prize for October is Ramona Mack, a sophomore from Logan.

She received an exercise bike as her prize.

Each month a note will be placed in a vending machine with a particular item. The customer who purchases the special product will receive a prize.

Care series continues

The Office of Student Health Education Programs will sponsor a Self-Care Series seminar titled "Stressed Out?" on Tuesday, Nov. 1, from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. in Memorial Student Center Room 2W37.

To obtain further details contact the Office of Student Health Education Programs, 696-4800.