The Legislative Subcommittee on Higher Education, a joint Senate/House subcommittee, will make its annual visit to the Marshall campus on Monday, Nov. 20.

The subcommittee is co-chaired by State Senator Robert R. Nelson (D-Cabell/Wayne), chairman of the Senate Higher Education Committee, and Delegate Joseph P. Albright, (D-Wood), chairman of the House education Committee. Delegate Patricia Hartman (D-Cabell) serves on the subcommittee. Other local legislators are expected to attend, as well as other members of the committee.

BALLOT DEADLINE

Balloting on the proposed Faculty Senate Constitution as amended will close Wednesday, Nov. 22. Faculty members are urged to exercise their right to be heard on the governance plan by returning their ballots to their designated polling place prior to the deadline.

Medical society endows lectureship for Esposito

The Cabell County Medical Society has endowed a lectureship at the Marshall University School of Medicine in honor of Dr. Albert C. Esposito, Huntington ophthalmologist.

"Dr. Esposito not only has distinguished himself in the medical field, but also has worked diligently to bring the MU medical school to fruition," said Dr. William J. Echols, medical society president, in announcing the endowment. "We can think of no better way to honor his efforts," Echols added.

The Dr. Albert C. Esposito Lectureship will provide a broader educational experience for student physicians, while also providing a continuing education experience for community physicians, through lectures by distinguished medical personnel.

The fund has been "seeded" with approximately $2,000 from the Cabell Medical Society and contributions from others are encouraged, according to Echols.

"In establishing this ongoing tribute to Al Esposito, one of the driving forces behind the establishment of this medical school, the medical society not only honors one of its own, but also furthers the medical education of current and future physicians," noted Dr. Robert W. Coon, MU School of Medicine dean.

In acknowledging the contribution to the MU Foundation, Dr. Bernard Queen, foundation head, said, "We are most appreciative of the medical society's efforts to enhance the medical school development. The Esposito Lectureship is a fitting tribute to a crusading man, who worked so tirelessly in the school's behalf."

Esposito, a former member of the West Virginia House of Delegates, holds the rank of clinical professor of surgery at Marshall.

While on campus, the subcommittee has scheduled sessions with the various university constituencies. All of these will be conducted in the Special Dining Room, Memorial Student Center.

The subcommittee will talk with interested faculty members from 3 to 4:30 p.m. "These sessions are excellent opportunities for sharing of views relative to university matters," said Dr. Sam Clagg, chairman, University Council. "It seems important that we have maximum representation from the faculty for this occasion," he added.

"The visit offers us an opportunity to talk to key lawmakers about out major concerns at a time when they are especially receptive," noted Dr. Frank Aldred, chairman, Board of Regents Faculty Advisory Council.

The legislators' schedule is as follows:
- Administrators, 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.
- Campus tour, 9:30 to 11 a.m.
- Support personnel, 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.
- Lunch, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.
- Students, 1:30 to 3 p.m.
- Faculty, 3 to 4:30 p.m.
- Wrap-up, 4:30-5:30 p.m.

Representative from TIAA to discuss disability program

Bruce Smith, advisory officer of the TIAA, will be on campus Monday, Nov. 27, to discuss the TIAA disability program at 3:30 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium, Ray A. Nissen, personnel director, announced today.

Marshall University has been informed that due to the unusually high number of disability claims by university employees its premiums must be increased to support the program, Nissen said. Effective Dec. 1, the monthly premium for the disability program will be $15.27.

"If your first reaction to the increase is, 'I can't afford the program,' consider the alternative," Nissen said. "Could you and your family afford not to have this protection if you were to become disabled with no income at all?"

TURKEY TIME!

Marshall University will be closed Thursday and Friday, Nov. 23-24, in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. For students and faculty, the holiday will begin at noon Wednesday, Nov. 22; however all administrative offices will remain open through 4:30 p.m. that day.

The News Letter will not be published. The next issue will be Friday, Dec. 1. The deadline for receiving items for publication in the News Letter is 10 a.m. on the Wednesday prior to publication. Items may be sent or hand delivered to Judith Casto, University Relations, Old Main 112.
Student concerns are explored

Programs designed to provide information on the various facets of Marshall University’s Student Affairs Division are being aired by WMUL-TV (Channel 53) on Tuesdays at 10 p.m.

“Student Affairs: Inquiry,” a five-part series which began Tuesday, Nov. 22, will air weekly through Dec. 5, according to Dr. Richard G. Fisher, MU vice president/dean for student affairs.

Hosted by Mary-Ann Thomas, associate dean/student life, the programs were produced from a concept developed by Muneez Mahmood, Huntington sophomore.

The half hour programs use a panel discussion format with panel members responding to questions from a student audience, Fisher explained.

Student Affairs personnel participating, in addition to Ms. Thomas and Fisher include: Thomas deans for the following: Ann Zanzig, assistant dean/student development; Anne Montrella, associate dean/student experiential services; Rita Mann, student conduct coordinator; Teren Myers, assistant director of career services and placement; Don Roberston, student activities/organizations coordinator; and Rhonda Egisto, student activities/organizations advisor.

Student concerns included are: academic advising, career guidance, student conduct, student affairs, career services, and student organizations.

The series opened with an overview of the Student Affairs Division.

Marshall SID accepts post with Calif. firm

Marshall University Sports Information Director John M. Evenson is resigning his position to join The Phillips Organization, Ltd., in San Diego, Calif., Marshall Athletic Director Joe Reddick said. McMullen announces that McGinn will begin his work with the marketing, advertising and public relations firm of Daily News Corporation, leaving the Marshall post on Nov. 27.

“At a career opportunity I just cannot afford to turn down,” Evenson said. He said the Phillips firm, which specializes in sport related accounts, had contacted him earlier this fall.

“It was a difficult decision, however, because the Marshall sports information is the best in the country. I have never felt more welcome in any place I have worked and the cooperation both on-campus and off-campus, particularly among the news media, has been outstanding. My time at Marshall has been an extremely enjoyable and beneficial period of my life,” McMullen said a screening committee will be appointed immediately to begin the search for a successor.

Joe Reddick, MU assistant professor of music, will be the featured oboe soloist for the concert. Heger is principal oboist with the Huntington Chamber Orchestra and the Charleston Symphony.

Theodore Heger, MU assistant professor of music, will be the featured oboe soloist for the concert. Heger is principal oboist with the Huntington Chamber Orchestra and the Charleston Symphony.

Marshell associate professor of music Leo Impert will be the narrator for the Prokofiev piece. The concert is free and open to the public.
