Academic division staff changes announced

Several staff changes in the academic division of Marshall University have been announced by Dr. Noel J. Richards, who began his duties as Marshall's new vice president for academic affairs July 1. The changes will not require any additional personnel.

Dr. Richards, whose appointment was announced earlier, said Dr. Paul D. Stewart, dean of the Graduate School, is assuming the additional title of associate vice president for academic affairs.

Dr. William S. Deel, formerly associate dean of the College of Education, has been named assistant vice president for academic affairs, replacing Dr. Alan B. Gould. Dr. Gould has been selected to serve as chairman of the Department of History, succeeding Dr. Charles H. Moffat who retired this spring.

Dr. Charles Jack Maynard, assistant professor of education, has been appointed assistant dean of that college, moving into the position held previously by Deel.

Richards said Gould will continue to serve as coordinator of the Board of Regents Bachelor's Degree program.

As associate vice president, Stewart will be in charge of the Office of Academic Affairs when Richards is away from campus. He also will represent the vice president at various meetings and will work with him generally in the conduct of Marshall's academic program. Stewart also will continue to direct the operation of the Graduate School.

As assistant vice president, Deel will have specific responsibilities in administrative supervision of the Computer Center, the Office of Admissions, the Registrar's Office, and the Office of Institutional Research and Planning.

Payroll checks delayed

The issuance of payroll checks for the pay period ending July 16, 1977, to University employees of 12 month tenure, including Medical School employees, may be delayed for a period of 1-4 days.

The office of Financial Affairs will make every effort to expedite the receipt and distribution of payroll checks. Accordingly, further announcements will be made as checks become available.

Payroll checks for faculty employed for the July portion of the 1st summer term (pay period July 1-15, 1977) are expected to be available for distribution in the afternoon of July 15, 1977.

Two comedies scheduled

Marshall University Theatre will present two recent hit comedies during the second summer term. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

"What the Butler Saw," directed by Dr. William Kearns, associate professor of speech, will open a three-night run on Thursday, July 28.

The second show, "6 Rms Riv Vu," directed by Dr. Elaine Novak, will be presented Aug. 11-13. Bruce Greenwood is scene designer for both productions.

Tickets for both productions go on sale Monday, July 18, in Old Main Room 118 from noon to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. Reservations may be made by calling 696-2306 during box office hours. Tickets also will be available at the door. All seats are reserved and tickets are $2 each. MU students with valid ID cards will be admitted free.

Review books available

Informational Services has a new supply of books which, under an agreement with the Herald-Dispatch, may be reviewed by faculty and staff members.

Stop in Old Main 111, look over the selection and if you find one to your liking, it's yours. Your review should be mailed to James E. Casto, Book Page Editor, The Herald-Dispatch, Box 2016, Huntington, W. Va. 25720.

Medical school receives provisional accreditation

The Marshall University School of Medicine has received provisional accreditation from the Liaison Committee on Medical Education and will admit its first class in 1978, according to Dr. Robert W. Coon, Marshall vice president for health sciences and dean of the medical school.

Coon said he had been notified of the LCME's action in a telephone conversation Friday, July 1, with an LCME official in Washington, D.C. The committee met in Washington earlier that week.

Coon said he was disappointed by the LCME action because the medical school had planned to admit its first class next fall.

"Although full details are to be included in a letter which will be sent to us by the LCME, it is my understanding that the provisional accreditation has been granted to permit us to enroll students in 1978," Coon said. "This is contingent upon a review of certain areas with a report to be submitted to the LCME at its January, 1978 meeting."

Coon said he had been told the LCME want more faculty to be employed, the residency program to be more fully developed, and greater development in the area of research.

"I see no difficulty in meeting those provisions," Coon said, "but I am disappointed that these matters apparently are going to result in a year's delay in the admission of our first class. I believe we could have admitted the first class and accomplished these things at the same time without an adverse affect on the total program."

In the meantime, the medical school will continue its graduate program and its residency programs in cooperation with area hospitals, Coon said. "We will have all aspects of the medical school in operation with the exception of that first class of medical degree students," he noted.

Grade policy approved

The President has approved a policy recommended by the Graduate Council permitting some graduate courses to be graded on a credit or noncredit (CR/NCR) basis. This is a matter of departmental opinion with appropriate approval. Faculty who teach courses which they believe to be appropriate for such grading should contact their department chairmen who have details on the requirements and procedures.

DEAN, GRADUATE SCHOOL

Personnel personal

Mrs. Marion Bott Edeburn has returned to Huntington after spending several years in Pennsylvania. She's residing at Apartment 3, 1026 12th Avenue. Her late husband, Dr. Ralph M. Edeburn, who retired in 1970, taught zoology at Marshall for nearly 25 years.

Moving? Getting married? Have a new member of the family? Want to share something special about your family with friends at Marshall? If you'll let us know, we'll print it in the News Letter. Send your information to Judith Casto, Assistant Director of University Relations, Old Main 111.

PARKING PERMITS

Administration of Marshall University's parking facilities has been transferred from the Plant Operations section to the university's Security Office, Vice President for Administration Karl J. Egnatoff has announced.

In line with that transfer of responsibilities, parking permit applications should be submitted to the Security Office, located on the ground level on the southwest corner of Old Main. Donald L. Salyers, Director of Security, said the permits are now being issued from that office.
