9-23-1977

Marshall University News Letter, September 23, 1977

Office of Informational Services

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu_news_letter

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu_news_letter/65

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marshall Publications at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in Marshall University News Letter 1972-1986 by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu, martj@marshall.edu.
Project to raise aid funds

Limited edition prints of Marshall University's Old Main Towers and holiday cards, featuring winter campus scenes, will be available this fall, Dr. Everett Roush, MU Alumni Affairs Director announced.

Proceeds from the sale of the prints and cards will go toward scholarships, Roush said. The fund-raising project is the brain-child of MU alumnus Michael Maroney.

Maroney, a native of Cedar Grove, established a private corporation, University Enterprises, Inc., to market the items in cooperation with the Alumni Affairs Office and Marshall University Foundation.

The full-color campus sketches are the artwork of another Marshall graduate, Joan True Pennington of the Washington, D.C. area, formerly of Huntington.

A series of 500 signed and numbered prints of the towers, the symbols of their alma mater to many Marshall alumni, will be sold for $15 each. Another 4,500 prints, unsigned and unnumbered, will be sold for $5 each.

The greeting card collection includes full-color drawings of the James E. Morrow Library, Old Main Towers, Memorial Fountain, and an older entrance to Old Main on the building's north side. Sold in boxes of 16 with four cards of each scene, the cards will cost $3 a box.

The original drawings and plates will be given to the Foundation for display as it deems appropriate. Maroney also plans to offer new limited editions and other familiar campus scenes annually.

"Our goal is to raise $25,000 for both academic and athletic scholarships," Maroney said. "Perhaps our most important concern is the quality of the future and there is nothing that has a more positive effect on the future than education. I believe this project provides everyone an opportunity to share in the concern for the future at a small cost," he added.

"Contributions to our scholarship funds are always welcome, but it is especially gratifying when an alumnus such as Mr. Maroney dedicates so much of his time and talents to designing such a far-reaching project," said Dr. Bernard Queen, MU development director and executive director of the Foundation. "This project offers Marshall alumni and friends an opportunity to support their institution at a nominal cost," he added.

The prints and cards will not be available through normal commercial outlets, but will be sold through the Alumni Affairs Office, by students or by community service organizations.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Alumni Office, 696-3134, or by writing University Enterprises, Inc., P.O. Box 5626, Huntington, W. Va. 25703.

Faculty meets Thursday

The first general meeting of the faculty this fall will be held Thursday, September 29, at 4 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room in Memorial Student Center, President Robert B. Hayes announced.

The agenda includes:
1. A report from the Faculty Service Committee by Maxine Phillips, Chairman.
2. A report by Neal G. Adkins, Chairman of the campus United Fund campaign.
3. President's report to the faculty.
INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION

The Marshall Council for International Education will meet Sept. 27 from 3 to 4 p.m. in Room 2W37 of the Memorial Student Center, according to Dr. Ken N. Singh, council president and associate professor of sociology. Chairpersons of the following committees will present reports: William E. Singletary, assistant professor of modern languages; study abroad and student exchange; Kanal Stager, assistant manager, student center; international student services; Charles F. Gruber, assistant professor of social sciences; international concerns in the Marshall curriculum; and Dr. Richard O. Comfort, professor of sociology and anthropology, coordinating international public relations. In addition, Carolyn B. Hunter, reading program coordinator, and council vice president, will discuss the English language program for international students.

VIENNA CHOIR BOYS

Tickets are available now for the concert Oct. 7th by the Vienna Choir Boys, according to James A. Martin, Artists Series manager. The on-campus ticket office is in the Department of Music office in Smith Music Hall 154. Admission is free with a student activity card. 52 for Marshall employees and retired faculty and $4 for the general public. The Mountaineer Series concert will be held in Smith Recital Hall at 8 p.m.

CHORAL UNION

The Marshall Choral Union still is accepting members for its fall season. The mixed chorus is preparing for performances of Messiah. Rehearsals are every Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Smith Music Hall, Room 150. Anyone interested in joining the Choral Union should attend the next rehearsal. No auditions are required and music is furnished, according to Dr. Paul A. Balshaw, professor of music.

STUDY IN INDIA

Attractive fellowships and visitorships are available for research or professional development through study in India, according to Dr. John W. Stewart, provost and dean of the Graduate School. Applications are especially encouraged from those who have had prior experience in India and from those in the sciences. For further information contact the Graduate School office in Old Main.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE

The Continuing Education program of the Community College is in the process of structuring six new classes in sewing, modern dance, guitar, chess, Chinese food and architectural design, according to Robert Lawson, director of continuing education and administrative assistant.

HUNTINGTON ALLOYS AIDS MU STUDENTS

W. F. Binette, Jr., center, executive vice president of Huntington Alloys, Inc., presented a $6,000 check to Marshall University students. The firm annually presents a gift to the Marshall University Foundation to encourage students to pursue science, engineering and mathematics studies. (Marshall University Photo by Arza Barnett)

Newsmen named to post at MU

Veteran newsmen Robert G. Adams of Huntington has joined the University Relations staff at Marshall University as an information specialist. His primary responsibilities will involve coverage of Marshall’s Community College, as well as writing for the alumni magazine, according to C.T. Mitchell, University Relations director.

Class planned to aid parents

Parents of children with behavioral problems can learn correct techniques of coping and constructing working with their youngsters at a workshop sponsored by the Marshall University Community College.

Absences excused

Absences have been excused by the respective college dean for the following:

SEPTEMBER 15-Karla Amburgey, Karen Bosla, Anita King, Kelley McDonie, Cynthia Nelson, Janet Omohundro, Rita Simon, Donna Um, Lanita Wentzol, Beverly Young, and Beverly Sharp.

SEPTEMBER 17-12-Roberta Chenoweth, Jill Duncan, Lisa Gergezy, Susan Goodrick, Terri Miller, Lynda Natter, Kim Reichenspacher, and Regina Skeens.

SEPTEMBER 17-13-Charles Chapman, Jay Davis, Carle Esta, Bill Flower, Doris Hadsedt, Charles Hughes, David Looney, and Beth Fret.

Faculty and staff achievements activities...

DR. WARREN W. WOODEN, associate professor of English, has been notified of the acceptance of a two reviews by the American Psychological Association and the Viewers" by The Southern Humanities Review and T.D. Duncan Williams' "To Be Or Not To Be: A Question of Suicide" by the Journal of Humanistic Psychology.

DR. CHARLES M. WOODFORD, associate professor of psychology, has edited his PhD. degree at Bowling Green University.

DR. ROBERT P. ALEXANDER, chairman of the management of music office in Smith Music Hall, occupying what formery was an open plaza.

DR. EDWIN CURBY, professor and chairman of the College of Education, was elected by the Graduate Faculty to fill the unexpired term of D. E. Zanarha who was named Director of the Graduate School.

DR. CAROL KLECKA, assistant professor of psychology, is Ohio University nominee for the "Impact of Mother Life Style on Adolescent Gender Role Socialization which has just been published in the Journal for Sex Roles, Volume 3, Number 3. The study was conducted while Dr. Klecka was a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Cincinnati.

DR. STEVEN P. MEWALDT, assistant professor of psychology, is author of an article "Repetition and Inference in Short-Term Memory" which has been published in the Journal of Experimental Psychology: Human Learning and Memory, Volume 3, Number 2.

CAMPUS ANNOUNCEMENTS...

Campus announcements...