Institutional goals task force report in

A rapidly-expanding coal industry is going to have a profound impact on southern West Virginia and Marshall University, as the region's major center for learning, should be in the forefront of efforts to bring about this change and to meet needs resulting from it.

That is one of the conclusions outlined in a 25-page report submitted to Marshall President Robert B. Hayes by the university's Task Force on Institutional Goals. The document, delivered to Hayes by the University Council Dec. 1, deals with a wide range of university concerns, ranging from academic development to accountability and efficiency.

The Statement of Institutional Goals was prepared by a task force selected by the University Council and President Hayes. It is made up of eight faculty members, two members of the administrative staff and one student. The group began its work last February.

Dr. David R. Woodward, chairman of the task force and professor of history, said the group did not concern itself with financial aspects of the proposed set of goals for the university. "In the final analysis, of course, much will depend on sufficient funding from private and state source," he said.

U.S. Senator Randolph to receive honorary degree

U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph will be awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree by Marshall University during a special convocation Jan. 10 marking the beginning of classes in the new Marshall School of Medicine.

Marshall President Robert B. Hayes said Randolph is being honored for "his long record of distinguished service to the nation, to West Virginia, and particularly in light of his outstanding contributions to the establishment of the Marshall University School of Medicine."

The special convocation, to which the public is invited, will be held in the new Huntington Civic Center, beginning at 11 a.m. Arrangements are being made under direction of the University's Commencement and Honorary Degrees Committee, headed by Dr. Michael J. Galgano, associate professor of history.

(Continued on Page 2)

Christmas Party

President and Mrs. Hayes will host a Christmas party for all university employees—current and retired—and their families today (Dec. 16) from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., in the Multi-Purpose Room, Memorial Student Center.

There will be light refreshments and music, plus a visit by Santa Claus.
Research, advanced training emphasized is involved in the research and advanced training, including the comment, "I have my work cut out for me."

(Continued from Page 1)

Field work is now making specific recommendations involving research and advanced training. The report recommends, "The Board of Regents should be encouraged to enter its policy of discouraging graduate education and programs at state institutions of higher learning other than West Virginia University."

Dr. Woodward said much of the task force's work was based on an Institutional Goals Inventory gathered by the Office of Institutional Research and Planning.

Library schedule given

Year's schedule is given, and is based on an Institutional Goals Inventory gathered by the Office of Institutional Research and Planning.

Campus job openings

The Personnel Office has announced the following campus openings:

-Plumber, Buildings and Grounds, two positions, closes Dec. 17.
-Other positions, closes Dec. 20.
-Sales Clerk, Bookstore, part-time/temporary, closes Dec. 23.
-Cashier, Bookstore, three positions, part-time/temporary, closes Dec. 23.

For more information or to apply, contact the Personnel Office, Old Main 207.

Early ally of med school

The first 24 students in the new School of Medicine will begin their classes Jan. 3. Each member of the class will be recognized at the convocation, which will also include a formal announcement of the processing of the Scandinavian criminal justice procedures program next spring, pending approval by the West Virginia Board of Regents.

The Comparative Criminal Justice Program will be conducted from May 31 to June 29 at the Swedish National Police College in Stockholm, according to Dr. D. E. Campbell, MU associate professor of criminal justice and program manager.

Sweden is an obvious choice for the comparison because of its low crime rate, highly structured system of social benefits and social services, and Swedish police cooperation,

Enrollment in the program has been increased to 40 for the spring semester and 40 for the summer semester.

Dr. Campbell said, "Sweden is an obvious choice for the comparison because of its low crime rate, highly structured system of social benefits and social services, and Swedish police cooperation."

The program will be conducted from May 31 to June 29 at the Swedish National Police College in Stockholm, according to Dr. D. E. Campbell, MU associate professor of criminal justice and program manager.

Education association convention at Roanoke, Va., Nov. 23-24

ROD O'CONNELL, instructor in health, physical education and recreation, had an article entitled "Charting the Distance Runners may go" published in the "Running Journal."

Carl Johnson, assistant professor of education, RALPH HALL, associate dean of the College of Education, conducted workshops at the first meeting of the newly organized Region IV Council of Teachers of Mathematics, held Dec. 3 at Mineral Wells. Dr. Johnson led a session on "Motivational Activities of the General Math Student." Dr. Hall led a session on "Mathematics and the Liberal Arts." Dr. Maynard presented "Attribute Activities for the Elementary Grades." Dr. Hull and Dr. Maynard jointly led a session on "Geometry for the Primary Grade."

JIM L. ADKINS, project director of the Research Coordinating Unit, is working with Dr. Robert F. Campbell of the Ohio State Center for Vocational Education, Columbus, Ohio, to develop a career/vocational guidance program for prospective teachers in the Liberal Arts Department of Education. A planning model for improving comprehensive systems of career/vocational education planning is under development. This model will emphasize a close working relationship between school and community based agencies.

Personnel persons

Valerie Jeann Shin, daughter of Mrs. Norma S. Shin, assistant reference librarian, will receive her Bachelor of Arts degree in English writing and a Certificate in Comparative Literature as a magna cum laude graduate of the University of Washington.

Ed Drieger, audio-visual supervisor for the Health Science, will officiate at the marriage Nov. 26 to 27 of Deborah Kasich, a waitress in a campus Christmas tree center, the bride, who will retain her own name, is employed at St. Mary's Hospital.

Donald R. Jarrell, son of Dr. and Mrs. Mack C. Jarrell, will represent Marshall's Reserve Officers Training Corps at the Mid-Winter Conference of the Reserve Officers Association of the U.S. in Washington, D.C., Feb. 22-24. His topic will be "The Creation of Higher Education programs in the Community College."

Is there a new job opening? Are you looking for a job? Share your job search adventures through campus mail or hand deliver them to Judith Craft, University Relations, Old Main 112.