

7-2-1976

Marshall University News Letter, July 2, 1976

Office of Informational Services

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu\_news\_letter

---

Recommended Citation

Office of Informational Services, "Marshall University News Letter, July 2, 1976" (1976). Marshall University News Letter 1972-1986. Paper 136.

http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu\_news\_letter/136

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marshall Publications at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in Marshall University News Letter 1972-1986 by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu, martj@marshall.edu.

News Letter

OFFICE OF INFORMATIONAL SERVICES • NEWS BUREAU • MARSHALL UNIVERSITY • HUNTINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA 25701

July 2, 1976

Paul D. Hines to head College

The appointment of Dr. Paul D. Hines as vice president for Marshall's Community College became effective yesterday (July 1).

There will be a delay in Hines' assuming his new post as vice president of Marshall University's Community College. On Wednesday, his five-year-old daughter was killed in a traffic accident at Rio Grande.

Hines, who resigned as president of Rio Grande (Ohio) College and Rio Grande Community College last month to take this post, is a former Marshall professor of education.

Hines, 42, is a native of Missouri. Before assuming the Rio Grande position last summer, he had served four years as president of Barton County Community College in Great Bend, Kan.

He earned his Bachelor's degree in education from Central Missouri State College, his Master's degree in history from the University of Missouri and his doctorate in social science education from Ball State University.

Hines served on the Marshall faculty from 1968 to 1970. He was director of special programs, director of the Teacher Corps and associate director of the West Virginia Triple-T Project which provided programs for college personnel involved in teacher training.

While in the Huntington area, Hines also served as consultant to the Chesapeake, Ohio, schools and to school systems in Wayne and Logan counties.

Before joining Marshall in 1968, he was vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college at the School of the Ozarks, an independent, four-year liberal arts college at Point Lookout, Mo. He also spent three years as assistant professor of education at Indiana University and one year as assistant professor of education at Hillsdale College in Michigan.

He served in the U.S. Army from 1953 to 1956.

Hines is the author of many articles published in professional journals and is a member of several professional organizations.

He and his wife, Pauline, have five children.

Hines succeeds Dr. Robert O. Hatton who resigned last January from the Community College position.

John Zink to oversee ambulatory care center

John M. Zink has been appointed executive director of the ambulatory care center to be operated by Family Care Outpatient Center, Inc.

Announcement of the appointment, effective July 1, was made by Dr. Olen E. Jones Jr., president of the new non-profit corporation which acquired Doctors' Memorial Hospital, where the community ambulatory care center will be operated.

Zink also will retain his position as executive assistant to the dean of the Marshall University School of Medicine.

The new corporation assumed operation of the existing outpatient clinic at Doctors' Memorial Hospital yesterday and plans to expand it into a major ambulatory care center closely identified with the Marshall Medical School.

(Continued on Page 2)

NEW QUARTERS

Peaceful enough on the outside, the inside of the old Dining Hall became a bee-hive of activity as the Community College moved into its new home this week. The renovations to the first floor cost about $225,000 and created administrative offices, classrooms, Learning Center and student lounge. Remodeling of the basement which temporarily will house the Medical School Library is under way. The main telephone number for the college remains the same: 696-3646.

HOLIDAY

Monday, July 5, will be a university-wide holiday. All administrative offices will be closed. The James E. Morrow Library will be closed Sunday and Monday, resuming regular hours on Tuesday, July 6.

C. Bosworth (Bos) Johnson, news director of WSAZ-TV, has been named associate professor of journalism at Marshall University.

The appointment is effective at the beginning of the Fall Term, according to Dr. George J. Harbold, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, who made the announcement along with Dr. Deryl R. Leaming, chairman of the Journalism Department.

Johnson, who has been WSAZ-TV news director since 1960, heads a news staff of 18, plus 30 correspondents throughout a four-state region. His news department has received numerous honors, including the most recent Associated Press National Broadcast Enterprise Award.

Center offers medical care

(Continued from Page 1)

Jones, who also is executive vice president of Marshall University, said Zink will be in charge of day-to-day operation of the outpatient care program and facilities, as well as management of the entire five-story Doctors' Memorial building. It is located at 1801 Sixth Ave., one block from the Marshall campus.

The Medical School will continue to lease office space in the building and will rent additional space for library, classrooms and laboratories for development of the Medical School, until facilities to be built at the Huntington Veterans Administration Hospital are completed.

Zink said the ambulatory care center will provide non-emergency medical services to the community from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week.

Zink came to Marshall in September, 1974, from the Southern Illinois University School of Medicine where he had been director of laboratory sciences and assistant to the assistant dean of medical sciences. He earned his A.B. and M.A. degrees in microbiology from Southern Illinois, as well as a Master's degree in business administration.

Dr. Adkins to study instructional enrichment

Dr. Joan F. Adkins, Marshall University associate professor of English, this summer is reviewing other schools' oncampus programs relating to instructional enrichment of faculty.

On June 14, and continuing through Aug. 26, Dr. Adkins, who also serves as chairman of Marshall's Academic Planning and Standards Committee, began visiting 11 colleges and universities, meeting with officials responsible for instructional improvement programs.

Funded by a grant from the Marshall University Foundation, Inc., the travel-study project was recommended by the university's Academic Planning and Standards Committee with an eye toward implementing a program for instructional enhancement next fall for Marshall faculty.

Dr. Adkins will observe the various programs and bring back specific recommendations, based on her study.

Her itinerary includes: Northwestern University, June 14-21; Marquette University, June 22-26; University of Denver, June 27-July 9; University of Oregon, Eugene, July 10-16; California State University, Long Beach, July 17-24; University of New Mexico, July 25-30; University of Texas, July 31-Aug. 4; St. Louis University, Aug. 5-10; Auburn University, Aug. 11-16; Fisk University, Aug. 17-20 and the University of Louisville, Aug. 21-25.

Johnson is past president of the international Radio-Television News Directors Association. He also served six years as treasurer and member of the RTNDA Board of Directors. During his presidency in 1974 he arranged and presided over President Richard M. Nixon's last nationally-televised news conference in Houston, Texas.

A native of Charleston, he received his A.B. degree from West Virginia University and earned his M.A. in Communication Arts from Marshall. He has served as a part-time instructor at Marshall at various times since 1970 and was a visiting professor of journalism at WVU in 1975.

He joined WSAZ in 1952 as a news and staff announcer. Before his appointment as director of a combined radio-television news department in 1960, he was radio news editor and program director.

Johnson is the author of a number of articles printed in professional publications and wrote the foreword to a textbook, "How to Shoot Newscast." He has been a speaker or panelist at numerous broadcast news conventions and has been a guest lecturer at Ohio and Washington State universities as well as at Marshall and WVU. He served on the Accrediting Committee for Education in Journalism.

He is a member of the Marshall Journalism Advisory Committee and Sigma Delta Chi journalism society and has served as president of the West Virginia Associated Press Broadcasters Association.

He is married to the former Dorothy Rensch of Upper Darby, Pa., and they are the parents of four daughters and a son. Dr. Dorothy Johnson is chairman of the Marshall Speech Department.

'Gazebo' tickets on sale in Main 118

Tickets are on sale now for the second of four productions in Marshall's Bicentennial Summer Theater Festival, "The Gazebo," which opens a three-day run on July 8 at 8 p.m. in air-conditioned Old Main Auditorium.

All seats will be reserved and tickets will cost $2.

The theater box office, located in Old Main 118, is open from noon to 4 p.m. weekdays. Tickets will be available at the door one hour prior to performances.

Reservations may be made by stopping at the box office or by calling 696-2306. Mail orders with checks payable to Marshall University Theater may be sent to: University Theater, Marshall University, Huntington, W. Va. 25701.

In addition to Alex Coppel's comedy-melodrama, "The Gazebo," upcoming shows will be Tennessee Williams' prize-winning drama, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," July 29-31, and Mary Chase's unforgettable comedy hit, "Harvey," Aug. 12-14.

Refill information needed

Jess Bocoock of the Receiving Department requests all faculty and staff to send him information concerning needs for 1977 desk calendar refills no later than Sept. 15, 1976.

Please specify size, make and quantity of refills and include your building name, room number and department name.

DR. MARVIN D. MILLS, professor of safety and health, has been selected by the U.S. Public Health Service to serve on a planning committee to develop programs, standards and curricula in Occupational Safety and Health for community and junior colleges. He is currently a consultant and serves on the review team for the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health.

Program planned for international students

A five-week course, "Introduction to University Education for International Students"—perhaps the first of its kind in the nation—will be offered at Marshall University this summer.

The program's purpose, according to Dr. E. H. Adkins Jr., coordinator, is to alleviate the cultural and academic shock faced by international students as first-time entrants into academic life in the United States.

"To our knowledge, there has been no program of this scope and depth previously offered to international students," Dr. Adkins said. For a number of years, Dr. Adkins was involved in international student education with the U.S. Department of State.

Designed for a maximum of 30 enrollees, the program is not limited to international students planning to attend Marshall, but students enrolling at other institutions will be accepted as well, Dr. Adkins said.

Students primarily from Latin America, the Middle East and the Far East will be recruited through international education agencies, embassies and personal contacts, Dr. Adkins said.

Enrollment fees for the course will be $304.70 with housing and food additional.

Students participating in the program which begins July 19 and ends Aug. 20 will spend their mornings in study and group discussion, while afternoons and weekends will be devoted to recreational programs and tours of the campus and Tri-State Area.

Mini-courses in some of the basic academic disciplines are planned, but the program is not an intensive English language course, Dr. Adkins stressed.

Emphasis in the first week, however, will be on the individual student's English skills with classes scheduled in reading, writing and comprehension. Also scheduled are introductory sessions in basic science courses, mathematics and speech as is work on library use, research tools and study skills.

A practical workshop on problems encountered in every day life also is planned.

The international students will be housed in campus dormitories with compatible students enrolled in summer school and student peer grouping will be utilized in the recreational programs as well.

Library receives federal grant

The James E. Morrow Library has received a $3,930 grant from the U.S. Office of Education, Director of Libraries Kenneth T. Slack announced.

The award, made under the College Library Resource Program, will be used to purchase books and periodicals, Slack said.

DEAN ADKINS, biology instructor, participated in a seminar on "The Biologist's Responsibility," at Indiana University-Perdue University Medical Center, Indianapolis on May 10-11.

DR. CHARLES M. WOODFORD, associate professor of speech, presented a workshop on "Measurement of Middle Ear Function in an Identification Audiometry Program" to Cabell County public school nurses on Friday, April 30, at the board office, 620 20th Street.

RICHARD D. RANDOLPH, director of personnel, was one of 137 persons attending the recent Eastern Regional College and University Personnel Association Conference held in Atlantic City, N.J. Guest speakers and seminar leaders for the conference included: Dr. Irving Goldaber, director for the Center of the Study of Conflict Management, Dowling College; Dr. Estell Fishbern, general counsel, Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Bernard Ingster, management consultant. Seminar topics included: "Changing Role of the Personnel Department," "How to Utilize Conflict for Constructive Change," "Equality for Women—Myth or Ms.," and "The Duel Impact of Collective Bargaining and Fiscal Constraints on the Personnel Function."

LORRAINE AEH, assistant professor of nursing education, has been elected secretary of the West Virginia League for Nursing.

(Continued on Page 4)

Child actors sought

WANTED: Five youngsters between the ages of 4 through 9.

Dr. Elaine A. Novak is looking for children to take part in the July 29-31 production of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." Auditions will be held Tuesday from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 154. The Tennessee Williams' script calls for 4 women and 5 men in addition to the children.

Adults reading for roles must be registered for at least 3 hours in summer school or be members of the university faculty or staff.

Seminar slated July 14

A public seminar, "Special Education in Transition (or the Mainstreaming Blues)" will be held at Marshall University Wednesday, July 14.

The program is being conducted by graduate students in special education, taught by Dr. Daryll Bauer, director of Marshall's special education program. It will be held in the Multi-Purpose Room of Memorial Student Center from 10 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

The opening general session will deal with changing trends in special education as they relate to classroom teachers. Three "mini workshops" will run from 11 to 11:45 a.m. on the topics Staggered Start (Physical Limitations), Special Education Extras (Academics), and Save Your Sanity (Behavior).

The seminar will be open to all interested persons and teachers and other professionals who deal with exceptional children are especially invited to attend, Bauer said. There will be no charge and reservations are not necessary.

(Continued from Page 3)

BONNIE DOUGLAS, associate professor and director of the Bachelor of Science in Nursing program, was elected to serve on the nominating committee of the W.Va. League for Nursing and was asked to fill a vacancy of the W.Va. Nurses Association Legislative Committee. She also was a member of the reaction panel on a nursing education program sponsored by the State Board of Examiners for Registered Nurses on May 15 in Charleston.

DR. JOSEPH S. LA CASCIA, chairman of the Economics Department, participated in a seminar, entitled "Challenges to a Healthy Steel Industry," held in Pittsburgh May 5-7. The seminar was co-sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School and the American Iron and Steel Institute.

DR. ROBERT L. BRADLEY, acting associate dean for associated health professions of the School of Medicine, and DR. RICHARD A. GILMORE, associate professor of biochemistry-cell biology, are two of four co-authors of a paper, entitled, "Possible Role of the X Chromosome in Mammary Carcinoma of Mice," published in the 1976 spring issue of the IRCS Medical Science.

Campus personals

Janeel Slack, 16-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Slack, is one of three West Virginia girls chosen to attend Girl's Nation as a senator from West Virginia.

A senior at Huntington East High School and daughter of Marshall's director of libraries, she attended West Virginia Girl's State, held recently at Jackson's Mill.

At Girl's Nation, which meets this month in Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia, Janeel may meet President Ford as part of her governmental learning experience.

HOST FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Emory W. Carr are serving as a host family for Dalilia Mugheiry, a public health nurse from the country of Oman, located off the coast of Saudi Arabia. Mr. Carr is the acting chairman of the Modern Languages Department.

***

Have a new addition to the family? Moving? Getting married? Proud of an achievement by your spouse or children?

There's a place in your News Letter for such personal items about you, your friends and your family. We'll publish this information if you'll drop a note to Judith Casto in the Office of Informational Services.

DR. MICHAEL J. GALGANO, assistant professor of history, has an article, entitled "Iron-Mining in the Restoration Furness: The Case of Sir Thomas Preston," appearing in the British journal, Recusant History, XIII:3 (April 1976), 212-218.

DR. HOWARD C. PRICE, assistant professor of chemistry, authored an article, entitled "The Democratization of an Advanced Biochemistry Course," which appeared in the April 1976 issue of Biochemical Education.

DR. STEVEN HATFIELD, associate professor of mathematics, was notified that his article, "Using a Calculator to Overcome a Problem," has been published in the May 1976 issue of the Illinois Mathematics Teacher.

DR. RICHARD W. WAITE, Student Development Center director, and KENNETH BLUE, Center staff counselor, conducted a workshop, "The Evaluation Interview," for the Kentucky College Placement Associations third annual meeting held at the Marriott Inn, Clarksville, Ind.

JACK C. PHILLIPS, Development Director, has been named to a one-year term on the board of directors of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) Southern District III.

DR. E.S. HANRANHAN, chairman of the Department of Chemistry, has been selected as President-Elect of the West Virginia Academy of Sciences for 1976-77.

DR. DONALD CHEZICK, associate professor of psychology, presented a paper, entitled "The Role of Gastrointestinal Cues in Learned Food Aversions," to the Midwestern Psychological Association annual convention last month in Chicago.

DR. DONALD C. TARTER, professor of biological sciences, is the co-author of an article, entitled "Life History and Ecology of Ephemerella funeralis McDunnough in a Small West Virginia Stream," which has been accepted for publication by The American Midland Naturalist. TARTER co-authored the paper with David Hamilton, a former MU graduate student in biological sciences.

NEWCOMERS

Newcomers to Marshall's campus include:

JOAN A. MESSINA, secretary, Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation; VICKIE A. SANSOM, secretary, Memorial Student Center; JANICE ELLEN JUSTICE, laboratory technician, School of Medicine; MAURICE F. HARTZ, scientific stockroom supervisor, School of Medicine, and LOIS G. JOHNSON, mail clerk, School of Medicine.

Welcome to campus!