83% of campus United Way goal reached

With $9,958 in pledges and donations in hand, Marshall University's 1976-77 United Way campaign has reached about 83% of its $12,000 goal, according to Neal Adkins, assistant professor of accounting and drive chairman.

"We're pleased to have come this far and that we still have some areas to report in," Adkins said.

"I am very pleased because we are ahead of the percentage reached at this point in the campaign last year," he said. The 1975-76 campaign on campus attained 84% of its goal.

Adkins urged members of the university community who have not made pledges or donations to contact him in Old Main 235 by calling him at 2310 or any of the 18 United Way division leaders on campus.

"There are 1,373 of us in the campus community who are eligible to give to this campaign. If all of us can give something, no matter how little, the drive will be a success and we all can share the joy of helping others," Adkins said.

Survey forms needed before holiday

Recipients of the Institutional Goals Inventory (IGI) questionnaires, who have not already done so, should complete the form and return it to Old Main Room 112 either in person or by campus mail prior to the Thanksgiving holiday, according to Dr. James Nichols, director of institutional research and planning.

During the first week of November, 1,000 IGI questionnaires were distributed to faculty, administrators, students, nonprofessional employees and off-campus representatives of Marshall.

The purpose of the IGI is to obtain opinions concerning potential goals for the university, Dr. Nichols said. The survey is co-sponsored by the Office of Institutional Research and Planning, representing the president, and the University Council.

Items 118, 119 and 120 on the IGI survey were coded to identify respondents' subgroup classification: faculty—by college; administrators, nonprofessional employees or students, Dr. Nichols said.

"These markings in no way identify the individual respondent," he added.

Results of the survey should be available toward the end of this semester, followed by a summary early in the spring semester, Dr. Nichols said.

Dr. Moffat to retire;

Dr. Gould named chairman

Dr. Alan B. Gould has been selected to succeed Dr. Charles H. Moffat as chairman of Marshall University's History Department, Dr. George J. Harbold, dean of the MU College of Arts and Sciences, announced Thursday.

The appointment becomes effective with Dr. Moffat's retirement from the faculty at the close of the Spring Semester next May, Dr. Harbold said.

Gould, professor of history and assistant to Marshall's vice president for academic affairs, was the unanimous choice of the search committee composed of members of the History Department faculty, he added.

Dr. Moffat has been a member of Marshall's faculty since 1946 and has served as departmental chairman since 1968.

Among Dr. Moffat's many contributions to the Marshall community is the founding of the university's Honors Program.

Dr. Gould, a Huntington native, has been a member of the Marshall faculty since 1969. He earned his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Marshall and received his Ph.D. degree in history from West Virginia University.

Before joining the Marshall faculty, Dr. Gould taught at District of Columbia Teachers College and at the Northern Virginia Community College.

Gab Session Dec. 1

"Communicating with the Board of Regents" will be the principle topic at the next Faculty Gab Session, scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 3 p.m. in the Presidents Dining Room of Memorial Student Center.

Dr. Francis K. Aldred, Marshall's representative on the Advisory Council of Faculty to the Board of Regents, will join with President Hayes in discussing the topic with other members of the faculty.

RETIRING?

He will explain, in layman's terms, such things as air mass productions and the creation of highs, lows and fronts. He will discuss modern methods of weather prediction and forecast folk-lore.

The free lecture is part of the Discovery Paths Series, sponsored by the Galleries and the Tri-State Audubon Society.

TEAM TRIUMPHS

The Marshall University Individual Events (IE) Team, coached by Maureen Milicia, assistant professor of speech, finished in first place among 14 schools competing last week-end in the Youngstown (Ohio) State University IE Tournament.

Saturday's win is believed to be the first time that Marshall has finished in the top spot in IE competition.

After compiling a 37-point lead in preliminary rounds, Marshall's 13-member team, the "Thundering Word," won over the University of Toledo by four points.

Other schools competing included Clarion College of Pennsylvania, Bowling Green (Ohio) State University, Kent State University and the University of Akron.

BOLIVIAN BALLET HERE

The Cultural Arts Committee of the Office of Student Activities, in cooperation with the Huntington Bicentennial Commission, will present a performance of the Bolivian Folklore Ballet at the Keith-Albee Theater Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m. The ballet company, from Cochambamba, Bolivia is composed of 30 dancers who will present Bolivian folk ballet dances as a salute to the American Bicentennial. Tickets are $2 for students and $3 for faculty and staff. They are on sale in Memorial Student Center Room 2W40.

GRADUATE COUNCIL ACTIONS

The Graduate Council in its Nov. 9 meeting made minor title changes in Political Science 585 and 586. The latter became 584 and will be a prerequisite for 585.

The Council discussed comprehensive examination procedures and reviewed such practices in the department.

Counselors conference scheduled for Dec. 7-8

The Fourth annual West Virginia Counselors Conference in Higher Education, sponsored by the Counseling Service of Marshall University's Student Development Center, will be held Dec. 7-8 at Memorial Student Center.

The conference is expected to draw about 350 counselors from Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Indiana, according to Kenneth E. Blue, MU staff counselor and conference coordinator.

The seminars are designed for persons working as counselors in secondary schools, higher education, mental health, corrections, and rehabilitation fields as well as for the clergy and private practicing psychiatrists and psychologists, Blue said.

Dr. William Glasser of Los Angeles, founder of the Institute of Reality Therapy, will conduct three seminar sessions on Reality Therapy.

"Based on the premise that each person is responsible for his own behavior, rather than society or environment, Reality Therapy shows people how to cope with life as it exists," Blue said.

The conference will begin with registration at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 7, and the first session will start at 8 p.m. Registration on Wednesday will be at 8 a.m., followed by the second seminar at 9 a.m. The final session will be that afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

The sessions are open to the public, but there will be a fee, Blue said.

Those interested in attending only Tuesday evening's session will be charged $5. The cost for Wednesday's sessions or all three seminars will be $20.

Thurber show slated Dec. 1-4

Marshall University Theatre will present "A Thurber Carnival" Dec. 1-4 in Old Main Auditorium. Curtain time will be 8 o'clock each of the four evenings.

Director Clayton Page described the production as "a review with musical punctuation." Based on a book by famed humorist James Thurber, the production includes 17 humorous sketches. A cast of 20 students will perform the 50 roles, Page said.

"A Thurber Carnival" originally was produced on Broadway in 1960 and a professional version has been presented in Huntington as part of the Marshall University Artists Series, Page said.

The "musical punctuations" will be provided by the Marshall Jazz Quartet, directed by J.D. Folsom. Bruce Greenwood is designer and technical director and Jan Santee is assistant to the director and stage manager.

Tickets are on sale in Old Main Room 118 at Marshall from noon to 4:30 p.m. daily. Reservations also may be made by telephoning 696-2306.

Goal Post Party

The Huntington Chapter of the Marshall Alumni Association will hold a Goal Post Party Saturday following the Marshall-Southern Illinois football game, Chapter President Phil Cline announced.

The party, to be held at the VFW, 920 Seventh Ave., will begin about 4:30 p.m. Cline said all members of the Marshall faculty and staff are invited to attend. The charge will be $2.
