Regents approve library funding

The West Virginia Board of Regents has notified Marshall University it has approved a supplemental allocation of $85,875 to help eliminate deficiencies in the book collection of Marshall's James E. Morrow Library.

The latest allocation brings to $220,875 the amount of supplemental allocations for Marshall's library during the current fiscal year. Under the supplemental library allocations program, developed by the Board of Regents in 1971, the Marshall library has received a total of $570,875 to improve its book collections.

Parking pinch: a $2.3 million solution

Marshall University has initiated a $2.3 million program to alleviate its critical parking situation, President Barker has announced. The figure includes estimated costs of land acquisition, demolition of buildings and paving.

Parking was among the major items included in a list of Marshall capital improvements priorities Dr. Barker submitted to the Board of Regents recently. At its May meeting, the board authorized Dr. Barker to obtain the services of an appraiser and proceed immediately with the acquisition of land to meet Marshall's parking needs.

Dr. Barker said Don Leckie, Huntington appraiser, has been retained to begin the land acquisition program.

Although he did not specifically identify the parcels to be acquired, Dr. Barker said the property is on Third and Fifth avenues, generally in keeping with the recommendations made in the Campus Facilities Plan adopted by the Board of Regents in 1972.

"I'm very pleased that the Board of Regents has given us approval to begin immediately taking steps to alleviate the parking problem," Dr. Barker said. "The current situation in this respect is critical."

The remainder of the Marshall list of priorities was referred by the Board of Regents to the consulting firm of Wood & Tower, Inc., which developed the Marshall Campus Facilities Plan. The board has asked the firm to submit its recommendations after discussing with Dr. Barker his proposed modifications and additions to the plan.
