THREE CHAIRMEN TO RETIRE

Three Marshall University department chairmen with a total of 73 years' service to the university will retire at the end of the current term.

The announcement was made by Dr. William K. Easley, vice president for academic affairs.

Retiring are:

-Dr. Donald C. Martin, 65, professor and chairman of the Department of Physics and Physical Sciences, a member of the Marshall faculty for 28 years.

-Dr. C. L. Kingsbury, 62, professor and chairman of the Department of Music, 23 years.

-Dr. Arthur S. Carpenter, 61, professor and chairman of the Department of Art, 22 years.

Dr. Martin, a native of Gardner, Mass., began his employment at Marshall in February, 1943. He departed in June, 1944, for a position as a physicist with the Raytheon Manufacturing Co. and resumed his Marshall career in 1946.

He earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Louisiana State University and his Ph.D. from Cornell University. Before joining the Marshall faculty, he taught at Louisiana State University and Southeastern Louisiana College.

Dr. Martin is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church. He is married to the former Mildred Thompson and they are the parents of two daughters.

Dr. Kingsbury, who is 62 and a native of Parkersburg, W. Va., joined the Marshall faculty in 1950. Prior to that he had taught at West Virginia Wesleyan College, served as supervisor of instrumental music at Wheeling (W. Va.) High School, and was coordinator of music services at the University of Indiana.

He earned his B.A. degree from West Virginia Wesleyan College, his Master's degree from Capital College of Music, and his Ed.D. from Indiana University. His major instrument is the flute and he studied under George Barrere, who was known as the world's greatest flutist. He has performed frequently as a professional musician.

During his tenure at Marshall, the Department of Music faculty has grown from seven members to 23 members. Dr. Kingsbury also had a leading role in the planning and design of Smith Music Hall which was completed six years ago. He is married to the former Tressa Bodkin and they are the parents of two children.

Dr. Carpenter, 61, is a native of Gore, Va. He received his B.A. degree from Shepherd College and his M.A. and Ed. D. degrees from Pennsylvania State University.

He started his teaching career in 1933 as principal of a two-room school at Whitacre, Va. Before joining the Marshall faculty in 1951, he also served as art director and supervisor of art education in Berkeley County (W. Va.) schools and taught at Penn State. He served in the U.S. Army in 1942-43.

He has received numerous awards for his art works.

During Dr. Carpenter's tenure, the Department of Art has grown from three faculty members to 10. He has conducted a number of workshops for West Virginia teachers and has served as consultant for Marshall's Experimental Program in Teacher Education for several years.

As part of his doctoral requirements, he designed and executed the mural which is on the stairway in Marshall's James E. Morrow Library.

He is married to the former Constance Dougherty and they are the parents of one daughter.

MU NEWCOMERS

HILDA MAE SEIBER, clerk typist in the Graduate School, MRS. OPAL C. MIDKIFF, clerk in Graphic Services, and JAMES W. MASON, custodian with Buildings and Grounds, are recent newcomers to the Marshall campus.

Marshall University administrators, faculty, staff and students welcome you!

The Parthenon wins first place

For the second consecutive year, The Parthenon, Marshall University student newspaper, has won a first-place award in the Southeastern College Newspaper Competition.

Out of a field of 40 colleges and universities from eight southeastern states, The Parthenon was judged to have the Best Editorial Page. In addition, Lynn Withrow, editor-in-chief, received honorable mention in the Best Regular Column category. Honorable mention is equivalent to second place since no runnerup or third-place awards are given.

Sponsored by Hollins (Va.) College, the competition is judged by professional newspapers in the southeastern region. The editorial award was judged by the Norfolk (Va.) Ledger and Star, and Ms. Withrow's award was judged by the Charleston (S.C.) News-Courier.

Norfolk editor George Hebert said, "The Parthenon is the most particularly well-endowed newspaper. It has a great deal of news variety and editorial provocativeness. The editorial page is carefully written and the editorials are selected for appeal and not just chosen to fill up the page."

The awards will be presented at Hollins College at an April 17 banquet. A year ago, The Parthenon received a first-place award in newswriting and honorable mention in feature writing.

Faculty Women meet

A very important meeting of the Faculty Women's Club will be held at 4 p.m. on Monday, April 16, in the eighth floor lounge of Smith Hall, according to Maureen Milicia, president of the club and assistant professor of speech.

All faculty women are invited. The speaker will be Phyllis H. Cyrus, associate professor of finance. Her topic will be "The Equal Employment Opportunity Act."

Refreshments will be served.

D'Antoni cited

The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has notified Marshall University it is awarding Marshall basketball star Mike D'Antoni a $1,000 NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship for use at the university or professional school of his choice.

The award was announced today by Walter Byers, NCAA executive director. It is one of 15 such awards made to basketball players throughout the nation, and one of only five in the NCAA's University Division.

"Considering the number of potential candidates across the country, this award stands as a significant honor for the student and a tribute to your institution," Byers said.

The scholarship is based on both athletic ability and academic achievement, as well as other factors.

D'Antoni was nominated for the award by Dr. Harold L. Willey, Marshall faculty representative to the NCAA, and Joe McMullen, athletic director. Dr. Willey said he believed it was the first time such an award had been made to a Marshall athlete.

D'Antoni, a pre-medical student, has an overall academic average of 3.58.

Earlier this year, D'Antoni was selected as the first recipient of the new Student-Athlete Award established by the Marshall University Alumni Association.

Felty honored

Walter C. Felty, chairman of the department of educational media, has been named West Virginia's 1973 recipient of the Edgar Dale Award.

Felty received the award Wednesday evening while attending the national conference of the Association for Educational Communications and Technology (AECT) in Las Vegas, Nev.

The Edgar Dale Award is given annually to persons from Region V of AECT who have exhibited outstanding contributions both locally and nationally in the field of educational media.

West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan comprise Region V of AECT. One person from each of these states received the annual award in honor of Dr. Dale at the Region V reception held in the Hilton Hotel Wednesday evening.

Dr. Dale is an outstanding educator and a leader in the field of educational communications with many articles and books to his credit. He is professor emeritus of the department of education at The Ohio State University.

'73 Homecoming theme: suggestions wanted

Planning already is under way for next fall's Marshall University Homecoming, Oct. 27, and the committee in charge is inviting suggestions from faculty, students, alumni, and Huntington area residents.

Committee Chairman Paul Skaff, Charleston junior, has indicated his group hopes to reinvigorate the Homecoming activities, which have been declining in recent years. For that reason, the committee is seeking the participation of all elements of the Marshall community in looking toward Homecoming 1973.

Suggestions for a Homecoming Theme may be sent through campus mail to: Homecoming 1973, Office of Student Activities and Cultural Events.

RCIE: Study Abroad

Verona, Italy: Applications from students are now being accepted. Students may study in Verona for one semester (first or second) for $1800 plus transportation.

The study program in Verona places special emphasis on the significance of the Renaissance in the western tradition and on the forces that have shaped modern Italy. The program also provides a course of intensive language study designed to give students a speaking ability as quickly as possible and a solid working knowledge of Italian by the end of the program.

In addition to vigorous academic activity, the Verona program is an intensive intercultural learning experience. All students live with native Italians for the duration of the program. They meet and mix with Italian students from the University.

This program is designed for undergraduate students majoring in a number of fields.

Nine-month Study Abroad Programs also are available to students in both Basel, Switzerland, and Verona, Italy.

Further information on RCIE programs may be obtained from Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, extension 3120.

Two Marshall faculty participate at meet

The West Virginia Press Women will host a panel discussion April 28 in Huntington on "freedom of information," featuring two Marshall University staff members.

Appearing on the six-person panel will be Dr. Jerry S. Huang, instructor in the journalism department, and Terry Hollinger, general manager of WMUL-TV.

The panel will also feature U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, Cabell County Prosecuting Attorney L.D. Egnor, W. Va. Sen. W. T. Brotherton Jr., D-17th, and former Huntington newsman and current director of the Huntington Economic Development Commission Carl Haerberle.

Serving as moderator for the panel is Don Hatfield, editor of the Huntington Advertiser.

The discussion, slated for 2 p.m. at the Gateway Inn on U.S. 60, is open to the public free of charge.

West Virginia Press Women is a newly-formed 50-member group of communicators within the Mountain State. Represented within WVPW membership are editors, and men and women in public relations, television, newspaper, magazine and freelance work.

Mini-Bike Rally

The third annual Teke Mini-Bike Rally will be held Saturday, April 21, at the Marshall University intramural field, 19th St. and Fifth Ave.

The event, sponsored by the Marshall chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon, will host boys and girls aged eight through 15 and their mini-bikes in eight different races.

Racers will be classed according to age and horsepower of their machine, and prizes will be awarded to each group.

Prizes for the winners include a $50 savings bond, trophies for each class winner, and ribbons for all winners. All participants will receive ribbons, patches and a chance to enter their candidate for Miss Teke Mini-Bike Queen, a girl aged eight to 15.

The event is held with the support of the Huntington Police Department.

Entry fee for the riders is $5, which covers all costs. Procedures for entering the rally may be obtained by calling 696-9432 or 522-1380, or by writing Tau Kappa Epsilon Mini-Bike Rally, 1402 Fifth Ave., Huntington, W. Va. 25703.

Choral Union Concert

The annual spring Choral Union Concert will be held Monday and Tuesday, April 16 and 17, at 8 p.m. in Smith Music Hall Auditorium.

The choral group will be performing "King David," a dramatic cantata by Arthur Honegger. The piece is based on the story of the biblical King David from "I Samuel" and "I Chronicles."

The Marshall Community is invited to attend, according to Dr. Paul Balshaw, associate professor of music.

Magic Theatre presents

The Magic Theatre film for this evening is "McCabe and Mrs. Miller." The movie will be shown at 7:30 in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Memorial Student Center. Admission is free upon presentation of ID cards.

A limited number of guest passes are available at the door on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Football clinic

The Department of Athletics and the football coaching staff were hosts for Marshall's first annual free football clinic Saturday, April 7, at Memorial Student Center. Approximately 75 coaches from three states attended the morning discussion sessions led by the MU coaching staff. Following lunch, the visitors observed a scrimmage at Fairfield Stadium.

Faculty and staff achievements, activities...

DR. HOWARD C. PRICE, assistant professor of chemistry, attended the annual meeting of the West Virginia Academy of Science at Fairmont State College on April 6. He delivered a paper entitled "Rennin: The Milk-Clotting Enzyme--An Introductory Biochemistry Experiment."

DR. O. NORMAN SIMPKINS, chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology, will be the speaker at a seminar on Appalachian Culture at Yale University on April 18.

RALPH TURNER and GEORGE ARNOLD, JR., assistant professors of journalism, conducted a day-long series of newspaper workshops at Tygarts Valley High School in Mill Creek, W. Va., on April 6.

DR. THOMAS R. ALLEN, JR., assistant professor of vocational-technical and adult education, participated in the National Conference on Cooperative Education held in Washington, D. C., April 2-5.

Dr. Allen also participated in the State Future Business Leaders of America Conference held at West Virginia Institute of Technology on April 7.

DR. DEWEY D. SANDERSON, assistant professor of geology, presented a talk entitled "Magnetic and Gravitational Processes in Geology" to the faculty and students of MU's Physics Department on March 30.

DR. RAM N. SINGH, associate professor of sociology, reviewed a book entitled "Families in East and West" edited by Reuben Hill and Rene Konig that will appear in the May 1973 issue of the "Journal of Marriage and the Family."

JAMES W. HARLESS, director of admissions, will attend the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers in Los Angeles, Calif., April 16-20.

Harless will be representing Marshall and the West Virginia AACRAO. He will present a report of a meeting of West Virginia admissions officers from the 22 colleges in the state held earlier this year. The state meeting was a training conference to inform and orient persons on the history and existence and ethical and professional responsibilities of recruiting students. Harless' report at the national conference will be presented at the session entitled "New Ways of Doing Old Jobs."

ARTISTS SERIES

The young English pianist, Terence Judd, will present a concert at Marshall on Saturday, April 14, as the final event on this season's Young People Series.

Judd, 15, became the youngest first prize winner of the National Piano Playing Competition of Great Britain in 1967 and has appeared as soloist with the London Philharmonic Orchestra and the National Youth Orchestra at Festival Hall.

He is now studying with Michel Block and attends the Lycee Francais where he is the recipient of the Prix d'Excellence.

The concert will be presented in Old Main Auditorium at 11 a.m. Tickets to this event will be sold at the door.

JACK LENGYEL, head football coach, was a speaker at the New Jersey Interscholastic Coaches Association annual spring conference, March 23, at Rutgers University.

JANE F. WELLS, assistant professor of English, won an honorable mention citation in the annual James Paul Brawner writing contest sponsored by West Virginia University's English Department. Mrs. Wells, who is working toward her Ph.D. at WVU, received the recognition for a paper entitled "What Happened to Hamlet?"

The contest, named in honor of Professor Brawner who served as chairman of the English Department at WVU from 1949 to 1967, recognizes outstanding achievement in English composition on the graduate, upper division, and lower division levels.

Mrs. Wells' paper was submitted for competition by Dr. Racin, her professor for a graduate level seminar taken last summer.

DR. JOHN GOODWIN, associate professor of Bible and religion, was named president-elect at the West Virginia Philosophical Society meeting at Morris Harvey College held April 6-7.
