ALUMNI GIVE MU $5,000

Meeting Dec. 6, the Board of Directors of the Marshall University Alumni Association voted unanimously to present a gift of $5,000 to the university, Alumni President Robert P. Alexander announced.

The money will be derived from proceeds of the Alumni Association-sponsored Marshall Memorial Invitational Basketball Tournament. This year's tournament, which opens tonight, is a complete sell-out.

This is the second gift to the university from the Alumni Association in recent weeks. Earlier, the association contributed $1,200 as an academic-athletic scholarship.

In other action, the Alumni Association's board unanimously approved a motion which "commends and supports the actions and decision of Dr. John G. Barker, president of Marshall University, in regards to the drug problem on the campus."

The motion refers to Dr. Barker's decision to enforce provisions of the Student Code of Conduct against six students charged with on-campus drug violations.

Lectureship program

Contributions totalling $1,000 have been received by the Department of Political Science at Marshall for use in funding the political science lectureship program.

Established in 1970, the program allows the department to bring outstanding scholars to the campus for lectures on topics of current interest.

The 1972-73 lectures will be funded by a $700 contribution from the Twentieth Street Bank of Huntington, which has supported the program since its inception, and a $300 donation from Charles M. Polan Jr., Huntington businessman and legislator-elect.

Dr. Clair W. Matz, assistant professor and coordinator for the program, said the next lecture will bring Duke University professor Dr. Sam Cooke to the campus. Planned for March or April, Dr. Cooke's talk will reflect his specialization in political theory.

The programs are open to the public and provide enrichment for students, faculty and the community by bringing prestigious scholars to the region, Dr. Matz said.

Past lecturers included Dr. Duane Lockard of Princeton University and Dr. James David Barker of Yale, both native West Virginians.

President's Cabinet is new title

President John G. Barker has announced a new designation for the small group of administrators which meets with him bi-weekly to discuss university operations, objectives and problems. Hereafter, it will be known as the President's Cabinet.

Over the years and under various presidents, the administrative group has fluctuated in size and has had various titles including Administrative Cabinet, Executive Committee, and most recently, President's Staff.

While the group has scheduled bi-weekly meetings, it also is brought together on other occasions as the need arises.

Members of the President's Cabinet are Dr. William K. Easley, vice president for academic affairs; Joseph C. Peters, vice president for business affairs; Dr. Richard G. Mund, vice president for student affairs; Dr. Donald K. Carson, director of university relations; Joseph H. McMullen, director of athletics; Dr. Homer Arhelger, director of institutional research; Edwin N. Vinson, assistant to the president, and C. T. Mitchell, director of informational services.

Christmas Party Monday

Dr. and Mrs. John G. Barker cordially invite the faculty, staff, all employees of the Marshall community, retired employees and their families to our Christmas party on Monday, Dec. 18, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in the Mutli-Purpose Room of the Memorial Student Center.

Items for the Jan. 12 "Newsletter" should be received no later than 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Campus landmarks restored

Near the southeastern corner of Old Main is an upright green standard with a large white "M" on top. The identity of this landmark has been lost, according to a recent inventory taken by Joseph Soto, Marshall's director of plant operations, and Steve Szekely, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

It is this anonymity of campus landmarks which President John G. Barker hopes to prevent in the future. There are many such time-worn plaques, markers and monuments on the Marshall campus, presented to the school by various student organizations and graduating classes. At least 11 have been located and identified in the inventory.

Dr. Barker has asked that the markers be refurbished and restored to the best condition possible. Marshall students have given proudly to MU and these reminders of alumni should be an important part of Marshall's present, Dr. Barker indicated.

ATTENTION FACULTY!

The attention of the faculty is drawn to the new policy of faculty loans of Library materials (see Faculty Manual - p. 17). Due to the press of an extraordinarily large amount of work at the loan desk, it may be very difficult to provide the faculty with a list of books still checked out in their names. The volume of such an undertaking could be tremendously reduced if faculty members would make an effort to return or renew their materials on or before the end of the semester, according to Kenneth Slack, director of libraries.

The new policy has enabled the Library to clear the card catalog of many dead cards for books that were charged to faculty and lost many years ago. Clearing the catalog or replacing the titles when possible has eliminated many frustrations in using our collections. Most faculty members have responded favorably to this new policy and have paid for the books that they could not return. There remains a few faculty members who have considerable numbers of books charged in their names which evidently they cannot account for. It would be appreciated if some accounting could be made on or before the end of this semester.

Williams granted leave

Duncan Williams, professor of English at Marshall, will assume the position of Director of Research for the Farmington Educational Trust, Oxford, England, on Jan. 1, 1973. The Trust functions as an advisory body to British universities, teacher training colleges, and schools in matters dealing with curriculum and other related affairs.

Professor Williams will be on leave from the Marshall faculty while serving in England and will resume his teaching duties on the MU campus at the beginning of the fall semester, 1973.

Professor Williams also has been named editor of the "Farmington Journal." According to Williams, "The first issue of the journal will appear in May/June 1973 and will appear thereafter at six-month intervals."

Williams is the author of the controversial "Trousered Apes," published in 1971 in London and published this month in the United States by Arlington House Publishers. "Trousered Apes" is a study of the influence of literature on society.

Facilities to close

Recreational facilities at Gullickson Hall will officially close Sunday, Dec. 17 at 6 p.m. and will not reopen until Thursday, Jan. 11 at 3 p.m., according to Larry Belknap, director of recreation and intramural sports.

MU NEWCOMER

Harrell O. Martin, custodian with buildings and grounds, is a recent newcomer to the Marshall campus.

Marshall University administrators, faculty, staff, and students welcome you!

Change of address

Bruce C. Davis, instructor of sociology, has moved to Proctorville, Ohio. His new home telephone number is 617-886-7425.

INSTITUTIONAL APPOINTMENTS

President John G. Barker recently reviewed Marshall's current affiliations with national educational organizations. "The review," said Barker, "has indicated that the interest in Marshall University in these organizations is a legitimate and significant one."

As a result of the decision to continue memberships, Dr. Barker has made the following institutional appointments: Dr. William K. Easley, vice president for academic affairs, will serve as Marshall's representative to the American Council on Education; Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, director of institutional self-study, to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; Dr. Robert B. Hayes, dean of teachers college, to the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, and the West Virginia Advisory Council on Teacher Education and Professional Standards; Josephine Fidler, acquisitions librarian, to the American Association of University Women; Dr. Francis K. Aldred, associate professor of history, to Woodrow Wilson Fellowship; Dr. John R. Warren, professor of biological sciences, to Fulbright Scholarship; Dr. Edward S. Hanrahan, chairman of the chemistry department, to Rhodes Scholarship; Dr. Paul D. Stewart, chairman of political science department, to The Danforth Foundation; Robert J. Dils, associate professor of science, to West Virginia Educational Association; Dr. Beverly Cortes, associate professor of speech, to West Virginia Educational Association, and Dr. Bernard Queen, professor of curriculum and instruction, to Region III Early Childhood Board.

Faculty committee reports action

The Academic Planning & Standards Committee met Tuesday, Nov. 21, and approved Music 199 abcd and 399 abcd (Harp). Also approved:

New form for submitting course changes, additions and deletions. The new forms are now available in the Office of Academic Affairs. Any new proposals regarding courses should be submitted on these new forms. Any proposed changes in process must be supplemented by adding the following information: availability of staff; library materials; facilities; equipment; estimated class size; planned frequency of offering; and possible duplication of courses. Additionally the committee is enforcing the long standing rule that all new courses recommended must be accompanied by a one-page course outline. Any questions may be directed to the chairman of the committee, Dr. Robert Alexander, associate professor of management.

The Academic Planning & Standards Committee met on Dec. 5 and approved the following:

Deletion: Mkt. 436 - Marketing Institution and Channels
Added: Mkt. 437 - Consumer Behavior
Considered: P.E. 120 - Self Defense as possible addition (action pending).

Student excused

Please excuse William Hutchison from classes Dec. 7 through Dec. 18.

Charles E. Adams, assistant professor of sociology, and Mrs. Joan Ross, Executive Director of the Southwestern Community Action Council, have prepared and had approved by the U.S. Office of Education, Drug Education Division, a mini-grant to send six persons from the community to a two-week training seminar. Mr. Hutchison will be attending the seminar at the Marjorie Webster College in Washington, D.C.

WALTER E. REGULA, associate professor of education, participated in a meeting of the State Mathematics Committee held at North Bend State Park on Dec. 7. The major concerns of the committee were the revision of the state guidelines for the high school mathematics curriculum and the establishment of guidelines for advanced placement.

Dr. Regula is presently the president of the West Virginia Council of Teachers of Mathematics and represents that organization on the Advisory Committee.

DR. FU TUNG CHEN, chairman of the accounting department, KYLE G. McMULLEN, associate professor of accounting, NEAL ADKINS, instructor of accounting, and WILLIAM RADIG, assistant professor of accounting, attended a seminar on "The Future of Accounting Education" at Hawks Nest State Park on Monday, Nov. 27. McMullen participated as a discussion leader for the morning session of the seminar.

DR. JOSEPH S. LA CASCIA, chairman of the economics department, has been invited by the School of Business of John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio, to speak at a seminar there.

The topic of the seminar will be "Economics of the Steel Industry" and will be held on the campus of John Carroll University Jan. 10, 11 and 12.

The seminar is being co-sponsored by the American Iron and Steel Institute. Approximately 75 people from the steel industry and the academic world are expected to attend.

The scheduled talks, panel presentations and small group discussions will deal with marketing, environmental control and material resources with respect to the steel industry.

This is the second seminar of this type in which Dr. La Cascia has participated.

DR. SOO BOCK CHOI, professor of political science, has had an article published in the Nov. issue of "Illinois Quarterly." The article is "Structural Principles of Chinese Political Tradition."

DUNCAN WILLIAMS, professor of English and author of "Trousered Apes," spoke to the Huntington chapter of the American Association of University Women Saturday, Dec. 2, on the topic "Reactions in the United Kingdom and United States on the 'Trousered Apes'."

He was convocation speaker Monday, Dec. 4, at West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon. His topic was "Education for What?"

He was also the featured speaker at the West Virginia Wesleyan Literary Luncheon on Tuesday, Dec. 5. His topic was "The New Impuritans."

Editorials on the "Trousered Apes" appeared in the International Herald Tribune of Paris and The Cincinnati Enquirer on Nov. 11 and Nov. 19 respectively.

HAROLD T. MURPHY, associate professor of modern languages, attended the meeting of the National Association of Language Laboratory Directors in Atlanta, Georgia, Nov. 23-26. The meeting was held in conjunction with the meeting of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages and the Southern Conference on Language Teaching.

DR. SARA CHAPMAN, associate professor of English, has had an article accepted for publication in the "Arizona Quarterly," a special issue devoted to Henry James. Dr. Chapman's article is "The 'Obsession of Egotism' in Henry James' 'A Round of Visits'."

DR. WALTER H. PERL, professor of German, will be the chairman and discussion leader of a literary seminar at the annual meeting of the Modern Language Association Thursday, Dec. 28, at 10:30 a.m. at the New York Hilton. The topic will be "Problems of Hofmannsthal Research."

Dr. Perl will also present a paper on "Rilke's French Poetry: the problems of bilinguality" for the comparative literature group, Franco-German relations, on Friday, Dec. 29, at 10:30 a.m. in the Regents Room of the New York Hilton. The paper will be presented in the English language.

JOHN CALLEBS, associate professor of social studies, and Bill Watson, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, participated in a freshman seminar at Bethany College Thursday, Nov. 30. The topic of the seminar was "Learning Politics through Politicking." According to Callebs, the seminar was a candid discussion of campaign strategies and techniques in the Moore-Rockefeller race. Fifteen students participated in the discussion which lasted from 2:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

MARILYN PUTZ, associate professor of English, has helped in the planning of a worktext for use in the teaching of college remedial English. The effort was centered in the Remedial English Survey of Radford College. The book is entitled "Preparation for Better Writing" and was recently published by William C. Brown Publishers.

"Many outstanding directors of remedial work and instructors of remedial classes helped in the planning of the worktext. Professor Putz was outstanding in this assistance; therefore, her name is listed among those to whom a great debt is owed in the 'Acknowledgements' section of the book," said Earl W. Thomas of Radford.

DR. DOROTHY HICKS, chairman of the women's physical education department, became president of the West Virginia College Association of Health and Physical Education at the annual meeting Dec. 1-2 at Blackwater Falls, W. Va.

DR. RAM N. SINGH, associate professor of sociology, has reviewed a book entitled, "Families in East and West," edited by Rueben Hill and Rene Konig. This book review will appear in the February issue of the "Journal of Marriage and the Family."

Dr. Singh also reviewed Paul Ehrlich and Ann Ehrlich's "Population Resources and Environment: Issues in Human Ecology," which will appear in the Fall issue of "The Community Development Society Journal."

DR. ROBERT P. ALEXANDER, associate professor of management, appeared on the WHTN-TV Noon News Show for a seven-minute live interview on Nov. 13. Alexander assisted in installing Alumni Chapters in Point Pleasant and Beckley on Nov. 18 and Dec. 1, respectively.

On Nov. 21 he addressed a group of about 350 high school seniors at the Westmoreland Baptist Church.

Dr. Alexander also appeared as a principal speaker on the program at the 14th annual Management Conference in Portsmouth, Ohio, on Dec. 2. More than 350 managers of the greater Portsmouth area were in attendance.

Presently he is conducting a five-week Management Seminar for the Tri-State Management Association which will conclude on Dec. 14.

CHARLES D. WEBB, associate professor of accounting, and NEAL G. ADKINS, instructor of accounting, recently attended the Fifth Annual Seminar "Trends in the Education of Accounting" of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University at Blacksburg, Va.

The purpose of the seminar was to view and discuss new innovative techniques of teaching accounting and discussion of proposed curricular movements in accounting education. Approximately 150 accounting educators were in attendance.

DR. CHARLES I. JONES, professor of vocational-technical education; DR. TOM ALLEN, JR., assistant professor of vocational-technical education, and GEORGE CULNON, assistant professor of vocational-technical education, attended the National Conference of the American Vocational Association held in Chicago from Dec. 1 to 5.

Student scholarships

Prichard School Board Honor Award scholarships in the amount of $1,500 each have been awarded to six Marshall University students, Student Financial Aid Director Frank B. Cummings Jr. announced.

In addition, 32 students have been selected to receive $500 Prichard School Board Scholarships.

The grants are being made as a result of a $25,000 gift to Marshall by the trustees of the Prichard School Board.

The gift stipulates that three honor award scholarships "shall be awarded to the three most promising junior year students for use in their senior year and three shall be awarded to three graduate students recommended by the dean of the Graduate School. The awarding of all six scholarships shall be done by an officer of the Financial Aid Office."

Selected for the three $1,500 Graduate Honor Awards were Danny E. Hubbard of Huntington, a graduate of Williamson High School; Sherrie Meade of Hamlin, and Jay Sullivan of Barboursville.

Designated for the three $1,500 Senior Honor Awards were Mary J. Brenner of Huntington, Mary Bulgarelli of Huntington, and Robin Wills of Huntington.

Selected for the $500 scholarships were:

FRESHMEN:

Brenda Lou Adkins, Michael H. Albrink, Patricia Lynn Bazel, Janet L. Beard, Deborah L. Callison, Sherilyn S. Hedrick, Deborah L. Johnson, and Carol L. Richardson.

SOPHOMORES:

Marilyn Davis, Nancy S. Holcomb, Sammie Lambert, Rebecca L. Landau, Marsha McIlwain, Edwin A. Novak, Deborah J. Nutter, and Sharon S. Walls.

JUNIORS:

Cheryl J. Burns, Cinda Ellen Foglesong, Catherine E. Greenwell, Nancy G. Harbour, Kathryn L. Johnson, Susan M. Madden, Michael D. Moore, and Keith W. Stump.

SENIORS:

Rebecca Louise Bailey, Ellen H. Brown, Rebecca J. Burris, Mark C. Campbell, Janet L. Dooley, David L. DuVall, Cofer D. Kayser, and Dana C. Stephens.

One of the requirements of the Prichard School Board trustees was that the awards go to students from West Virginia or from Lawrence County, Ohio.

Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year

November 8, 1972

TO: Faculty and Staff of Marshall University

FROM: Ede Ashworth, Student Travel Bureau Coordinator

This year why not give yourself Spain for Christmas? The Student Center Travel Committee, under the auspices of Student Government, is offering a ten-day trip to Torremolinos on Spain's Costa del Sol for faculty, staff, students and their immediate families, December 27-January 5. The low cost of only $266.00 covers reservations on a regularly scheduled Air-France flight from New York to Paris with connecting flight to Malaga, Spain, and on the return trip, a day's stopover in Paris. New apartments with private bath, kitchen, and individual beds for four are provided in Torremolinos-Fuengirola; hotel rooms, in Paris. There are optional side trips to Granada, Ronda and Tangiers available at minimum cost.

The trip is being arranged by Group Travel Associates of Chicago, a reputable firm with a good record of service. The fee for this trip is due thirty days before departure.

Please mention this opportunity to your students. If you would like to receive more information concerning the "Espana Special", please contact Richard Dunfee, Office of Student Activities and Cultural Events, Memorial Student Center, telephone 696-6770, or Ede Ashworth, 1208 Twin Towers West, telephone 696-9753.

Thank you for your kind attention.
