Manufacturer establishes scholarship

Corbin, Ltd., quality clothing manufacturer which operates two large plants in the Tri-State area, and the Corbin family have contributed $12,000 to the Marshall University Foundation to establish an endowed scholarship at Marshall University. Announcement of the gift was made by Dr. Keith L. Scott, Marshall vice president for institutional advancement.

Scott said the Lee Corbin Endowed Scholarship in Business Administration was designated in memory of

Edgar Dale Award presented to Terry

Dr. Eleanor H. Terry, associate professor of educational media at Marshall University, has been named West Virginia's recipient of the 1985 Edgar Dale Award by the Association for Educational Communications and Technology (AECT).

She received the award during the AECT national convention held Jan. 17-21 in Las Vegas, Nev.

The award, named for Dr. Edgar Dale, professor emeritus of Ohio State University's Department of Education, is presented annually to persons from AECT's Region V on the basis of meritorious service and outstanding contributions both locally and nationally in the field of educational media.

Region V includes West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan. One person from each of these states received the prestigious award.

A native of Wayne County, W.Va., Dr. Terry joined the Marshall faculty in 1971. She earned her B.A. and M.A. degrees from Marshall and holds a Master of Science in library science from the University of Kentucky. She received her Ed.D. in higher education administration in 1984 from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

She presently serves as membership secretary and exhibits chairwoman for the West Virginia Educational Media Association, the state AECT affiliate.

Dr. Terry has been a member of the West Virginia Library Association, the American Association of University Women, the West Virginia Middle School Association, the West Virginia Association of College Teachers of Education, Beta Phi Mu library science international honorary, Phi Delta Kappa higher education honorary and Kappa Delta Pi education honorary.

She also is a member of the national AECT scholarship committee and has authored several articles in the field of library media services.

While attending the AECT national convention, Dr. Terry presented a paper entitled "Public Relations Strategies for Librarians."

Leon J. ("Lee") Corbin, who joined his father, Nathan I. Corbin, and his brother, Howard Corbin, in founding the firm in 1946. Lee Corbin died in 1983, a decade after the death of Nathan Corbin. Howard Corbin continues to serve as chairman of the board of Corbin, Ltd.

Corbin, Ltd. President Brandt L. Ross, who arranged the establishment of the scholarship, described Lee Corbin as "a marketing genius" who played a key role in the company's spectacular growth. The company was moved to Huntington in 1957 and began operations here with 40 employees. It now operates plants in Huntington and in Cannonsburg, Ky., and has administrative offices in Ashland, Ky. The firm currently has more than 1,000 employees.

"I believe it is especially significant that this endowment is in business administration, since it honors the memory of a truly outstanding businessman," Scott said. "This endowment will preserve the name of Lee Corbin in perpetuity, and at the same time it will assist generations of deserving Marshall University students."

Scott said the $12,000 gift will be invested by the foundation and that annual proceeds from the investment will be used to provide scholarships to one or more qualified students in business administration each year.

Classic Players to perform here Jan. 30

The Classic Players, an ensemble of first-desk musicians from the Classic Chamber Orchestra of New York, will present a recital at Marshall University on Thursday, Jan. 30, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

Founded in 1978, the ensemble has performed a series of concerts at Alice Tully Hall in the Lincoln Center and has presented numerous concerts throughout the New York City area. The Classic Chamber Orchestra, from which the ensemble is drawn, performs for various opera and ballet companies.

The Classic Players' program includes standard chamber music favorites and one new composition which they are introducing on this tour. Susan Jolles, winner of the prestigious Naumberg Chamber Music Award, is the featured soloist with the ensemble.

The program is being sponsored by the Marshall Artists Series with partial funding from the Mid-Atlantic States Arts Consortium, the Arts and Humanities Division of the West Virginia Department of Culture and History and the National Endowment for the Arts.

General admission tickets are $5 and are available by contacting the Marshall Artists Series Office, 696-6656.

Regents present budget comparison

(The following report from the Board of Regents Advisory Council of Faculty was submitted by Dr. Francis K. Aldred, Marshall representative.)

As the legislature moves into the third week of its deliberations, the budget picture for the Board of Regents' control account for colleges and universities (Account 2790) and for the Marshall University School of Medicine (Account 2840) for fiscal year 86-87 looks like this:

Here follows a summary of the major aspects of the governor's budget recommendations for FY 1986-87:

The budget reduces college and university state support by $20,000,000 by requiring the board to use this amount of its interest income to offset funds previously provided by the state.

The budget includes funding for a 5% or $700 salary increase, whichever is greater, for all employees.

The budget does not provide $1,300,000 in state funds to offset like amount of faculty improvement fees built into faculty salary scales in current year pursuant to senate bill no. 612.* These fees will not be available in fiscal year 1986-87 and unless additional state funds are appropriated, some faculty salaries will have to be reduced or student fees raised.

The budget includes authority to transfer up to 5% among line items, except personal services and the board central office account.

The budget reduces current expense budgets at colleges and universities and med schools by $1,059,613.

The budget includes no increases in any other item and no funding for any of the board's requested new items. It does provide a new appropriation of $2,000,000 for the Cancer Research Center at the West Virginia University Medical Center.

The budget does not include funding for required fringe benefit matching payments for salary increase ($600,000), in fact it reduces current expense budgets as previously indicated.

The numbers speak for themselves. We must therefore be swift in communicating our views regarding these recommendations to members of the legislature, and to the governor as well.

Salvation Army names Slaatte 1986 chairman

Dr. Howard A. Slaatte, professor of philosophy at Marshall University, has been named chairman of the 1986 Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Anticipating another year of progress in the Salvation Army's service to the community, Dr. Slaatte said that in addition to aiding over 500 families locally this past year, the organization had a successful flood relief program that helped many families during the recent flooding throughout the state.

"Huntington's Lieutenant James Amburgey was an admirable leader in helping victims at the scenes of disasters," said Dr. Slaatte.

Dr. Slaatte also announced that the public is invited to attend the annual Salvation Army Banquet on Thursday, Feb. 6, at 6:30 p.m. at the Woman's Club building near Ritter Park. "We will have a fine banquet program and expect over 200 people to attend," Slaatte said.

Tickets for the banquet are available from members of the Salvation Army Advisory Board or by contacting the Salvation Army Office, 529-2401.

Swing show scheduled

The Manhattan Rhythm Kings will appear in concert at Marshall University on Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

Sponsored by the Forum Division of the Marshall Artists Series, the Manhattan Rhythm Kings sing, tap-dance and play a variety of instruments as they entertain their audiences with a wide variety of numbers that express the American music scene from ragtime to the jazz of the 1920s and the swing era of the 1930s and '40s.

The group has appeared with Tommy Tune and the Houston Pops and performed at the Kool Jazz Festival. They have made several television appearances on shows such as "The Today Show," "Entertainment Tonight" and "As the World Turns."

General admission tickets for the concert are $6 and are available at the Marshall Artists Series Office, 696-6656.

MU professor to serve as Saudi Arabian consultant

Dr. David Allan Stern, associate professor of mining, occupational and transportation safety, will serve as a consultant to the Saudi Arabian Ministry of Transportation-Traffic Department during 1986.

As a transportation safety specialist, Dr. Stern will make recommendations for the establishment of traffic and personal safety programs.

Stern and his wife, Joyce, a staff technologist with the Tri-State Red Cross, and their daughter, Angela, a freshman at Fairland High School, will reside in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, during his assignment.

Dr. Stern has been affiliated with Marshall University since 1977. He has served on the Governor's Safety Belt Coalition and is president of the West Virginia Safety and Driver Education Association. He is a member of various other professional and civic organizations and is an alumnus of Fullerton College, the University of Hawaii, Miami (Ohio) University and Texas A & M University where he obtained his doctorate.

Women's seminar set

"Birth Control" will be the topic for the Marshall University Women's Center lunchbag seminar on Wednesday, Jan. 29, from noon to 1 p.m. in Room 143 Prichard Hall.

Carol Herbitter, a graduate assistant in the Student Health Education Program, will lead the discussion. To obtain further details contact the Women's Center, 696-3112.

Cabinet discusses staff development

(The following report on the Jan. 17 meeting of the President's Cabinet was submitted by Rainey Duke, faculty representative.)

Below is a summary of items of interest to the faculty discussed by the President's Cabinet on January 17, 1986:

Faculty and Staff Development: Bill Coffey gave an update regarding activities in this area. There will be a conference on April 13-14 sponsored by the West Virginia Association of Academic Deans to review subject areas of future conferences: faculty evaluation, faculty development, the role of a liberal arts curriculum in future education, etc. Workshops to identify other common concerns will also take place. In the fall other workshops and conferences presented by visiting consultants will look more fully at these concerns.

A workshop for chairpersons will also take place sometime this spring. Further, an ad hoc Faculty Development Committee, comprised of the chairs of the faculty development committees of each school/college, has drafted a philosophy, procedures and guideline which will be distributed to deans and chairs for faculty development projects.

Rhodes Scholars: In response to a request from C.T. Mitchell that "a faculty committee be established to coordinate (the Rhodes Scholar's Program), seek out qualified students, assist them in preparing applications and generally promote the program," the Cabinet suggested the already-existing Student Conduct and Welfare Committee handle this.

Faculty Fellowships, Grants: President Nitzschke indicated greater coordination and dissemination of information was also needed for faculty. Alan Gould and Rainey Duke were asked to meet with the ad hoc Faculty Development Committee to discuss this point (luckily the ad hoc committee met at 3:00 that afternoon and made a series of recommendations: (1) that a full-time grants officer be hired to coordinate and computerize all faculty fellowships, grants, foreign exchanges, etc.; (2) that the existing research board be the "faculty connection" to the administrative end; (3) that temporarily, at least, a central bulletin board be established where information regarding grants, etc., be posted).

The speaker at this January 17 meeting was Governor Arch Moore. His visit was timely, especially since it enabled several misunderstandings regarding the budget to be cleared up. He noted, for example, that he restored to the higher education budget the $1,300,000 to offset the Faculty Improvement Fee, once he discovered this oversight. He claimed that once the full budget is presented, higher education will see that there have been no cuts to it. He noted he supported fully authority to transfer up to five percent among line items.
