

12-12-1985

Marshall University News Letter, December 12, 1985

Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu_news_letter

Recommended Citation

Office of University Relations, "Marshall University News Letter, December 12, 1985" (1985). Marshall University News Letter 1972-1986. Paper 329.

http://mds.marshall.edu/oldmu_news_letter/329

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marshall Publications at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in Marshall University News Letter 1972-1986 by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu, martj@marshall.edu.

Holiday Greetings

Dear Students, Faculty and Staff:

At this joyous and wonderful time of the year, Linda, David and I want to thank all of you for your friendship, dedication and support.

We truly appreciate your efforts and hard work and all of the things you have done to help our family and the larger family that is Marshall University.

Last year, I told you that your warm welcome and spirit of cooperation would never be forgotten by the Nitzschke family. We have not forgotten, but have even more to be thankful for and remember because of all of you.

We are grateful for everything you have done and continue to do for us and the university. May you have a beautiful holiday season and a new year filled with happiness.

Very sincerely,
Dale F. Nitzschke
President

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY

NEWS LETTER

OFFICE OF UNIVERSITY RELATIONS • MARSHALL UNIVERSITY • HUNTINGTON, WV 25701

Dec. 12, 1985

Medical school names associate dean

William P. Bristol, M.D., has been named associate dean for academic affairs for the Marshall School of Medicine, Dean Lester R. Bryant has announced.

Bristol is a professor of pediatrics at Mercer University School of Medicine, where he also served as dean for four years. Currently he is on sabbatical leave, working on a master's degree in business administration at Mercer and continuing his medical practice. He will assume his full-time duties at Marshall Jan. 2.

"We are fortunate indeed to have attracted someone of Bill Bristol's qualifications and experience to Marshall," Dr. Bryant said. "In addition to his administrative experience, he has special expertise which will greatly benefit our school in the areas of rural health care and in the business aspects of medicine."

Bristol said the school's focus on primary care for rural areas strongly influenced his decision to come to Marshall. "I have had throughout my career a strong interest in rural health, and that was my primary reason for joining the faculty at Marshall," he said.

Before going to Mercer in 1981, Bristol had held assistant dean posts at the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and at the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine. He also was coordinator for health care education for Medical Care Development, Inc., in Augusta, Maine, where he was program director for rural community health centers. While at North Dakota, he was associate chief of staff for education at the Fargo Veterans Administration Center.

He is a trustee of the American Rural Health Association, a fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics, and a member of the Society of Teachers of Family Medicine and the National Rural Health Care Association.

Bristol earned the M.D. degree from the University of Michigan Medical School in 1965, and served his internship and residencies at Bronson Methodist Hospital in Kalamazoo, Mich., and Denver (Colo.) Children's Hospital, where he was Resident of the Year in 1968.

Checks can be picked up

Payroll checks for the pay period ending Dec. 31 will be available in the Security Office, 1819 Fifth Ave., from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Dec. 31.

If you do not pick up your check on Dec. 31, your payroll check will be available on the second day of January through the normal distribution process. If you have questions about the check distribution, contact the Payroll Office, 696-6457.

Directories are available

The 1985-86 Marshall University Faculty/Staff Directory is now available. You may pick up your copy of the directory at the Office of University Relations, Old Main 102.

Dr. Loraine J. Duke (left), chairwoman of the Marshall University Council, is pictured above presenting a "Resolution of Appreciation" to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall T. Reynolds who recently made a contribution of $30,000 to the university to set up an endowment which will be used to recognize outstanding teaching at Marshall.

Spears named manager of TV services

H. Keith Spears, a member of the Marshall University faculty since 1979, has been appointed general manager of the university's Instructional Television Services, according to Dr. Robert F. Maddox, associate vice president for academic affairs and dean of the Graduate School.

An assistant professor of speech, Spears also has served as faculty advisor and general manager of the campus

Director of Autism Center attends Paris Conference

Dr. Gabrielle du Verglas, director of the Autism Training Center at Marshall University, was selected by the National Society for Children and Adults with Autism (NSAC) to represent the United States at an international conference on autism held in Paris Dec. 11-13.

"Dr. du Verglas was an ideal representative," said Roy Morgan, executive director of NSAC, "especially when you consider her position as chairwoman of the NSAC International Committee."

The conference, which was attended by invitation only, included a three-day scientific colloquium with approximately 150 research scientists and professionals who are internationally known for their work regarding the causes and treatment of autism.

The meetings were followed by a one-day session open to the general public on Saturday, Dec. 14. The public session disseminated summary information of the conference to a wider audience and involved panel discussions on "Autism and Ethics" and "Education and/or Therapy," according to Dr. du Verglas.

Autism is neurological developmental disability which typically appears during the first three years of life, and is characterized by deficits in communication and social skills, and by uneven or delayed rates of development in other areas.

Mori publishes text

Dr. Allen A. Mori, dean of the Marshall University College of Education, is the co-author of a new textbook dealing with teaching mildly handicapped junior and senior high school students.

The book, "Teaching Secondary Students with Mild Learning and Behavior Problems: Methods, Materials, Strategies," was published by Aspen Systems Corporation, Rockville, Md., and was co-authored by Dr. Lowell F. Masters, coordinator of special education services for the Clark County School District, Las Vegas, Nev.

The text, Mori's sixth, was designed as an instructional resource for those who have accepted the challenge of educating mildly handicapped students, Mori said.

It covers learning strategies, compensatory instruction, vocational preparation, tutorial methods, social skills development and remedial techniques.

"Our goal was to provide a reference to selected practical and proven ideas in this area," Mori said.

Dr. Mori has worked with handicapped children and adults in state institutions and public schools. A native of Pennsylvania, he became dean of the Marshall College of Education in 1984. He formerly served as a professor of special education and counseling and educational psychology and foundations at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

radio station, WMUL-FM, since joining the faculty.

"Keith Spears is an exceptionally talented individual and has the ability to work well with people at all levels," Maddox said. "With the importance of television as an instructional tool increasing every day, I'm pleased that he has agreed to assume the challenges facing Marshall's Instructional Television Service."

Spears succeeds David Gillmore, who resigned last spring to move to Houston, Texas.

A native of Wayne County, Spears received his Bachelor of Arts degree in biological sciences from Marshall in 1970. He earned the Master of Arts degree in educational broadcasting from Central Michigan University in 1974 and an M.A. degree in communication arts from Marshall in 1976.

He worked in the Wayne County schools system from 1970 to 1979, first as a teacher of biology and general science and later as instructional television producer for county schools and manager of the system's radio station, WFGH, at Fort Gay High School. Spears also has operated his own public relations company, Twelve-Pole Productions, staging concerts for various county fairs and commercial establishments, and producing electronic media commercials and print advertisements. He has produced documentaries and public affairs programs for WPBY-TV, as well as a video program about Marshall's College of Liberal Arts.

Personnel Committee meets

(The following report on the Dec. 3, 1985, meeting of the Faculty Personnel Committee was submitted by Dr. David L. Dawson, secretary.)

1. Minutes of the Nov. 12, 1985, meeting were approved.
2. Several announcements were made.
3. Correspondence from the acting vice president for academic affairs was read. These stated that:
 - a. The reported Greenbook typographical error (Chap. III, Sec. IV.B.3) has been noted and will be corrected in the next edition;
 - b. The salary inequity review committee will meet on Dec. 4, 1985.
4. The results of a meeting between the FPC chair and the University Council for review of the promotion and tenure procedure was discussed.
5. The faculty sick leave policy, as communicated to the deans in a letter of Nov. 25, 1985, was discussed.
6. The Greenbook statement relating to giving reasons for terminating probationary faculty was discussed. The FPC will seek legal interpretation initially.
7. Correspondence from a chairperson and a dean relating to justification of a possible hiring inequity was discussed. The FPC will correspond with the acting vice president for academic affairs concerning this matter.
8. A proposed procedure for faculty recruitment was distributed. The chair asked that committee members forward comments to him.
9. A potential transfer of tenured faculty from one of the smaller BOR institutions to MU was discussed.
10. Several members of the FPC noted that they had either not been given copies of parts 2 & 3 of the annual faculty evaluation form, or had been denied a copy when requested. The FPC will communicate with the appropriate administrators concerning this.
11. A tentative meeting place and time for spring semester was decided.

Day-care forms sent

The Marshall University Personnel Office has distributed copies of a questionnaire designed to collect information about the day-care needs and problems of West Virginia state employees, according to Paul J. Michaud, director of personnel.

If you did not receive a copy through the campus mail and are interested in completing the questionnaire, contact the Marshall Personnel Office, 696-6455.

Thomas appointed director of CERI

William W. Thomas of Huntington, a retired industrial executive and former faculty member in Marshall University's Community College, has been appointed director of the West Virginia Board of Regents' Center for Education and Research with Industry (CERI).

Announcement of the appointment was made today by Dr. Robert F. Maddox, Marshall's associate vice president for academic affairs and dean of the Graduate School. Marshall operates the statewide education/economic development program in behalf of the Board of Regents.

Thomas retired as general superintendent of Huntington Alloys Inc. in 1979 after 39 years with the com-

MU students are finalists

Marshall University Theatre students received 10 out of 22 finalist positions in a recent adjudication held at Alderson-Broadus College, Philippi, to select representatives from West Virginia to the 1986 Southeastern Theatre Conference auditions.

The conference auditions are considered major opportunities for summer employment in theatres throughout the south, according to Dr. N.B. East, chairman of the MU Theatre/Dance Department.

The Southeastern Theatre Conference will be held on the Marshall campus March 7-8, with approximately 90 professionals on hand to audition singers and dancers for summer employment.

The 10 Marshall students who qualified through the state screening adjudication include: Tina Beardsley, Ed Haeberlin, Barbara Brandt, Lynda Bland, Shelly Ramsey, Dwayne Johnson, Brian Patrick Moore, Bobbie Wyckoff, Joe Chrest and Steven Patrick Hesson.

The state screening auditions took place during the West Virginia Theatre Conference annual convention. The Marshall students, the most from any single institution, were selected from among 39 students from colleges and universities throughout West Virginia.

Library hours set

The James E. Morrow Library will be open additional hours for study purposes only through Tuesday, Dec. 17. No material check-out or reference services will be available during the extended hours.

The library schedule will be Friday, Dec. 13, 7:45 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 15, 1 p.m. to midnight; Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 16-17, 7:45 a.m. to midnight.

The administrative holiday schedule begins Wednesday, Dec. 18. The library will be open Wednesday, Dec. 18, from 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Thursday and Friday, Dec. 19-20, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The library will be closed from Saturday, Dec. 21 through Wednesday, Jan. 1. It will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Jan. 2-3, and will be closed Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 4-5.

Monday, Jan. 6, through Friday, Jan. 10, the library will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. It will be closed Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 11-12.

Regular library hours will resume Monday, Jan. 13.

Staff Council plans meeting

The Marshall University Staff Council will meet on Thursday, Dec. 19 at 1:30 p.m. in Memorial Student Center Room 2W37, according to Gloria J. Rickman, council president.

pany. He became a full-time faculty member at Marshall that year, having served two years as a part-time instructor in the Community College. He served as coordinator of the college's Industrial Supervision and Management program and retired as an assistant professor in 1984.

A World War II U.S. Marine Corps veteran, Thomas earned his B.S. degree in chemistry from Marshall in 1951. He received his Master of Science degree in vocational education from Marshall in 1982 and has been admitted to a doctoral degree program at West Virginia University.

"I am pleased that an individual with Mr. Thomas' outstanding credentials in both industry and education has agreed to undertake this challenging assignment," Maddox said. "Both of us are excited about CERI's potential impact in efforts to improve West Virginia's economic development."

CERI was established by the Board of Regents to encourage and coordinate efforts of the state's public colleges and universities in contributing to the long-term economic development of the state. Marshall was asked to assume responsibility for the operation last summer and the program was transferred to Huntington.

As part of his responsibilities, Thomas will organize and coordinate a network of "CERI associates" at each of the participating institutions of higher education and will establish cooperative relationships with various economic development organizations in the state.

He also is to develop and implement a statewide technical and research assistance program using the faculty and staff resources of the colleges and universities. Emphasis is to be placed upon direct provision of faculty expertise to specific problems, basic and applied research, and employee and management training needs.

Three Community College instructors pass exam

Three Marshall University Community College instructors recently passed the Advanced Cardiac Life Support Instructor's Course which was sponsored in Huntington by the West Virginia affiliate of the American Heart Association, according to Sarah Denman, assistant dean of the Marshall Community College.

The three instructors were Jeffrey Carter, an emergency medical technician, paramedic and skills instructor at Marshall; Greg Kyle, an R.N. at Cabell-Huntington Hospital and clinical instructor at MU; and David Miller, a medical intensive care paramedic and part-time instructor at the Community College.

Denman said that this was the first course of its kind in West Virginia in which there was a 100 percent pass rate. Approximately 48 students participated in the course.

Two Marshall staff members, Mark King, coordinator of emergency medical technology, and Jim Marra, coordinator of the Marshall EMS squad, served as instructors for the program.

Proposals being accepted

The Honors Council is continuing to invite proposals for interdisciplinary honors seminars for the fall of 1986 and the spring of 1987, according to Dr. Joan F. Gilliland, director of the Honors Program.

Seminar proposals need to be submitted by early next semester so the course can be included in the fall schedule. To obtain further details contact the Honors Program Office, 696-5421.

Director named for Honors Program

Dr. Joan F. Gilliland, associate professor of English at Marshall, has been named director of the university's Honors Program, according to Dr. Robert F. Maddox, associate vice president of academic affairs and dean of the Graduate School.

A member of the Marshall faculty since 1980, Dr. Gilliland received her B.A. degree in English from Maryville College, her M.A. in English from the University of Tennessee and her Ph.D. from Vanderbilt University.

"A university's honors program should be at the heart of everything the institution does academically, attracting the best students and drawing the best teachers for stimulating and intellectually demanding courses," said Dr. Gilliland. "The honors program should be highly visible both within and outside the university."

Dr. Gilliland previously taught at Motlow State Community College, Vanderbilt University where she received a teaching fellowship, and Salem College.

She has been a member of the Modern Language Association, the West Virginia Association of College English Teachers, the West Virginia Shakespeare and Renaissance Association, the Carolinas Symposium on British Studies, the Southeastern Renaissance Conference, the Milton Society of America and the Popular Culture Association.

The recipient of Marshall Foundation grants for faculty development in 1981-83, 1985 and 1986, Dr. Gilliland has also received two Benedum Foundation grants and a James Still Fellowship from the University of Kentucky. She has published numerous papers and articles on a wide variety of subjects.

"In short," Dr. Gilliland said, "the honors program director should be a leader in the pursuit of excellence."

Excused absences. . .

Absences have been excused by the respective college deans for the following:

NOV. 21—Patricia Chambers, Peggy DeLaney, Becky Bennett, Tim Click, Lisa Buckner, Sam Winley, Gail Vance, Susan Ware, Hayden Lloyd, Cheryl Persinger, Donald Mongold, Sherry Fertman, Elizabeth Zain, Remona Robertson, Linda Smith, Carl Fodor, John Halford, Emelina Ramirez, Roy Sumlin, Marsha Brennan, James Carte, Sara Elmore, Matt Hall, Natalie Adams, Melisa Reed, Toni Dolan, Beth Heishman, John Mitchell, Keith Turner, Vanessa J. Kryzak, Claude R. Hurst Jr., Pollyanna Cryser, Melissa Cornfeld, Rachel Mease, Tammy Fullen, Terry Kimble and Michelle Rombo.

DEC. 10—Frank Barnett, John Hopkins, Hayden Lloyd, Amy McCallister, Jeff Patton, Tom Shriver, Wendy Smith and Earl Strohmeyer.

Emeritus Club to meet Dec. 18

The Marshall University Emeritus Club will meet Wednesday, Dec. 18, at 12:15 p.m. in the Shawkey Dining Room in the Memorial Student Center, according to Dr. A. Mervin Tyson.

There will be a program of Christmas music featuring Linda Eikum, instructor of music at Marshall, as the soloist.

Faculty and staff achievements

Dr. WILLIAM A. McDOWELL, chairman of the Department of Counseling and Rehabilitation, co-authored an article entitled "Alcoholism: The Problem Behind the Problem" which appeared in the fall issue (Vol. 8, No. 2) of "The Society of Gastrointestinal Assistants Journal."

Dr. CLAY McNEARNEY, professor of religious studies, attended the World Assembly of Religion held in New Jersey Nov. 15-21. He presented a paper in the area of "Spiritual Discipline and the Formation of Persons." The paper was titled "One Perspective Plus One Perspective Equals Three Perspectives."

Dr. CHARLES MABEE, chairman of the Department of Religious Studies, attended the annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature/American Academy of Religion held Nov. 22-26 in Anaheim, Ca. During the meeting, a gathering of 10 contributors to the "Studies in American Biblical Hermeneutics" project, of which Dr. MABEE is editor, was held. Four manuscripts will be subjected to the referring process in 1986.

Dr. ALLAN STERN, associate professor of mining, occupational and transportation safety, had a photograph he took this past summer in Paris published in the January issue of "Road Rider" magazine. "Road Rider" is a national publication read by motorcyclists throughout the United States.

Dr. GLEN DUNLAP, director of training and research at the Autism Training Center, was the principal author of a chapter entitled "Pervasive Developmental Disorders" that appears in the "Handbook of Clinical Behavior Therapy with Children," published by Dorsey Press and edited by Philip Bornstein and Alan Kazdin.

Dr. STEBBINS CHANDOR, chairman of pathology, represented Marshall at the World Congress of Anatomic and Clinical Pathology in Brighton, England, and recently attended the annual meeting of the Southeastern Division of the Association of Pathology Chairmen. He is serving on the program committee for the next World Congress of Anatomic and Clinical Pathology, scheduled for June 1987 in Washington, D.C.

Dr. WARREN L. DUMKE, Dr. THOMAS J. MANAKKIL, Dr. NICOLA ORSINI, and Dr. WESLEY L. SHANHOLTZER of the MU Physics and Physical Science Department attended the annual meetings of the Appalachian Section of the American Association of Physics Teachers held at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio, Oct. 25-26. Dr. MANAKKIL was re-elected as the Appalachian Section representative to the National Council of AAPT.

Dr. NEIL L. GIBBINS, professor and chairman of education administration, was recently awarded a 25 year service plaque from the Council of Educational Facilities Planner International.

LEONARD DEUTSCH, ROBERT GERKE, JOHN TEEL, JAMES PACK, IRA PLYBON, ERIC THORN and WILLIAM SULLIVAN, members of the MU English Department, attended the fall conference of the West Virginia Association of College English Teachers which was held Nov. 1-2. SULLIVAN served as president of the association for

(Continued on page 5)

Faculty/staff achievements (cont.)

1984-85. TEEL delivered a paper entitled "Trapped in West Virginia: The Stories of Breece Pancake."

Dr. ALLAN STERN, associate professor of mining occupational and transportation safety, attended the annual conference of the West Virginia Safety and Driver Education Association Nov. 3-4 at Twin Falls State Park. Dr. STERN, president of the association, presided over the conference meetings.

Dr. DANNY G. FULKS, professor of education, presented the Marshall University Library Archives 33 original, complete magazines and journals containing publications of his dating from 1966 to 1985. Journals represented in the collection included the "Columbus Dispatch Magazine," "Ohio Schools," the "Elementary School Journal," the "Herald Advertiser," the "Kentucky School Journal," "Pathway Magazine," "Changing Education," the "Educational Forum," "Barnell Loft Ltd.," the "Alabama Reader," the "Florida Reading Quarterly," "American School Board Journal," and the "Phi Delta Kappan."

THOMAS W. OLSON, associate professor of engineering and chairman of the MU Department of Engineering, was recently selected West Virginia's Engineer of the Year at the West Virginia Society of Professional Engineers annual convention held in Parkersburg.

VERNON R. PADGETT, assistant professor of psychology, recently completed his doctorate at Ohio State University.

Dr. JOSEPH WYATT, assistant professor of psychology, was elected to a two-year term as a Representative-at-Large to the Executive Council of the West Virginia Psychological Association. The election results were announced at the association's fall meeting held Oct. 18 in Wheeling.

KATHY I. HALL, secretary II for the departments of Classical Studies, Philosophy and Religious Studies, has received a scholarship to study in the humanities, with an emphasis on classical studies, from the educational fund of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, Chapter M, Huntington.

Dr. DINESH S. DAVE, assistant professor of management, has had a paper entitled "Relationship of Benchmark Tests and Price Among Microcomputers" accepted by Communication of ACM. The paper was co-authored by Dr. Sumit Sircar of the University of Texas at Arlington.

Dr. NANCY K. STUMP, assistant professor of modern languages, and SARA L. HENRY, instructor of modern languages, attended the ninth annual Conference on the Teaching of Foreign Languages and Literature held at Youngstown State University Oct. 25.

Dr. H. RICHARD EISENBEIS, associate professor of management, presented a paper entitled "A Task Contingent Model of Work Unit Design" to College of Business faculty and students at a research seminar sponsored by the College of Business Research Committee Oct. 30.

Marshall University was represented at the sixth annual International Studies Workshop sponsored by the West Virginia Consortium for Faculty and Course Development (FACDIS) by Professors CLAIR MATZ and JABIR ABBAS of the Political Science Department, MARIA CARMEN RIDDEL of Modern Languages and MAHLON BROWN, FRANK RIDDEL and CHARLES GRUBER of Social Studies. Professors MATZ and M.

RIDDEL had their students participate in a survey of study abroad programs for FACDIS. MATZ is the university's institutional representative to the consortium. The workshop was held Oct. 31 at the Sheraton Lakeview near Morgantown.

Dr. CHRISTOPHER DOLMETSCH, associate professor of modern languages, has contributed a review of E. Allen McCormick's "Germans in America: Aspects of German-American Relations in the Nineteenth Century" (New York: Columbia University Press, 1983) to the fall issue of the "The German Quarterly" (Vol. 58, No. 4).

KENNETH R. REFFEITT, library technical assistant II, has been listed in the authors' acknowledgement for a new historical work, "Pocahontas' Descendants," by Stuart E. Brown, Jr., Lorraine F. Myers and Eileen M. Chappel. The work is a revision, enlargement and extension of the list as set out by Wyndham Robertson's "Pocahontas and Her Descendants" first published in 1887. REFFEITT contributed several names for the list in connection with his preparation of a bibliography of Pocahontas.

A videotape program entitled "Transition: The Evolution of Psychiatric Care at Huntington State Hospital" produced by VIRGINIA BICKNELL and TIM MILLER, media specialists with the MU School of Medicine, has been selected by the State Department of Health to be used in its 1986 statewide campaign on physical and mental health in West Virginia. The program previously earned a commendation from the State Department of Health and Huntington State Hospital for its excellence and multi-purpose use.

Dr. ROBERT B. HAYES, past president and professor of educational administration at Marshall, recently published an article entitled "Athletic Reform: Is It Possible?" in the fall issue of "The School Law Newsletter."

Dr. JOAN T. MEAD, assistant professor of English, will take part in the Arthur Gordon Pym Research Conference, an international gathering of Poe scholars, which will be held in May of 1988 (the 150th anniversary of the publication of "Pym") at Nantucket. Dr. MEAD's paper will be part of the session titled "The Nautical Heritage of Arthur Gordon Pym."

BARBARA MABEE, assistant professor of modern languages, had an article accepted for publication in "Women in German Yearbook 3: Feminist Studies and German Culture" which will be printed in 1986. The title of her article is "Die Kindesmorderin in den Fesseln der burgerlichen Moral: Wagner's Evchen and Goethe's Gretchen."

Dr. DEAN A. ADKINS, associate professor of biological sciences, has been selected by the West Virginia Department of Education to serve on the initial committee to develop the content specialization test for biology. The committee will determine the content of a test that will be used in approved programs leading to West Virginia certification.

KYLE G. McMULLEN and NEAL G. ADKINS, associate professors of accounting, attended the Individual Income Tax Workshop presented by Sidney Kess in Charleston Nov. 21-22. ADKINS, Dr. ROBERT F. GODFREY, associate professor of accounting, and DONALD A. WAHLMAN, assistant professor of accounting, attended the 18th annual seminar on Trends in the Education of Accountants at Virginia Tech Nov. 7-8, and ADKINS at tended the Workshop for Microcomputers for Accountants held in conjunction with the seminar.

(Continued on page 6)

Faculty/staff achievements (cont.)

Dr. DANNY G. FULKS, professor of education, has been invited to present a paper at the national meeting of the Association for Childhood Education International which will be held in Greensboro, N.C., on March 29. His paper is titled "From Dewey to Kholberg: Democratic Schooling and Implications for the Future."

Dr. MAURICE A. MUFSON, professor and chairman of the Department of Medicine, recently published a chapter entitled "Viral Pharyngitis, Laryngitis, Croup and Bronchitis" in the 17th edition of the Cecil Textbook of Medicine.

WILLIAM J. RADIG, acting chairman of the Department of Accounting, was a guest speaker at a United States Small Business Administration seminar on Nov. 18. He spoke on "Accounting/Recordkeeping for a Small Business."

Dr. RALPH TAYLOR, Dr. DONALD TARTER and Dr. CHRIS WALDRON attended the first meeting of the Ohio River Basin Consortium for Research and Education held Nov. 17-18 at the Cincinnati Marriott Inn. TAYLOR and TARTER, co-chairs of the program committee for 1986, are members of the consortium board of trustees. TARTER was elected to the executive committee for a one-year term.

Dr. LAWRENCE W. BARKER and Dr. DONALD HALL of the Department of Counseling and Rehabilitation recently attended the Southern Association for Counselor Education and Supervision meeting in Atlanta. They presented a paper entitled "Consultation to High Risk Families."

Dr. JACQUELINE M. GUTTMANN, associate professor of French, attended the national meeting of the American Association of Teachers of French held Nov. 28-29 in New York. She presented a paper entitled "L'image de la femme dans les romans de Maupassant" at a session celebrating the centennial of Maupassant's birth.

PAUL J. MICHAUD, director of personnel, has been selected as an Outstanding Young Man of America for 1985. The award is presented in recognition of outstanding professional achievement, superior leadership ability and exceptional service to the community.

Dr. BETTY ROBERTS, associate professor of health, physical education and recreation, organized and conducted the first Fun Run for Children at Ritter Park Nov. 17. A total of 144 children from five to 12 years of age entered the event. She was assisted by the PE 218 class and Hardee's supported her efforts by providing T-shirts for each contestant.

Dr. CHRISTOPHER DOLMETSCH, associate professor of modern languages, has contributed an article entitled "German as a Mother Tongue in Southern Appalachia: Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina" to the book "Deutsch als Muttersprache in den Vereinigten Staaten, Teil II: Regionale und funktionale Aspekte," ed. Heinz Kloss (Wiesbaden & Stuttgart: Franz Steiner Verlag, 1985). The article details the current status of the German language as a native tongue among residents of this four-state region and discusses the prospects for its future retention and use.

Dr. STEBBINS B. CHANDOR, chairman of pathology, directed two immunopathology workshops at the American Society of Clinical Pathologists/College of American Pathologists fall meeting. He also participated in several events scheduled in conjunction with the meeting, and spoke at a meeting of the Commission for Continuing Education, for which he is one of six deputy commissioners.

Dr. DARRYLE D. SCHOEPP, assistant professor of pharmacology, recently had published in the Journal of Neurochemistry an article entitled "Manganese Stimulates the Incorporation of [³H]Inositol into a Pool of Phosphatidylinositol in Brain That is Not Coupled to Agonist-Induced Hydrolysis."

Dr. MONICA A. VALENTOVIC, assistant professor of pharmacology, has recently had three papers published: in the Journal of Toxicology and Environmental Health an article entitled "Cigarette Smoke Exposure Alters [¹⁴C]Arachidonic Acid Metabolism in Aortas and Platelets of Rats Fed Various Levels of Selenium and Vitamin E"; in the journal Prostaglandins, Leukotrienes and Medicine, articles entitled "Chronic Exposure to High Levels of Sidestream Smoke Adversely Alters [¹⁴C]Arachidonic Acid Metabolism in Rat Platelets and Aortas" and "Elevated Glucose In Vivo and In Vitro Adversely Alters Prostaglandin Generation in Rat Aortas and Platelets."

DIANA OWENS, assistant professor of nursing, was a featured speaker at the fall meeting of the West Virginia Student Nurses Association. The subject of her presentation was "Community Nursing in Appalachia."

JEANNE DEVOS, LAURA LEE WILSON, JANE FOTOS and Dr. JUDITH SORTET represented the Marshall School of Nursing at the West Virginia Nurses Association annual meeting held recently in Morgantown. Dr. SORTET received the Award for Excellence in Writing presented by the association and the American Journal of Nursing for a manuscript entitled "Perceptions of Nursing Education Administration and Nursing Service Administration Reflect Incongruence in the Nursing Profession."

PAUL FIGURE, assistant professor of Spanish, presented a paper at the first International Symposium on Tirso de Molina held Nov. 22 in Washington, D.C. The paper was entitled "El disfraz varonil y la mujer en el teatro: su genesis, evolucion y elaboracion dramatica en la obra de Tirso de Molina."

As a visiting professor in the Department of Medicine at the West Virginia University Division in Charleston, Dr. MAURICE A. MUFSON, chairman of the Department of Medicine, presented a talk on "Pneumococcal Pneumonia and Pneumococcal Vaccine" on Nov. 12. An abstract of Dr. MUFSON's research was presented as a poster session at the meeting on "The Biology of Negative Strand Viruses" held in Cambridge, England, Sept. 15-20. Professor Erling Norrby, head of the Virology Department at the Karolinska Institute School of Medicine, with whom Dr. MUFSON worked during his sabbatical this past year, supervised the poster. Co-authors were Dr. Claes Orvell and Dr. Bjorg Rafnar. The abstract was published in Virus Research.