Black History Month events scheduled

Marshall University will open its observance of Black History Month with a teleconference titled “Beyond the Dream, Part V: A Celebration of Black History--The Writers, The Story, The Legacy” on Wednesday, Feb. 3, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge, according to Macel Braxton, coordinator of Marshall’s Office of African American Students’ Programs.

The teleconference will focus on the impact of African American literature as it pertains to American culture and life. A common theme throughout the program will be the importance and preservation of culture and heritage.

A panel discussion will be held following the teleconference from 3 to 4 p.m. in the Alumni Lounge.

Prominent speakers to make presentations

Three nationally prominent guests from the fields of education, journalism and the arts will be featured during Marshall University’s observance of Black History Month, according to Macel Braxton, coordinator of Marshall’s Office of African American Students’ Programs.

Dr. Emma Lapsansky, historian and curator of Haverford (Pa.) College’s internationally known Quaker Collection, will be a guest speaker on Thursday, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

Giancarlo Esposito, an actor who has appeared in Spike Lee’s “Do the Right Thing” and “School Daze” and will be featured in Lee’s upcoming film “Variations on the Mo’ Better Blues,” will make a presentation on Monday, Feb. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room.

All of the presentations will be open to the public free of charge. Receptions will be held following each presentation.

An associate professor of history at Haverford College, Lapsansky is responsible for the Quaker Collection’s 250,000 manuscript items and documents from the past 350 years.

She received her bachelor’s degree in history and doctorate in American civilization from the University of Pennsylvania. Her research interests include American

Nerhood named chairman

Robert Nerhood, M.D., has returned to Huntington to become chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Marshall University School of Medicine, Dean Charles H. McKown Jr. has announced.

Nerhood’s first priority has been to reestablish Marshall’s postgraduate training in obstetrics and gynecology.

He said Marshall has not had an OB/GYN residency program since 1986, although the educational program for students is fully approved as part of the school’s overall accreditation. In addition, the faculty has continued to assist in residency training through the obstetrical component of the school’s family practice residency.

Nerhood said he wants to put together a program that colonial history and American intellectual and community history.

Lapsansky has been a member of the History Department at Temple University and served as associate dean of the Temple University College of Arts and Sciences and advising coordinator of the Temple American Studies Program. She has taught at the University of Pennsylvania, Princeton University, Moore College of Art and the Community College of Philadelphia. She also did archaeological work for the National Park Service and served as a research assistant in Afro-American art for the Menil Foundation.

She has served as a consultant for several museums including the Smithsonian Institution.

Wickham began his journalism career in 1973 as a copyediting intern with the Richmond Times Dispatch. He has worked as a reporter for both the Evening Sun and Sun of Baltimore and as a Capitol Hill correspondent for U.S. News and World Report. He also served as Washington correspondent and contributing editor for Black Enterprise magazine.

He received a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Maryland and a master's degree in public administration from the University of Baltimore. He earned a certificate in Afro-American studies from the University of Maryland.

Wickham is a founding member and former president of the National Association of Black Journalists.

"Fire At Will," a collection of Wickham's columns was published in 1989 by USA Today Books. Wickham recently completed his first screenplay and is working on another book that is scheduled for publication in 1994.

He appears weekly on "Lead Story," a half-hour news analysis program that can be seen nationally on Black Entertainment Television.

At the age of 31, Esposito already has made a mark in the world of entertainment. He perhaps is best known for his role as "Buggin Out" in Spike Lee's "Do the Right Thing," a role in which he portrayed an antagonist who incited the neighborhood to violence. Esposito now presents lectures in which he asks people to consider the true meaning of the film and discusses ways to end racial hatred.

Esposito received the Obie and Theatre World awards in 1981 for his work in "Zooman and the Sign." He previously had performed in several plays including "Maggie Flynn," "Merrily We Roll Along" and "Donut Get God Started."

He has appeared on television in everything from soap operas to "Miami Vice," "Spenser: For Hire" and "Legwork." His most recent film is "The King of New York."

Women's Center programs set

The Marshall University Women's Center will hold a four-week group session titled "Relationships and Autonomy" beginning Tuesday, Feb. 2, according to Dr. Donna Lee Cockrille, coordinator of women's programs at Marshall.

Designed for men and women, the program will explore the strength of relationships and examine compulsive relationships, apathetic relationships and healthy relationships.

The center also will hold a program titled "Rape Education and Prevention for International Women Students" in conjunction with the International Students Programs Office on Wednesday, Feb. 3.

To obtain further details about the programs contact the Marshall University Women's Center, 696-3111 or 696-3338.

Grant deadline Feb. 1

The deadline for faculty members to submit applications for travel grants through the Quinlan Endowment is 4:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 1, according to Dr. Bryan Larsen, chairman of the MU Research Committee.

Application forms are available in the office of the vice president for academic affairs. Completed applications should be returned to that office.

Questions pertaining to the application process should be directed to the individual college representatives on the Research Committee.
Student receives King Scholar Award

The first Reverend Martin Luther King Jr. Scholar Award was presented to Terrie Collins, a Marshall University student from Barboursville, during the Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration held Jan. 18 at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church.

Dr. David Wilkin, dean of Marshall University’s Community and Technical College and chairman of the King Scholar Award Selection Committee, said the award will be presented annually to the high school student or MU undergraduate who writes the best formal research paper about the life and times of King or his impact.

Collins’ paper was titled “Pilgrimage From Prejudice.”

provides good education for residents, is in harmony with community physicians, and benefits the community at large. Particular emphasis will be placed on ways doctors specializing in obstetrics and gynecology can function in rural and semirural settings, he added.

Most recently, Nerhood had been an associate professor on the faculty of the University of Massachusetts School of Medicine, where he was chairman of obstetrics and gynecology for the Berkshire Medical Center. From 1987 to 1989 he was director of resident education in obstetrics and gynecology at Allegheny General Hospital/Medical College of Pennsylvania. He also was medical director of the Division of Urogynecology. At both schools, he was a clerkship coordinator for third-year medical students.

From 1975 to 1989, Nerhood was a member of OB-GYN Associates Inc. of Huntington and was involved in medical affairs and health policy at local and state levels. He directed the West Virginia Improved Pregnancy Outcome Project for Region II, was a member of the West Virginia Perinatal Committee, and served as a board member of the West Virginia Perinatal Association.

He served as chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Cabell Huntington Hospital where he directed the maternal transport system and the perinatal outreach program. In addition, he served as secretary and president-elect of the hospital’s medical staff.

Nerhood was president of the Cabell County Medical Society in 1981.

He began his career as a major in the medical corps of the United States Air Force. He directed outpatient OB/GYN services at Keesler Air Force Medical Center from 1973 to 1975.

A Pennsylvania native, Nerhood received his undergraduate and M.D. degrees from West Virginia University, where he also did his residency. He did his internship at the Harrisburg (Pa.) Polyclinic Hospital.

He was accompanied to Huntington by his wife, Deborah, and their children, Robert, Timothy and Justin.

Winning scholars receive a cash award of $250. A plaque with the scholar’s name will be displayed in Marshall’s James E. Morrow Library and the winning paper will be permanently housed in the library.

Four students received special honorable mention for their papers: Leo Rafail, a Huntington resident and Marshall student; Christina Smith of Hannan High School, and Angela Mullen and Kelli Coffman, both from Iron­ton (Ohio) High School. Each honorable mention winner received a cash award of $50.

Wilkin said the purpose of the King Scholar Award is to promote research, writing and understanding about the life and times of King. The award will be presented in conjunction with the community’s annual Martin Luther King Jr. holiday celebration.

The deadline for submitting papers for the 1994 King Scholar Award is Dec. 1, 1993.

To obtain further details about the award program contact Wilkin at Marshall University’s Community and Technical College, 696-6796.

Cleckley named to post

Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural affairs, has been appointed to the Executive Committee of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services (DACOWITS).

Established in 1951 by former Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, DACOWITS assists and advises the secretary of defense on policies and matters relating to women in the military services.

Individual members of the committee visit military installations and organizations to keep fully informed on current military activities and policies.

Appointed to DACOWITS in 1992 for a three-year term, Cleckley already has visited Fort Bragg in North Carolina and Fort Jackson in South Carolina.

She recently visited the 254th Army National Guard Transportation Company in Huntington where she met with officers and enlisted guardswomen from the 254th, the 146th Aviation Company and the 153rd Public Affairs Detachment.

Cleckley also will serve as vice chair of the DACOWITS Quality of Life Committee.

Letter of appreciation

Dear Marshall Faculty and Staff:

Your warm expressions of love and concern have meant so very much to me and my family since my mother’s death.

Thank you for caring.

Sincerely,

Nell Bailey
Institutions sponsoring trip to Egypt

A 17-day educational tour of Egypt, June 18 through July 4, is being sponsored by Marshall University, the University of Charleston, West Virginia Institute of Technology and West Virginia State College, according to Dr. Clair W. Matz, director of Marshall University's Center for International Studies.

Participants will be able to obtain three hours of college credit through the individual institutions.

The trip will include visits to Cairo, the pyramids of Giza, Saqqara, Abu Simbel, Aswan, Luxor, Hermopolis and other sites.

Dr. Herta Jogland of West Virginia State College will lead the tour and give educational lectures prior to departure and along the way. Jogland has led many previous tours and has a thorough knowledge of the Egyptian culture.

The cost of the tour will be $2,200 double occupancy from New York City. "This is a very good price considering that it includes two meals per day and deluxe hotel accommodations," said Matz.

The tour enrollment period ends April 5. To obtain an itinerary or further details contact Marshall University's Center for International Studies, 696-5421, or Jogland at West Virginia State College, 346-2240.

ASCR Committee meets

(The following report on the Jan. 19 meeting of the Marshall University Academic Standards and Curricular Review Committee was submitted by Denicia Merritt-Damron, secretary.)

Due to the short notice of the meeting, a quorum was not present. Therefore no formal action was taken.

The new spring 1993 ASCR Committee meeting schedule was announced. Dean Adkins indicated that the schedule will not conflict with the subcommittee meetings.

Earl Damewood received two grade appeals and passed them on to Professor Elizabeth Nordeen, chair of the Academic Appeals Committee.

At a previous meeting committee members were asked to comment on the existing "Overload Policy." Bob Eddins called to offer any information and/or assistance he might be able to give to the committee regarding this policy.

Dean Adkins reported that he had only received one reply from the college deans regarding program deletions. Each dean was to respond by Jan. 15 with their written input. Damewood had received another reply.

The meeting adjourned at 1:15 p.m. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 16, at noon in Smith Hall Room 810.

Excused absences...

Absences have been excused by the respective college deans for the following:

Jan. 14-17--Jennie Meredith.
Jan. 22--Michael Ross, Eddie Roach, Jesse Ringson, Rebekah White, Christopher Hennessy, Ronda Leighty, Emile Burch, James Issac Woodrum, Crisi Miller.
Jan. 25-27--Christopher Wood.

Employee achievements

Dr. JUDITH SORTET and Dr. LYNNE WELCH of the School of Nursing presented a research study titled "Nursing Students' Attitudes Regarding Appalachian Culture" at the sixth annual International Conference for Women in Higher Education held Jan. 7-10 in El Paso, Texas.

Dr. THOMAS J. MANAKKIL, professor of physics and university safety officer, attended the annual winter meetings of the American Association of Physics Teachers held Jan. 2-7 in New Orleans. He presented two papers: "Medical Radiation Exposure: Benefit vs. Risk" and "Radioactive Radon in the Environment and the Potential Health Risks." The second paper was co-authored by WILLIAM R. ALEXANDER, a former MU graduate student.

Dr. SUSAN C. POWER, assistant professor of art, gave a presentation titled "Native American Art" at the recent West Virginia Art Education Association annual conference, "World Visions of Art Education," held in Morgantown. She was elected to the board of directors as State Higher Education Representative.

'Art Op' program planned by department

Marshall University's Department of Art will sponsor an after-school art enrichment program titled "Art Opportunity" for students in kindergarten through eighth grade beginning Wednesday, Feb. 17, in Smith Hall.

The program is aimed at enriching the appreciation and understanding of a broad range of cultures through art, according to Linda Anderson, director of the program.

Students enrolled in the program will explore a variety of media including drawing, painting, weaving, printmaking, clay and an array of three-dimensional materials. The classes have been designed to be fun as well as challenging for all skill levels.

All classes will meet on Wednesdays from 4 to 6 p.m. through March 31.

An exhibition of works produced during the program will be held April 3 from 2 to 3:15 p.m. in Birke Art Gallery.

There will be a registration fee of $35 plus $9 for materials. There will be a 10 percent discount for families enrolling more than one child. Preregistration will end Feb. 10. There will be a $4 late fee for registration after Feb. 10.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Art Department, 696-2895.
