MU faculty and staff achievements, activities. . .

KYLE G. McMULLEN, associate professor of accounting, spoke to the C-K Rotary Club Aug. 3 on the topic "Tax Law Changes for 1984 and 1985 and Their Efforts on You."

DR. JOHNNIE GALLEMORE, Psychiatry Department chairman, spoke to members of the West Virginia Psychiatric Association and the State Medical Society Aug. 24 on "Right to Die: A Little Law Keeps the Doctor at Bay."

DR. GEORGE T. ARNOLD, associate professor of journalism and Chief Justice advisor, and BETSY COOK, Parthenon advisor, along with Penney Hall and Pam Wilkinson, yearbook co-editors, conducted yearbook workshops in Charleston Sept. 15 for 150 high school and junior high school students and teachers. Arnold also delivered the keynote address for the day-long meeting sponsored by Walsworth Publishing Company and held at the Marriott Hotel.

DR. KAREN SIMPKINS, assistant professor of sociology/anthropology, presented a paper, "Cultural Indicators of Child Abuse," at a workshop on child abuse held Sept. 6-7 at the John C. Campbell Folk School in Brasston, N.C.

Dr. Bernard Queen returning to teaching

Dr. Bernard Queen, Marshall University's director of development since 1977, has asked to be reassigned to a teaching position in the College of Education.

"I believe we have achieved the goals we set out to achieve with the Development Office and the Marshall University Foundation when I accepted the assignment seven years ago," Queen said. "Now, I would like to return to the College of Education and let others assume the challenge of building the program to greater heights," he added.

President Dale F. Nitzschke said Queen had requested, and would receive, assignment as a professor in the Department of Educational Administration. "I had asked Dr. Queen to continue to serve in the administration as part of the new organizational structure we will be putting together," Nitzschke said. "However, he indicated he would prefer an assignment in the College of Education and I reluctantly agreed to honor his request.

"Bernard Queen has done an outstanding job in reorganizing the Development Office program and putting it on a strong, sound footing," Nitzschke said. "The figures speak for themselves, as he has brought the assets of the Marshall Foundation to more than $6 million. He has been very effective, and we are going to miss him in that role," Nitzschke added.

Officially, Queen's duties with the Development Office will end Friday, Sept. 28, at which time he will begin preparations to return to the classroom at the start of the Second Semester.

Nitzschke said he would meet with the officers of the Marshall Foundation to discuss the steps he will take in filling the vacancy.

DR. STEVEN MEWALDT, associate professor of psychology, is co-author of two articles which appeared recently in Psychopharmacology: "A dose-response analysis of the behavioral effects of diazepam: I. Learning and memory," and "A dose-response analysis of the behavioral effects of diazepam: II. Psychomotor performance, cognition and mood."

DR. BETTY JOAN JARRELL, assistant professor and director, Division of Business Technology, Community College, has successfully met all requirements for certificate in public accountancy (CPA).

YOU'RE INVITED

President and Mrs. Nitzschke cordially invite all faculty, staff and their spouses or guests to a reception Monday, Oct. 1, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. in the Morris Room, Memorial Student Center.

Entertainment will include an appearance by Nucleus II, award-winning break dancers from Iron-ton (Ohio) Junior High School, scheduled for 6 p.m. Light refreshments will be served.

(Individual invitations will not be mailed.)

Nominations sought for HST scholarship program

The Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation is soliciting applications from Marshall University sophomores interested in a career in government service at the federal, state, or local levels.

Established by Congress in 1975, the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation operates a continuing educational scholarship program designed to provide opportunities for outstanding U.S. students with potential leadership ability to prepare for careers in government service.

This April, the Foundation will award 105 scholarships nationally, with at least one of the scholarships being awarded to a West Virginia student. The scholarship award, worth up to $20,000, covers eligible expenses up to $5,000 a year for the junior year, the senior year, and two years of graduate study.

To be eligible, students must be full-time sophomores working toward a bachelor's degree, have a 3.00 average, and be a U.S. citizen.

If you know of students who would be interested in applying for the Truman Scholarship have them contact Dr. Troy Stewart, associate professor of political science, in Room 740 of Smith Hall by Oct. 31.

Apartment booked for fall

The Housing and Conference Services Office reports that the Holderby Hall Guest Apartment is reserved for the remainder of the Fall Semester. No new reservations will be accepted at this time.

'Thanks to you, United Way agencies can and do'

"Thanks to you, United Way agencies can and do" is the theme for this year's United Way campaign which has a $1 million goal to support services provided by 28 community agencies.

Marshall's goal, announced yesterday at a kick-off breakfast, will be $10,000, according to Dr. Karen Simpkins, assistant professor of sociology/anthropology,

Gee, Ginsberg, Nitzschke forum airs Friday on WPBY

West Virginia University President E. Gordon Gee in a green blazer?

Chancellor Leon H. Ginsberg wearing Marshall green, too?

Marshall University President Dale F. Nitzschke sporting a WVU lapel sticker on his green blazer?

Gee "on a roll" with a Johnny Carson-type monologue?

Television viewers will see all that – and more – Friday, Sept. 28 at 9:30 p.m., when WPBY Channel 33 and the other West Virginia public television stations broadcast a forum on higher education featuring Ginsberg, Nitzschke and Gee.

The three leaders of West Virginia's public higher education system were recorded by WPBY cameras when they appeared as speakers at the Huntington Area Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting at the Guyan Golf and Country Club in Huntington.

In addition to its many moments of humor, the forum takes a serious look at the need for cooperation among the public institutions of higher education, the future of Marshall and WVU, the need for greater financial support, and the necessity of greater flexibility in managing institutional budgets.

The telecast was produced by Dick Hoffman of the WPBY staff.

Faculty meeting Oct. 2

There will be a General Faculty Meeting in the Old Main Auditorium on Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 4 p.m. The agenda will be:

1. Receiving of nominations for the position of Faculty Representative to the President's Committee to Develop Legislative Proposals on Behalf of Marshall University. Persons nominated to be voted on by paper ballot to be distributed in standard manner for voting by the entire faculty.
2. President Nitzschke will discuss the Administrative Re-organization of the University.
3. Nominations will be received for an at-large vacancy on the Athletic Committee.

Persons desiring to place additional items on the agenda should contact Dr. Sam Clagg, chairman of the University Council, prior to 4:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 28.

and John Lyles, assistant basketball coach, who are serving as co-chairmen of the campus drive.

"This year's theme 'United Way agencies can and do' speaks to the fact that none of us single-handedly can provide these important services, but joining together through the United Way, we can," explained Dr. Simpkins.

"Your departmental representatives will be sending pledge cards to you shortly and I hope that you will respond in a positive manner," Dr. Simpkins said.

"One or more of the member agencies touch each of us in some way and it is up to each of us to help them continue providing assistance," said Lyles.

The member agencies include:

American Red Cross-Cabell County, American Red Cross-Wayne County, Association for Retarded Citizens, Barnett Child Care, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boys Clubs of Huntington, Boy Scouts of America, Branches Domestic Violence Shelter, Cammack Center, Tri-River Council of Camp Fire, Cerebral Palsy Clinic;

Ceredo-Kenova Community Center, Family Service, Huntington Food Bank, Black Diamond Council of Girl Scouts, Good Samaritan Center, Goodwill Industries, Kiwanis Day Care, Pediatric Clinic, Salvation Army, Scott Community Center, Special Olympics, Stella Fuller Settlement, United Way of Cabell-Wayne, USO, YMCA and YWCA.

A BANNER YEAR FOR MARSHALL

Marshall University Alumni Affairs Director Linda Holmes and alumnus James H. Morgan prepare to run a new Marshall flag up the campus flagpole. Morgan, president of Stationers-Morgans and Huntington Area Chamber of Commerce board chairman, decided last spring that Marshall should have its own flag for the first time. Working with the University Relations Office, he designed the flag, then had a limited number manufactured. He presented one of the first flags to Ms. Holmes for the university's use. Marshall Homecoming '84 coming up Oct. 12-13

Class reunions, entertainment, prizes, and an abundance of food and beverages are all a part of Homecoming '84 activities sponsored by the Marshall University Alumni Association. The theme for this year is "Herd It Through the Grapevine."

The first Alumni Association event is "An Evening With Marshall Friends," set for Friday, Oct. 12, from 8 to 11 p.m. in Suite A of the Huntington Civic Center.

The Marshall Classes of 1964 and 1974 will celebrate their 20th- and 10th-year reunions. McCall & Co., a variety trio, will provide music.

Prices for the Friday gathering are $6 per person including soft drinks or $10 per person for legal beverages. Although reservations are not necessary, discount prices are offered to all dues-paying members of the Alumni Association who make reservations by Oct. 5.

On Saturday, Oct. 13, Alumni Association activities get off to an early start with campus tours beginning at 9:30 a.m. from the lobby of Memorial Student Center. The association will provide complimentary coffee and doughnuts.

The traditional Lunch-Under-the-Tent at Prindle Field (across from Fairfield Stadium) will precede the Herd's game against Appalachian State. The smorgasboard-style picnic begins at 11:30 a.m. and includes fried chicken, potato salad, baked beans, rolls, iced team, coffee, and beer.

Price for the lunch is $6 per person. Reservations must be made by Monday, Oct. 8. Members of the Marshall Jazz Ensemble will entertain.

To make reservations or for additional information, call the Alumni Office, extension, 3134.

Fine Arts celebration to begin Friday

A weekend of art, music, theatre, dance and more featuring such personalities as Phyllis Curtin and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will officially welcome the new College of Fine Arts at Marshall University Sept. 28-30.

The main events begin Friday, Sept. 28, with a "Showcase of Marshall Arts" in Smith Recital Hall at 8 p.m. The public is invited to view MU Theatre in action through a preview of its October musical production, "Camelot," a flute ensemble and percussion ensemble; and a dance sculpture, "Vignettes EN 2nd Avenue" choreographed by Viki Kelly with music by Grace Jones and nine dancers.

A reception in the Birke Art Gallery will also feature a slide exhibition of Marshall art students and faculty, a videotape of the Footpath Dance Residency concerts in the summer, the painting exhibition of Marshall graduate and Marshall alumnus George Snyder, and refreshments.

Saturday a fine arts convocation in Smith Recital Hall at 10 a.m. will be addressed by Phyllis Curtin, dean of the School of the Arts at Boston University. An internationally acclaimed singer and teacher, Ms. Curtin is a native of Clarksburg and holds an honorary doctorate from Marshall awarded in 1963.

Convocation platform guests will include representatives from the Board of Regents, the President, Provost, Development and Foundation offices, the other colleges, Alumni Association, student body, fine arts departments and others.

An Arts Tent will house demonstrations and provide entertainment from 1 to 3:30 on the MU campus at Hal Greer Boulevard including make-up/face painting, mime, jazz, choir, dixieland band, spinning, felting, papermaking, ceramic and double reed-making demonstrations along with an art exhibition.

Children from the community will participate through a sidewalk art show on the theme, "Art in My Community," and a dance improvisation with an environmental sculpture will also take place in front of Northcott Hall.

Also on Saturday a special dinner evening with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. at the Convention Center Hotel's Four Seasons Room begins at 6 p.m. with dinner served at 7 p.m.

Fairbanks' presentation, "In Search of Adventure," will relate to his life and professional career which includes all of the visual and performing arts including stage and film acting and directing, drawing, painting, sculpture, radio, television and recordings, poetry and other writing.

The dinner evening is the only event for which reservations and tickets are required. Arrangements may be made through the College of Fine Arts or Institute for the Arts at 696-6433 or 696-3107.

The weekend activities will conclude when Huntington welcomes the new College with a special evening at 8 o'clock at the Huntington Galleries and the premiere performance of "High Flight," a ballet written for the dedication of the Marshall University College of Fine Arts by Paul W. Whear, composer-in-residence at Marshall and conductor of the Huntington Chamber Orchestra. With choreography by Mary Kessick of the Huntington Dance Workshop and narration by Selden McNeer III of the Community Players, music is by the Huntington Chamber Orchestra under Whear's direction. Preceding the ballet will be music by the Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Paul Whear, and by the Musical Arts Guild, conducted by Paul A. Balshaw.

The College of Fine Arts Celebration is being presented with assistance from the West Virginia Arts and Humanities, the Birke Fine Arts Symposium, the Marshall University Foundation, Inc, the Marshall Alumni Association, the Marshall Artists Series, the Office of the President, The Huntington Chamber Orchestra and the Grand Staff.

Events are open free to the public with the exception of the dinner.

CAMPUS ANNOUNCEMENTS. . .

FACULTY RESEARCH

Current Research is preparing an update on faculty research activities for 1984. Information should be sent to either Dr. Joan Gilliland, Corbly Hall 445, or Dr. Corey Lock, Jenkins Hall 205. Also to be included in the update is a list of books published by MU faculty members. "If you have had a book published, please send us the title, publisher and date of publication," Lock said.

WOMEN'S COFFEEHOUSE

The Women's Center, Campus United Methodist Ministry and the National Organization for Women will sponsor a Women's Coffeehouse at the Campus Christian Center Friday, Sept. 28, from 8 to 11 p.m. Four female artists will appear on the program which will feature music, singing and dramatic readings. Food and beverage will be available. There will be a $1 donation.

SCIENCE FACULTY VOTES

The College of Science Faculty has approved the proposal to revise the college's standing committee structure. Dr. M. Chris Waldron, assistant professor of biological sciences, was elected to serve as the college's representative on the Academic Planning and Standards Committee.

ADULT PIANO CLASS

An eight-week piano class for adults will be offered by Marshall's Music Department on Saturdays from 10 to 11 a.m., beginning Oct. 6. The class is open to high school students and adults who are either beginners or who have had some piano work. Additional information may be obtained by calling the Music Department, extension 3117.

MASONS AWARD $6,000 SCHOLARSHIP

The Scottish Rite Masons of West Virginia have established a graduate scholarship in public school administration and have named David Brian Hetzer of Huntington (second from left), a 1983 Marshall University graduate, as the first recipient of the $6,000 annual award. Presenting the check was John Chandler, left, chairman of the Huntington Advisory Conference and a 33rd degree Mason, while Dr. Neil L. Gibbins, chairman of Marshall University's Educational Administration Department, and Dr. Bernard Queen, a 32nd degree Mason and director of MU's Office of Development, look on.

Personnel personals. . .

Wedding bells pealed on Sept. 21 at the First United Methodist Church when MU Assistant Basketball Coach Dan Bell and Diana Calhoun exchanged marriage vows. Diana is a senior on the women's track team.

Donna Beckett, secretary to the School of Medicine dean, is now answering to the name "Grammy D" as she just became a grandmother for the second time when daughter Lisa Beckett Bode presented her with a 7 lb. 3 oz. granddaughter, Jaclyn Alexis, on Sept. 23. Both the baby and dad George Bode are doing well, but Donna's on vacation!

Melanie Waddle, cashier in the Finance Office, and her husband Carl are first-time parents now with the arrival of a 7 lb. baby boy, named James Andrew, on Monday, Sept. 24, at Cabell Huntington Hospital. Wonder if James Andrew's first words will be, "May I please have change?"

Proud of a family member's accomplishment? Is there a new baby at your house? Is there something else you'd like to share with your colleagues? "Personnel personals. . ." is just the place. Send your information to Judith Casto, University Relations, Old Main 102.

"Visions for Huntington" theme for VIP discussion

The Vital Issues Program (VIP) will hold its first public forum of the new academic year at 11 a.m. Monday, Oct. 1, in Memorial Student Center 2W22, according to Dr. Jabir A. Abbas, VIP coordinator and professor of political science.

"Visions for Huntington—What Direction, What Government, What Projects?" will be the topic to be discussed by a panel which will include Joe Williams, Huntington mayor; College of Business Dean Robert Alexander, city councilman and former mayor; Dr. Ronald Oakerson, associate professor of political science, and a Huntington League of Women Voters representative.
