General faculty meeting set for Feb. 9

There will be a general faculty meeting on Feb. 9, 1982 at 4 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium. The agenda is as follows:

1. President Hayes will discuss the current budget freeze and the budget request progress for the next academic year.
2. There will be a progress report from the Ad Hoc Committee to study the football program at Marshall.
3. Other agenda items may be added by request. Please call Sam Clagg, Chairman of the University Council, if you have something to add to the agenda.

Advisors board actions reported

The following report by Dr. Elinore Taylor is a summary of actions taken by Marshall's Institutional Board of Advisors during the period of July through December, 1981:

JULY 30 MEETING

Reviewed the legislation which created the board and elected officers.

AUG. 31 MEETING

Reviewed the budget as presented by Michael Thomas, Vice President for Financial Affairs. Sent a letter of approval to the Board of Regents, but with the request that access to next year's budget information be received at an earlier date.

Deceased journalism teacher continues to aid MU students

For 33 years, Virginia Lee was known for her interest and concern for Marshall University students and their individual problems.

Miss Lee retired as an associate professor of journalism nearly 19 years ago. She died four years ago; but her efforts to help Marshall students are continuing.

Under terms of her will, the Marshall Foundation has received approximately $11,000 for use in James E. Morrow Library, Foundation Executive Director Bernard Queen has been advised by Huntington attorney David H. Daugherty, executor of Miss Lee's estate.

Queen said the money would be set up as an endowment and proceeds will be used to purchase books in the general fields of American or British literature or history, one of the options outlined in Miss Lee's will.

A former junior high school English teacher and Huntington Herald-Dispatch reporter, Miss Lee joined the Marshall staff as Journalism Department secretary in 1930. She became a member of the teaching staff in 1941 and retired in 1963.

SEPT. 26 MEETING

President Hayes discussed the needs and development of campus facilities. Tentative priorities are 1) Science Building, 2) Property Acquisition, 3) a Performing Arts Center, 4) Northcott, 5) a Library addition, 6) renovation of Old Main and an elevator to Smith Hall. Mr. Egnatoff also reported on the status of the graphics consultant and the landscape planner. The three areas of concern are academic, residential, and recreational.

OCT. 26 MEETING

The Board toured Old Main and Smith Hall with Mr. Egnatoff to see what renovations were planned and to view the traffic pattern into Smith. Olen Jones, Provost, Sam Clagg, Chairperson for University Council, Alan Gould, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Paul Balshaw, Chairperson of Fine Arts Task Force described the duties, findings and established needs for the School of Fine Arts. Letters to the faculty representative as to concerns about theater size were reported to the Board. The Board of Advisors endorsed the proposal for a School of Fine Arts, giving it their unanimous and wholehearted support.

Provost Jones discussed the Clinical Psychology degree and the Engineering survey.

Dr. Taylor brought up a random sample of 289 faculty which she had conducted as to the heating and cooling systems in the buildings where they worked (Corbly, Smith, Library, Harris, Science). Of 144 forms returned, only 16 indicated the system was satisfactory most of the time. One hundred and five checked that their work area was both too cold and too hot at different times. Dr. Taylor made a motion that this survey be forwarded to the Board of Regents with the notation that the Administration and Building and Grounds are working to correct the problems, but that if a second poll conducted in the spring indicates that corrections locally are impossible, then the Board of Regents consider sending an expert in this field to survey the situation and make recommendations to the Board as to how to correct it. The Chairperson, Judge Dunbar, suggested that, since comments on the President's proposals as to physical facilities would not be forwarded until spring, anyway, the faculty representative give the information collected and the comments to Mr. Egnatoff, and then, in the spring, re-introduce her motion if she so desired. Dr. Taylor withdrew her motion. Copies of the survey were turned over to Mr. Egnatoff so that he could locate those specific areas that were giving trouble. Dr. Taylor and Mr. Egnatoff also met and discussed ways to follow up on calls about heating and cooling problems so that those calling would know what had resulted. Mr.

Egnatoff stated that anyone concerned could call Building and Grounds directly. They did not have to go through a Dept. Spokesperson. Dr. Taylor offered to help if it was deemed advisable that any sort of daily temperature check system in each building be set up. Mr. Egnatoff indicated that this was being taken care of. The Faculty representative to the Institutional Board of Advisors plans to check again with the faculty in the spring to see if there has been improvement in this matter of heating and cooling in work areas as there seems to have been in Corbly.

DEC. 5 MEETING

The M.U. Board met with the Advisory Board from W.V.U. and their new President, and were addressed by both Dr. Hayes and Dr. Gee as to the need for a close relationship between the two universities in order to present a united front in the coming struggle to finance higher education in the eighties. Following this joint meeting, the M.U. Board met separately to hear a report by Provost Olen Jones, Dean Alan Gould, and Dr. Donald Chezik, which proposes the creation of a doctorate in Psychology at Marshall University. This proposal having been carefully examined, approved and forwarded by the necessary university faculty committees, the institutional Advisory Board, after a discussion of its effect on our relations with W.V.U. (W.V.U. had been advised and indicated no objection), and its enhancement of regional mental health systems in our area, moved to express its approval to the Board of Regents. It urged the Regents to give their approval since the need presented "a unique opportunity for the University to offer a degree not available within the State or within a radius of 200 miles."

Report to the Faculty
Respectfully submitted

Elinore Taylor
Faculty Representative

University Council discusses harassment policy

The University Council met on January 20th and conducted the following items of business:

1. Established the agenda for a general faculty meeting to be held on February 9th in Old Main Auditorium.
2. Discussed student evaluation of faculty as it relates to the Freedom of Information Act and/or the Federal Rights and Privacy Act. The problem comes down to this: Would the individual faculty evaluations be subject to the Freedom of Information Act, publication and public scrutiny? Faculty, and even legal opinion, differ on this. The Council consensus was that such evaluation, trial or otherwise, should be held in abeyance until the issue is firmly resolved by someone other than guard-house lawyers.

3. The new Sexual Harassment Policy was examined and will be given additional consideration in the next meeting. The chief concern was that the policy does not appear to have an appeals procedure.
4. The matter of dealing with committee vacancies on standing committees of the faculty was addressed. In as much as no faculty person may serve on two committees functioning under the constitution, it was decided that to fill a committee vacancy the faculty members under consideration could not be presently serving on another standing committee. This has been the procedure followed for many years in the Spring election process. It seemed logical that this be applied for all vacancies.

Academic Planning/Standards reports actions

Academic Planning and Standards met on Dec. 3, 1981 and approved the following items of business:

1. Concerning the legal status of the University Catalog the following words will replace the current disclaimer statement in the catalog prior to the listing of courses:

"Courses listed in this catalog are subject to change through normal academic channels. New courses and changes in existing course work are initiated by the cognizant departments or programs, approved by the appropriate academic dean, the academic vice-president, the curriculum committees, and the senate."

2. The Program and Curricula Sub-Committee presented a report on the following:
 - A) Concerning standardization of course titles and numbers -
 - Add practicum at the 200 and 300 level
 - The graduate council approved the following terms:
 - Special Topics - 580-583 - 1-4 hours
 - Independent Study - 585-588 - 1-4 hours
 - Practicum - 570-574
 - Internship - 590
 - Work Study - 591-594
 - B) Course addition: Distributive Education 681 "Thesis" - 3 cr. hours

Three-day residency program features Pulitzer Prize winner

David Del Tredici, 1980 Pulitzer prize winner in music, will conduct a three-day residency at Marshall University Sunday through Tuesday, Jan. 31-Feb. 2, under the auspices of the Marshall Music Department, according to Dr. Paul A. Balshaw, department chairman.

The series of lectures, discussions and performances to be presented by Del Tredici during the residency will be free and open to the public, Balshaw said. The sessions will be held in Smith Recital Hall.

Del Tredici's campus appearance has been made possible by the MU Foundation through its Distinguished Lectureship Program and marks the resumption after several years of the Music Department's "Twentieth Century Music Symposia."

"The Composer and His Music" will be the theme for Del Tredici's first public appearance which will feature him in performance, rehearsal and discussion of his own music at 8 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 31. An informal discussion of "The Contemporary Musical Scene" is scheduled at 11 a.m. Monday, Feb. 1. At 8 p.m. that same day Del Tredici will conduct an open rehearsal with informal discussion. At 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 2, he will present an informal discussion on "The Role of the Composer in Society Today." In addition, he will meet with music students to discuss composition and theory.

"All of the discussions will be of an informal nature and the audience will be encouraged to interact with Mr. Del Tredici in these sessions," Balshaw said. Various members of the music faculty also will join Del Tredici's morning programs on Monday and Tuesday, he added.

3. The Chairman introduced the American Council on Education's National Guide on granting credit to the committee. Marshall has previously been using the Military Guide and is the only institution in West Virginia not using the ACE National Guide.

The motion to approve the ACE National Guide be used in applying credit in the RBA degree program was approved.

If there are any comments or questions on the above, see Dr. Bruce Ardinger, chairperson or Sarah Denman, secretary.

DR. STEVEN P. MEWALDT, associate professor of psychology, is co-author of an article titled "Subanesthetic Concentration of Nitrous Oxide and Human Memory" which appeared in the most recent issue of Progress in Neuro-Psychopharmacology. The research was supported in part by a summer grant from the Marshall University Research Board.

DAN O'HANLON, Criminal Justice Department acting chairman, has been appointed to the Cabell County Commission on Crime, Delinquency and Corrections. O'Hanlon also spoke to the Business and Professional Women's Club Jan. 22 on "Reform in Huntington's Municipal Court" and appeared on WTCR Radio's Spotlight program discussing "Municipal Courts in the Tri-State" on Jan. 23.

Wide range of experiences Offered under Art Op program

The Marshall University Art Department will offer a variety of art workshops this spring for students of all ages, from pre-school to adult, under its Art Opportunity (Art Op) Program.

Launched last fall, Art Op provides students opportunities to explore a variety of art media and to develop their creative senses.

Registration for the eight-week workshops will close Feb. 12 and classes will begin the week of Feb. 23, according to Dr. Irene L. Cox, MU assistant professor of art and program coordinator.

A special art exploration program for three and four year olds will be offered on Tuesdays from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., she added.

Workshops providing new experiences in the various art media will be available for students from kindergarten through the ninth grade. Students will be grouped according to age in these workshops as follows:

-Kindergarten and first grade, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesdays.

-Second and third grade, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

-Fourth through sixth grade, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

-Seventh through ninth grade, 4 to 5 p.m. Thursdays.

A workshop for high school students and interested adults will be offered on the latest methods in printmaking on Thursdays from 4 to 5 p.m. Students enrolled in this workshop will need a camera and will have a supplemental materials fee of between $12 and $15.

The workshops will be held on the sixth floor of Marshall's Smith Hall and will be taught by graduate art students under faculty supervision. The registration fee will be $25 per student for each workshop. Additional information on the Art Op Program may be obtained by calling the Art Department at (304) 696-6760.

DR. ROBERT B. BELSHE, associate professor of medicine, has been elected as a Fellow of the American College of Physicians (ACP). Election to the ACP, according to an ACP news release, signifies that a physician has been recognized by his colleagues as having attained a level of medical scholarship and achievement in internal medicine.

DR. JOHN W. FOSTER, assistant professor of microbiology, has received word that his paper, "Nicotinamide adenine dinucleotide metabolism in Vibrio cholerae," will appear in the January, 1982, issue of the Journal of Bacteriology. Co-author of the paper is Craig Brestel, a Biology Department graduate student.

DR. CHARLES MABEE, Religious Studies Department chairman, attended the annual meeting of the society of Biblical Literature and American Academy of Religion in San Francisco Dec. 19-22. He read a paper entitled "Biblical Hermeneutics and the Critique of Technology," which was written with the aid of a Faculty Development Grant from the College of Liberal Arts.

Note: Items to be published in "Faculty and Staff Achievements and Activities" should be submitted to the Office of University Relations no later than one month after the activity or achievement.

Personnel personal . . .

Cellist Allen Whear, son of Dr. Paul and Nancy Whear, was the 1982 winner of the Charleston Symphony's Young Artist Competition. Auditions were held for six finalists on Jan. 23 with the contestants chosen from a six-state area. Young Whear will perform Bloch's "Schlemo, Hebrew Rhapsody" at the Charleston orchestra's March 16 concert. He is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and completed his master's degree at the Juilliard School last June. Dr. Whear is composer-in-residence at Marshall and Mrs. Whear is an assistant librarian here.

Proud of a family member's achievement? Is there a new baby at your house? Is there something else you would like to share with your colleagues? "Personnel personals" is just the place. Send your information to Judith Casto, University Relations, Old Main 102.
