MU must save $30,000 on telephone use

Thirty thousand dollars ($30,000.00).

That's a lot of money and it happens to be the amount Marshall University MUST save in its telephone budget from now until the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1982.

With that mandate in mind, we are asking you to help the University by following some of these ideas for savings:

- Eliminate long distance calls whenever possible.
- If you can't eliminate the long distance call, dial the Centrex Console Attendant ("0") for assistance. The attendant will help you determine the most economical method of making your call.
- Exercise patience! The capacity of the University telephone system AND the capacity of the State Government telephone system in Charleston are limited by the number of available WATS and DAIN lines.

- Be brief! The number of calls that can be handled depends on the amount of time each call consumes.
- When possible, make those necessary long distance telephone calls in late afternoon and evening when the WATS and DAIN lines are not as busy.
- When your monthly long distance calls bill arrives for your approval, please check to determine if there is a NON-appropriated account to which the charges can be levied and indicate that account number on the bill before returning it to the Accounts Payable Office.
- Review your telephone needs and discontinue any possible lines (numbers) AND/OR telephones. You may contact John McKinney, communications manager, at Ext. 6481 to make arrangements or ask questions about this.

Thanks for your help!

MU faculty and staff achievements, activities. . .

DAN O'HANLON, Criminal Justice Department chairman, was elected president of the Cabell County Commission on Crime, Delinquency and Corrections earlier this month. On Feb. 14, he was the featured guest on WOWK-TV's "Tri-State Today and Tomorrow" program. On Feb. 24, he served as a judge for the annual banquet of the West Virginia Toastmistress Association.

DR. MARY E. MARSHALL, associate professor of physical education, was selected to participate in a series of seminars on "Law and Sport" held Feb. 7-9 in Greensboro, N.C. under the auspices of Sports and the Courts, Inc., of Winston-Salem. She was one of 40 participants chosen from attorneys, administrators and educators from all over the United States.

DR. C. ROBERT BARNETT, associate professor of HPER, reviewed John Irving's novel "The Hotel New Hampshire" for the Charleston Daily Mail. The review of the recent best-seller appeared in the Feb. 11 issue.

DR. ROBERT J. GODFREY, assistant professor of counseling and rehabilitation, has been notified that an article on a curriculum development project he directed at Cornell University will be published as a special feature in Volume 15 of "Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin." The article deals with techniques used in work adjustment services.

DR. ROBERT P. ALEXANDER, Management Department chairman, spoke at the Alpha Kappa Psi installation and dedication luncheon Feb. 14 on the subject, "A New Beginning." Approximately 90 people attended the event held at the Holiday Inn Downtown. On Feb. 8, Alexander, a member of Huntington City Council, responded to the Huntington City Manager's State of the City address at a city council meeting. Approximately 150 people were present for the discussion of "What's Right with Huntington."

DR. JAMES W. HARLESS, admissions director, presented a paper, "The West Virginia College Day Program," to a meeting of the Southern Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers on Feb. 8 in Birmingham, Ala. Eleven southern states are represented in the association. Harless also was selected by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers to serve on a national new member orientation committee.

Morehead State art faculty exhibition to open on Monday

An exhibition of work by members of the Morehead (Ky.) State University Art Department faculty will open Monday, March 1, in the Birke Art Gallery.

The exhibit, which is the first cooperative effort between the two universities' art faculties, was coordinated by Richard Field of MSU, and will feature prints by Robert Franzini, paintings by Joseph Sartor, photographs by David Bartlett, watercolors by Douglas Adams and sculpture by Field.

The exhibit, which will continue through March 26, is the last in a series of programs presented under the auspices of the Birke Fine Arts Symposium. The gallery is open from noon to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Couple endowing business chair

Two Marshall alumni, Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Miller Jr. of Deerfield, Ill., have contributed $50,000 to initiate a fund establishing a distinguished chair in business at Marshall, Development Director Bernard Queen announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller have agreed to set up the fund through the Marshall Foundation at a minimum level of $250,000, Queen said. Mr. Miller presented the first $50,000 to President Robert B. Hayes during a recent visit to Huntington. Under the agreement, the endowed chair will be fully established with four additional annual contributions of $50,000.

Income from the fund will be used to supplement the regular state salary of the individual chosen for the distinguished chair and to assist the College of Business in various other ways, Queen said.

Miller, a 1942 Marshall graduate, is president and chief executive officer of Elgin National Industries, Inc., of Chicago and of Roberts & Schaefer Co. Mrs. Miller, the former Sarah Lee Marple, also attended Marshall.

A native of Chicago, Miller moved to Huntington at an early age and was educated in local schools. He worked full time at the International Nickel Co. plant while attending Marshall.

Following graduation, he was commissioned an officer in the Navy and served on the staffs of Admirals Moon and Kiland, assisting in the planning and execution of the invasions of Normandy, Southern France, the Philippines and Okinawa.

He joined Roberts & Schaefer Co. in 1946 and was assigned to the firm's Huntington office as sales engineer. He rose through the corporate structure to become president of the company in 1963. A 1969 corporate merger resulted in establishment of Elgin National Industries, Inc., and Miller was elected a vice

Seminar on financial planning, investments offered

A special seminar on financial planning and investments for state employees will be offered on March 9 at Marshall University.

Don P. Holdren, coordinator of the commercial banking and financial institutions program in the WVU College of Business and Economics, will conduct the seminar.

The morning sessions will focus on retirement income and estate planning including how to develop an accounting system to determine your personal financial standing, Dr. Holdren said.

Speakers will include Lewis N. McManus, executive secretary of the Public Employees Retirement System, and Willard M. Ansel, executive secretary of the Teachers Retirement Board. Arnold T. Margolin, state commissioner of finance and administration, will be the luncheon speaker.

The afternoon sessions will concern life insurance and investments including Individual Retirement Accounts, stocks, bonds, and money market funds. The $30 registration fee will include a Financial Planning Handbook, lunch, and two coffee breaks.

This seminar and the one set for April 9 at WVU were scheduled during the universities' spring breaks so faculty and staff could participate more easily and when more parking spaces are available.

To register, contact Don Holdren, College of Business and Economics, West Virginia University, 445 Armstrong Hall, Morgantown, W. Va. 25506; phone (304) 293-5332. Registrations also will be taken at the door.

Research award competition announced

Marshall University announces a research award competition which will be held in April, 1982. All faculty researchers who have published their works are encouraged to participate. Awards will be available in the areas of:

Business, Education, Humanities, Creative Arts, Medicine and Allied Sciences, Natural Sciences, and Social Sciences.

Each divisional award will receive recognition and a silver plaque. The Marshall Foundation is supporting this competition. Attention is called to the procedures and deadline date.

NOMINATIONS

Anyone may suggest the name of a current faculty member (including oneself) for consideration in the competition. The suggestions, signed or anonymous, should be placed in the box prepared for this purpose in the Graduate School Office on or before March 17 or mailed in prior to that date.

ELIGIBILITY

All research works published in 1979, 1980, and 1981 or creative arts in the same period are eligible. Publications submitted in the earlier competition will not be considered.

SELECTION

All persons nominated will receive an invitation to submit evidence to support their application.

A special committee composed of Research Board and other members of the faculty will choose the awardees.

GUIDELINE FORMS

Faculty members who desire to be considered as candidates in the competition will receive a guideline form.

Two astronomy lectures slated next week by Dr. Gary Wegner

Astronomer Gary Wegner of Pennsylvania State University will present two free, public lectures at Marshall next week under the American Astronomical Society's Harlow Shapley Visiting Professorship program.

Sponsored by the MU Physics and Physical Sciences Department, Dr. Wegner will discuss "Photometry of Galaxies" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Science Hall Auditorium and "How Stars End Their Lives" at the same time and place on Wednesday.

Tuesday's lecture will be slightly technical in nature; however, Wednesday's talk is designed for those who have little or no prior knowledge of astronomy, according to Dr. Warren L. Dunke, associate professor of physics and physical sciences.

Wegner also will meet informally with students and faculty to discuss astronomy research and careers in the field.

Wegner has conducted research at Australia's Mount Stromlo Observatory under a Fulbright Postdoctoral Fellowship and held research posts at the University of Oxford, the South African Observatory and Cambridge University. He is a member of the National Aeronautical and Space Administration's IUE Guest Observer Program.

MU Artists Series presents 'Arms and the Man' on Tuesday

George Bernard Shaw's comedy "Arms and the Man" will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 2, in Old Main Auditorium by the McCarter Theatre Company as part of the Marshall Artists Series' Student Division programming.

General admission tickets at $5 for adults and $2.50 for youth age 17 and under are available from the Marshall Artists Series Office in Memorial Student Center. Marshall employees may purchase tickets at half-price. Tickets may be reserved by calling (304) 696-6656.

A satire on jingo patriotism and romanticism, "Arms and the Man" was first produced in 1894 and established Shaw's reputation as a major playwright, although he already was recognized as a music and theatre critic as well as a social reformer.

Shaw's career as a major playwright spanned half a century and gained him the reputation as the leading English-language dramatist of his day and, according to many critics, possibly since Shakespeare.

A professional company, McCarter Theatre of Princeton, N.J., was founded in 1972 and today is the ninth largest theatre company in the United States. The director, Nagle Jackson, formerly was artistic director of the Milwaukee Repertory Theatre.

The inclusion of the McCarter Theatre Company production on the Artists Series schedule has been made possible in part by assistance from the Mid-Atlantic States Arts Consortium.

shall University Research and Creative Arts Bulletin is Monday, March 1. This is an opportunity for faculty to record publications or other appropriate materials for the calendar years 1979, 1980 and 1981. The form is to be returned to the Graduate School Office. For additional information, call that office at 696-6606.

EMERITUS CLUB MEETING

William Haley, general manager of WPBY-TV, will speak to retired MU faculty and staff members at the Emeritus Club's noon luncheon meeting on Wednesday, March 17, at the UpTowner Inn. Haley will discuss the operations of the state public television station and the network, according to Emeritus Club President Eugene Q. Hoak.

VAN ZANDT COMPETITION

Because of some misunderstandings, the MU Research Board is readvertising for applications for the Van Zandt Research Grant and increasing the possible scope for potential candidates. The faculty is encouraged to submit projects which involve an international experience without any limitation on the study's subject matter.

Applications are available from the Graduate School Office. The deadline for applying for the $2,000 award is Wednesday, March 17.

Personnel personals. . .

Dale E. Hoak, son of Dr. Eugene Q. Hoak, professor emeritus of speech, recently was named a Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge University. Dale, who earned his Ph.D. degree from Cambridge, has lectured there and the universities of London and Oxford. He is professor of history at William and Mary College.

His brother Dennis, who practices in internal medicine in Worcester, Mass., serves as campus physician at Holy Cross University. He is a frequent lecturer at Amherst College and various hospitals in Boston area.

Proud of a family member's achievement? Is there a new baby at your house? Is there something else you would like to share with your colleagues? "Personnel personals" is just the place. Send your information to Judith Casto, University Relations, Old Main 102.

Chair 'significant advance' for MU College of Business

erection of coal preparation and ore plants for more than 35 years.

"We believe establishment of the Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Miller Jr. Distinguished Chair in Business signals a significant advance for Marshall's College of Business," Queen said, "and we are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Miller for making this possible. It is only through such interest and support from our alumni and friends that Marshall University will be able to reach the level of excellence all of us want her to attain."
