Dr. Robert J. Gregory, assistant professor of counseling/rehabilitation, has an article dealing with techniques used in work adjustment services scheduled to appear in Volume 15, Number 4 of the "Evening State and Work Adjustment Bulletin." The article is an outgrowth of a curriculum development project Gregory directed at Cornell University.

Dr. William A. McDowell, Counseling/Rehabilitation Department chairman, attended a recent speaker for Family Life Week, sponsored by the Central Christian Church Feb. 26-27. He discussed "How to Teach Children Values." McDowell also was a speaker for a workshop on "Care and Treatment of the Terminally Ill" conducted March 2 by Ashland (Ky.) Community Hospital and Ashland Community College. His topic was "Minister Counselor Role in Caring for the Dying" and "Grief and Bereavement."

Dr. Jean Watson-Rosenbaum, assistant professor of English, presented a paper, "Tennyson's 'Garnets and Lynette' as Microcosmic Idyll," at the annual meeting of the Philological Association of the Carolinas at the University of South Carolina at Columbia. March 4-6.

Dan O'Hanlon, Criminal Justice Department acting chairman, was featured in a special report on legal issues of concern to senior citizens during the week of Feb. 20-27 on WOWK-TV. Interviewing him was DEAN STUB, director/professor, for Marshall's Instructional Television Services. O'Hanlon also was a judge for the 44th Annual Regional Golden Gloves Championship which took place Feb. 17-21. On Feb. 23, he addressed a dinner meeting of the YWCA's Women's Club on the topic "My Year as Municipal Judge and Work Adjustment Bulletin." The article is an outgrowth of a curriculum development project Gregory directed at Cornell University.

The Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) has awarded full accreditation to the Marshall University School of Medicine's Residency Program in Pathology.

The four-year residency program was granted full accreditation following a four-year period under provisional status. According to Dr. Stebbins B. Chandor, MU Pathology Department chairman and program director, "We are pleased that the program has received this endorsement by the ACGME." Dr. Chandor said, "There are a number of excellent people from the area medical community to whom we owe a special thank you for their assistance in refining this program."

The medical school's residency program offers graduate training in anatomic and clinical pathology in conjunction with Cabell Huntington Hospital, St. Mary's Hospital and the VA Medical Center. In his letter announcing the ACGME acceptance of the review committee's recommendation, Dr. Sebring noted the "considerable improvement made in the program since its last reviews."

The accreditation process for residency programs is much like that for medical schools, with provisional accreditation necessary before students may be enrolled. Dr. Chandor explained, "And, like that for schools, it is a continuous process with periodic reviews of its progress."
Dr. King key speaker for Black Awareness Week

Dr. Charles H. King Jr., president of the Urban Crisis Center in Atlanta, will make two appearances at Marshall University on Thursday, March 25, as part of the Black Awareness Week activities. King will conduct a four-hour seminar on racial awareness, beginning at 1 p.m., in Memorial Student Center's Multi-Purpose Room. King will deliver the Black Awareness Week keynote address in the Multi-Purpose Room at 7:30 p.m., in the Keith-Albee Theatre as part of the American Legends Series, March 25. At the concluding banquet, March 26, the Honeymoon Ends: For a Successful Marriage and Career, will be presented.

Both events are free and open to the public, according to DeWayne Lyles, MU Minority Students Office coordinator.

King’s appearances are part of a week-long observance of Black Awareness Week which includes a gospel jubilee sing, performance of a play, various other events, and most gratifying, "Mrs. Hindsley, Director of Music, will conduct a choir which will perform a Suite of Negro Spirituals," Mrs. Hindsley said.

For students in the seventh through ninth grades, the registration fee for three classes will be $50. Students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades may be accepted on Saturday morning at the Multi-Purpose Room, at 9:30 a.m.

In Atlanta, King conducts racial sensitivity seminars for business executives, government officials and private groups. These seminars have been called by some as the "most significant and innovative in the area of race relations." King uses a technique he calls "benoventent antagonism" to bring out racial attitudes which often are hidden.

The idea for the Urban Crisis seminars, according to King, grew out of his frustrations in trying to communicate the "anguish of racism" to white students, when he taught Black Studies at Wittenburg University in Ohio about five years ago. He found his students "reacted as the class and he found that the emotion and intensity of the approach was effective."

Other events during the week-long observance include:

- Saturday, March 20, 7 p.m., Gospel Sing, First Baptist Church.
- Sunday, 7 p.m., "Billy," a four-act play, Smith Recital Hall.
- Monday, 3 p.m., Survival Skills Seminar, MSC Rooms 2E10-13; 6:30 p.m., Mr. Black and Mr. Black Awareness Contest, Smith Recital Hall.
- Tuesday, 3 p.m., Black Male/Female Relationships Seminar, MSC Rooms 2E10-13; 8 p.m., Blacks in American Sports Seminar, Northcott Hall 209.
- Wednesday, 7 p.m., film, "Lady Sings the Blues," Science Hall 104; 9:15 p.m., Friday, 10 p.m., Disco Dance, ACF.
- Saturday, 7 p.m., Spring Greek Show, Multi-Purpose Room, Harris Hall 402.

Additional information concerning the seminar and related to other Black Awareness Week activities may be obtained by calling the Minority Students Office, (304) 696-6705.

Stress, parenting are among offerings of Psychology Clinic

This spring the Marshall University Psychology Department will offer four special clinics designed to help people alter their habits, according to Dr. Joseph Wyatt, MU Psychology Clinic director.

Registration is under way now for the clinics which will be conducted by graduate students in psychology under Wyatt’s supervision. The groups will meet from 7 to 8:15 p.m. weekly for six weeks. The registration fee is $15.

Stress Reduction, dealing with the psychological and physical effects of stress on the sexes, beginning March 22, in Harris Hall 136.

Parenting: Techniques for improving child behavior and parent-child relationship, will be taught on Mondays, beginning March 22, in Harris Hall 137.

“When the Honeymoon Ends: Planning for a successful Marriage,” designed for soon-to-be-marrieds and newlyweds, begins March 24, in Harris Hall 136.

PCOT tickets available now

General admission tickets are now on sale for the Pittsburg Chamber Opera Theatre’s performance of “II Mezzo,” The Music Man, which is scheduled for 8 p.m., Monday, March 29, in Smith Recital Hall.

Tickets are available at the Artists Series Office, located on the first floor of the MU Memorial Student Center, for adults at $7 and for youth age 17 and under at $3. Tickets are also available at the Student Service Center, at $5 for adults and $2.50 for youth age 17 and under. MU students with ID and Activity cards will be admitted free. MU employees and students with ID only may purchase tickets at half price.