More faculty and staff achievements, activities... (Continued from page 3)

WILLIAM J. RADIC, assistant professor of accounting, addressed the pre-marriage group of the Huntington Deenery on March 28 at the Sacred Heart Parish. His topic was “The Financial Aspects of Marriage.”

DR. JOAN GILLILAND, assistant professor of English, attended the Southeastern Renaissance Conference held at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on March 26-27.

DR. CORAZON ALMALEL, professor of modern languages, and JOHN H. MILLER, assistant professor of modern languages, participated in a workshop on world cultures sponsored by the West Virginia Consortium for Faculty and Course Development in International Studies on March 19-20 in Huntington.

DR. ROBERT P. ALEXANDER, Management Department chairman, has been acknowledged in the preface of the newly-published text, “Personnel: The Management of Human Resources,” by Donald P. Crane of Georgia State University. Alexander contributed to and reviewed the volume, published by Kent Publishing Co. Recently elected as Tri-State Airport Authority vice president, Alexander also addressed the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity's Founder's Day banquete March 27 on

Lecture on ‘Crisis in Poland’ scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday

Dr. Joseph R. Fiszman, a native of Poland and now professor of political science at the University of Oregon, will present a free, public lecture at 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 20, in Smith Hall 435.

This topic will be “Crisis in Poland,” according to Dr. Jabir A. Abbas, MU professor of political science. Fiszman earned his B.A. degree from St. John University, Shanghai, China and the Ph.D. degree from Michigan State University. He has published numerous articles in professional and scholarly journals.

SCIENCE HALL PROJECT

Groundbreaking ceremonies were conducted April 3 on a $5.8 million addition to the Science Hall. Following completion of the addition, the existing structure will be renovated, bringing the anticipated total cost to about $11.5 million. Wielding ceremonial shovels were, from left, Robert Wilson, director of facilities for the West Virginia Board of Regents; Mrs. Betty McCree, member of the Board of Regents; College of Science Dean Jonathan D. Howard; L. Mills, chairman of Marshall’s Physical Facilities and Planning Committee, and Mrs. Patricia Gebhart, assistant registrar, representing the Marshall Staff Employees Council.

“After 69 Years, What's New?”

LUTHER G. WHITE, assistant professor of management, has received acknowledgement for his contribution to a text by Samuel C. Crouch of Indiana University. White served as a reviewer for the book, “Principles of Modern Management.”

DR. ROLAND L. MADISON, associate professor of accounting, presented a paper, “It’s Your Job Charlie Brown-Alas Student Communication Skills: The Business Professor’s Dilemma,” at the annual meeting of the Southwest Federation of Administrative Disciplines held in Dallas, March 17-21. The paper, which was blind reviewed, was selected for publication in the “Proceedings.”

Campus job openings...

The Marshall University Personnel Office has announced the following campus employment opportunites:

- Equipment attendant, HPER, Pay Grade 2, deadline April 16.
- Laboratory/medical technologist II, Physiology, Pay Grade 8, deadline May 6.
- Secretary II, Marketing, Pay Grade 4, deadline April 16.
- Reference librarian, Health Science Library, Pay Grade 10, deadline May 6.
- Additional information or to apply contact the Personnel Office, located in Old Main 207, extension 6455.

Classified staff employees to conduct elections April 29

There will be a special meeting of all classified staff employees at 1:30 p.m. April 29 in Old Main Auditorium, Staff Council Chairman Ray Welty announced today.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect representatives to the MU Institutional Board of Advisors and the West Virginia Board of Regents’ Advisory Council of Classified Employees. Nominations for the posts were solicited earlier, Welty said.

Nominations for the one-year term to the Institutional Board of Advisors are: Eugene Crawford (incumbent), Patricia Gebhart and Allen R. Taylor.

Nominations for the West Virginia Board of Regents’ Advisory Council of Classified Employees were: Ray Welty (incumbent) and Stephen Hensley.

Classified staff employees to conduct elections April 29

There will be a general faculty meeting at 4 p.m., Tuesday, April 20, in Old Main Auditorium. The annual Spring elections of various faculty and student faculty committees will begin at that time by receiving nominations. Because the number of positions to be filled are numerous this year, this process is being provided to motivate and encourage the presentation of a wide selection of nominees.

In this Spring election by the faculty at large, nominations are received and ballots are distributed and collected during the following week. This has been the standard procedure for some years. The vacancies are as follows with the name indicating the person now serving in that position.

1. A. (All four year terms)
   - Student Conduct and Welfare Committee - Professor J. D. Folsom
   - Faculty Service Committee - Professor Elma Chapman
   - Commencement and Honorary Degrees Committee - Professor Frank Riddell
   - Commencement and Honorary Degrees Committee - Professor Carl Johnson
   - Athletic Committee - Professor Mary Marshall
   - Athletic Committee - Professor William Johnson
   - Public Relations and Publications Committee - Professor Elizabeth Barker
   - Public Relations and Publications Committee - Professor C. Robert Barnett
   - Public Relations and Publications Committee - Professor Robert White

2. B. (One-year terms)
   - Institutional Hearing Committee: Each year the faculty of each institution shall elect three tenured or probationary faculty members representative of the various ranks in the institution who shall be known as the Hearing Panel. In keeping with this, nominations will be received to elect three instructors, three assistant professors, three associate professors, and four professors. The ranks are to be held during the 1982-83 academic year. This year's names provided are now serving in the positions.

II. The Athletic Committee, in compliance with the faculty decision of May 7, 1981, will report “as to the results of this study;” made by the Ad Hoc Committee on Athletics (names provided are now serving in the positions).

   1. Nominees for the one-year term to the institutional Board of Advisors are: Eugene Crawford (incumbent), Patricia Gebhart and Allen R. Taylor.
   2. Nominees for the West Virginia Board of Regents’ Advisory Council of Classified Employees were: Ray Welty (incumbent) and Stephen Hensley.

Classified staff employees to conduct elections April 29

There will be a general faculty meeting at 4 p.m., Tuesday, April 20, in Old Main Auditorium. The annual Spring elections of various faculty and student faculty committees will begin at that time by receiving nominations. Because the number of positions to be filled are numerous this year, this process is being provided to motivate and encourage the presentation of a wide selection of nominees.

In this Spring election by the faculty at large, nominations are received and ballots are distributed and collected during the following week. This has been the standard procedure for some years. The vacancies are as follows with the name indicating the person now serving in that position.

1. A. (All four year terms)
   - Student Conduct and Welfare Committee - Professor J. D. Folsom
   - Faculty Service Committee - Professor Elma Chapman
   - Commencement and Honorary Degrees Committee - Professor Frank Riddell
   - Commencement and Honorary Degrees Committee - Professor Carl Johnson
   - Athletic Committee - Professor Mary Marshall
   - Athletic Committee - Professor William Johnson
   - Public Relations and Publications Committee - Professor Elizabeth Barker
   - Public Relations and Publications Committee - Professor C. Robert Barnett
   - Public Relations and Publications Committee - Professor Robert White

2. B. (One-year terms)
   - Institutional Hearing Committee: Each year the faculty of each institution shall elect three tenured or probationary faculty members representative of the various ranks in the institution who shall be known as the Hearing Panel. In keeping with this, nominations will be received to elect three instructors, three assistant professors, three associate professors, and four professors. The ranks are to be held during the 1982-83 academic year. This year's names provided are now serving in the positions.

II. The Athletic Committee, in compliance with the faculty decision of May 7, 1981, will report “as to the results of this study;” made by the Ad Hoc Committee on Athletics (names provided are now serving in the positions).

   1. Nominees for the one-year term to the institutional Board of Advisors are: Eugene Crawford (incumbent), Patricia Gebhart and Allen R. Taylor.
   2. Nominees for the West Virginia Board of Regents’ Advisory Council of Classified Employees were: Ray Welty (incumbent) and Stephen Hensley.

Plan summit activities with conference/facilities manager

Departments and organizations planning seminars, workshops or other similar events on campus this summer should contact the Conference and Facilities Management Office, Old Main 112, by April 20, according to Melanie Glover, manager.

“Housing accommodations and meeting space are rapidly filling up for this year’s conference season,” Mrs. Glover said. “Even tentatively scheduled events should place on the conference calendar to assist us in university-wide planning.” she added. “Anyone with questions may call me at extension 3125,” she said.
ODK LEADERSHIP AWARD

A Marshall University student, Kelly Kearfott of Farmington, has been selected as Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK) Province V Leader. The 20-year-old graduate student will be one of 12 ODK leaders competing for ODK's National Leader of the Year Award which will be announced later this spring, according to Mrs. Nancy P. Hindley, Marshall's ODK Advisor. ODK is a national leadership honorary.

Candidates from 17 colleges and universities in Ohio, western Pennsylvania and West Virginia vie for the Province V title. Nominees are judged on leadership potential as shown through academic achievements and campus and community involvement.

FACULTY RECITAL TUESDAY

Marshall University's Music Department will present a faculty recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 20, in Smith Recital Hall.

Two ensembles will be featured, the Marshall Trio and the Kinsbury Wind Quintet, with assistance from Dr. Michael Cerveris, professor of music, and Mari Eppling, director of the department's Music Preparatory Program, on piano.

The program, which is free and open to the public, will include Mozart's "Trio in E Major," Prokofiev's "Sonata for Cello and Piano," Persichetti's "Serenade No. 3 for Violin, Cello and Piano," and Poulenc's "Sextet for Piano and Wind Quintet."

IRTS INTERNSHIP WINNER

Anthony G. Crutchfield, a graduating senior at Marshall University, is one of 11 students selected nationally to participate in a summer internship in broadcasting.

Crutchfield, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Crutchfield Sr. of Roanoke, Va., was chosen by the International Radio and Television Society (IRTS) to spend eight weeks this summer working with network personnel in New York, Los Angeles and Miami.

The broadcasting major was one of 1,100 students who competed for the internship and was one of 25 selected to attend the Foundation's Internship Seminar and College Conference held earlier this year.

SPRING CONCERT SET

Marshall University's Symphonic Choir will present its spring concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 22, in Smith Recital Hall.

A four-day tour of high schools and churches in West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky with this concert, the choir will present a program of sacred and classical works, folk songs, Spirituals and Broadway show tunes, according to Dr. Wendell Kummel, choir director. The program is free and open to the public.

WANTED: Academic scholarship support

Marshall University's efforts to recruit academically-outstanding students are paying off--and the Marshall Foundation is selling roads to禁区 the money for that purpose, so we're going to raise more," Queen said.

"We need another $56,636 and we will be beating the bushes until we get it. Marshall wants those outstanding students to claim the university and they offer our state its best hope for the future," he added, "so we are calling on the friends of the university to help Marshall meet this challenge through a special fund drive."

Contributions may be sent to Marshall University Foundation, Marshall University, Huntington, W.Va. 25701. Donors may note "Special Fund" on their checks to ease the gifts for the academic scholarships, Queen said.

A successful drive will increase the amount of money available for academic scholarships from $32,460 to $378,040, permitting the university to assist 661 academically-outstanding students during the 1982-83 term, Queen said.

Residency training for med school graduates

Results from the National Residency Matching Program show that 11 members of the Marshall University School of Medicine's 1982 graduating class will take their residency training within West Virginia.

All of the 23 students in the class were accepted into graduate training programs, according to School of Medicine Dean Robert W. Coon. "We are also proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"It is particularly gratifying to have three of our graduates going to Bowman Gray School of Medicine--one of the most highly respected schools in the nation," he added.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

Of the 11 students selecting residency programs within West Virginia, 10 will study at Marshall and one in Wheeling. The remaining students have selected graduate training programs at Ohio State University Hospitals in Columbus, the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington and West Virginia University.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

Of the 11 students selecting residency programs within West Virginia, 10 will study at Marshall and one in Wheeling. The remaining students have selected graduate training programs at Ohio State University Hospitals in Columbus, the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington and West Virginia University.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

Residency training for med school graduates

Results from the National Residency Matching Program show that 11 members of the Marshall University School of Medicine's 1982 graduating class will take their residency training within West Virginia.

All of the 23 students in the class were accepted into graduate training programs, according to School of Medicine Dean Robert W. Coon. "We are also proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"It is particularly gratifying to have three of our graduates going to Bowman Gray School of Medicine--one of the most highly respected schools in the nation," he added.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.

"We are very proud to be sending students to some of the nation's most prestigious medical training centers as well," Dr. Coon said.

"Since we are still a new school, our graduates need to demonstrate to the medical profession the quality of our program and we need to exchange with residents from other programs in our own program lest we become too isolated or inbred. This would be imperative even if we were a long-established school," the dean said.