Promotion/tenure award list approved

Thirty-one Marshall University faculty members have received promotions and 11 faculty members have been awarded tenure, effective with the 1982-83 academic year, MU Provost Olen E. Jones Jr. announced today.

The list of tenure and promotions was presented to the West Virginia Board of Regents during its May meeting.

Receiving tenure, effective July 1, were associate professors Donna J. Spindel, history, and Robert F. Godfrey, accounting; assistant professors Ronald J. Oakerson, political science; W. Richard Lemke, music; Karen L. Simpkins, sociology/anthropology; John H. Miller, modern languages; Mary Etta Hight, biological sciences; H. Wayne Elmore, biological sciences, and Robert S. Angel, curriculum and foundations.

Two MU School of Medicine department chairmen also received tenure: Maurice A. Mufson, medicine, and Eugene Aserinsky, physiology.

Commencement scheduled Saturday

Marshall University will formally award approximately 1,600 degrees at the annual Commencement ceremonies Saturday, May 8, Registrar Robert H. Eddins announced. The program, to be held at the Huntington Civic Center, will begin at 11 a.m.

Governor John D. Rockefeller IV will be a special guest and will make brief remarks, Eddins said. Marshall President Robert B. Hayes will conduct the program and will deliver the charge to the graduates.

Eddins said 750 students completed work toward their degrees in the terms ending last summer and last December. Students enrolled in the current semester are taking final exams through May 7 and Eddins said he anticipated another 850 will qualify for degrees this term.

There will not be a formal Commencement address, Eddins said. In order to place more emphasis on the ceremonial aspects of Commencement, the university last year ended the practice of having a principal speaker. Instead, those receiving doctoral degrees will cross the platform to receive their academic hoods. This includes the 23 students making up the second graduating class of the School of Medicine.

The 1982 honorary degree recipient is 102-year-old Howard Burton Lee. Because of Mr. Lee's age, his honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree was presented to him in ceremonies near his home at Stuart, Fla., in March. A former West Virginia attorney general and a respected author, Mr. Lee is Marshall's oldest living graduate. His honorary degree citation will be read during the May 8 program.

Eddins said the Commencement and Honorary Degrees Committee will be host for a reception for graduates, their parents and the faculty in the Civic Center, immediately following Commencement.

Faculty members promoted in rank to full professor were: Ralph H. Hall, Harry E. Sowards and Katherine Simpkins, curriculum and foundations; June Q. Kilgore, art; Barbara B. Brown, Leonard Deutsch and Bruce Ardinger, English; Richard B. Bonnett, geology, and James A. Coil, surgery.

Promoted to associate professor rank were: Chong Kim, management; Dan O'Hanlon, legal assistant; Phillip O. Prey, occupational, adult and safety education; Ronald L. Crosbie, health, physical education and recreation; Ronald J. Oakerson, political science; Joan Gilliland and Elinore D. Taylor, English; James McQueeney, modern languages; Charles O. Lloyd II, classical studies; Mary Etta Hight and H. Wayne Elmore, biological sciences; Peter J. Kasvinsky and Michael R. Moore, biochemistry; Donald E. Melnick, medicine and pharmacology; Gary O. Rankin, pharmacology; Nancy S. Scher and Lee P. Van Voris, medicine.

New to the assistant professor ranks this fall will be: Betty J. Jarrell, accounting and legal secretarial studies; Patty B. Jones, curriculum and foundations; Rebecca Johnson-Kerns, journalism; Judith P. Sortet and Marica S. Pollard, nursing.

John Dancy to address John Marshall Society

John Dancy, senior congressional correspondent for NBC News, will address the John Marshall Society at its annual dinner Friday at the Holiday Inn Convention Center. The event will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 p.m., according to Dr. Bernard Queen, executive director of the Marshall University Foundation.

The John Marshall Society is composed of 50 individuals or couples who have provided outstanding financial support to the Marshall Foundation, Queen said.

About 70 members and guests of the society are expected to attend Friday evening's dinner, Queen said.

Katherine W. Simpkins awarded research grant

Dr. Katherine W. Simpkins, Marshall University associate professor of education, has been awarded the George W. Van Zandt Memorial Research Grant for 1982, according to Graduate School Dean Paul D. Stewart.

The $2,000 award was presented April 29 during a special dinner program to recognize research activities of university faculty members. MU Provost Olen E. Jones Jr. was the speaker.

Dr. Simpkins will use the grant for further research on "A Comparative Study of Post-Secondary Educational Opportunities in Belgium (Flemish Portion), the Netherlands (Holland) and West Virginia."

The Van Zandt Grant was established in 1980 by Margaret Van Zandt Winn in memory of her father, a prominent Huntington businessman, who died in an automobile accident in 1974. Research projects selected for this award must involve social science areas, have international implications and be based on an original idea.

Seven other MU faculty members received Distinguished Research Awards for work published from 1979 to 1981. The award winners were selected by committees composed of faculty members from the disciplines represented in the various divisions. Plaques recognizing their achievements were presented by the provost to:

Dr. Roland L. Madison, associate professor of accounting, Business; Dr. Paul W. Whear, professor of music, Creative Arts; Dr. Sam Clagg, professor of geography, Education; Dr. Warren W. Wooden, professor of English, Humanities; Dr. Bruce Chertow, professor of medicine, Medicine and Allied Health Science; Dr. Michael E. Seidel, associate professor of zoology, Natural Science, and Dr. Robert Maddox, professor of history, Social Science.

ROTC to commission 16 cadets

Sixteen Marshall University Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets will be commissioned as U.S. Army second lieutenants at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 8, in the Special Dining Room of Memorial Student Center.

Major General (Retired) Robert L. Childers, former Adjutant General of the West Virginia Army National Guard will deliver the commissioning address and will present commissions and gold lieutenants bars to the graduating cadets before an audience of school officials, parents, friends and fellow students.

This commissioning represents the largest number of officers commissioned from the Marshall University ROTC program since December of 1971, according to Lt. Col. William F. Prow, MU Military Science Department chairman.

Personnel personals. . .

Megan Ann Barnett, daughter of Dr. C. Robert Barnett and his wife Lysbeth, was the grand prize winner at the recent Cabell County Social Studies Fair. A fifth grader at Cammack School, she entered a project, "Groups vs. Individual: How Do People Work Best?" in the elementary/individual projects category in psychology. She will compete in the state fair on May 20-21. Her father is associate professor of HPER.

Lisa Beckett Bode, daughter of Donna Beckett and her husband Max, has been appointed administrative assistant to the president of Huntington Trust and Savings Bank. Her mother is secretary to the School of Medicine Dean.

Linda Sue Holmes, assistant director of athletics, and Stephen Taylor Williams were united in marriage April 24 in a ceremony at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W. Don Williams. His father is professor of HPER.

Proud of a family member's achievement? Is there a new baby at your house? Is there something else you would like to share with your colleagues? "Personnel personals" is just the place. Send your information to Judith Casto, University Relations, Old Main 102.

Forum season to feature Paul Duke, trio, travel films

A popular Conservative spokesman, five travel films, a musical trio and the moderator of PBS' "Washington Week in Review" are the programs scheduled next season for members of the Forum Division, Marshall Artists Series.

Season tickets for the Forum are $28 for adults and $14 for youth ages 17 or under; however Marshall employees may purchase their season membership for half price, according to Mrs. Nancy P. Hindsley, MU cultural events coordinator. Season subscriptions may be reserved by calling the Artists Series office, 6656.

All the programs in the 1982-83 Forum season will be held in Old Main Auditorium at 8 p.m., Mrs. Hindsley said.

Opening the season on Sept. 15 will be William Rusher, publisher of the "National Review" and a regular guest of CBS-TV's "Good Morning America" show. His topic will be "A Conservative Looks at the 80s." A graduate of Princeton University and Harvard Law School, he appeared for four years as the Conservative spokesman on PBS' award-winning show, "The Advocates."

Lecturer Gene Wiancko will narrate the film "Istanbul to Egypt" on Oct. 21. The film is a study of the great civilizations of the past which formed the basis for 20th century civilization.

On Nov. 15, Forum-goers will travel along the Thames River via a film lecture featuring Bill Madsen. Starting at the Thames' source in the Cotswolds, Madsen's film follows the river from Gloucestershire eastward to where it empties into the North Sea.

Switzerland will be the destination of the Forum's arm-chair travelers on Feb. 4, when Phil Walker takes them via film across the Alps in a balloon and for a ride on the Trans-Europe Express with stops at Lake Lucerne, Zurich, St. Moritz, Geneva and other cities.

Paul Duke, "Washington Week in Review" moderator, will speak on March 2 and answer questions from the audience. Duke, who serves as public television's senior Washington correspondent, is a seasoned political reporter, having begun covering capital politics in 1957 as a reporter for the Associated Press. Two years later he was covering Congress and national politics for the Wall Street Journal and then joined NBC News as Congressional correspondent, where he earned a reputation as the network's top congressional expert.

"Source of Faith," a film lecture on Israel with Andre de la Varre Jr., will be presented March 15 and will feature scenes ranging from religious shrines, to water sports on the Sea of Galilee and a camel market in Beer-sheba.

The Kalichstein-Laredo-Robinson Trio will perform on April 14 and is composed of Joseph Kalichstein on piano, Jaime Laredo on violin, and Sharon Robinson on cello. Highly acclaimed by musical critics, the trio's recent New York concert of Mozart, Mendelssohn and Beethoven was sold out three weeks in advance.

Closing the 1982-83 Forum season will be a film lecture with Doug Jones, "The Great World Cruise of the Q.E. II," a 30,000 mile voyage that took passengers around the world in 80 days.
