DR. HOWARD A. SLAATTE, professor of philosophy, participated in a panel discussion on "Creation and Evolution" at the Pastors School, West Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church, on Oct. 14 at Cedar Lakes. His presentation was based primarily on his recently published essay on "Creationism, Evolutionism and Secular Humanism" in which he contends that evolution and the doctrine of creation need not be antithetical.

Nine members of the Modern Languages Department attended the meetings of the West Virginia Foreign Languages Association, American associations of Teachers of French, German and Spanish and Portuguese, held in Parkersburg on Oct. 10. DR. HAROLD T. MURPHY, professor, was elected vice president. Attending in addition to him were DR. CORAZON ALMALEL, professor; DR. EMORY CARR, associate professor; DR. CHRISTOPHER DOLMETSCH, DR. JACQUELINE GUTTMANN, DR. JAMES T. McQUEENY, JOHN MILLER and NANCY STUMP, assistant professors, and SARA HENRY, instructor. Dr. John Rassias of Dartmouth College presented a workshop on his "Dartmouth Method" of teaching foreign languages. A former member of the faculty, Dr. Roger Smith, was elected association president.

DR. DOLORES JACOME, associate professor of modern languages, spoke on "Borges and Islam" on Oct. 10 at the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference held at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky.

DR. HAROLD T. MURPHY, professor of modern languages, presented "The Value of Modern Languages in the High School Curriculum" at the ninth Biennial Convention of the Ohio Catholic Education Association, held Oct. 9 in Columbus, Ohio.

MU receives nearly $3.5 million in grants

Fifty-nine grant proposals by Marshall University faculty and staff members were funded during 1980-81, yielding nearly $3.5 million for various research, teaching, public service and other projects.

Eighteen additional grant proposals initiated during that period are still pending and many will be funded this academic year, according to an annual report by Grants Director Corey Lock. The pending proposals amount to $1,870,000.

Funding sources include the federal and state governments, along with private foundations and companies.

The School of Medicine received the largest dollar amount with 10 proposals yielding $2,311,836. Another 12 proposals totaling $1,748,952 are pending, Dr. Lock said.

The School of Medicine total includes $1,781,065 from the Veterans Administration as its contribution toward staffing the medical school, which was established in cooperation with the VA.

The College of Education was the university's most active division in developing successful grants proposals, with 23 funded for $676,104.

Grants activity by other university divisions includes:

College of Liberal Arts, eight projects funded for $102,239 with three pending for $106,106; Administration, four funded for $61,000 and one pending for $3,000; College of Business, two funded for $9,304; Community College, one funded for $34,343; School of Nursing, four funded for $19,404; College of Science, four funded for $38,759 and two pending for $12,413, and Student Affairs Division, three funded for $227,470.

James Porter re-elected Foundation president

The Marshall University Foundation's Board of Directors has re-elected Huntington attorney James O. Porter as president. Foundation Executive Director Bernard Queen announced. Also re-elected were Kermit E. McGinnis, president of Huntington Federal Savings and Loan, first vice president, and William F. Agee, senior trust officer with First Huntington National Bank, second vice president.

The board's election meeting took place immediately following the annual meeting of the foundation Oct. 2 at the Guyan Golf and Country Club.

J.E. Katlic, chairman of the West Virginia Coal Association, was the guest speaker for the dinner meeting, discussing "West Virginia and Coal—the Future."

The 50-member foundation solicits, receives and administers private funds for support of Marshall University programs.

Three new members were elected to three-year terms on the foundation. They are Philip E. Cline and R. Sterling Hall of Huntington and R.G. Miller Jr. of Chicago, Ill.

Re-elected to three-year terms were Mrs. William D. Birke, Dr. Walter E. Brewer, John D. Drinko, Maurice J. Flynn, Frank E. Hanshaw Sr., James H. (Buck) Harless, G.B. Johnson Jr., Patrick R. McDonald, William G. Powers, Robert W. Simmons, Mrs. John F. Speer, William A. Thompson, Richard K. VanZandt and Thomas D. Wilkerson.

Elected or re-elected to serve on the Board of Directors for three-year terms were Cline, Jack J. Klim, Mrs. Birke, McDonald, Simmons, Johnson, Powers and William A. Thompson.

Scholar of state, local politics to speak on campus Wednesday

Dr. Malcolm E. Jewell, one of the nation's foremost scholars of state and local politics, will present a free, public lecture at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 21, at Marshall University in Corbly Hall 105.

Jewell, University of Kentucky professor of political science, also will meet with various political science classes on Thursday. His campus appearance is sponsored by the Marshall University Foundation's Distinguished Lectureship Program.

The author of several publications on state legislatures, Jewell is co-author of "The Legislative Connection: The Representative and the Represented in Keyna, Korea and Turkey," which is scheduled for publication this year. He also is the co-author of the book "Kentucky Politics," which is considered by many to be the authoritative volume on the state's political system.

Corbin, Ltd., joins Marshall shoppers group

The seventh local firm, Corbin, Ltd., has joined the new Marshall University-Huntington Shoppers (MU-HS) group and is offering 10 percent discounts on merchandise at its store in the East Gate Shopping Center, Ona, to MU staff employees.

"We're really pleased to have Corbin join our effort to assist Marshall employees and promote local business," Georgia Childers, chairman of the Community Discount Committee of the State Employee Council, said in making the announcement.

Membership in MU-HS is free and open to all university staff employees. Discounts offered by participating firms generally range from 10 to 20 percent on nonsale items. Anyone wishing to join the group or obtain more information may call Mrs. Childers at Ext. 6608.

The list of other MU-HS merchants includes Cabell Paint and Decorating Center, Mack and Dave's, Ponderosa Steak House (Third Avenue), Princess Shop, Smart Shop and YMCA (Lauer Building).

Gallery hours are from noon to 4 p.m. weekdays and the Regional Group Exhibition will continue through Nov. 20.

In conjunction with the exhibit, Carl Solway of Cincinnati, owner of Carl Solway Gallery and Not in New York, will present a free, public lecture on "The Commercial Gallery and its Role in the Art Market," at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 21, in the gallery. A reception will follow.

FACULTY ELECTION RESULTS

The results of the recent faculty election are as follows:

Amendment to the Faculty Constitution concerning membership of the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee, passed;

Maureen Milicia, associate professor of speech, and J.D. Folsom, assistant professor of music, elected to one-year and two-year terms respectively on the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee;

MU, health care agencies plan cardiac conference

A Cardiac Rehabilitation Conference will be presented by Marshall University's School of Medicine, the Cabell Huntington Hospital and the Vocational Rehabilitation Division, West Virginia Board of Vocational Education on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16-17.

The sessions will be open to physicians, nurses, physician assistants, resident physicians and students as well as to vocational rehabilitation counselors.

Seven hours of AMA Category I Continuing Medical Education (CME) credit will be offered to physicians through the School of Medicine, according to Dr. C.W. Jones, MU CME director.

The faculty includes guest specialists from the Medical College of Georgia and George Washington University, cardiologists and other physicians, physical education specialists, rehabilitation counselors and a nurse.

The conference, which will be held at Marshall's Memorial Student Center, will begin at noon Friday, Oct. 16, with registration, followed by an introductory session. The first panel discussion will start at 1:30 p.m.

Mack Gillenwater, associate professor of geography, elected to fill a vacancy on the Faculty Service Committee.

CATALOGS

The new 1982 catalogs from Stationers, Inc. are available and may be picked up at the Office of Purchasing, Old Main Room 206.

GAMES TELEvised

WPBY-TV (Channel 33) has announced the addition of three away games to its schedule of delayed telecasts of Marshall University football games. The three games—William and Mary, Oct. 17; Furman, Oct. 31, and Appalachian State, Nov. 7—will be broadcast at 11 p.m. on those dates.

Delayed telecasts of home games are aired at 10 p.m. on game dates. Channel 33 indicated a grant from several local businesses had made the additional telecasts possible.

HOMECOMING DISCOUNTS

Marshall faculty and staff members are eligible for the active member discount on tickets to Homecoming activities, according to Alumni Affairs Director Karen C. Thomas. Tickets must be reserved, however, by 4 p.m. Monday, Oct. 19. For additional information or to reserve tickets, call the Alumni Office, 3134.

SYMPHONY FRIDAY

The Marshall University Symphony, James McWhorter, conductor, will present its fall concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 16, in Smith Recital Hall.

The program, which is free and open to the public, will feature Deborah Egekvist, MU flute instructor, as soloist for Mozart's "Flute Concerto No. 2 in D Major, K 314." Other selections to be performed will be Berlioz's "Roman Carnival Overture" and Brahms' "Symphony No. 2 in D Major, Opus 73."

Personnel personals. . .

April Lyn Derzypolski, 12-year-old daughter of Tom Derzypolski, assistant professor of speech, was elected president of the Enslow Junior High School seventh grade class. Considering that April just moved to Huntington from Florida, her parents are very proud of her achievement.

Amy Aldred, daughter of Dr. Frank Aldred, professor of history, set a women's division record in winning the third annual "Almost Heaven Marathon" in Charleston on Oct. 10. Her time for the 26-mile, 385-yard course was three hours and 59 seconds. Amy, a doctoral candidate in sociology at the University of Virginia, was competing in her fifth marathon.

Lisa Burdick, granddaughter of Percy Galloway, former Marshall Bookstore manager, has been selected as a debutante in Durham-Chapel Hill, N.C. and will be presented Dec. 30. A June, 1980, graduate of Durham's Jordan High School, she was named "Outstanding Senior" in the class of 376. Her mother is the former Mamie J. Galloway, a 1958 cum laude graduate of Marshall.

Proud of a family member's achievement? Is there a new baby at your house? Is there something you'd like to share with your colleagues? "Personnel personals" is open to you. Send your information to Judith Casto, University Relations, Old Main 102.

LEO V. IMPERI, associate professor of music, was the soloist for the coronation of Queen Silvia XLV at the Mountain State Forest Festival in Elkins Oct. 2, appearing with the Fairmont State College Band. He also was a featured singer at the third annual Italian Heritage Festival Sept. 5 in Clarksburg, appearing on a program of operatic numbers with other soloists from the West Virginia Opera Theater Group.

DR. STEVEN MEWALDT, associate professor of psychology, is the co-author of a paper, "Time course of mental and psychomotor effects of 30 per cent nitrous oxide during inhalation and recovery," which appeared in a recent issue of Anesthesiology.

DR. WILLIAM A. McDOWELL, associate professor of counseling/rehabilitation and department chairman, presented a workshop, "Hypnosis and Suggestion: Techniques for the 'Counselor,'" at a regional conference of the Southern Association of Counselor Educators and Supervisors, held Oct. 5 in Huntington. He also conducted a workshop on "Counseling with the Chemically Dependent Family" at the West Virginia Alcohol and Drug Counselors annual conference on Oct. 11 at Clarksburg.

DR. JOHN W. FOSTER, assistant professor of microbiology, presented the paper, "Isolation and characterization of pyridine nucleotide cycle regulatory mutants of Salmonella typhimurium," at the Oct. 9-10 meeting of the Allegheny Branch meeting of the American Society for Microbiology held in Memorial Student Center. He also was co-author of three papers presented by department graduate students: "Localization of NAD pyrophosphatase activity in the membrane of Salmonella typhimurium," by David F. Falconer; "P22 phage as a vector for Mu phage mutagenesis in Salmonella typhimurium," by Elizabeth A. Holley, and "Tn10 generated deletions in the pncA-pncX region of Salmonella typhimurium chromosome," by Michael P. Spector.
