There are Three Departments—Primary, Normal and Academical.

The Academical Department

Includes a full course of English and Classical studies adapted to fit young people for advanced standing in College, or for any kind of business. The studies of this are the same as those of the Normal Department given below, except that students are not required to pursue the professional studies connected with the Theory and Practice of Teaching.

Normal Department.

The arrangement of studies, and the methods of instruction used, are intended to furnish the students with: 1st. A thorough knowledge of the branches commonly taught in the schools of the State. 2d. A knowledge of the principles of education and of the art of applying them to practice in the school room.

There are two courses of study, namely: The Normal Training Course, arranged to prepare teachers for common ungraded and lower grade schools; the higher Normal Course, intended to qualify teachers to take charge of High or Union Schools, or to fit them to discharge the duties of Superintendent of county or city schools.

Primary Department.

The Primary Department, connected with the Normal School and under the supervision of the Principal, is so arranged as to constitute a model school, and intended to afford a practical exemplification of the principles and methods in an efficient course of Normal training.

Normal Training Course.

JUNIOR YEAR.

Mental and Written Arithmetic, Orthography, Reading, Penmanship, Geography, Botany, Vocal Music, Ethical Instruction, Composition, Grammar, Methods and Principles of Primary Instruction.

Particular attention is given, during this year, to the art of making the elements of learning interesting and attractive to the young, to the use of reading cards, primary school charts, and all kinds of primary school illustrative apparatus.

SENIOR YEAR.

Elocution, Composition, History of the United States, Drawing on Blackboard, Physiology, Vocal Music, Book-keeping, Natural Philosophy, Algebra, Etymology, Theory and Practice of Teaching, including the Principles and Methods of Organization, Classifying and Managing Schools, and the best methods of teaching the different branches.

Students not qualified to enter the junior class of the Normal Course, if of proper age and otherwise qualified, may receive in the school one year of preparatory instruction.

Higher Normal Course.

JUNIOR YEAR.

Higher Algebra, Trigonometry, Chemistry, Zoology, Surveying, General History, Composition, Botany, Geology, American Literature, History of Education.

SENIOR YEAR.

Mental Philosophy, Astronomy, Moral Philosophy, Analytical Geometry, Higher Natural Philosophy, Logic, Rhetoric, English Literature, Theory of Teaching.

Under "Theory of Teaching," in this course, the following topics will receive attention: The Mind, its nature and mode of action; the laws of mental growth and development, and the application of these laws to the business of teaching; school laws in general, and the school system of West Virginia in particular; School Supervision and Management; School House Architecture.

Students who do not wish to take the full course may join any class for which they are prepared.

DIPLOMAS.

Students completing any one of the several courses will receive a suitable diploma. The diploma of the Normal graduates will be signed by the State Superintendent of Free Schools, and will entitle the holder to teach in any county in the State, without further examination.

BUILDINGS.

Our buildings consist of a main building, 40 x 70, and one wing, 30 x 110; both three stories high, all fitted up and furnished in the best manner.

APPARATUS.

The school is now furnished with a good selection of Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus. A Geographical Clock; Terrestrial and Celestial Globes; Harper's Primary School Charts; Warren's Geographical Charts; McGuffey's Reading Cards, and a good collection of Hand Specimens for Geology and Mineralogy.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOM.

A free Reading Room is kept open for the use of the students. It contains a selection of the leading papers and magazines in the country, with the school journals of different States.

We have now the nucleus of a circulating and reference library, containing about one hundred and fifty volumes.

TEXT BOOKS.

All Text Books and Stationery needed in the school can be procured here at lowest retail prices. Students should bring with them any books which they may possess; but are advised not to purchase any new ones till they arrive at the School.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS.

This institution being designed to serve the interests of all classes in the State, is, and always must be, unsectarian. All forms of private religious convictions will be respected. But while the sectarian part of religion is held in abeyance, sound morality and those great principles of revealed religion on which all sects are substantially agreed will receive due attention. The highest type of character is the intelligent Christian; to this all students will be urged to aspire. A student who does not possess and maintain a good moral character will not be allowed to remain in connection with the institution.

A Bible Class meets every Sabbath, and a Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening. Attendance upon these exercises is optional with students. There is preaching either in the Chapel of the School, or in the church near by, every Sabbath.
