Important Notes on Using the Fred Lambert Collection

Fred Lambert's collection was received in five installments and each was processed separately, culminating in the creation of five finding aids. The finding aids have been merged here into one document for ease of research use.

This document contains guides to the five installments in the following order, with brief descriptions for each installment:

MS 76: Notebooks of Lambert's research related to West Virginia history and genealogy relating especially to Cabell, Wayne, and Lincoln Counties, 21 boxes.

MS 76A: Notebooks of Mr. Lambert's research notes concerning his own family genealogy, 1 box.

MS 76B: Personal papers and correspondence, research files, and photographs related to West Virginia and local history, 19 boxes.

MS 76C: Photographs and materials related to steamboats and river boats as well as additional genealogical and local history materials, 2 boxes

MS 76D: Index cards containing notes on families, plots of land and deeds, cemeteries, churches, and more, 10 boxes

Due to the complex and overlapping nature of the contents of this collection, when requesting materials from the Lambert collection, please be sure to note the MS number (whether it is 76, 76A, 76B, 76C, or 76D) as well as the box and notebook or folder number within the box. This information is vital to ensuring we pull the right box and folder for your research. The MS number will be located on a cover page directly before the list of boxes.

Biographical Notes:

Fred B. Lambert (1873-1967) was born at Crown City, Lawrence County, Ohio, on 16 May 1873, the son of Henry and Sarah Swartwood Lambert. He was educated at Morris Harvey College, Marshall College and West Virginia University. He spent fifty years in the West Virginia educational system as a teacher, principal, and superintendent. He organized several high schools, including Guyan Valley High School at Branchland, Lincoln County, West Virginia, in the 1920s. He served for forty-two years as a principal at Guyan Valley High School and Hamlin High School, both in Lincoln County, and Milton High School in neighboring Cabell County. He was superintendent of the former Ceredo-Kenova Independent School District, before the institution of the county-wide school system. Mr. Lambert was a Mason for over fifty years, and taught the Men's Bible Class at Barboursville Methodist Church for many years. He was a member of the Hebron Baptist Church on Tom's Creek, near Barboursville, Cabell County, West Virginia. Mr. Lambert devoted at least sixty years of his life in collecting information about West Virginia history, especially as it related to Cabell, Wayne, and Lincoln Counties, West Virginia. Much of this information, comprising approximately five hundred notebooks and other materials, was microfilmed by West Virginia University with originals housed at Marshall University.

Scope and Content:

MS 76, the original accession of the Fred B. Lambert Papers, is composed of 19 boxes of notebooks and 2 boxes of assorted clippings and other material. Notebooks contain materials on the history of Cabell and Wayne Counties, West Virginia. Included are cemetery readings, copies of deeds, wills, indentures, newspaper articles, research notes and notes of interviews conducted by Mr. Lambert of Cabell County residents. Material on Lincoln, Logan, Mason, Kanawha, and Boone Counties is also included. Also part of the finding aid is an index to materials. The index is by no means comprehensive; it is primarily a guide to family names where there is a significant amount of information.

Processing Notes:

This collection was already processed at the time the finding aid was created. Minimal changes to folder titles, order, or content were made.

Preferred Citation:

Biographical Notes:

Fred B. Lambert (1873-1967) was born at Crown City, Lawrence County, Ohio, on 16 May 1873, the son of Henry and Sarah Swartwood Lambert. He was educated at Morris Harvey College, Marshall College and West Virginia University. He spent fifty years in the West Virginia educational system as a teacher, principal, and superintendent. He organized several high schools, including Guyan Valley High School at Branchland, Lincoln County, West Virginia, in the 1920s. He served for forty-two years as a principal at Guyan Valley High School and Hamlin High School, both in Lincoln County, and Milton High School in neighboring Cabell County. He was superintendent of the former Ceredo-Kenova Independent School District, before the institution of the county-wide school system. Mr. Lambert was a Mason for over fifty years, and taught the Men's Bible Class at Barboursville Methodist Church for many years. He was a member of the Hebron Baptist Church on Tom's Creek, near Barboursville, Cabell County, West Virginia. Mr. Lambert devoted at least sixty years of his life in collecting information about West Virginia history, especially as it related to Cabell, Wayne, and Lincoln Counties, West Virginia. Much of this information, comprising approximately five hundred notebooks and other materials, was microfilmed by West Virginia University with originals housed at Marshall University.

Scope and Content:

MS 76A, is composed of notebooks related to Fred Lambert's personal genealogy research. Some non-Lambert genealogical materials may also be present.

Processing Notes:

This collection was already processed at the time the finding aid was created. Minimal changes to folder titles, order, or content were made.

Much of this information, comprising approximately five hundred notebooks and other materials, was microfilmed by West Virginia University with originals housed at Marshall University.

Scope and Content:

MS 76B of the Fred B. Lambert Papers includes Lambert's research notes and correspondence on local family histories and the development of transportation in what is now western West Virginia. The latter part of the collection contains both holograph and typescript transcripts of reports of the James River and Kanawha Turnpike Company, the Guyandotte Navigation Company, and the Virginia Board of Public Works. Other primary documents include minutes of the Barboursville, West Virginia, Town Council (1867-1875), Barboursville Common Council (1901-1911), and the Lincoln County, West Virginia, Board of Education for the Sheridan District (1926-1929). There are rosters of volunteer regiments in Cabell County, (West) Virginia during the 1850s as well as numerous genealogical research notes and some correspondence. Of particular note is the transcription of the William F. Dusenberry diary (Barboursville, West Virginia, 1855-1869), located in the oversized items. Also included are photographs of persons and places in Cabell and Lincoln Counties, West Virginia, dating from the late nineteenth century to the 1920s. Notable among the photographs are prints and glass negatives of steamboats.

Biographical Notes:

Fred B. Lambert (1873-1967) was born at Crown City, Lawrence County, Ohio, on 16 May 1873, the son of Henry and Sarah Swartwood Lambert. He was educated at Morris Harvey College, Marshall College and West Virginia University. He spent fifty years in the West Virginia educational system as a teacher, principal, and superintendent. He organized several high schools, including Guyan Valley High School at Branchland, Lincoln County, West Virginia, in the 1920s. He served for forty-two years as a principal at Guyan Valley High School and Hamlin High School, both in Lincoln County, and Milton High School in neighboring Cabell County. He was superintendent of the former Ceredo-Kenova Independent School District, before the institution of the county-wide school system. Mr. Lambert was a Mason for over fifty years, and taught the Men's Bible Class at Barboursville Methodist Church for many years. He was a member of the Hebron Baptist Church on Tom's Creek, near Barboursville, Cabell County, West Virginia. Mr. Lambert devoted at least sixty years of his life in collecting information about West Virginia history, especially as it related to Cabell, Wayne, and Lincoln Counties, West Virginia. Much of this information, comprising approximately five hundred notebooks and other materials, was microfilmed by West Virginia University with originals housed at Marshall University.

Scope and Content:

MS 76C consists primarily of river boat photos and items, such as photographs and typescripts, submitted from outside the collection. These include the Earl Cooper Collection consisting of photographs and cards depicting river boats. Box two in the collection contains genealogical and local history notebooks compiled by Lambert as well as the previously mentioned photographs.

Processing Notes:

This collection was already processed at the time the finding aid was created. Minimal changes to folder titles, order, or content were made.

Preferred Citation:

Local history

Biographical Notes:

Fred B. Lambert (May 16, 1873-October 10, 1965) was born at Crown City, Lawrence County, Ohio, on 16 May 1873, the son of Henry and Sarah Swartwood Lambert. He was educated at Morris Harvey College, Marshall College and West Virginia University. He spent fifty years in the West Virginia educational system as a teacher, principal, and superintendent. He organized several high schools, including Guyan Valley High School at Branchland, Lincoln County, West Virginia, in the 1920s. He served for forty-two years as a principal at Guyan Valley High School and Hamlin High School, both in Lincoln County, and Milton High School in neighboring Cabell County. He was superintendent of the former Ceredo-Kenova Independent School District, before the institution of the county-wide school system.

Mr. Lambert was a Mason for over fifty years, and taught the Men's Bible Class at Barboursville Methodist Church for many years. He was a member of the Hebron Baptist Church on Tom's Creek, near Barboursville, Cabell County, West Virginia. Mr. Lambert devoted at least sixty years of his life in collecting information about West Virginia history, especially as it related to Cabell, Wayne, and Lincoln Counties, West Virginia. Much of this information, comprising approximately five hundred notebooks, was microfilmed by West Virginia University. The notebooks include genealogical material from census records and deed books as well as material copied from other primary and secondary sources.

Scope and Content:

This collection consists of index cards containing notes on topics related to Fred Lambert's enduring interest in West Virginia history. It includes cards containing information on families, plots of land and deeds, cemeteries, churches, and more. Boxes 1-3 are tied to locations, while boxes 3-10 relate to family and individual notes. Family note cards contain information including marriages, location lived, children, and cemetery information.

Processing Notes:

This collection was already processed at the time the finding aid was created. Minimal changes to folder titles, order, or content were made.
