GENERAL REMARKS.

Origin and Purpose.

The State Normal School was established by act of the Legislature February 27, 1867. The opening sentence of the act provides:

"That there be established a State Normal School, to be called the 'West Virginia State Normal School,' for the instruction and practice of teachers of common schools in the science of education and art of teaching.

Subsequently five branches of the State Normal School were established, making six of these schools in the State. Marshall College, an educational institution of long standing and wide reputation, was made the State Normal School, its property having been conveyed to the State by the county of Cabell. The State provided ample appropriations to build the necessary editions, equip and furnish the school.

As stated in the act creating the school, its object is the training of teachers. To the carrying out of this purpose the best energies of those entrusted with its management are devoted.

Location.

Huntington is the most prosperous and enterprising city in the State. Its railroad, mail and telegraph facilities are of the very best. It has the modern improvements, including water works, electric lights and street railways. Marshall College is situated in a beautiful grove on the principal avenue, and yet at a sufficient distance from the business portion of the town to secure the quiet and seclusion necessary to the student. Electric street cars pass the College at short intervals.
The question of healthfulness is an important factor in selecting a school to attend. The situation of Marshall College is very fortunate in this respect. Its natural location and its improved sanitary arrangements are all conducive to health. There has not been a school of serious illness at the College for a number of years.

Text Books.

All text books and stationery needed by students may be procured in Huntington at the regular retail prices. Students should bring with them any text books which they may possess, but are advised not to purchase any new ones until they arrive at the school.

Apparatus.

A supply of excellent mathematical and philosophical apparatus has recently been procured. Superior facilities are thus provided for teaching such of the natural sciences as belong to the course of study. In the daily work of their various classes, pupils are permitted to witness and perform interesting and instructive experiments, and from the facts thus set forth are directed to the causes and underlying principles.

Library and Reading Room.

A respectable beginning has been made towards a library. There are already on the shelves a number of standard works of history, biography, science, pedagogy and general literature. It is proposed to make addition to these from year to year until a library is secured fully commensurate with the wants of the school.

A reading room was opened a few years ago and has proved to be a most useful and enjoyable feature. On its tables are found most of the leading magazines, together with a number of religious and secular newspapers, and periodicals.

The privileges of the library and reading room are free to all students.

Requisites for Admission.

Students expecting to enter the Junior year of the Normal Course should have previously completed the usual free school course of study in Reading, Spelling, Writing, Geography and Practical Arithmetic (Ray’s); and some elementary work in English Grammar.

Pupils desiring to enter the Intermediate or Senior class will be permitted to do so, provided they can pass a satisfactory examination on all the branches belonging to the preceding year,
Moral and Religious.

An institution supported by public taxation and designed to serve the interests of all classes in the State must of necessity be unsectarian. It does not follow from this, however, that those principles of morality and religion upon which all sects may agree are not to receive attention. On the contrary, any system of education in which these principles are neglected and these forces not recognized must be a disastrous failure.

All students boarding in the building, are under direct care of the teachers at all times.

Students in attendance at the school, not boarding at the building, are looked after carefully, and parents and others interested are promptly notified of any improper conduct or inattention to study.

No student of immoral character is allowed to remain in the school.

Punctuality, industry, and the full performance of all work required will be insisted upon. Civil, gentlemanly and ladylike conduct will be expected of every student.

The daily work of the school is begun by religious exercises, upon which every student, unless specially excused, is required to attend. The different religious denominations have their churches, pastors and Sunday Schools in the city, and these are means of good influence on students.

The fear is sometimes expressed that students attending school in a city like Huntington, are in more danger of being led off from the paths of right conduct than in smaller places. No greater mistake can be made. There is certainly no more danger of the formation of bad habits by students, if proper care is taken, in Huntington, than in small villages. On the other hand, there are many influences for good, morally and spiritually, that from the nature of the case are not found in smaller towns.

Boarding.

There are two dormitories in the college building entirely separate from each other; one is allotted exclusively for the use of young lady students, the other for young men.

In each of these dormitories are teachers' rooms; the ladies' dormitory is under the immediate oversight of lady teachers, while the male members of the faculty have charge of the dormitory for young men—all under the constant care and supervision of the principal.
Water supplied from the city water works is on every floor of the building; bath rooms and toilet rooms in each dormitory.

The building is lighted by gas throughout and heated by the best hot air system. Students' rooms are furnished with bureau, washstand and set, bed with spring mattress, table, chairs, etc. Students are required to furnish their own bed clothes, towels, and napkins.

Students boarding at the College, are under the direct care of the Principal and teachers, all of whom reside in the building.

The occupants of the two dormitories are brought together in a common dining hall, and occasional social gatherings under the personal direction of the teachers form a pleasant feature of the home life.

The cost of board in the building is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Cost</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Board per week, if paid monthly in advance</td>
<td>$2.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Board per week if not paid in advance</td>
<td>$3.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fuel and light fee per week, payable in advance</td>
<td>$0.25</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A deposit of two dollars may be required of each student boarding in the building as a damage fund. This will be refunded on the student's departure if there is no charge against him for damage to room or furniture.

Board may be obtained in private families at about the same rates as the above.

Students intending to board in the building should report at the College immediately and thus save hotel bills. It is also desirable that the Principal be notified in advance of the intended arrival of students.

It is recommended that parents send to the Principal money for the expenses of their sons or daughters at school. The Principal will receipt for it in every instance, and render an itemized account each term.

Other Expenses.

The expenses for board as above, with an incidental fee of $1.00 per term, is all the necessary expense of Normal pupils, except for washing and books, both of which are small items.

The Normal student having no expense for tuition, can attend school at Marshall College at a cost very much below that charged for the same grade of work in similar schools elsewhere.

It is claimed for Marshall College, in common with the other
Normal Schools of the State, that it offers to teachers or to those preparing to teach, superior advantages at a minimum cost.

Examination.

At the close of each term, examinations in all branches of study pursued that term will be held. The grades obtained by students at these examinations, averaged with their class standing, will be recorded as their standing on the several branches, seventy-five on a scale of one hundred being the minimum pass grade. Reports are issued after each examination, showing the standing of pupils, department, attendance, etc.

Military Department.

A volunteer military department has been recently organized. Any young man desiring the benefits of the drill may become a cadet, upon providing himself with the uniform and agreeing to attend the drills. This department is not allowed to interfere in any way with the regular work of the school, the time devoted to it being entirely outside of school hours.

Time to Enter.

If possible, students should enter school promptly at the beginning of the term, but the work is so arranged that students can be accommodated at almost any time. Special arrangements are made to suit teachers who are unable to attend more than one or two terms on account of their schools.
ALUMNI RECORD.

[The following record of the graduates of Marshall College is incomplete. The Principal has made an effort to obtain information in regard to all the members of the Alumni, but with poor success. It is hoped that by another year the list will be complete and correct. Alumni or their acquaintances are requested to furnish information and correct all mistakes.]
