MUGWUMPERY DEFINED.
The Political Extremity to Which Curtis Et Al. Are Now Reduced.
That peculiar manifestation of political prudery called mugwumpery is no new thing; it is as old as civilization. There are always men in this world who, like the Pharisees in the Bible, thank God upon the street corners that they are not as other men. You find them in the churches, in society, in business and in politics.

THE DRIFT FOR 1898.
Stumbling Blocks in the Way of the President's Re-election.
The talk of Democrats from the South and West, who have visited Washington recently, regarding the drift for 1898 does not bear out ex-Secretary Manning's theory that the South and West are the Pharisees in the Bible, thank God upon the street corners that they are not as other men. You find them in the churches, in society, in business and in politics.

Judge Kelley, having told divers and sundry farmers of Southern soil that the establishment of a system of diversity of crops would increase their products, and that the establishment of manufacturing and trading centers in their States would enlarge their home market, a free-trade contemporary shrieks at the conclusion: "Why is the price of farm lands lower to-day in Pennsylvania than it was twenty-five years ago?"

couple, and its best wishes for a bright future.

Our Jewish citizens chartered the steamer B. T. Enos on last Sunday "excursion" to Gallipolis. The party numbered about fifty, and the trip to and fro was made without an accident to mar the pleasures of the occasion. There is probably no town where the Jewish element more thoroughly enjoy themselves than here. Notwithstanding many are always friendly and festive when together for a period of recreation or amusement. With their picnics, balls, entertainments and excursions, they indeed bear life's burdens lightly.

The grading on the Ohio River Railroad between Life City and Point Pleasant is being rapidly done, and everything points to an early completion of the road. No doubt trains will be running by early winter. On the Big Sandy Railroad, (between this city and Covington, Ky.), the grading is almost completed, and the laying of the rails will soon be commenced. It is safe to say, that before the snow flies again two more railroads will have entered our city.

The steamers Louise, Ingomar and Nora Belle carried excursion parties from this city to Ironton and return on Sunday to witness the ceremony of laying the corner stone of St.
Joseph Catholic Church of that place.
About fifty from this city visited that ancient town, and enjoyed the occasion highly. The three boats were loaded before reaching Ironton by parties from intermediate points.

Following are the given names of a young gentleman in this city who is the seventh son of a seventh son.
It will be noticed that the number of names are seven. Since Bolivar Buckner Pierre Gustavus Tonton Beauregard. The man who has been enquiring, "What's in a name?" is respectfully requested to have this one analyzed.

We neglected to mention that on last week Thursday evening the ladies of the Presbyterian Church held a lawn fete in R. A. Jack's beautiful front yard, corner Third avenue and 13th street. A very pleasant time was had, it is said by those who were fortunate enough to be present, and a considerable sum was realized.

The Richmond and Danville Railroad Company have placed an order with the Ensign Company for three hundred cars, and W. T. Williamson, representing the R. & D., will remain in the city until they are completed, which will require about six weeks. Mr. Williamson's business is to inspect the cars as they are turned out.

Keefe & Buffington, the enterprising druggists, Mathews block, have just had set up one of the handsomest soda fountains in the State. It is valued at $1,800, and adds greatly to the general attractiveness of the store. Call and try a glass of their cool and sparkling soda, flavored with any syrup you may desire.

Why do I go to R. A. Jack & Co's for my dry goods? Because they have the largest and best selected stock of any house in the city or in this section, and because their prices are as low as prevail anywhere. This is the sentiment of all who once try this popular house, 940 Third avenue, Mathews block.

Mr. Sprinkle informs us that he disposed of his dwelling house for $1,325 instead of $1,000 as we stated last week. We gladly make the correction in the interest of property owners in Mr. Sprinkle's neighborhood. Fourth avenue is alright, with a street railroad in prospect.

Capt. J. E. Wood offers his entire property in this city for sale on reasonable terms. His dwelling, on the corner of Seventh avenue and 12th street, is handsome and commodious, and located in a splendid neighborhood. The Captain desires to remove to the Pacific coast.

A spirited fist encounter took place between two white men and two colored men at the passenger depot on Monday evening, during which the colored men were worsted.
All were railroad men, and the difficulty arose over a trivial matter.
No arrests.

S. C. Beach, grocer, corner Seventh avenue and 10th street. The citizens of Huntington and vicinity are respectfully invited to call when in need of anything in the line of groceries, produce, etc. Prices as low as the lowest.

During this pleasant weather you no doubt will want photographic work done. If so, do not fail to call at the Mathews Brothers' gallery, over Garland's dry goods store. Only first-class work done.

Now let the young ladies of the city present the Huntington Light Guards with a company flag. It would be appropriate and becoming in them to do so. And let it be their own handiwork.

The proper name of the Tolliver gang of desperadoes is Taliaferro, says Daniel Boone Logan, the determined leader of the late posse of citizens who exterminated four of the outlaws.

Dr. Blubaugh has a shell from which was fired one of the bullets that entered the body of the desperado Craig Tolliver. It fits a .38 Winchester rifle.

Go to Parsons & Emmons and get the Improved Glass Fruit jars, clear double strength glass. Lightning self sealers. A perfect jar. Mason's also in stock.

This city is overrun with business houses—dry goods, grocery, drug and clothing establishments. What we want is more manufacturing.

Why suffer with corns when you can cure them for 25 cents with Wayne's Corn Cure, a never failing remedy. Sold by J. L. Cridler.

Water service has been put in the Merchants Hotel, and the wash-room is being supplied with a handsome marble slab, silver faucets, etc.

For pure, unadulterated whiskies, call at Jack Coghill's place, opposite Opera House. Fresh lager always on tap.

We are indebted to Chas. E.
Henry for a delightful drive recently over the city and adjacent territory.

Ice cream, pure and delicious, at the Gem Restaurant. Also meals elegantly prepared at all hours of ing and business houses at the rate of about four a day.

AN INTERVIEW

WITH DANIEL BOONE LOGAN, THE LEADER OF THE ROWAN CO.
POSSE OF CITIZENS WHO EXTER-MINATED FOUR OF THE TOL-LIVER GANG OF DESPERA-DOS, INCLUDING THE
LEADER CRAIG TOL-
LIVER.

D. B. Logan, the organizer and leader of the posse of citizens who annihilated four of the Tolliver gang of desperadoes and outlawed the remained on last week Wednesday, with his wife and child, spent Sunday and Monday at the St. Nicholas Hotel in this city. Logan is a young man, probably about thirty years of age, is a lawyer by profession, and is recognized as a leading citizen of Morehead, where he was born and reared.
He is quiet and unostentatious, and in relating the recent occurrence, avoided making himself prominent in the affair. Said he: "Up to the murder of my two second cousins, (Logans) I was on friendly terms with Craig Tolliver and his gang. But believing these young boys were murdered without proper cause, I so expressed myself, which incurred the displeasure of the Tollivers, and Craig boldly asserted that I should be murdered before the week passed.
Friends that I could rely upon told me this, so I concluded it advisable to leave, which I immediately did, calling upon the Governor at Frankfort and importuning him to send a body of soldiers to Morehead to make the arrest of those who were implicated in the murder of my cousins.
This the Governor refused to do, saying that the State had already expended one hundred thousand dollars in sending troops there, and no good had been accomplished. He however, suggested that the Sheriff deputize a sufficient number of men and take the gang dead or alive. I then asked for arms but could not obtain them, so I concluded to visit Cincinnati and purchase arms, which I did, shipping them by way of Ashland. I had sixty-five good and true men deputized by the Sheriff, and they volunteered to join us, making one hundred and fifteen.

Our intention was not to destroy a life unless compelled to do so by the life of a citizen. We were only there to protect our own. Craig Tolliver was approached with a warrant for his arrest, but he refused to surrender and immediately commenced firing. The rest you know."

"Do you anticipate any further trouble?"

"It is hard to tell, really. There are nine Tollivers yet living, and they are a desperate lot of men. We propose to have a public meeting on the 28th of this month, for the purpose of organizing a Mutual Protective Association, and should any of the remaining members commit any further offenses, they will be summarily dealt with."

"Will you not have a fear for safety on your return?"

"I shall not visit the country for some time, probably. There is much danger of being bashwacked."

"How many have been lost during this internecine war of three years' duration?"

"Twenty-three is the total I believe."

"Why do you not leave Morehead and seek a home elsewhere?"

"All I have in the world is invested there. I spent every cent I could raise for guns and ammunition.
I would gladly move if I had the means to get away. The truth is, I don't fear for myself so much, but I have a wife and child to live for, and they will be protected so long as I am capable of defending them. Just think of it! When I was away, Craig Tolliver sent me word that he intended burning my house and hiring my wife out. This alone is enough to make me feel that I have nothing to lose but my life."

"It seems remarkable that Tolliver or some of his gang did not learn of your contemplated raid in time to make a better defense."

"The first intimation they had of our move came about this way: The conductor of the passenger train that we stopped out from Morehead telegraphed to his wife who resides there, to immediately leave, as a fearful fight was about to take place.
With this exception everything worked admirably. It appears that Providence favored us. My men could be implicitly depended upon, and were among the best citizens in our county. The Sheriff alone proved a coward, remaining concealed during the entire fusillade."

"Did you have the pleasure of performing the hide of any of the villains?"

"I do not know that I hit a man, and I never before in my life shot at one."

James Wilkes and George Smith, two young men from the country, became involved in a difficulty in front of Gentry's grocery store, on upper Third avenue, Saturday afternoon last, over an old grudge, which resulted in Wilkes cutting Smith in five different places with a pocket knife, inflicting ugly but not dangerous wounds. Wilkes was immediately arrested and arraigned before Squire Taylor, who, upon hearing the evidence, bound the prisoner over to the grand jury in the sum of $700. Being unable to furnish surety, he was confined in the county jail.

R. A. Jack & Co. are now agents for the celebrated Staten Island Fancy Dyeing Establishment, of New York, and will receive all goods at regular office rates. Dresses of every style and material dyed without ridding. Ribbons, Feathers, Laces, and Trimmings generally, cleaned and dyed in the most appropriate manner. Kid gloves cleaned and dyed black only. Shaws of every variety cleaned or dyed. Table covers, Carpets, Rugs, etc., cleaned and dyed. Black crape veils restored perfectly in color and finish.

A base ball game will take place on the grounds at the foot of 13th street, on July 4th, between the club of this city, and the Catletsburgers.
A good game is expected.

The Gravel will see that the Whisperer's grave is kept green.

VIEWS AND INTERVIEWS.

Our Man About Town.

Place the cover over the sugar, Lay the syrup gently by.
Keep your hats on, oh ye baldheads, For now we have the festive fly.

"I feel so miserable again this morning," said a complaining wife.
Now, what's the matter?" enquired her husband.

"I dreamed last night that you came home sober, and I haven't recovered from the surprise."

First woman—"I didn't see you at the flying dutchman" last night."

Second woman—"No; I didn't get away last night. My husband was not feeling very well and I had to sew on some buttons, wash the dishes and do some other work for him."

"Is this a first-class hotel?" enquired a stranger at a restaurant recently.
"Yes, sir," replied the landlord, "you will find it a home comfort. Step in."

"No, thank you," answered the stranger,
"I simply wanted to satisfy my curiosity—I thought it was a barn."

"Won't you take dinner with me today," asked one friend of another.
"No, for the train came to a sudden halt, anticipating a happy time at home, the first for many a day."

"Special occasion, eh?"

"Yes; my wife's gone a visiting."

"What's the trouble now?" asked a passenger on the E. L. & B. S.
R. R. as the train came to a sudden halt.
"Oh, nothing much," said the brakeman struggling to the bottom of the car.
"The people in the next coach, Morehead are having a shootin' bee, and it isn't considered in good taste to pull up there when they get through."

"How long does this thing last?"

"Only 'bout an hour."

"How far are we from this town?"

"Bout a mile."

"Thank heavens!"

There is no R in the month, you know; So make no mistake in the matter of her beau.
The maid whose heart he'd won I'd gladly give you an oyster treat, But make no R in the month, my sweet,
And the oyster season's done.
She blushed and answered in accents low.

There is no R in the month, I know,
But in ice cream there is one.

School Report for 1886-7.
Total enrollment 1094; average daily attendance 676; number cases tardiness 1628; number cases truancy 34; number visits 418; average age pupils 11 1/2 years.
Promotions will be announced until the opening of the schools next fall, as it will be necessary to restrict the city when we use the new building.

The patrons of the school do not fully appreciate the necessity of having the cleaning up and holidays on time. If children are irregular and late at school the probability is, they will be the same at home and in society. A slow parade or a birthday is not a sufficient reason for absence. Only fourteen of the thousand enrolled were neither absent nor tardy, and they each deserve a prize.
The following are the names: John Parsons, Lida Thackston and Ada Stewart, W. B. Hawley, teacher; Anna Schumacher, Ella Rutledge, Carrie Gillingham, Fannie B. Ellis, teacher; Nora Golding, Sallie M.
Farr, teacher; Carl Mader, Sallie Padlock, Cora L. Price, teacher; Clifton Rep-perton, La Stephenson, teacher; Jennie Leah, J. Sibyl Staley, Nora Langenberg, teacher; Clarence Stahley, A. Blanch Enslow, teacher.

We hope to report a much larger number next year.

The Whisperer, a small paper to be circulated free every week, made its appearance on Wednesday. It no doubt will be of great benefit to the city in showing up the advantages of the same to the party seeking investment with "815 in his inside pocket." The publisher's name does not appear, and no doubt the author of the "Breadwinners" has something to do with its appearance.

How Jack Thomas Got Away with the Huntington Marshal.

The following is a very good story told by the latest jokes that we have heard of lately is told on the Marshal of Huntington. Last Friday Jack Thomas, employed by Mr. J. M. Jackson, a farmer living 13 miles above Huntington, went to that town and got on a big drunk. He was caught up by the Marshal and upon trial was fined $5.00 and costs. He gave his name J. M. Baker, the same as the farmer with whom he had been stopping.
Nov Baker is a well-to-do farmer and highly respected, and naturally of course would want the matter hushed up. So he told the Marshal he was head broke, but that he had money at home, and if he, the Marshal, wished to know his standing he could go to the bank and find out. The Marshal went to the bank and found that Baker was all right, so he hired a man and drove the supposed drunken farmer home, and the matter of his drunk was to be hushed and kept with the most profound secrecy. On arriving at the home of Mr. Baker, the Marshal

The Huntington Commercial.

WES. A. GIBSON, Editor.

Population of City, about 7,000.

SATURDAY, JULY 2, 1887.

Those who so liberally patronize papers that have exclusively a home circulation, and not the papers that have a general circulation, are drawbacks to the city, and should be treated accordingly. The large weekly papers go into nearly every state and territory in the Union, thus having an opportunity of showing the advantages possessed by our city over other localities as a place of business or residence, its advantages as a manufacturing point, etc., and should be liberally patronized in order to do still greater good in this direction. They enter all the surrounding towns and invite residents of the same to come here for good bargains. They build your town, they keep it pictured to the gaze of the outside community, and it is your duty as a sensible and progressive citizen to patronize its columns as liberally as your circumstances will admit. The weeklies are all old established papers that carry weight with what they say on subjects pertaining to the interests of the city, and the Commercial, we can assure you, gives more home news each week than all the "gutter snipe" sheets combined. In order to get proper returns for your outlay in advertising, you must patronize papers that not only have a large city circulation, but a circulation in all the neighboring towns. The Commercial is the paper that covers the above ground. 'Tis true its columns are quite well filled with advertisements, but we can accommodate more. In a spirit of kindness we want to see your business boom, and in no other way can you surely make it boom than to be represented in our columns. Our circulation is steadily growing, too, mind you.

An enthusiastic meeting was held Wednesday at Morehead, the object of it being to take measures to put down lawlessness in Rowan county. About 500 determined citizens were present. D. B. Logan, the attorney, made a speech whose firm, decisive sentiments were heartily cheered. He was ably followed by Dr. R. J. Mahoney, of Lexington, Lawyer and Green Nicholas. All who attended the meeting signed an article pledging the signers to protect with their lives, if need be, the people of Rowan county. The report that the townsmen are organizing for a fight is discredited. The trouble is regarded as at end.

The Huntington Commercial seems to have a new and deceptive advertisement. Its latest is a description of the first horse ball game of the season, which turns out to be the advertisement of a clothing man—Pomeroy Telegraph.

WHICH? WHICH? WHICH?

"Which, or between Two Women?" in press for immediate publication by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, is the latest and most powerful novel from the pen of the celebrated French novelist, Ernest Daudet. It is fully worthy of its author's great reputation, and is one of the strongest of the French scene ever issued from the press. The action is brisk and spirited, while the interest is of the most absorbing kind. The scene is laid in Paris and country, and the events are described with rare vigor and completeness of detail. Many of the incidents are of the most thrilling and dramatic description, while the characters are all well drawn, and speak and act like living people. It will be found in a large duodecimo volume, price 75 cents.
