Marshall College has a mermaid. She is pretty Kay Ann Litsinger who has splashed and dived her way to championships in five different swimming meets; has participated in two water pageants, and teaches swimming at summer camps.

A water lily all her life, the Marshall sophomore skimmed to a number one spot in a convention meet against competition from several participating camps. She has also won first places in Virginia's Camp Ann Bailey and Camp Appalachian in West Virginia and in Charleston High School intermural³s.

She twice participated in Charleston's Y. W. C. A. water pageants.

She is a swimming instructor at summer camps and has attended several A. A. U. meets at Columbus, Ohio.

A business major in Arts and Sciences, Kay is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

She is a former Morris Harvey College student.

WEST VIRGINIA EDUCATORS TO ATTEND SEMINAR AT FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. ____ Three teachers of economics in West Virginia colleges have been selected to attend the Central Banking Seminar at the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Hugh Leach, president of the bank, announced today.

They are Professor George B. Corrie of Marshall College, Huntington; Professor Edgar N. Jaynes of Fairmont State College, Fairmont; and Dr. Woodrow Wilson of Morris Harvey College, Charleston. Colleges named to send teachers to the seminar, December 9-12, were designated by an advisory committee of educators including Dean R. W. Coleman of West Virginia University.

The West Virginians will be among 23 teachers attending the seminar. First such program ever held at the Richmond Reserve bank, it will give the teachers a close-up, inside view of what the Federal Reserve Bank and the Federal Reserve System do and how and why they do it, Mr. Leach said. They will hear discussions of the theory and practice of monetary policy from several of the top men in the field.

Among the speakers will be William McChesney Martin, Jr., chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and, among many things, former president of the New York Stock Exchange; William F. Treiber, first vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, biggest of the Reserve banks; and Mr. Leach, president of the Richmond 'Fed', headquarters of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which includes West Virginia (with the exception of the six northern panhandle counties.)

2....Seminar (W. Va.)

The teachers also will attend a meeting of the bank's board of directors, nine men representing the Fifth District's banking, commerce, industry, and agriculture who govern the bank's policies.

Among the directors is a West Virginia bank official, John A. Sydenstricker, executive vice president of the First National Bank in Marlinton.

Subjects to be covered in the seminar include: Federal Reserve Organization and Operations; Effects of Treasury Transactions, Gold Flows, Changes in Money in Circulation, and Changes in Federal Reserve Credit on Member Bank Reserves; Discount Policy and Administration; Federal Reserve Research Activities; Bank-Supervision; Federal Reserve—Commercial Bank Relations; Federal Reserve Open Market Operations; Credit Controls; and Federal Reserve Credit Policy Formation.

Edward A. Wayne, first vice president of the Richmond Reserve bank and well-known speaker in West Virginia banking circles, will be among the lecturers. (7)

Others will be Woodlief Thomas, economic adviser to the Federal Reserve Board of Governors; Robert V. Roosa, assistant vice president and economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; John L. Nosker, assistant vice president of the Richmond Reserve bank and a former West Virginian; and other officers and economists of the Richmond bank.

MRS. ELIZABETH TRICE
She's Handy With Mixer As Well As Pen

By JO ANN HERRING

A brand - new kind of cookbook will go on sale December 21 in news stands and book stores throughout the country — and two West Virginia women can take the credit for bringing to American housewives the charm of Old Southern cooking, combined with the efficiency of the 20th Century.

Co-authors Katherine Crouch of Bluefield and Elizabeth Trice, 1140½ Tenth Avenue, have designed "Katherine's Food Book" especially for the busy homemaker, who needs not only good recipes but a plan for running her kitchen.

Some people are "born cooks," but the phrase has a double meaning for Mrs. Crouch, who stems from an old Southern family. For she is heir to a huge collection of recipes which were used by her ancestors on their large Tennessee farm. That she also inherited her ancestors' culinary skills is evident from the tested recipes in the book.

Perhaps other housewives would never have had an opportunity to inary art, had it not been for Huntington's Mrs. Richard L. Trice, who is employed as a junior accountant at Marshall College.

Mrs. Trice and Mrs. Crouch are friends of many years standing. Their husbands are associated with the Bluefield Supply Co.

"Katherine's meals were unusual and different — and always delicious," Elizabeth Trice says of her co-author. "For many years she had added to the recipes she inherited, spending much time trying out new menus and modernizing old recipes."

Though Mrs. Crouch has a genius for whipping up 10 or 12 luscious cakes over the week end or making pounds of candy on short notice, she professes to be slightly "allergic to English." Mrs. Trice, a former AP correspondent, is not.

Finally, Mrs. Crouch came up with a proposition for her friend. If Mrs. Trice would think of some different way to present the recipes, and put them together in marketable form, they would be co-authors.

So "Katherine's Food Book" — usual foods in unusual ways — was born. Pageant Press of New York City, will bring out the successful culmination of the collaboration December 21 — just in time to benefit the Christmas hostess.

It didn't take Mrs. Trice long to think of a new way to present Katherine's recipes, earlier.

"All my life I've spent too much time hunting menus, putting them together and figuring out shopping lists to fit them," Mrs. Trice explains, "So I thought today's housewives could most benefit from having menus, recipes and shopping lists conveniently laid out together."

That's the nutshell principle of "Katherine's Food Book." It consists of two parts, with the first listing appealing daily menus for three meals a day. Below the breakfast, lunch and dinner menus are printed the recipes for the various dishes, complete with a list of ingredients needed for the preparation of the foods.

Even this is broken down into staple items on the shelf, and perishable items the homemaker is likely to need from the store.

That means the rushed homemaker can choose a whole day's menus at once, and see at a glance just what ingredients she has and what she must shop for.

Mrs. Trice graduated from Cedarville (O.) College, taught in high school in Kentucky and did graduate work at the University of Kentucky and University of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Trice's talent for writing may have come from her father, who wrote special articles for Ohio newspapers. She will have her first novel — an historical work entitled "The Whistle Blew One" — published next year.

Marshall College-West Virginia Wesleyan season opener Saturday night will be preceded by an encounter between the Big Green freshmen and a Huntington Y-league. The frosh under Coach Eddie ~~Marshall~~ Lambert will be in active participation as a team because of mid-American conference rules that forbids freshman play on varsity ~~squad~~ squads.

Coaches Cam Henderson of Marshall College and Hank Ellis of West Virginia Wesleyan both have guard problems in naming the starting lineup for Saturday night's game. But, their problems are ⁽¹⁷⁾ of an entirely different nature.

The ageless Henderson must pick two guards as replacements for ~~WRD~~ Sid King and Jack Ferguson. Unlike the Big Green mentor, Ellis is "Suffering" from an overabundance of guards. The over supply may cause Ellis to shift one of his two back courtmen to a forward spot.

Tickets for the 11 Marshall home games this year will be $1.50 ~~and~~ reserved and $1.25 general admission. This is a $.25 increase over ticket prices of last year.

Marshall coach Cam Henderson is still fretting over a starting five for Saturday night's game with West Virginia Wesleyan. One of the unfilled spots is the right guard position, which is all-important in the Henderson fast break. The right guard vacancy may be filled by the 5'11" Mullens, West Virginia senior, Carl York. At least, it's a top possibility.

Last year, Captain Sid King was a natural at the right guard position. If ever there was a racehorse on the Marshall Cage team, King was it. But the balding South Charleston veteran graduated along with left guard Jack Ferguson and left a replacement problem.

Carl York is considered by his teammates as one of the top hustlers on the squad. An Ex-varsity trackman, he has speed to burn. And next to Helms-All-American Walowac, he is probably the best ball handler on the squad.

LAST YEAR, CAPTAIN SID KING WAS A ~~NATURAL~~ NATURAL AT THE RIGHT GUARD POSITION. IF EVER ~~WERE~~ THERE WAS A RACEHORSE ON THE MARSHALL CAGE TEAM, KING WAS IT. BUT THE BALDING SOUTH CHARLESTON VETERAN GRADUATED ALONG WITH LEFT GUARD JACK FERGUSON AND LEFT A REPLACEMENT PROBLEM.

CARL YORK IS CONSIDERED BY HIS TEAMMATES AS ONE OF THE TOP HUSTLERS ON THE SQUAD. AN EX-VARSITY TRACKMAN, HE HAS SPEED TO BURN. AND NEXT TO HELMS ALL-AMERICAN WALOWAC, HE IS PROBABLY THE BEST BALL HANDLER ON THE SQUAD.

The Marshall College Big Green raise the curtain tomorrow night on their ~~xix~~ initial season in the Mid-American Conference at Memorial Fieldhouse in a battle with the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats. The 1953-54 season is expected to be one of Marshall's toughest in the history of the school. Wesleyan will be seeking their first win after losing to Beckley College last night.

Big Green Coach Cam Henderson declined to name his starters. "I've been changing my mind all week," he said. (29)

Forwards Walt Walowac of Logan and Dave Robinson of Wheeling, along with Center Charlie Slack of Pomeroy, Ohio, are pretty sure bets, though. Huntington's Herbie Morris is a possible starter at right guard. The Six foot Huntington high Graduate has been working out at the position for the last few days. If Morris doesn't get the nod, Carl York of Mullens ~~is~~ is in line. The other guard could be handed to Jerry Gillen, Bob Bias, Ray Frazier, or Paul Hopper without preference.

The West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats, ~~xxxx~~ coached by Hank Ellis has giant 6' 10" Bob Chatfield slated for center duty, otherwise the cats have no other man taller than an even six feet in their probable starting lineup. Ed Hood of Homestead, Pa. and Tom Rutherford of Buchannon are the guards. Mike O'Toole of Munhall, Pa. and Wayne Kiddy of Buchannon are at the forward positions.

Walt Walowac of the Marshall Big Green is in a position similar to Alexander the Great in one respect. The Helms All-American has "no new worlds to conquer" as far as Marshall's scoring records are concerned. Walowac broke the last major big green scoring mark, Saturday night, when he established a new four-year total of 1,460 points. He's got 20 games to boost his new record further.

Marshall leaves Friday for the first road trip of the young season. They take on Memphis State at Memphis, Tennessee Friday night, and then play Murray State at Murray, Kentucky Saturday. Both Memphis and Murray were victims of the Big Green last year. Nevertheless, they are highly regarded foes. Murray, for instance, was rated in the top 20 in the nation by the Associated Press last season. They took up where they left off again last week by beating cage power St. Bonaventure. (43)

Carl York and Jerry Gillen may have made enough of an impression on Coach Cam Henderson to get starting berths in Friday's game. York and Gillen worked out at the two guard positions today with the first five. Henderson will continue experimenting at the right guard position especially, because York will graduate the first of the year and a replacement will be needed.

Football Manager---1-1-1-1

By Milan Zban

A Marshall College football manager will try to earn his first varsity monogram in Marshall's newest winter sport, wrestling. Dwight Staats, a senior from Ripley, West Virginia, is spending two hours a day on the mat learning how to make and break wrestling holds in preparation for a sport he had never taken an interest in until it became popular on television.

Staats first came to Marshall in the fall of 1950 on a football scholarship. Coach "Pete" Peterson took one look at Staats' 147 pounds, 5'8" frame and told him he'd better become a manager. Since that time Staats has spent four years handing out socks, jerseys, and all the necessary equipment it takes to outfit a football player, and he hasn't regretted a minute of it. "It was hard at first until I got everything organized, then the job got a little easier", says Staats. "The hardest job I've got is when the ball club goes on trips, then I've got to make sure nobody leaves any equipment at home and when the game is over I have to check and see if anything was left behind", he added.

Staats says his biggest thrill came in witnessing Marshall upset Ohio University in the last football game of the past season. "I started school with all of these boys who played their last college game and I was just as happy as they were when they beat Ohio U."

Although Staats has been a manager for the past four years, he has never received an award. He will receive a monogram after his fourth year, but this winter he will attempt to win a wrestling letter before he gets his manager's award.

Wrestling is new and different to Staats, but under the tutelage of Coach Sam Clagg, he is learning fast. His main ⁷ problem is his weight. "I weigh 147 now, but I don't know if I should try to get up to 150 and wrestle the "big" boys or starve myself and try to make the 140 pound bracket." he said. (46)

When Marshall's wrestling squad was first formed it never occurred ² to Staats to try his luck until he heard that the team was short on men in the lightweight division. It was then he got the idea he might like to give the mat sport a trial. So far Staats is pleased with the results. "I learn something every day and I'll probably learn more when I actually get in a match, but Rome wasn't built in a day and you can't blame a guy for trying", he said.

Staats is married to the former Barbara Easter also from Ripley. She is employed by the Marshall College cafeteria as a secretary.

'Caine Mutiny' Plays Before Standing Room Only Tonight

"The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial", a dramatic production based on Herman Wouk's Pulitzer Prize winning novel, "The Caine Mutiny," will be presented before a standing-room-only audience at the Keith Albee Theatre tonight at 8:30 P. M. under the auspices of Marshall College.

Starring Henry Fonda, John Hodiak and Lloyd Nolan, the play will be presented here with full scenic and lighting effects. Special sound equipment, capable of transmitting every word spoken on stage to every part of the theater, has been installed.

Standing room tickets can still be obtained at the Becker Music Store, 1040 Fourth Avenue.

Mr. Fonda heads a cast of 15 in the role of Barney Greenwald, a fighter pilot who is called upon to defend Captain Steve Maryk, who touched off a mutinous action in World War II.

The role of Lieutenant Maryk, gullible naval officer, is enacted by John Hodiak, who is remembered for last year's performances in "The Chase." Lloyd Nolan portrays Captain Queeg, a naval officer believed to be bordering on the point of mental illness.

Others in the cast include Charles Nolte, Russell Hicks, Stephen Chase, Arnslie Pryor, Robert Gist and others.

Paul Gregory and Charles Laughton, noted stage personalities, are producers and Dick Powell is director of the production.

(Four soloists---1)

Four widely known ~~singer~~ singers of the Huntington area will be featured as soloists in the presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," at the Memorial Field House Sunday evening.

The free public program will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Sponsored by the department of music of Marshall College, the performance will feature Marshall's three choral organizations and any other singers of the community who wish to take part. A rehearsal is set for 7 p. m. tomorrow (Wed.) in room 109 of Marshall's Science Hall.

The soloists are Mrs. Lois Adams Miller, soprano; Mrs. Margaret Seidel Bobbitt, contralto; John W. Creighton, tenor, and Leo V. Imperi, bass. All are members of the Marshall College faculty.

Mrs. Miller, instructor in music, attended Christian College at Columbia, Mo., where she was a voice student of Eleanor Hockey. During her undergraduate study at Indiana University she studied with Madame Dorothea Hanski, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera. For her Master's work she studied with Carl van Dusikirk

Mrs. Margaret Seidel Bottitt, assistant librarian, holds degrees from Marshall College, Wittenberg College, and Drexel at Philadelphia. At Wittenberg she was a voice pupil of Professor Ham, and for many years she ~~studied~~ has studied here with Mrs. Louise Fay Haworth. She is a former soloist at the Christian Scientist Church. She is now contralto soloist at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church.

John W. Creighton, assistant professor of music, is well known to Huntington audiences and the Tri-State area. He has been soloist for the First Presbyterian Church and the Jewish Temple, and is now soloist and assistant choir director at Trinity Episcopal Church. He has studied with Professor Walter Stults, Northwestern University; Paul Althouse, New York City, and ~~Sam~~ Conrad Bos, Julliard Conservatory, New York, N. Y. (50)

Leo V. Imperi, instructor of music and a choral director, pleased last year's "Messiah" audience with his power and artistry in the difficulty bass solos of Handel's oratorio. He was for several years a soloist in various churches of New York City. He ~~was~~ studied with Thelma Lewis at the University of Michigan; Cleve Genzlinger, Columbia University; Carl Gutekunst, New York City, and Mack Harrell, famous concert artist.

(The Messiah---1)

George Frederic Handel's great oratorio, ~~the~~ "Messiah," which the Marshall College department of music will present at Memorial Field House Sunday evening, gladdens the hearts of millions of the Christian world who hear it every year at Christmas. But it was composed by a man whose heart was heavy because of failures and threats of imprisonment over debts. (57)

David Ewen's "Music for the Millions," an encyclopedia of music masterpieces, says the work was composed in just three weeks, when Handel was in the white heat of inspiration. "It was the achievement of a giant inspired," it quotes Newman Flower.

The Sunday performance will begin at ~~8:30 p. m.~~ 8:30 p. m. The first performance of "Messiah" was given April 13, 1742 at the Music Hall in Fishamble Street, in Dublin, Ireland. The invitation to present the oratorio for charity reached ~~Handel~~ Handel at a psychological moment.

"Handel's fortunes in London were at their lowest ebb. Several of his operas had failed. He was in bankruptcy; there was a moment when he was actually in danger of being sent to a debtors' prison. Petty rivalries smothered his spirits. Society deserted him. He was a broken man, and it was said he was through as a composer. "

(Messiah---2) 12-8-53

In his despondency, Handel ~~was~~ had closeted himself in his home and had written the "Messiah."

Eli Ewen's book quotes these words from Norman Flower on the circumstances of the oratorio's composition:

"Handel was unconscious of the world during that time, unconscious of its press and call. His whole mind was in a trance. He did not leave the house; his man servant brought him food, and as often as not returned in an hour to the room to find the food untouched, and his master staring into vacancy. When he completed Part II, with the 'Hallelujah Chorus,' his servant found him at the table, tears streaming ~~from~~ from his ~~own~~ eyes. 'I did think I did see all Heaven before me, and the great God himself!' he exclaimed." (52)

The Dublin audience was deeply moved by the music. A Dublin critic wrote: "The sublime, the grand, and the tender, adapted to the most elevated, majestic and moving words, conspired to transport the ravished heart and ~~the~~ ear."

When the "Messiah" was first presented in London a year later---March, 1743---King George II "was so moved that he spontaneously stood up in his box, the audience followed suit, and all remained standing until the 'Hallelujah Chorus' ended." A custom was then established that persists today whenever the great oratorio is sung before ~~any~~ throngs throughout the world.

Waite Hoyt will speak at the Marshall College football banquet this Thursday night. The former New York Yankee pitcher and present Cincinnati Redlegs Broadcaster has accepted the invitation to attend the dinner honoring the Big Green Gridders, according to Bob Morris, the Marshall Athletic Director.

The Marshall basketball squad will be making a bid for their second win Friday evening. They take to the road for the first time this year in facing Memphis State. Memphis will attempt to even the count with the Big Green this year. They came to Huntington last year and were handed a 102-76 beating. (52)

Saturday, Marshall moves closer home in a game with Murray State of Murray, Kentucky. The thoroughbreds are also revengeful for an 86-81 upset hung on them, here, last year.

It will be interesting to note just how Marshall fares on the first trip this year. Last season, the Big Green were invincible on the home court winning thirteen of thirteen. On the road, they won only seven while losing four.

OVERSEAS FRIENDS: "One evening early this year, a courtly admiral caused a mild sensation in the Greek Parliament by addressing its members as "Milady and Gentlemen."

"The admiral was perfectly correct in using this form of address, novel though it was, for indeed there sat a woman in the heretofore exclusively male assembly."

Those are the first couple of paragraphs of one of the most charmingly written articles I've read recently — the story of Mrs. Helene Skouras, the first woman to enter the Greek Parliament. Dr. Elizabeth Cometti, professor of history at Marshall College, is responsible for its appearance in the December First issue of The Christian Science Monitor.

DR. COMETTI Science Monitor.

Dr. Cometti, as you probably know, made an extensive European tour last Summer, and it was during this trip that she met and interviewed Mrs. Skouras. The article, incidentally, is worth hunting up that particular issue of The Monitor in order to finish the story.

There's a postscript to it however, that may be even more interesting to Huntington. Yesterday, Dr. Cometti, who also is international relations chairman of the Huntington branch of the American Association of University Women, received a letter from Mrs. Skouras.

It is self explanatory, and is reprinted just as Mrs. Skouras wrote it:

Dear Madame Cometti,

I must apologize for having a so long time to answer your nice letter, and thank you a lot for your kindness to send me 30 dollars for earthquake relief in Greece.

All this time I was at the destroyed islands visiting the ruined places with Mrs. Papagos, Prime Minister's wife, speaking encouraging words and helping the poor people as I could.

Those last terrible earthquakes were really something awful for our poor and wounded country; any way we do not give up hope, all together the Greeks we do our best, we offer all our powers, and with the blessing of our Lord and the help of our generous oversea friends we are sure that very soon we will succeed to restore our destroyed brothers.

I am really very grateful to you and to all the members of your Association of University women for your contribution, your kind words and the friendship and kindness you show for our beautiful and beloved Greece.

I sent the money to the Bank of Greece which has undertaken the collection for the destroyed islands, through the Ministry of Finances and I enclose you the order of the Minister to the Bank.

Closing up I request you, my dear Lady, to offer my thanks and my best greetings to all the dear Ladies of your Association, assuring them that I shall be really delighted to have a closer contact with them in the near future.

Sincerely Yours,
Helene D. Skouras.

The defensive prowess of Marshall's sophomore sensation Charlie Slack will be on trial Friday night. Slack will be called on to halt Memphis State's Forest (Frosty) Arnold, at Memphis in the Big Green road opener. Arnold was Memphis' leading scorer last year with 394 points and is considered one of the best pivotmen in the south.

Oddly enough, Slack and Frosty Arnold are both 6'5 and weigh in at 215. So, the two sophomore centers could develop quite a battle for rebounds, too.

Huntingtonians will have a chance to hear George Frederick Handel's great oratorio "The Messiah" at the Memorial Field House Sunday evening. Featured in the 8:30 performance will be Marshall College's three choral groups and singers from this community who have volunteered to join in the program. Handel first presented his "Messiah" in Dublin, Ireland in 1742. The invitation to present this program came at a psychological moment for Handel. Prior to this great presentation he had been hounded with constant failures, debts and petty rivalries. In despair he locked himself in his home and wrote the "Messiah" as if in a trance. After the presentation of this work Handel was accepted and recognized as a great composer. Field House authorities have rearranged the sound system for this performance so there will be no vibrations or loss of sound in any part of the auditorium.....Marshall College Associate Professor of Music Alfred Lanegger will direct the 160-voice choir and 45-piece orchestra in presenting the "Messiah." Lanegger held a rehearsal for the group in the college music hall Wed-y. He said today that the program showed promise of being Huntington's greatest performance of Handel's Christmas oratorio.

Almost every student on the Marshall College campus will have a part in bringing the Christmas spirit to the people of Huntington. How? Well, a dream in the mind of one of the choral leaders of the campus has become a reality in combining many clubs and organizations of the college into one huge choir. This choral group will give it's first annual Christmas concert next Wednesday night, in the college auditorium. The public is invited to hear the many combined voices present old Christmas songs, favorite popular Christmas music and join in at the end of the program to sing all the well known and beloved carols.

The near east was brought to Marshall College last night. Noted archeologist and explorer, Count Byron De Frorok, presented his latest color film and lecture on this section of the world entitled, "The Land of Lands."

Approximately 125 band masters left hunting on Tuesday to return home after attending a state meeting here.

The directors represented high schools from all over the state and during the three days meeting reviewed all new publications of music. The Marshall College band played the pieces the directors thought worthwhile.
Pieces to be played at next year's band festival were also selected.

Marshall College band director Thomas B.
O'Connell and Music Department head C.
Lawrence Kingsbury were in charge of the meeting.

Basketball coach Carl Henderson apparently is satisfied that he has found the two most likely prospects for the guard positions for Marshall's two basketball games this week end.
Two boys who were substituted at guard in Marshall's first game last Saturday night, Carl York and Jerry Gillen, are expected to start tonight's game in Memphis, Tennessee, against Memphis State.

After tonight's game Marshall will travel to Murray, Kentucky, for a game with the Murray Thorobreds. Both Memphis State and Murray have veteran teams, and both are noted for being exceptionally tough to beat on their own home courts.

Marshall's "Iron Man" football squad gathered at its annual football banquet last night, and heard a talk by former New York Yankee pitcher Waite Hoyt, who now is a sportscaster with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Big Green was lauded for its courage in coming back from a disastrous season to defeat heavily favored Ohio University in the final game.

Scrappy Marshall football manager Dwight Staats will try out for his first Varsity monogram this winter in Marshall's newest sport, wrestling.

The well-liked Staats, who came to Marshall on a football Scholarship four years ago, will perform for the mat team in the 147 pound class.

Both Memphis State and Murray State will have the edge over the Marshall Big Green basketballers in experience this season, as Marshall takes to the road tomorrow and Saturday for the first time this year. It will be the second game of the youthful eage season for the Big Green. They won the opener last week, 87-64, over West Virginia Wesleyan.

Memphis has played four games already this season and the Thoroughbreds of Murray have been up against five foes. Both teams have three victories on their slates. (74)

The Marshall squad leaves tomorrow morning by plane at 8:53. Eleven men will accompany coach Cam Henderson on the trip. The traveling squad consists of forwards Walt Walowac, Dave Robinson, Frank Crum, Bob Lowe, and Bob Bias, centers Charlie Slack and Ray Frazier, and guards Carl York, Jerry Gillen, Herbie Morris, and Paul Hopper. Walowac, Robinson, Slack, York, and Gillen loom as probable starters.

One Marshall team member, Dunbar junior Paul Jones, received his service call and will be lost to the squad for the season. The 5'10 middleman candidate was not one of the ones scheduled to make the trip. The entire squad now consists of only twelve men.

Tobacco Farmer---1-1-1

By Ted Ferrell

Marshall Student Journalist

Market day is one of the biggest days of the year for tobacco farmers according to S. S. Everman, a tobacco farmer with some 58 years of experience from Grayson, Kentucky. Everman says that "The chant of the auctioneer is music to our ears; it means that we're about to get our money and that long hours of work are just about over for the year. We also see a lot of friends at the auction that we haven't seen all year and since everybody's getting their money we're all happy." (81)

This is the fourth year in succession that Everman has "Marketed" his tobacco at the Huntington market. Previously he "marketed" his crop either in the Huntington market or in one of the various markets in Kentucky; or "Where~~e~~ver he could get the best deal." Now he has concluded that Huntington is consistently better than the other markets.

When Everman first began growing tobacco on his 120 acre farm in Grayson, Kentucky, "the sky was the limit"---he could grow all the tobacco that he wanted to farm. Then he usually grew nine or ten acres per year. Now government regulations limit him to one acre per year, but he is quick to point out that "the one acre will bring me more now than ten acres would have twenty years ago." From the one acre Everman harvests "about a ton of tobacco which should bring in the neighborhood of $60.00 a hundred (pounds)."

Everman says that the poor grades are selling better than the good grades this year. The reason for this, he explains, is that the government is requiring everyone to raise good tobacco with the result that the cheaper grades are scarce. His own crop is "fine red tobacco from which cigarettes and chewing tobacco are made."

He says that he "likes tobacco farming" and that "it pays off better than any crop that he knows of." With government teaching and advanced technical improvement in tobacco farming the old saying that "it takes a strong back and a weak mind to be a tobacco farmer" has become outmoded. Through expert tobacco stripping demonstrations and agricultural agents tobacco farmers have learned the better methods of growing and harvesting "the sensitive crop," tobacco. Practical knowledge and sensitivity to weather conditions are other essentials. In final analysis Everman says that "you've got to be a farmer to know tobacco." (82)

SENTENCING OF FOUR MARSHALL STUDENTS ON SHOPLIFTING CHARGES:

"The students who have received suspended sentences in the shoplifting case at ^A Ashland, Ky., have been placed on probation at Marshall College for the remainder of the 1953-54 college term. Both Dean Harold Willey and I have questioned them at length and have found them to be thoroughly sorry for this moment of rashness. It was their idea of a youthful prank.

"We at Marshall College strive in every way possible to teach young people to follow the straight path of law abiding citizenship. This is just one of those cases where someone learns by the hard way that to deviate from this path can only lead to unhappiness."

The educator said there is a tendency "for us to over-rate our materialism, our hill-billy music, our comic books and ~~our~~ pulp literature, our ~~our~~ love of gadgets and our radio and TV commercials."

"Our culture reaches much farther ~~down~~ down into the masses of our people than is true of any other nation," Dr. Smith told the group at a dinner in the Hotel Prichard.

Asserting that Americans "are making a greater contribution to cultural growth than any other nation, the Marshall College executive added:

"We have widespread freedom from want and drudgery. We have mass education, increasing leisure time, paid vacations for 35,000,000 employees, early retirement, high and increasing longevity, spiritual freedom and freedom from class consciousness."

The Marshall College Big Green, fresh from a victorious Mid-American Conference opener with Ohio University, go into action again tomorrow night for the last time in 1953. Marshall will attempt to keep ~~ANX~~ a sixteen game home win streak alive against Georgetown College of Georgetown, Kentucky in an 8:00 meeting, which is to be preceded by a freshman game at 6:30.

It will be Marshall's first game with Georgetown. The Big Green now own a two and two record after the Ohio University win and they would like to take a winning record with them to Madison Square Garden where they play Iona in their next game. (120)

All-American Walt Walowac took over undisputed first place in scoring for the first time this year with a 27 point output. Junior forward Dave Robinson led after the first three games. Ohio University, who have more or less "cousins" to Walowac in the past designated a close guard on the 5'11" sharpshooter. The Bobcat defenders, however, found it easier to foul him than stop him and he went to the ~~XXXXX~~ free throw line 25 times. Woefully weak with his charity tosses earlier this season, Walowac threw in 17 for all but ten points of his evenings total.

Tomorrow's game with Georgetown will follow a preliminary match between the Big Green frosh and the B & B Market team of the Huntington Y-Industrial League. Among the freshman opponents will be a Marshall varsity center regular of two years ago, Lewis Burns.

THE BOBCATS, WHO HAVE BEEN "COUSINS" TO WALT FOR THE LAST COUPLE OF YEARS, DESIGNATED A CLOSE GUARD ON THE 5' 11" FORWARD. BUT, THE OHIO DEFENDERS FOUND IT EASIER TO FOUL HIM THAN STOP HIM. WALOWAC FIRED 25 FOUL SHOTS AND MADE 17 OF THEM FOR THE HIGHEST TOTAL OF HIS CAREER.

WALOWAC NOW LEADS THE BIG GREEN NUMBER TWO SCORER, DAVE ROBINSON BY ONLY THREE POINTS. ROBINSON WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR 18 SCORES AGAINST OHIO.

A widely known Huntington business woman has made an unsolicited gift of $200 to Marshall College to be used in connection with the institution's effort to set up an educational broadcasting station, college officials announced yesterday.

Ray Cheydleur, head of the college radio instruction program, said this and similar gifts will be used to buy additional broadcasting equipment or to repair equipment already on hand. (129)

"This gift," said Cheydleur, "will enable Marshall College to further develop its educational broadcasting services, bringing it into line with 120 other institutions which are already operating educational broadcasting stations. Educators are realizing that educational broadcasting stations provide a ~~an~~ less expensive means of handling many problems associated with institutional expansion."

Flood Wall Sees Anniversary Here Tomorrow

By TED FERRELL

Marshall Student Journalist

Tomorrow, December 21, marks the 10th anniversary of the date of completion of the Huntington flood wall which has saved an estimated $14,300,000 in flood damage to Huntington since 1943.

"The wall has already paid for itself," says James N. Barnes of the Huntington Corps of U. S. Engineers at 237 Fourth avenue, who were in charge of constructing the wall. The original cost of the wall was $7,000,000 to the Federal Government and $1,500,000 to the City. The Huntington Project was authorized by Congress by the 1937 and 1938 Flood Control Acts. Largely through the efforts of W. S. Rosenheim, former managing director of the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, Huntington was among the first cities to begin flood control projects.

Since the 1937 flood, the worst on record with a crest of 69.47 feet and a flood damage which almost reached $18,000,000, eight floods have occurred and been controlled by the flood wall. The largest in April, 1948, is the fourth highest on record reached a crest of 61.7 feet at Lock 28.

The 1937 flood took the lives of five Huntingtonians, made refugees of 25 thousand people, cut off all city water and 40 per cent of the city's fuel gas, and suspended practically all industry and commerce as it flooded approximately 65 per cent of the flood plane. Should a similar flood occur in our present era, Barnes estimates that "it would probably do $40,000,000 worth of damage."

HOWEVER, Barnes points out that the chances are slim and getting slimmer that such a flood will reoccur. Twenty-five reservoirs are located upstream which control almost one-fourth of the drainage area above Huntington. Three other reservoirs are now being constructed at Conemaugh, Pa.; Sutton, W. Va.; and Dillion, O.; which will control an additional 5 per cent of the drainage area. Nineteen more have been authorized but not yet started; they are to control another 15 per cent of the area. Hence, with the same amount of rainfall as in the 1937 flood Huntington would get "considerably less water."

The Huntington wall is built to a height equivalent to a 72.4 foot crest or three foot higher than the 1937 crest. The 11.6 mile long wall is constructed of both reinforced concrete and earth levee. The concrete wall is 18 inches thick immediately under the coping at the top of the vertical stem which is the visible part of the wall. The vertical stem rests on a base which is exactly the same size as the stem.

On the river side of the wall a "heel key" is attached to the base and goes deep into the ground. The heel key serves two purposes. First, it keeps the wall from slipping as pressure accumulates against it from the rising waters. Second, it keeps water from seeping under the wall and coming up in "sand bubbles" on the inside of the wall. The wall varies in height from 10 to 26 feet and tapers with the slope of the river.

The levee which is mostly located below First street and near the International Nickel Company varies in height from 70 feet to only a few feet and has a 12-foot crown. It is constructed of "compacted fill" consisting of river sand and gravel. A thick layer of impervious clay is over the sand and gravel fill to keep the levee from leaking. Top soil has been placed over the clay, and grass has been sowed on it to keep the dirt from washing away.

The wall which protects 7,060 acres in Huntington is provided with a total of 45 gate openings which are located on Route 60, for the railroad on the west end, on both sides of the Guyandotte, and up and down the waterfront.

A TOTAL of 17 pumping stations have been provided to rid the city of sewage and the water of small streams. All of when the stations combined are capable of pumping a total of 1,254,000 gallons of water a minute and require a total horsepower of 15,110. The stations are powered by electric motors. The largest station at Four Pole Creek requires 5,250 horsepower and will pump 381,000 gallons of water a minute.

Before the wall was constructed the flood damage stage in Huntington was 50 feet. During the 63-year record period preceding the construction of the wall the damage stage was exceeded 29 times or almost every two years. Now the damage stage is over 72 feet and has not been exceeded in the 10-year use of the wall.

The Huntington Corps of U. S. District Engineers was responsible for the design and construction of the wall. The work was begun in 1938 by Col. J. D. Arthur of the Huntington office and was completed in 1943 when Col. Harry Pockras was in charge. Col. Pockras is still in charge of the office.

Since Huntington was among the first cities to have a floodwall constructed, the Huntington engineers had to do much of the designing on their own with little technical information to back them up. The Huntington wall built on "practically the same" principle or pattern followed in building all city flood walls.

Barnes says that "The city of Huntington has one of the finest organizations for handling a flood wall of any city organization in the country." The wall is managed by E. D. Fisher who is Superintendent of the Flood Wall Board.

THE FLOOD Wall Board, which is a state requirement, has full power of administration, custody, maintenance, and operation of the wall. Fisher is assisted in the operation by twelve maintenance men and one master mechanic. During high water periods International Nickel, Standard Ultramarine, W. Va. Steel, and Appalachian Electric assist the flood wall crew in handling the wall.

THE FLOOD WALL is financed under an annual budget which hit a high of $122,525 in 1951-52 and a low of $40,107.50 in 1943-44. The average budget amounts to $62,312. The high budget in 1951-52 included the cost of construction of the office building at 94 West Third Avenue which amounted to $40,000

The money comes from a flood wall tax which is levied on all citizens in the area who have property which was submerged under three foot of water during the 1937 flood. The rate varies from high of 50 cents per $100 property value in Guyandotte's eighth zone to a low of 6 cents per $100 property value in zones three and six. The property tax is to take care of maintenance and operation. In Guyandotte where the property value is low some of the revenue bonds are not yet paid; this causes their tax to be higher.

Fisher says that "the Flood Wall Board is the only body which uses a sinking fund for accumulating reserves from unspent money with which to pay for emergencies." The Board now has $109,393.87 in the bank on savings account at 2 per cent interest.

Fisher says that "the Wall is in good shape and that no long range plans for improvement are needed in the near future."

College students have plenty of Christmas spirit, too! Dreaming of the ride with Santa that he isn't allowed to dream of in real life. To his surprise, he finds that dreaming about it is just as good!

Going shopping with a child is fun, but apt to be a slow process. The little girl in the picture at the upper right pauses before a display to ask the usual question, "will Santa bring me this, Mommy?" The picture was taken in a crowded local department store. Unfortunately, in the push of the holiday crowd, the child got away before her identity could be ascertained.

No small, table-size Christmas tree will do for this eleven-year-old Joe Osborne of

College To Exhibit Recent Woodcuts

"Recent American Woodcuts," an exhibition circulated by the Museum of Modern Art of New York, will be on view in the Art Gallery of the James E. Morrow Library at Marshall College, beginning Monday, January 4, Professor Joseph Jablonski, head of the Art department, announced.

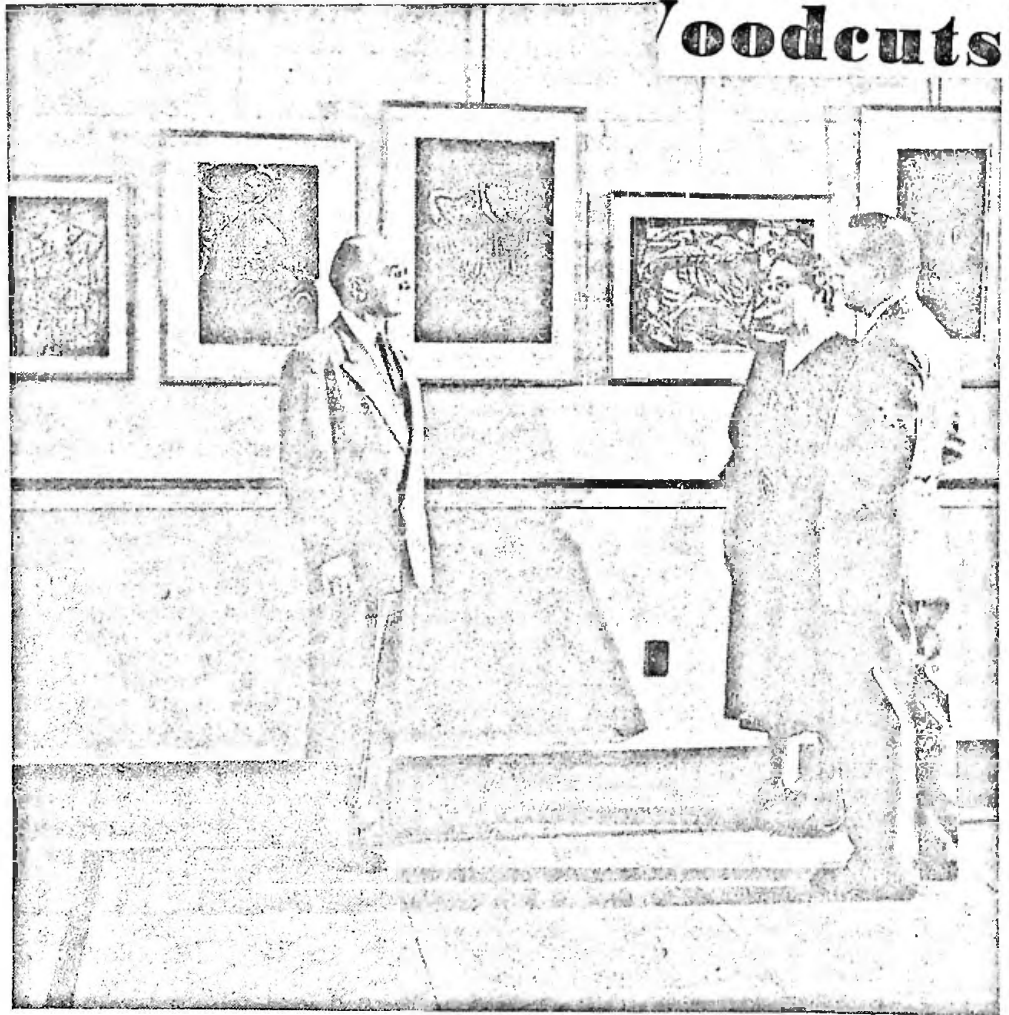

The exhibit, which will be at Marshall through January 23, features 38 prints demonstrating the revival of interest in the art of the woodcut in various parts of the United States. It will be open to the public, and may be seen between 9 A. M. and 4 P. M. Monday through Friday, and from 9 A. M. to 12 noon Saturday.

Professor Jablonski said that since 1918, an increasing number of artists have engaged in the carving and printing of woodcuts, particularly the large woodcut in color. Of the 25 artists represented in the exhibition, six are women, and 17 are under the age of 40.

The prints are varied in subject matter, and include religious themes, portraits, self-portraits, landscapes and still lifes, a museum menagerie from tigers to owls, a circus, and the Chinese theatre.

VARIOUS methods of executing the woodcut and the wood engraving are shown in the work of such artists as Louis Schanker, Alton Pickens, Antonio Frasconi, and Maxil Ballinger, and the process of printing a woodcut in color can be seen in the process of printing a woodcut in color can be seen in the work of Seong Moy and Adja Yunkers who use as many as six and seven different blocks to achieve the many colors that appear in a single print.

All prints in the exhibition have been selected from the

(Visitation Committee in Engineering---1)

The appointment of a visitation committee to examine the Marshall College engineering training program in the light of existing local engineering needs was announced today by Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall College president.

Members of the committee include 15 Huntington business and industrial leaders and a member of the college faculty. Another industrial executive is to be appointed to bring the committee membership to 17.

The visitation committee will have three functions. It will review present offerings of Marshall's department of engineering to see how well they meet local engineering requirements. It will review the adequacy of existing facilities and equipment to meet the needs of the college's engineering program. And the group will give Marshall officials a report, coupled with recommendations, based upon its observations.

Members of the visitation committee include ~~Max F. Jennings~~

L. C. Shinn, John Reevey, ~~and~~ H. C. Willey and L. O. Walcott, all of the International Nickel Company; C. E. ~~White~~ Wade of Westinghouse; H. L. The December issue of Current History, a monthly magazine of world affairs, carries an article on Pakistan by a member of the Marshall College who was a Fulbright lecturer at a university there during the 1952-53 academic year.

The piece was written by Dr. Carl Leiden, associate professor of political science at Marshall. Its title is: "Pakistan: The Divided Dominion. "

Dr. Leiden's article points out that, although Pakistan is weakened by partition and internal difficulties, the young nation is a thoroughly loyal and sympathetic member of the British Commonwealth, despite her real conflicts with India. (141)

The educator lectured at the University of Peshawar in the north west frontier province of West Pakistan. He also traveled in Afghanistan, Pakistan and India.

Before joining the Marshall College faculty in 1949, Dr. Leiden taught at the State University of Iowa, where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1949.

Kinder
Gets 44
For Tigers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 11. (AP) — A five-eleven sophomore sharpshooter rolled up 44 points here tonight to lead Memphis State to a 104-85 victory over Marshall College. Dick Kinder, completely overshadowed the predicted battle of points between two "big" players—Marshall's Walt Walowac and Memphis State's Forrest Arnold.

Walowac, the Marshall main-spring, found a tough guard to crack in Elmore Fortner, who stayed on top of the Marshall ace most of the first half.

Carl York played a leading role for Marshall's Big Green, making 25 points, but Walowac, who wound up with a 17-point total, showed brilliant ball handling and was responsible for many a point he didn't get himself.

The Tigers started fast, dropping in 31 points in the first period to Marshall's 15. It seemed as though the Memphis sharpshooters, led by Kinder, couldn't miss from around 20 feet away from the basket, sinking shots with amazing accuracy.

Marshall rallied somewhat in the second quarter, and almost held its own with the Tennesseans, but the hot Tigers led 62-43 at the half. In the third period the Tigers only outscored the Green by one point, 18-17, and Marshall held its own in the final period, but the damage had been done.

The Big Green plays Murray tomorrow night at Murray, Ky., in the final game of its week-end road trip. Marshall had won one previous game this season, and Memphis State had won three and lost one.

Fort Gay Hands Marshall Generals 59-41 Whipping

Fort Gay's Vikings pulled a mild upset on Coach Eddie Lambert's Marshall High Generals last night at Fort Gay, taking an early lead and then fighting off the shorter Marshallites to win going away, 59 to 41.

Marshall only made 11 of 31 foul shots and made only 15 field goals in their third loss in as many games this season. Fort Gay wasn't much better in the foul shooting department, dunking 13 of 24, but the Vikings dropped in 23 field goals for their second victory of the season against four defeats.

Tall Larry Wellman, Charles Lovely and Dave Maynard dominated both backboards throughout the contest, and gave Fort Gay a 17-10 lead by the end of the first quarter. The Vikings shot out to a 34-19 halftime lead, and Marshall was out of the contest after that. Fort Gay outscored the Gens in every quarter except the last.

Bill de Silva led the Marshall scorers with 12 points, but Fort Gay's Maynard took high scoring honors for the game with 19 points, followed by Lovely with 18.
