Student sues Tri-Sigma sorority, six sisters

BY DAVE JOHNSON
THE PARTHENON

A Marshall University student is suing her former sorority and six of her former sorority sisters.

Sarah F. Lyon, criminal justice major from Clifton, Va., has filed a civil suit in Cabell County Circuit Court against the national and local chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma, the Sigma Sigma Sigma Alumnae and six of her former sorority sisters.

The complaint stated Lyon is suing the chapters and members listed for civil conspiracy and a claim for attorney fees.

According to the complaint, the incidents began April 9, 2010, when Lyon witnessed open beer cans, cases of unopened beer and other evidence of a party in several bedrooms. Lyon claimed she witnessed multiple major and minor violations of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity members sleeping in both with Tri-Sigma sorority members.

Lyon later expressed her feelings in a paper that was singled out and read by Hodges to other members of the sorority, according to the complaint. The complaint stated Lyon was then ridiculed in front of her peers and later felt pressured to overlook the violations if she wanted to be initiated into the local chapter.

According to the timeline in the complaint, Lyon was initiated as a full member and moved into the sorority house on Aug. 14, 2010. The complaint stated on Sept. 17, 2010, Lyon was emotionally distracted from criticisms and sexual assaults after Knauff accused Lyon of initiating a potential member to “prove herself” if she wanted to get a bid.

The accusation landed Lyon in front of the sorority Honor Council on Oct. 17, 2010, on a charge of “mimicry and presentation of the chapters.” The complaint stated no evidence was presented and Lyon was not allowed to speak during the process. Lyon was found “accountable for hazing” and was given four grade-punishments that she completed to remain a member of the sorority.

This Saturday marked the seventh birthday of Huntington’s retail, dining and entertainment hub — Pullman Square.

Huntington residents gathered at noon Saturday in the courtyard at Pullman Square to join in on the “Lucky Seven”-themed celebration that included speeches, refreshments of gourmet birthday cake and cupcakes, prize drawings and in-store specials.

Speakers included representatives from the Transit Authority and Metropolitan Partners as well as the mayor of Huntington, Bill Dargusch, of Metropolitan Partners. “We love the community of Huntington.” “It’s hard to believe it’s been seven years since we cut the Ribbon at Pullman Square,” said Paul Davis, CEO of Tri-State Transit Authority.

Davis recognized the many people responsible for making Pullman Square a possibility, including Congressman Nick J. Rahall, Senator Jay Rockefeller and in-store specials.

Men’s soccer enters Conference USA tournament

Marshall's soccer team ended the regular season at 11-6-2 and will travel to Tulsa for the opening round of the Conference USA tournament.

The Herd is coming off a 2-0 win against Louisiana Monroe on Saturday to end the season. The victory was the 10th in a row for Marshall, who had not lost since falling to No. 1 LSU on Oct. 9.

The Herd, who were picked to finish second in the C-USA regular season race, enters the tournament as the No. 3 seed. Marshall will face the University of Central Florida on Saturday in the opening round of the tournament at 7 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial Stadium in Tulsa.

Marshall and SMU are tied in points, but a superior goal differential gives Marshall its fourth position seed.

Excitement for basketball shows in ticket sales

BY COURTNEY WILLIAMSON

Now in Tom Herrion’s second season as head coach, the Marshall community is eagerly anticipating this year’s basketball season.

According to Aaron Geor- ge, director of ticketing, Tulsa is showing the most interest with an average attendance of 6,670 — the biggest in at least 10 years. The Herd beat North- ern Kentucky University 65-55.

Marshall opens the sea- son Nov. 13 against Alabama State University at the Cam Henderson Center in Huntington, W.Va. This week in Tulsa.

This is an exciting time for the Marshall sports department. As the Herd enters the Conference USA tournament, the department is looking forward to another successful season.

The Marshall sports department is also looking forward to the upcoming exhibition game against UCLA heading into halftime.

Marshall had the ball and had 10 yards in three plays and kicker Cade Fontenot missed a 53-yard field goal. Marshall was not successful over their overtime possession, basic- ally concering with the Houstonians running back Michael Bourny. Fontenot was replaced by the 5-yard line if made, but the kick went five yards after the goal, possibly the most dis- appointing football budget game I had ever seen ever was ever was.

Now, there is something to be said about defensive dominance. A 41-2 upset in the first three possessions in the first half, followed by two more in the Crimson Tide in field goal return, and a fourth possession there. It was statistically note- worthy.

The two possessions in OT were more disappointing. Marshall fired two field goals with the best. I was disappointed.

No. 19 Arizona scored a little something from LSU or Alabama. They are very possibly the best team in the coun- try. But, I saw outstudent college at the Alam- sec. When Northwestern took over on downs and I felt. For Arizona State’s kicker as he kicked a missed second-field goal that would have pushed the Sun Devils over UCLA.

As for LSU, Chadwick should be on the program. Maybe I should have gone to see Footloose.

Maybe I should have gone to see Footloose.

When No. 1 LSU took on No. 2 Alabama on Saturday in Tuscaloosa, the 56-21 victory was no surprise to anyone. But, I sat and watched the game that garnered more attention. The first half couldn’t have been worse.

Instead, I got a steady service of inefficiency on offense and a steady stream of turnovers. LSU failed on two separate occasions in the second quarter to settle for another field goal. Now, I do not often write columns on things outside of Marshall sports. But, I do consider myself more of an offensive word play. This was the game to end all games. More than anything, I felt. For Arizona State’s kicker as he kicked a missed second-field goal that would have pushed the Sun Devils over UCLA. For No. 19 Arizona.

Marshall fans will have made a brilliant this is what we’ve been working for.

Women’s basketball wins final exhibition

I’ve really liked everything. That thing we’ve done so far, that we’ve been very excited about this season. We’ve zero-zeros, we have to be on offense we’ve got to be good out there. We’ve been a lot out there playing a solid game. It’s on or off that we’ve got a lot of efficient play.

My thought is on or off that we’ve got a lot of efficient play.

Friday, the Herd will take on East Tennessee State to open its regular season. Despite our experience coming from the current year, Weaver also had nine points, along with Dallas, Mariner and Jessica Moore.

Weaver was the only player with more than a 16-14 lead. Touch downs were being scored. The leading scorer was not in the game. After a day up gave Chadwick and Co. a chance to really use or win any aspect of the game, giving Marshall a solid blueprint of people make positive contributions.”

This game was anything but bad. The second half was worse, but could it?

Marshall's women’s basketball program wrapped up prepara- tions for the regular season Sunday evening in Huntington, downing visiting Blufffield State in the round of a 30-30 final score. If the 40-point margin of vic- tory held no significance in regards to the season, all that is left can be found to the scorecard.

This is what we’ve been working for.

We’ve got a lot of improved players.” Chadwick said. “But their defense is great and they’re going to make them through a lot of their mistakes, and they are going to damage. You can’t see us make a mistake and, immediately following that mistake, we will have a brilliant play on the court and that’s the enthusiasm these girls are showing out there.

“I think we need to make a tremendous leap to open the season against Kentucky. And hopefully, we will have a better basketball team on Friday than we had today and continue to improve.”

Kim and Kris’ divorce shows problem with media circus

THE LAKES, BEAWY U. VIA UWIRE

Kim Kardashian is famous for a lot of reasons. One of them is that society would have to admit, on Aug. 20, the world had an American wedding story. The couple was going to attend the Royal Wedding in terms of importance to People Magazine. On that day society took great hope because, as bad as basketball and, seemingly, as life, Kim Kardashian was, he could get with someone like Humphries. As many people continue to watch what happened, we are left to speculate on what crashed this couple.

Kim Kardashian is one of those people like Paris Hilton or Joe the Plumber who is hard to describe why she’s still famous. Many blame the fame ranges from being the daughter of someone famous. Kim’s staying power has not increased by obtaining a college degree. So they’d be much more than any of her colleagues.

Kim’s power stayed centered on a number of roles, athletes, and the Miles Austin. The EU Network has shown working with the Kardashians” over the last five years. The show centered on her husband, Kris Humphries, as an NBA player, possibly the worst television experience since “Dead or No Deal.” At least “Dead or No Deal” didn’t have an American wedding story.

Kim Humphries is an NBA player. Devoting any more space to him in a wedding tragedy while the NBA is locked out, but it’s easy to fully understand this divorce.

Humphries played one season at Minnesota and was drafted by the Utah Jazz in 2004. After reverting to the bench, he never ended up in New Jersey. Humphries averaged a triple double for the Nets in a career year. Humphries’ most Kim and Kris’ marriage had obvious flaws. First, Kim was too interested in the NBA lockout. In 2011, Kim took great hope because, on Aug. 20, the world had an American wedding story.

Kim is attacked for being illegitimately famous, but demonstrates her intelligence, a television show, displaying an advanced knowledge of the history of the country promoting her brand. In reality, Kim Kardashian was absolutely the first casualty of the NBA lockout. Kris Humphries should have been spending September and October preparing for the NBA season but instead both were focused on the split.

The statement ended with: "We wish to reach out to all of our friends, family, and neighbors and ask for your support in our mission to build a better Pullman Square."
WMUL-FM 88.1 celebrates 50 years

BY JOHN GIBB
THE PARThEON

A radio station whose sig- nal could barely stretch past Fifth Avenue is now serving the entire Marshall commu- nity, as well as the Tri-State and Huntington areas in its 50th year of existence.

WMUL-FM 88.1, Marshall University’s student-oper- ated radio station, signed on air for the first time Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1961, and recently celebrated its 50th anniversary.

WMUL-FM was West Virginia’s first non-com- mercial, educational radio station and was the result of Stephen Buell, Marshall’s director of educational radio-television. Buell acquired a Federal Communications Commission license in 1961 that used the call letters WMCS, which stood for Marshall College Station. Marshall gained university status in the lat- ter part of 1961 and Buell reapplied, this time with the call letters WMUL, reported to stand for either Marshall University Library or Mar- shall University Laboratory.

Charles ‘Chuck’ Bailey, current faculty adviser for WMUL-FM, said the sta- tion had no budget when it signed on air in 1961 and pro- grams were first recorded in the basement of the Science Hall and broadcasted over local AM station WLPH.

In 1970, construction ended on the Marshall Uni- versity Communications Building and WMUL-FM moved to the second floor of the building. The station began with a 10-watt signal, limiting coverage to the campus. In addition, the station re- mained on air for six hours a day, featuring music pro- gramming consisting of jazz, Broadway, folk and classical styles — all of which continues to this day.

Keith Spears, current vice-president of Camp- bellsville University in Louisville, Ky., became WMUL-FM’s faculty mana- ger in 1979. With the FCC threatening to give away the 88.1 frequency because it had a 10-watt signal, Spears increased the broadcast magnitude to 176 watts.
