history

Dear Students:

It is indeed a pleasure for me to welcome you to Marshall University and to express my best wishes for a successful college career.

As you become a college student, there are certain responsibilities that, I believe, we must all undertake to fulfill:

Foremost is to question;
Question everything.
And to learn.
Learn so that you may question,
More deeply,
The values of society,
And of men.
Learn so that you may accept,
More fully.
The deeds of societies,
And of men,
That are worthy of your acceptance.
Learn so that you may reject,
All
That is objectionable.
Learn so you may create,
All
That is beautiful,
And worthy.

This is the responsibility of college students, and of all mankind: to develop the intellect and use it to be discriminating and creative. Ours is such an imperfect world that only the striving of men's minds and hearts can build a more just Universe. As the late President Kennedy said, "our generation has the capacity to be the best generation, or the last."

Again, I welcome you into the brotherhood of the college experience, and hope that you will dare to learn the burden of critical thought.

Sincerely,

James R. Wooton
Student Body President

The origin of Marshall University is largely obscured by the mist of time, but of this much we are certain—it was founded in 1837 and supplanted another school called Mt. Hebron which stood on a knoll, now the site of "Old Main," overlooking the broad bottomlands of the Ohio Valley to the west of the mouth of the Guyandotte River.

Mt. Hebron was a log structure built originally as a church probably for the Methodists, the predominant religious group of this locality at that distant date. Mt. Hebron came to be used by the farming families of the Valley for both a school and a place of worship.

In 1837 residents of Guyandotte and rural dwellers to the west of the river turned their attention to better educational facilities for their sons and daughters. Civilization had reached the mouth of the Guyandotte River almost fifty years before. The land had been cleared, homes had been made comfortable, the hard pioneering work was over and the farmers were prosperous. It was then that the early Cabell County farmers began to desire education, culture, and broader opportunities for their children.

The leading spirit in the movement for the establishment of an academy was John O. Laidley, an eminent lawyer. Laidley drew support from Presbyterian farmers in the area who were compelled to worship in Burlington, Ohio, and who wanted a closer church. The Presbyterians indicated they would subscribe generously to the fund for establishing the academy if they were permitted the regular use of the chapel for religious worship. This arrangement was readily assented to by Mr. Laidley and those associated with him.

When school opened in the Mt. Hebron log building in the fall of 1837 it was as Marshall Academy. On March 13, 1838, the General Assembly of Virginia passed an act establishing Marshall Academy and named a board of trustees. The Academy was named for John Marshall, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court from 1801 to 1835. The name was selected probably through the influence of John Laidley who was a close personal friend of the eminent Virginia jurist who had died two years before the school was started.

The sponsors were far from being content with the facilities the old Mt. Hebron building offered. They immediately set about designing and constructing a new structure, they arranged for the site to be the property of the trustees. The trustees acquired an acre and a quarter from James Holderby and his wife. On this land stood the log Mt. Hebron. The transfer was made on June 30, 1838, the deed stating that the land was to be used "for the express purpose of an academy and for no other purpose."

The new home of Marshall Academy was a four-room building, one room being set aside as a chapel. The Presbyterians made good their promise to support the academy financially, and they, in turn, began holding services in the chapel, the first of which was held on July 27, 1838. From that time the Presbyterians, and later the Methodists, were closely identified with the affairs of Marshall Academy.

About 1850 a proposal was made by the trustees to the Western Virginia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, that the latter take over Marshall Academy. A Conference committee on education studied the proposal and recommended that it be accepted. There is no record of terms and considerations, but the Conference accepted the proposition and the Academy became a Methodist institution. In 1858 the Virginia Assembly made a College of the Academy.

During the latter half of the 1850's the school ran into financial difficulties. While the trustees were wrestling with accumulated debts Professor W. R. Boyer brought suit for unpaid salary. In the spring of 1861 in the Cabell County Circuit Court, Boyer was awarded a judgment. The Court directed Albert Laidley, named commissioner for that purpose, to sell the College at public auction if the Boyer judgment was not satisfied at the end of thirty days. Albert Laidley did not carry out the decree and was replaced as commissioner by John Laidley, Jr., who sold the property to Mrs. Salina C. Mason for $1,500. The sale was confirmed and the purchase money paid, but no deed was made to the buyer.

During the Civil War years the premises were occupied by a family some member of which conducted a private school to satisfy the clause in the deed which limited use of the property to school purposes. Other than that, there are no records of the activities of the College during the war years.

After the War the Western Virginia Conference started a movement to regain control of the institution for the Southern Methodists, but in 1867 interest in reviving the College took a different form. The new movement had for its objective the establishment of a state-owned and operated institution on the Marshall property.

The West Virginia Legislature passed an act establishing the West Virginia State Normal School and appropriated $30,000 for use during a three-year period.

For the next half-century the College grew. Buildings were erected and the academic program enlarged and improved. The Teachers College was established in 1920 and the following year the first degree was conferred. Three years later the College of Arts and Sciences was established and the first liberal arts degrees were conferred in 1925. The degree of Bachelor of Science was authorized in 1938, Bachelor of Engineering Science in 1940, and Bachelor of Science in Chemistry in 1951. The Bachelor of Business Administration was approved in 1954. In 1945 two-year programs leading to degrees of Associate Arts and Associate in Science were approved.

The Division of Adult Education was established in 1947 to provide continuing education programs. The Division directs evening courses on the graduate and undergraduate level, offers extension work in various cities, and conducts special workshops, seminars, and institutes.

The Graduate School, authorized in May, 1948, grew out of a program of graduate work in six departments which had been established in 1938. Courses leading to the Master of Arts and Master of Science degrees are offered.

The College of Applied Science, established in 1960, offers studies in engineering, medical technology, nursing, and military science.

The expanded academic program was officially recognized by the West Virginia Legislature in 1961 when it changed the name of the College to Marshall University. In 1963 Marshall University again enlarged its program by establishing Branch Colleges, at Logan and Williamson. Two-year programs are available at the Branches with the final studies being taken on the main campus.

From a forty-dollar parcel of land and the enthusiasm of early settlers has come one of West Virginia's most important education institutions.

Dear Students:

Welcome to a new year at Marshall, a year which I know all of us want to be a successful and a happy one. I can assure you that the faculty and staff at Marshall will do all that they can to make this a year of meaningful educational experience for you.

I know that you come prepared to take full advantage of the myriad learning opportunities available to you.

These are days of turmoil on many college campuses, but we at Marshall have been fortunate in maintaining a relationship among all members of the Marshall community, so that we have avoided the sad events that have taken place on many other college campuses. I know that you join me in the desire to keep it that way and that you will give your fullest cooperation to solve problems in a rational and reasonable manner.

Again, my best wishes for a successful year.

Sincerely,

Roland H. Nelson, Jr.

policies on student life programs by the west virginia state board of education approved november 25, 1968

the student and the academic community

I. The submission of an application for admission to public institution of higher learning represents an optional and voluntary decision on the part of the prospective student. Institutional approval of that application, in turn, represents the extension of a privilege to join the academic community and to remain a part of it so long as the student fulfills the academic and behavioral expectations that are set forth in the policies and regulations of the institution.

Membership in the academic community accords to the student certain freedoms and responsibilities in addition to those enjoyed by his peers outside the institution. The following statements define for the student his freedoms and responsibilities in the academic community and define the opportunities for his participation in the governance of that community.

II. Freedom of Expression and Assembly

As a member of the academic community, the student enjoys the essential freedoms of scholarship and inquiry central to all institutions of higher learning. A commitment to academic freedom for the faculty entails a corollary commitment to academic freedom for students. In exercising these freedoms, the student is privileged to have access to campus resources and facilities in accordance with institutional policies. He is encouraged to inquire and discuss, and to listen to and evaluate the opinions of others who may or may not be members of the community. Consistent with its stated purposes, any recognized student organization has the privilege of inviting and listening to any person of its choice. Institutional procedures shall be established to effectuate an orderly scheduling of facilities for such activities, and to insure that such activities are conducted in a manner appropriate to an academic community.

As a citizen, the student is accorded essential freedoms to express his personal viewpoints, and consistent with propriety, to espouse causes both inherent and extramural to the institution, so long as the methods of support do not infringe upon the basic rights and freedoms held by other members of the academic community.

Each institution, in affirming the student's privilege of using campus resources and facilities shall clarify the student's responsibility with respect to institutional property and the property of other members of the community. Policies and procedures affirming the student's freedoms of expression and voluntary assembly shall indicate that the exercise of such freedoms must be peaceful and orderly and must not disrupt institutional activities, including teaching, research, service, administration and other authorized activities conducted on campus property.

The value of a free and independent student press is recognized. Student editors and managers have the freedom to report factual matters and to express editorial viewpoints which need not reflect the viewpoint of the faculty or administration. This freedom of expression necessitates adherence to the canons of responsible journalism, including the avoidance of libel, indecency, undocumented allegations, attacks on personal integrity, and the techniques of harassment and innuendo. Editors and managers shall be subject to removal only for proper and stated causes and only through orderly and prescribed procedures.

Students may organize whatever associations they deem desirable, and are entitled to affiliate with any group or organization for which they qualify for membership. However, institutional recognition of student organizations shall be limited to those whose purposes are congruent with the educational mission of the institution. Each institution shall define the criteria for and benefits of institutional recognition, including access to campus resources and materials; and shall enumerate the conditions under which recognition may be withdrawn.

The standards and procedures established by which institutional recognition is accorded student organizations shall include provisions to insure that their constitutions, charters, and by-laws are non-discriminatory with reference to the race, color, sex, ethnic origin or religious affiliation of prospective members, except when the express and legitimate purposes of the organization require limitation as to sex and religion.

The student is entitled to the same safeguards of his rights and freedoms of citizenship as are afforded his peers outside the academic community. Of special importance is institutional respect for a student's right to privacy. The student is entitled to privileged communication in the one-to-one relationship with faculty, administrators, counselors and other institutional functionaries. Further he is entitled to respect for his personality, including freedom from unreasonable and unauthorized searches of his living quarters.

Academic and disciplinary records are confidential matters between the student and the institution. Policies must insure that these records can be viewed only by authorized campus personnel, and then for specific purposes, and that records may be discussed to others only upon authorization of the students. The student's right to privacy further entails that procedures be established to preclude illegitimate use of evaluations made of the student, including achievement, aptitude, ability, interest and personality test scores.

academic responsibilities

In expressing the scholastic responsibilities assumed by the student, the institution shall define and promulgate the academic requirements for graduation, and the conditions leading to and attendant upon academic probation. The institution shall further enunciate its requirements for student honesty and originality of expression.

While the student is responsible for fulfilling coursework expectations and maintaining established academic standards, he is not to be penalized for taking reasoned exception to views expressed in the academic forum. Student grades are to be based solely on performance measured against academic and related standards and not on unrelated judgmental considerations. Procedures shall be established to provide students with protection against prejudicial or capricious academic evaluation. This protection shall include fair and impartial investigation of any charges by students of prejudicial or capricious evaluation, and if such charges are supportable appropriate remedies shall be invoked.

Membership in the academic community in no way relieves the student of his responsibilities in the community-at-large. He is expected, as are all citizens, to respect local ordinances and state and federal statutes, both on and off-campus.

Off-campus, a violation of an ordinance or statute is a matter for adjudication between the student and civil authorities. The special authority of the institution is to be asserted only when the institution's interests as an academic community are clearly and distinctly involved. In such instances, institutional action shall be responsive to the requisities of college or university life, and must remain independent of community pressure or censure.

Because students are held accountable for their conduct, it is necessary that they be cognizant of those offenses for which the academic community may impose discipline. Each institution is responsible for adopting and publishing a "code of student conduct" which clarifies those behavioral standards considered essential to its educational mission and its community life. The behavioral standards and the rules outlined in the code shall represent a reasonable regulation of student conduct. (Clarification by West Virginia State Board of Education, April 1, 1969. "The drafting body deliberately chose "behavioral standards" in order to connote standards, rather than specific rules and regulations. It would be impossible for an institution to enumerate every rule and regulation for which discipline should be imposed.") The student is to be as free as possible from imposed limitations that have no direct relevance either to his education or to the conditions of scholarship. Offenses must be clearly defined and interpreted consistent with the aforementioned principles of relevancy and reasonableness. In addition, the institution shall establish categories of disciplinary action.

Disciplinary proceedings for students accused of committing offenses must be consistent with constitutional provisions guaranteeing due process of law. Institutional disciplinary procedures shall guarantee each student adequate notice of the charges filed against him, written notification of the time of adjudication, a fair and impartial hearing of those charges before an institutional judicial body, the opportunity to present his own defense, including witnesses, at the hearing, the right to question his accusers, and the right to appeal the decision of this judicial body to a higher authority. (Clarification by West Virginia State Board of Education March 14, 1969. "The statement adopted by the Board does not require institutions to establish provisions for legal counsel in student disciplinary proceedings, though institutions may provide such opportunities without contradicting the provisions of the policy statement. The U.S. Supreme Court sustained the lower courts decisions indicating that legal counsel in disciplinary hearings is not a student right and affirming that campus hearings are distinct from full-scale legal hearings.")

At no time shall a presumption of guilt be attached to the accused student. Only when there is clear evidence that his continued presence in the academic community may prove detrimental to others is this privilege of attendance to be suspended prior to adjudication—and then without unwarranted penalty.

student participation in governance

As members of the academic community, students have the privilege, which they shall be strongly encouraged to exercise, of participating in its governance. Students shall be given the primary responsibility for the organization and administration of essentially student activities and programs. Where the institution requires faculty and administration advisers for student organization and activities, the advisers shall function in a specifically defined "advisory" role.

Inasmuch as students are free, both individually and collectively, to express their views on issues of institutional policy and other matters, there shall be a clearly stated procedure by which a student governing association can express those views and through which student representation in institutional affairs can be channeled. The student governing association shall be protected from arbitrary intervention by administration, faculty, off-campus influence and dissident student groups.

Students are entitled to voting representation on all faculty and administrative committees and other campus governing units whose decisions directly affect student life. Consistent with this representation principle, students shall be accorded major responsibilities in the development and subsequent revisions of institutional policies and regulations directly affecting student life, including "codes of student conduct." Provisions shall be made for students to have substantial voting representation on those judicial bodies responsible for student discipline, as well as on boards and committees directing student publications.

maintaining campus order

(January 6, 1969—West Virginia State Board of Education)

Colleges and universities dedicated to the concepts of intellectual freedom and inquiry, must at all times remain receptive to the introduction and examination of ideas and policies based upon those ideas. Academic freedom is a jealously guarded freedom and colleges and universities must guarantee its exercise without hindrance or disruption. Experience has demonstrated that this freedom is no less dependent on ordered liberty than any other freedom and that the educational mission of our institutions cannot be fulfilled under conditions of personal harassment, intimidation or disruptive or disorderly conduct.

6 Conduct which directly interferes with the legitimate pursuits of any member of a college or university community or of any authorized guest on institutional premises is unacceptable. Institutional policies and procedures shall indicate explicitly that individuals in exercising their freedoms of expression and voluntary assembly must be peaceful and orderly and must not disrupt institutional activities including teaching, research, service, administration and other authorized activities conducted on institutional property or at any place in use for an authorized institutional purpose.

Specifically prohibited are: unauthorized occupancy of campus facilities or buildings; interference with the rights of members of the academic community or their guests to gain access to a campus facility for the purpose of attending classes, pursuing studies, participating in interviews, conferences or any other legitimate purpose; interference with the orderly operation of the institution by breach of peace, physical obstruction or coercion, false fire alarms, bomb threats, or by tumult or other forms of disturbances; and deliberate interference with pedestrian or vehicular traffic on campus."

Consummating an agreement to live in University residence halls constitutes a contract. The stipulations of that contract are: (1) That the student resides in his assigned residence hall for the entire academic year; (2) That the student abides by the governing rules and standing traditions of the residence hall; (3) That the student purchases a meal ticket for one of the University dining halls; (4) That the student will receive no refund of any portion of the room rent because of withdrawal from the University after regular registration day for each semester except for reasons entirely beyond the student's control.

Living and learning with others is an essential part of any college education. While many lessons are learned in classrooms, many others are learned in group living where each person shares experience, knowledge, and material possessions. In residence halls, the student's opportunity to be generous, thoughtful and courteous will be an asset to his mature understanding of others.

Residence halls are supervised by a residence director, an assistant residence director, a student governing board, and student counselors. The resident is expected to abide by all rules and regulations as stated in the resident handbook which the student receives upon arrival. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action or dismissal from the University.

The student is assigned to the residence hall of his choice if possible. If there are no vacancies in the preferred hall, he will be assigned to a room in another hall. The University reserves the right to make changes in assignments when necessary. Room assignments are made in order of application regardless of race, creed, or national origin.

Should the student reject his assignment, his name will be placed at the end of the waiting list for future assignment if space is available.

reservation procedures

Applications for housing will be sent to prospective students outside Cabell County along with the application for admission. The application will be returned without a deposit to the Housing Director, who will assign the student to a specific residence hall and notify the student that the first semester's rent must be paid in full within ten days of the notification. If the student cancels his reservations, he will be refunded minus a charge of $25. If the student cancels his reservation after that date, $50 will be deducted from his initial payment. After September 1 (January 15) no refund will be made. Students currently residing in a residence hall must indicate their rooming preference for the following semester no later than March 15 (November 15). The next semester's rent must be paid by April 1 (July 1) or the reservation will not be honored. The entire payment will be refunded if the student is denied admission, declared ineligible to return, or for other reasons entirely beyond the control of the student.

Residence halls are not open during vacation periods. At the close of a semester, students must vacate their residence hall within twenty-four hours following their last examination.

loss or damage of student property

The University cannot be responsible for loss of or damage to the personal property of students who reside in the residence halls. It is suggested that parents determine if home owners insurance covers this item. If not, the parents may desire to have this item covered by insurance. Students are urged to be cautious when considering the welfare of themselves, others and their property.

women's residence halls

Four dormitories are maintained for women residents. Each dormitory has a residence hall council made up of the hall officers, the counselors, and the residence director serves as advisor.

This council meets weekly to discuss and plan regulations necessary for the proper conduct of the residents, a constructive social program, and to make any restrictions or punishments necessary for the enforcement of its regulations.

men's residence halls

Currently three dormitories are operated for male students. In each hall, there is a separate residence hall council made up of the elected officers and the floor counselors. They serve the same purpose as the women's councils.

counselors

Floor counselors have been selected by University officials and other counselors to help residents develop to their full potential. Their job is to encourage residents to assume responsibilities for self-discipline; to understand the need for regulations as they apply to the rights and privileges of others; and to attain high moral, ethical and social standards while they are developing intellectual superiority. Since counseling is such a great responsibility, it is a paid position for all halls.

special fees

By vote of the residence hall councils, a social fee of $4.25 per year is assessed each resident. This fee is used for the purchase of newspapers, magazines, intramurals, and parties. The funds are administered by the Residence Director and residence hall council with the exception of 25 cents which is administered by the Inter-Dorm Council.

A deposit of $1.50 will be collected for keys. The deposit is refunded when the key is returned.

required dormitory housing

"Beginning September, 1969, all full-time students requiring housing must live in a Marshall University facility for four semesters starting with the first freshman semester so long as space is available. Any space remaining in University housing after freshmen and sophomores are accommodated will be allocated among upperclassmen on a priority based on date application is received in the Housing Office and/or on prior residency in a University faculty.

Exceptions to this policy include married students; students 21 years of age or older; students who have completed military service; students who, after two semesters in University housing, wish to reside in a Marshall University fraternity or sorority house providing they are members of the fraternity or sorority where they wish to reside."

A determination will be made as to what constitutes a reasonable commuting distance to Marshall University, and students residing within this area will be assigned rooms only if space permits and they request accommodations.

The Director of Housing will determine special exceptions to this policy. Appeal may be made to the Dean of Student Affairs.

off campus housing

Marshall University can no longer designate any housing not specifically owned by the University as 'University approved.' The University does not and cannot supervise the health, safety, living standards, and contractual arrangements of students living in privately-owned dwellings. Therefore, any student who decides to reside in these residences accepts full responsibility for his choice with relation to the aforementioned items.

fraternity and sorority housing

Fraternities and sororities provide room and board for a number of their active members. The board and room charges are established by each individual organization but generally are comparable to those established by the University for its residence halls.

married student housing

Currently the University operates 48 housing units, located at University Heights four miles from the campus, and 42 additional units are to be available for occupancy by September of 1969. These apartments are rented to married students and their families. Applications may be obtained at the Housing Office located on the first floor of the Old Main Building. A security deposit of $25 is charged for family dwellings.

All students living in the dormitories are required to purchase a meal plan and take their meals in the University dining halls. Meals are also available to students rooming off the campus at the same rate as resident students.

The cost for board is $270.00 each semester plus $8.10 consumers' sales tax. This cost is subject to change in the event of continued price increases in food cost. Board may be paid in full upon entrance or in two equal installments each semester. The first installment is due and payable on the day of registration; the second installment is due on the first day of the second half of the semester.

Board per five-week summer term is $75.00 plus $2.25 consumers' sales tax.

The meal plan is not valid during vacation periods. If it is necessary for the student to remain on campus during these periods, he can obtain meals at regular cafeteria prices if the cafeteria remains open.

Meal plans will become effective on the first day of classes of any semester or summer term. Meals taken prior to the first day of classes must be paid for in cash.

Students must present their I. D. card (properly validated) with receipt of meal plan payment to the Director of Food Service.

No deduction or refund is made in board charges unless the student is absent from the campus for more than a calendar week because of personal illness or a University-approved trip. No deduction is made in room charges for absences.

student publications

The University's yearbook presents a pictorial review of each year's highlights and includes all phases of the University community. Key officers are selected by the Chief Justice Board and approved by the Student Senate and Public Relations and Publications Committee. Any student may apply for a position on the staff. Each full-time student who attends Marshall the first and second semester of an academic year is entitled to a copy of the yearbook at no cost since it is a part of the student activity-service fee. Distribution is in the fall.

Written and edited by students enrolled in journalism courses, the student newspaper is published four times a week and is distributed at various places on campus on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. During the summer terms, The Parthenon is published once a week and distributed on Thursday. The Parthenon primarily presents news of interest to the University community. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to submit letters to the editor. All letters must be personally submitted to Parthenon editors, who will check the student's Marshall identification card and authenticate the letter. There is no charge for copies of The Parthenon since it is financed in part through the student activity-services fee.

This book published by the Student Government contains the name, home address, phone number and local address of students, faculty and administration. It is an invaluable aid to all students.

et cetera

The campus literary magazine published in the spring contains poetry, short stories, essays and art. Any student may contribute material to be judged for publication in this magazine.

This handbook is published by the Student Government and the Office of Student Affairs and is regarded as an official source of information for all students.

student financial aid

It has long been an American dream that every citizen should have the opportunity of pursuing his educational potentialities regardless of his financial needs. The Financial Aid Program is so designed that a student desiring to study at Marshall will be aided in whatever way possible. Marshall University's program consists of four types of assistance: scholarships; grants, loans; and student employment. To meet the needs of some students, a "Financial Aid Package" consisting of two or more types of assistance may be awarded.

Students applying for financial aid or scholarship should contact the Financial Aid Office in January. At that time detailed instructions will be offered to direct the student's application for summer or fall aid.

scholarships

Marshall University scholarships are awarded to students of ability and promise who need financial assistance for their education expenses. Scholarship competition is open to high school seniors of superior academic achievement who possess excellent character and qualities of leadership.

1. General Scholarships equivalent to tuition and registration fees. These awards are of two types:
 - a. Honors and achievement scholarships based on outstanding scholastic ability and performance. These are available to incoming students as well as to those previously registered at Marshall.
 - b. Performance scholarships based upon exceptional ability and contribution in the performing arts and good promises as a student.

- Scholarships designated for special areas of study with criteria determined by the donors.

Most scholarships awarded by Marshall are for one year only, and students wishing to continue on these scholarships after their freshman year must re-apply each year. These scholarships are renewable each year provided the student maintains a high standard of academic achievement and continues to need financial assistance.

Educational Opportunity Grants are available to a limited number of undergraduate students with exceptional financial need who require these grants to attend college. To be eligible, the student must also show academic or creative promise.

Eligible students who are accepted for enrollment on a full-time basis or who are currently enrolled in good standing, may receive Educational Opportunity Grants for each year of their higher education, although the maximum duration of a grant is four years.

Grants can be no more than one-half of the total assistance given the student. As an academic incentive to students, an additional award of $200 may be given to those who were in the upper-half of their college class during the preceding academic year.

The amount of financial assistance a student may receive depends upon his need — taking into account his financial resources, those of his parents, and the cost of attending college.

All students, including incoming freshmen who fulfill the necessary qualifications, may apply for loan assistance. A student must be in good academic standing to receive a loan, but it is not necessary that he be of scholarship caliber. Loans are granted to students who are judged needy according to the ordinary norms used for measuring family resources. All loans must be applied for annually. Short-term loans of up to $100 for emergency relief are offered.

guaranteed loans

Under this program a student may borrow from a bank or other financial institution. A graduate student may borrow as much as $1,500 a year; an undergraduate, as much as $1,000.

A student from a family with an adjusted income of less than $15,000 a year pays no interest while he is in an eligible college, university, or technical school. Repayment of principal and interest begins when the student has ceased his course of study. At that time the Federal Government pays approximately one-half the interest and the student pays the remainder. A student from a family with an adjusted income higher than $15,000 a year pays the entire interest of the loan, but he may borrow under the Guaranteed Loan Program at 6 per cent simple interest.

Eligibility: The law requires that each borrower be at least a half-time undergraduate student; that he be in need of the amount of the loan in order to pursue his course of study; and that, in the opinion of his institution, be capable of maintaining good standing in his chosen course of study.

A student may borrow only that sum of money which is actually required to meet his college related expenses, in order that he might pursue his chosen course of study. The borrower must sign a note for his loan. Repayment of the loan begins nine months after the borrower ceases to be a student, payments are due monthly, bi-monthly or quarterly thereafter and the entire note must be liquidated within ten years.

The loan bears simple interest at the rate of three percent per year, commencing nine months after the end of student status — there is no accrual of interest to the student during his formal studies. Furthermore, no interest is charged during such time (up to three years) as the student is a member of the uniformed services of the United States or service in the Peace Corps, and payment may be deferred for a like period of time.

In the event of the death or permanent disability of the borrower, obligation to repay the loan ceases. Cancellation of Obligation for Teachers. The National Defense Education Act provides that up to 50% of ten percent per year, for each year that the borrower serves as a full-time teacher in the United States, its dependencies, or in schools at military installations. In addition, another five percent per year may be cancelled for each year that the borrower serves as a full-time teacher in economically depressed areas — this may continue until the full value of the note, plus all accrued interest, is cancelled.

A student who qualifies for the Work-Study program may be employed by the University or a community organization and paid $1.30 per hour for a total of 15 hours per week during school or up to 40 hours per week when the University is not in session.

student government

Student Government is divided into three major branches, each with its own duties and make-up. The executive branch is headed by the President of the Student Body and includes Executive Secretary, Business Manager and members of the Cabinet. The legislative branch is headed by the Vice President of the Student Body, who is Speaker of the Senate. The senators are elected by the students of the various constituencies. The judicial branch consists of a Chief Justice and three justices appointed from each of the various classes.

The President of the Student Body heads the Cabinet. Those present at each weekly meeting are the Vice President, Executive Secretary, Business Manager, Press Secretary, Prosecutor and the five Commissioners.

The Cabinet serves in an advisory capacity to all other branches of the Senate. Weekly meetings are held to discuss important legislation to come before the Senate and to report on the progress of each commissioner in his field. The Cabinet advisor, who is selected from the faculty or staff, is an ex officio member of the Cabinet.

Elections are held each spring to elect President and Vice President of the Student body, and senators for the coming year. Senators are elected from each of the following constituencies, the number depending upon the population of that constituency: Panhellenic; Interfraternity; Interdorm (Men); Interdorm (Women); Transient; and Unaffiliated. Motions, bills and resolutions are presented at each meeting and legislation must be voted on by that body.

The Student Court is composed of nine members, from the senior, junior and sophomore class. The Court elects one of the senior justices to serve as Chief Justice. The Student Court handles two different types of cases: first, disciplinary problems concerning the student which are referred to the court by the Office of Student Affairs; and second, cases concerning questions in Student Government affairs and other organizations. These cases may include disputes between different agencies of the Student Government such as validity of elections and many others. Positions on the court are by appointment by the President of the Student Body on the basis of civil service applications available in the Student Government Office.

The University Bookstore is owned and operated by the University for the convenience of the students and faculty. The bookstore is located in the basement of Old Main. Here the student may buy textbooks, drafting equipment, art supplies, and desk supplies. The hours are from 8:00 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. during the week. On Saturdays, the bookstore is open from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

counseling and testing center

The Counseling and Testing Center is located at 1618 Fifth Avenue and is under the direction of Mr. Richard W. Waite. Here the student may find assistance in his educational and vocational planning. Testing is offered to measure the abilities and interests of the students to enable them to make better choices with respect to their future.

The counselor also assists the student in reconciling the problems personal and social adjustment to their lives on campus may present. Typical kinds of personal problems involve roommates, classmates, instructors, marital and pre-marital problems.

The counselor may help in the area of study habits and self-discipline. Referrals are made to appropriate sources when deemed necessary, e.g. reading clinics, speech therapy, and the Psychological clinic. All conferences are confidential.

The Center is open from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. and from 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

alumni affairs

This department, which acts as a link between the University, its alumni, and all other interest groups, is located in Room 129 in Old Main. Mr. Harry Sands, the Director Alumni Affairs, coordinates the activities of Marshall alumni by keeping them informed of University activities and progress and recruiting their aid as it is needed. The Alumni Office maintains records and addresses of Marshall's 25,000 alumni. Organizations may use the addressing service provided by this office in contracting alumni. The office is open from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. and from 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

reproductions

The University maintains a reproduction section which will print material for bona fide student organizations. Individual students may not use this service unless authorized to do so by a faculty member through his department chairman. Xerox facilities are for University use only, but students may use other Xerox facilities located in the James E. Morrow Library. Charges incurred with the Duplicating Department must be settled with the head of that department.

elevator keys

Request forms for elevator keys for physically handicapped students are available at the Office of the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. Each form must be signed by a dean in the Office of Student Affairs.

general counseling

The Office of Student Affairs is organized for counseling students with personal problems. Some of the problems most frequently brought to their office concern personal adjustments to campus life, housing, budgeting expenses, obtaining loans, participation in extra-curricular activities, fraternity and sorority pledging procedures, and interpretation of rules and regulations of the University for guidance of students. Students are welcome to consult with a member of the staff about any problem.

information service

The Office of Information and Publications (Old Main 112), prepares and distributes news releases and publications and assists various groups with public relations activities.

insurance

The Student Government offers a specially designed student accident and sickness group inurance plan providing coverage for hospital and medical expense. The plan protects the students year-round: at home; at the University; and during all vacations. All full-time students and their dependents are eligible for participation in the plan.

Application forms will be mailed to the student's home address prior to the fall term. They may also be obtained at the Student Government Office or the Office of Student Affairs.

parking

Parking on University lots is reserved for students, faculty, and staff who have obtained parking permits from the Buildings and Grounds Office. Immediate towing is in effect for cars not having permits. The parking charges are $15 per semester on outside lots and $25 for inside lots. A complete copy of the Parking Regulations may be obtained from the Office of Student Affairs in Old Main 121.

the psychology clinic

The Psychology Clinic, located in Old Main 307, is open to full-time students for consultation on scholastic, vocational, social, and personal problems. Students are invited to make use of the clinic.

security officers

The Security Officers assigned to Marshall University patrol the campus regularly on a 24-hour basis. Their duties involve the enforcement of parking regulations, as well as the safety and security of the entire campus. Security officers on the campus may be reached by telephoning Marshall extension 216, or by telephoning the Marshall switchboard operator at 523-3411. The Security Office is located in Room B-113 of the Administration Building (Old Main). The telephone number to call when the switchboard is closed is 523-9585.

student health services

The Health Service provides student medical service and supervises health conditions on the campus.

A physician, laboratory technician, and nurses staff the student clinic. The University physician, in the clinic in Gullickson Hall, is available only for such services as may be rendered at the clinic, except in emergency cases. Students are expected to call on the office of the physician during office hours.

shawkey student union

The University Student Union was named after Morris P. Shawkey, one of Marshall's past presidents. The Student Union is located on the corner of Elm Street and College Avenue. It is under the management of Mr. Don Morris. The Union is the center of social activity on campus. A lunch counter, booths, lounge, and dance area are located on the first floor. Mixes are generally held in the Union on Wednesday evening and several movies are shown during the year. Bridge, chess, and checker facilities are available for student use. Pool and ping pong tables are found in the basement. Student elections are also held in this area of the Union. On the second floor of the Student Union there are two conference rooms, a music room with television and record facilities, and the office of the Chief Justice staff. The Student Government Office is located in the west wing of the Student Union. Here the student may receive information concerning Student Government affairs and opportunities.

Classes have priority in the use of tennis courts. Varsity and intramurals are given next consideration. Students are invited to use the courts but should leave the court at the end of one hour if someone else is waiting. All players are requested to wear tennis shoes. The University has three sets of tennis courts: one by Gullickson Hall; three courts located beside the Student Union; and three courts next to the women's gym.

lost and found service

The Office of Student Affairs maintains a lost and found service for all students and faculty.

academics

faculty-student advisory program

Each student admitted to Marshall University is assigned to a faculty adviser, when possible from the field in which the student has expressed an interest. The adviser renders academic guidance by assisting in the preparation of semester class schedules and guiding the student in meeting degree requirements or in other matters bearing on academic advancement.

absence from examinations

Students are required to take all regular examinations. If a student attends a course throughout the semester and is absent from the final examination without permission, the instructor counts the examination as zero and reports the final grade as FIW. If, in the opinion of the instructor, the absence was for a satisfactory reason, the grade I is reported, and the student may, upon application, take the examination at a later date. (See "Incomplete" under Grades and Quality Points.)

academic publications of the university

The University issues six bulletins annually: the general catalog, the graduate catalog, the admission bulletin, the schedule of courses for each semester, and the summer session bulletin. Other special publications are issued from time to time.

student absences from classes

1. Student is expected to be present at all class sessions.
2. Unavoidable absences such as those due to health, death in the family, or similar reasons, should be reported to the instructor concerned by students. In such cases, and whenever possible, the instructor will provide an opportunity for the student to make up work missed.

3. There is a distinction between willful absences and institutional absences. Institutional absences include those which result from participation in an activity sponsored by the University such as athletics, music, debate, and other activities approved by the academic deans. Students who are absent for such reasons are expected to make up their work but should not receive undue penalty.
4. When a student misses classes for reasons other than those stated above, he does so at the risk of jeopardizing his academic standing.
5. Any student who has been absent from a class for two or more weeks prior to the final examination will be denied the privilege of taking the final examination in that class except when it can be shown that the absences were beyond the student's control.

cheating

Marshall University considers cheating to be a serious breach of academic discipline and absolutely condemns this and any form of academic dishonesty, on or off campus, for whatever purpose it may be pursued.

Cheating shall be defined generally as any act of a dishonorable nature which gives the students engaged in it an unfair advantage over others engaged in the same or similar course of study and which, if known to the classroom instructor in such course of study, would be prohibited by him. Such cheating shall include, but is not limited to, the following: securing or giving unfair assistance during examinations or required work of any type; the improper use of books, notes, or other sources of information; submitting as one's own work or creation any oral, graphic, or written material wholly or in part created by another; securing all or any part of assignments or examinations in advance of their submission to the class by the instructor; altering of any grade or other academic record; and any other type of misconduct or activity which manifests dishonesty or unfairness in academic work.

Since each classroom instructor may modify the general definition of cheating to fit the immediate academic needs of his particular class, it shall be his responsibility where this is done to make clear to his students the details of any such departure from the general definition.

Major responsibility for punishment of cheating offenders shall lie with the individual instructor in whose classroom or course of study the offense occurred. Such punishment shall be based upon the severity of the offense, circumstances surrounding the act, causes for the behavior, whether this is a repetition of a previous offense, and such other factors as the instructor may consider pertinent, and may range from a reprimand to failure in the course with or without a reminding of the offender to other University officials for additional action. Where the offense is particularly flagrant and/or it is known to the instructor that the person has been guilty of one or more such offenses in the past, the instructor shall communicate the details of the offense and the action he has taken to the appropriate University officials with his recommendation for additional punishment or action. If the cheating offense involves a violation of any local, State, or National law, the instructor shall communicate the details of the offense and any action he has taken, without delay, to the appropriate University official for additional action. Beyond the action taken by the individual classroom instructor, University officials may place the student on social and/or academic probation, place a written account of the offense in his permanent record file, expel him from the University, remand him to proper law enforcement officials or legal action, or take such other steps as may seem appropriate and reasonable.

A student charged with a cheating offense may appeal from the action of the classroom instructor to a Review Committee consisting of the Dean of Student Affairs, the Dean of the College in which the student is enrolled, the Chief Justice of the Student Court, and two faculty members appointed for each individual case by the University Council. This Committee may make such additional investigation as it may desire, shall hear all evidence in the case, and shall affirm or reverse, in whole or in part, the action of the instructor. The Review Committee shall be a special sub-committee of the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee, and shall deposit a record of its actions with the chairman of that committee.

A student may appeal from the action of the Review Committee to the President of the University, who may affirm or reverse, in whole or in part, the action of the Review Committee.

Appeals by the student to the Review Committee or to the President shall be made within thirty days of the time disciplinary action is taken or the appeal decision has been handed down; and as a part of such appeals the student may seek such legal or other assistance as he may deem advisable.

marshall university library

The Marshall University Library is housed in the James E. Morrow Library Building. Library facilities are open to University students, faculty and staff. university policy pertaining to student conduct

The University assumes that each student is a mature, responsible individual who has entered this institution by voluntary registration for educational advancement. On that assumption, the University expects the student to direct his energy toward the highest scholastic achievement possible.

While attaining these high educational purposes, the University requires that the student maintain a pattern of social behavior in keeping with good taste and high moral standards.

types of disciplinary action

A student who violates rules of the University and standards of good conduct may be reprimanded according to the nature of offense. Disciplinary action may include:

1. Formal warning — a written warning to the student that his conduct bears improvement.
2. Disciplinary probation—a written warning to a student responsible for repeated or more serious violations of standards that his conduct bears improvement. A student on disciplinary probation may not pledge a fraternity or sorority, or hold a position of leadership (i.e., student organization officer, major committee chairmanship, elective or appointive student government positions, major positions in student publications). A student on disciplinary probation is subject to suspension in the event of further misconduct.
3. Suspension — a severance of the student's relationship with the University. He may be re-admitted after a stated period of time.

4. Dismissal — a severance of the student's relationship with the University for an indefinite period of time. His return to the University is not guaranteed, but he may petition the Office of Student Affairs for such.
5. Expulsion — a permanent severance of the student's relationship with the University.

procedure for disciplinary cases

Students accused of misconduct will be referred to one of the student personnel deans, who will make a preliminary investigation. If the offense is minor, the dean may administer appropriate disciplinary action.

If the student is charged with conduct which could result in "substantial disciplinary action" the student will be given reasonable notice of the charge in writing, time to prepare a defense and an adequate and fair hearing.

The student will be given a choice of a hearing before the student personnel deans acting as a body, or before a committee composed of members of the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee, chaired by the Dean of Student Affairs. The time, place and date of the hearing will be stated in writing. The hearing will then proceed at the appointed time whether or not the students involved are in attendance.

The student may hear the testimony against him, speak on his own behalf, and present witnesses or written statements of witnesses in his behalf. The hearing cannot be construed as a full-dress judicial hearing with the right to cross-examine witnesses. The student will receive a written statement of the decision of the committee.

Any decision made by the student personnel deans may be appealed to the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee, in which case the chairman of the committee will chair the board which hears the appeal.

codes of conduct and university regulations and policies

The faculty and administration of Marshall University recognize fully the rights and responsibilities of its students. These include the privilege and obligation of maintaining high standards of social and personal conduct. While encouraging the students to develop independence, the University embraces the concept that liberty and license are not synonymous; therefore it accepts the obligation to maintain those rules which will provide for the welfare of the individual and the campus community at large.

In keeping with this philosophy the University has established policies and standards in the following areas, the violation of which will subject the student to disciplinary action:

athletic policy and ncaa rule

Marshall University will terminate the athletic financial aid of a student-athlete if the student-athlete is adjudged to have been guilty of manifest disobedience through violation of institutional regulations or established Athletic Department policies and rules, which are as follows:

1. Student athlete's financial aid (athletic) may be terminated if found under the influence of alcoholic beverages while engaged in or a member of an Athletic-Department-sponsored program including trips.
2. Student athletes are expected to attend all squad meetings and practices unless excused by the Head Coach.
3. Student athletes may not steal or purposely misappropriate, damage or destroy equipment or other property of the Department of Athletics.

The recommendation for termination of financial aid must be approved by the Athletic Committee and the Student Aid Executive Board, serving as a joint committee, with the student receiving the opportunity to be heard. If the student wishes to appeal the ruling, he may submit his case to the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

Marshall University will abide by the NCAA MANIFEST DISOBEDIENCE Rule which states that a member institution may terminate the financial aid of a student-athlete if he is adjudged to have been guilty of manifest disobedience through violation of institutional regulations or established athletic department policies and rules applicable to all student-athletes. Construed to be manifest disobedience are disruptive actions which interfere with the normal and orderly conduct of an institution's athletic program, refusal to meet the normal good conduct of an institution's athletic program, refusal to meet the normal good conduct obligations required of all team members and defiance of the normal and necessary directions of departmental staff members.

drugs

The misuse of marijuana and other drugs* is in violation of the law, and Marshall University cannot and will not protect students from prosecution under federal or state laws.

It is recognized, however, that students who have taken or are taking marijuana and other drugs* may need and wish to seek counseling.

Students are reminded that the University physician, psychologists, and counselors are available for such help. Conferences with these persons are privileged subject to the standards of privacy established in the medical professions. Others, including the deans, also stand ready to help students.

*Drugs are defined as including barbiturates, amphetamines, prescription tranquilizers, LSD compounds, mescaline, psilocybin, DMT, narcotics, and opiates, all of which are illegal except when taken under a doctor's prescription.

Given these considerations, the following rules shall be enforced and are applicable regardless of the status of a violation in the civil courts:

1. Marshall University cannot condone the possession, consumption, provision, and sale of marijuana and other drugs.

2. Provision of or merchandising drugs including marijuana will ordinarily result in expulsion.
3. Possession on consumption of drugs or misconduct resulting therefrom is a serious offense, which may be subject to severe penalties up to and including expulsion, depending on the seriousness and extent of the offense.
4. The penalties invoked for possession, consumption or sharing of marijuana, or misconduct resulting therefrom, will generally be less severe, but may include a range of penalties up to and including suspension, depending on the seriousness and extent of the offense.

Duplication of keys to University property is prohibited.

Chemicals which are explosive or incendiary in nature are similar prohibited. This rule also extends to all homes of University affiliated organizations.

smoking regulations

Smoking is prohibited in classrooms, laboratories, and in Old Main Auditorium, including its dressing rooms. Classes and organizations meeting in late afternoon or night are not exempt from this regulation. Smoking is permitted in the corridors.

gambling

Gambling on University property is prohibited by law.

The Administrative Cabinet of Marshall University officially received the following resolution from the West Virginia Board of Education, January 15, 1959: "Upon motion duly made, seconded, and carried, the Board approved the following relating to hazing on college campuses and by college enrolled students:

'Resolved that hazing in any form is prohibited in the colleges under the jurisdiction of the West Virginia Board of Education. The term hazing, as here used, may be defined as follows: To subject to cruel horseplay, to harass or punish by the imposition of excessively heavy or disagreeable tasks, to frighten, scold, beat or annoy by playing abusive tricks upon an individual.

The President and faculty of the several colleges under jurisdiction of the Board are hereby authorized and directed to formulate and issue such rules and regulations as may be deemed necessary to carry out the provisions of this order.'"

In keeping with this regulation, the University demands that all groups refrain from all forms of formal or informal initiations involving physical violence, including interference with the liberty and comfort of others, either with or without their consent, or from encouraging or abetting others in such practices.

All practices utilized in formal or informal campus organizations' pledge training program shall be constructive. The ban on hazing shall include:

1. All forms of hazing, both mental and physical;
2. All scavenger or bottle hunts;
3. All hikes or "hell rides";
4. Costume dress in public;
5. Indecent or vulgar practices;
6. Throwing in fish ponds;
7. Painting or disfiguring fraternity or sorority houses or any other public property;
8. Excessively long or late hours;
9. All laxatives, nauseating food or drink;
10. Electrical devices;
11. All paddling; and

12. All other practices deemed by the University to be abusive.

Violations of the above regulations shall be punishable by suspension of any or all activities of the group, including closing of a fraternity house or revoking of privileges to operate as a fraternity, and/or suspension of the individual/s involved at the discretion of the University. Resolution and policy reaffirmed by Administrative Cabinet, February 1, 1962.

The behavior of a Marshall student reflects upon the reputation of all Marshall students. Honesty is essential to good citizenship, and the University assumes that its students will maintain honesty in all of their contacts.

The deliberate issuance of bad checks, theft and/or lying are considered serious breaches of these standards of personal behavior. The University deprecates the misappropriation of any property belonging to others.

Altering any University record or providing false information for such records is prohibited.

illegal acts committed off-campus

Off-campus, a violation of an ordinance or statute is a matter for adjudication between the student and civil authorities. The special authority of the University is to be asserted only when the institution's interests as an academic community are involved.

intoxicating beverages

1. The consumption or possession of intoxicating beverages or beer by students is not permitted on University property or at University athletic events.
2. Drunkenness, the appearance of being under the influence of intoxicating beverages or beer, disorderly conduct, and damage to property as a result of drinking such beverages are prohibited.
3. Members and officers of student organizations are charged with the full responsibility for compliance with all rules governing conduct by persons attending social events sponsored by the host organization. It shall further be the responsibility of the officers and members of that organization to exclude unauthorized and uninvited persons from these events.

4. Marshall University students are subject to all West Virginia state and local codes and laws relating to the possession and consumption of intoxicating beverages or beer. The University, however, is not limited to the requirement of compliance with legal restraints, but may set its own standards above and beyond those provided by law.

interfraternity council drinking policy

We, the members of IFC, realizing that alcohol is a permanent fixture in modern society, feel that there is a proper time and place for the consumption of alcohol. We, as college men, have a duty to ourselves and our society to maintain a standard that will be beneficial to our members and the University.

1. Consumption of alcoholic beverages shall be confined to 3.2 beer unless a special petition is presented to the president of IFC for a major social function. The president of IFC shall be responsible for notifying the Office of Student Affairs when a special petition is granted.
2. Social gatherings which have women present and alcohol permitted shall be confined to Friday and Saturday evenings only.
 - a. Any petitions for house parties must conform with University regulations and faculty chaperones must be present.
 - b. All house parties shall close one hour prior to the women's dormitory closing hour.
3. Fraternities are not allowed to serve alcoholic beverages at any smoker or rush function in the fraternity house.
4. Each member of the fraternity will be responsible to the Office of Student Affairs for his conduct.
5. The president and other officers of the fraternity will be responsible for the actions of the group.

off-campus housing

"University Approved"

Marshall University can no longer designate any housing not specifically owned by the University as "University Approved." The University does not and cannot supervise the health, safety, living standards, and contractual arrangements of students living in privately-owned dwellings. Therefore, any student who decides to reside in these residences accepts full responsibility for his choice with relation to aforementioned items.

The above policy does not apply to organizations affiliated with and responsible to the University.

respect for property

Any student who mutilates or destroys University property shall pay the cost of replacing such property immediately when called upon to do so, and shall be subject to dismissal from the University.

speakers to be invited to campus by students

An essential part of education is the availability of diverse viewpoints as expressed by speakers invited to the campus by responsible student organizations. To be given an opportunity to listen to persons of varied convictions, to give them a respectful hearing, whether or not the listener agrees with them, and to reach an intelligent decision on the evidence at hand are some of the cherished aspects of a democratic society and are experiences to which undergraduates should be exposed. These experiences are a necessary part of free inquiry, the basis of freedom of teaching and learning.

Another basic aspect of teaching is the cultivation of maturity and responsibility among students in the exercise of their rights. Thus, both the institution and its students have a joint responsibility on the matter of speakers to be invited to the campus by student groups.

In order to help student groups formulate policies on the issuance of invitations to prospective speakers the following principles will serve as a guide.

1. Subject to any regulation that may have been laid down in advance as a matter of official institutional policy a speaker or performer may appear on the campus on invitation extended by a duly recognized student organization, whether or not his point of view is congenial to the University.
2. In issuing invitations, student organizations must keep in mind that the sole purpose of such visits is to contribute to the aims of the University as a center of free inquiry and sound learning, and that the prime responsibility for insuring that this purpose is served rests on the sponsoring organization.
3. It must be recognized that an institution cannot be wholly disassociated in the public mind from views expressed on its campus. Thus, student organizations must exercise care and prudence in their choice of speakers and accept the consequences of their choice, including disciplinary action which may be defined in the official policy of the institution.
4. Whether the college administration gives a recognized student organization freedom in inviting speakers at its own discretion, or requires such organizations to obtain permission from the appropriate authorities for each individual invitation, it does not thereby signify its approval of the visitor or of his point of view.
5. The invitation to outside speakers must always represent the desire of a recognized student group and not the will of an external organization.

student demonstrations

The policies outlined herein apply onto to on-campus demonstrations. Marshall University students and Marshall University student organizations are free to examine and discuss all questions of interest to them, and to express opinions publicly and privately. They are also free to support causes by orderly means which do not disrupt the regular and essential operation of the University.

Demonstrations, conducted only by Marshall University students and approved Marshall University student organizations may be held on University property and in University buildings provided the following regulations and procedures are followed:

1. Although approval for demonstrations is not required it is requested that demonstrations be registered with the Office of Student Affairs by 4:30 p.m. of the day preceding the activity.
2. Individual students or officers of a recognized campus organization who are planning a demonstration shall apprise participants of the standards and procedures to be followed. Sponsoring organizations, their officers, and individual participants will be held responsible for their conduct during demonstrations. Information and advice regarding limitations and regulations for specific student demonstrations will be available in the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs.
3. Printed pamphlets, brochures, and leaflets need not be registered. There are no location restrictions on free distribution of literature outside University buildings or on University property. Pamphlets or other materials including placards and signs shall not be left to litter the area whether inside or outside of buildings.
4. Local, state, and federal laws and University policies and procedures are to be observed.
5. Demonstrations are to be orderly and peaceful and are to be conducted without endangering or damaging personal or public property, without infringing upon the rights of others and without threatening, harassing, or harming any person. There is to be no interference with normal and usual University activities or with activities and programs held on campus which have been properly scheduled.

6. The rights of those who have reserved University facilities are to be respected. If a facility has been reserved for private or restricted use, demonstrators shall not enter the area. Further, demonstrators shall not enter classrooms, offices, business areas, or dining rooms.
7. Demonstrators are to carry valid identification and are to present such identification at the request of the Campus Security Guards or other responsible officials.
8. If a demonstration is directed toward a particular person, group or organization involved in an activity or program on campus, the person or representatives of such groups may file with appropriate University personnel any complaints regarding infringement upon their rights, or, concerns for the safety of their person/s and property. The representatives of the group, staff members from the Campus Security Guards, or other responsible University personnel shall first request the cooperation of demonstrators. Failure to comply with these requests may subject individuals to University disciplinary action as well as appropriate legal action.
9. Although uniformed officers will be used sparingly, it should be recognized that outside agencies may be called upon to enforce law and order when other attempts have not been successful. These agencies may arrest students.
10. Individual students charged with violations will be referred to the Dean of Students and the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

Marshall teams enter several intercollegiate debate tournaments each year. Individual speakers also compete in oratorical and extemporaneous contests, discussions and after-dinner speaking. the year

homecoming

One of Marshall's most unforgettable and enjoyable weekends is Homecoming. Many alumni return to the campus at this time to renew bonds, to observe the changes on the campus, and to have fun along with the undergraduates.

An election is held one week prior to Homecoming to select the class attendants and Miss Marshall. All full-time women with an overall 2.0 average are eligible to run in their respective classes. The girls must secure a petition from the Student Government office. Marshall's best are chosen at the polls with the senior class queen reigning over the Homecoming festivities as Miss Marshall.

On Friday evening of Homecoming weekend, a pep rally is held, followed by a concert. The sororities and fraternities and dormitories compete for awards given for house decorations which are judged Friday and Saturday.

The Homecoming game is played Saturday afternoon at Fairfield Stadium. After the game, there is a Homecoming dance at the Memorial Field House.

parent's weekend

Parent's Weekend will be held November 21 and 22. At this time the parents are invited to visit the campus and participate in entertaining and informative activities presented by the student body and the various departments. Saturday the parents are invited to attend the Marshall U. vs. Ohio U. football game at the stadium.

greek week

The Greek fraternities and sororities unite to provide entertainment in antics and contests in their annual Greek Week. A service project is planned along with the Greek games which include a barrel race, tug of war, and football throw. A chariot race is held on Fourth Avenue with the fraternities competing. Greek Week is climaxed on Saturday evening with the Greek Week Dance.

impact

IMPACT is sponsored by the Student Government in conjunction with the University. It is a series of programs designed to bring important national and international issues to Marshall's campus through outstanding speakers. In 1969 Sander Vanocur, Vance Packard, Bernard Donovan and many others, were among the featured speakers. Throughout the week, the "Barfenon Revue" was presented by students.

The Greek organizations and residence halls participate in the annual Mother's Day Sing which is held on Mother's Day on the campus lawn between Old Main and College Avenue, weather permitting. Trophies are given to the best women's groups and to the best men's groups. The dormitories, fraternities and sororities have open houses for the public after the Sing.

Baptist Student Movement President, Linda Wilmoth

The Baptist Student Movement is the tangible and visible witness of the Baptist Church at Marshall University. It meets weekly in the Campus Christian Center; all persons may participate in this witness which involves programs and activities designed to make the presence of Christ more real to the person and to the University. Baptist students on campus are attempting through some informal projects, studies, and worship periods—rather than forming some rigid organizational structure—to consciously discover what it means to be the church at Marshall.

Canterbury Club
The Episcopal Campus Ministry sponsors a Sunday evening supper and discussion throughout the year. On Thursday evenings at 8:00 p.m. the Holy Communion is celebrated in the chapel of the Campus Christian Center. The Rev. Stephen D. McWhorter is the Episcopal Chaplain with office at 1521 6th Avenue, and he is available for counseling at any time.

Christian Science Organization

An inspirational meeting is held each week at the Campus Christian Center with the object of bringing campus life and religion into a closer relationship. Lectures on Christian Science are given throughout the year for interested students.

Campus Crusade for Christ

College Life is an informal weekly meeting sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ International of San Bernadino, California. College Life is designed to effectively present the claims of Jesus Christ to the students at Marshall. This group has no organized membership but desires to share the relevancy of Christianity with everyone. In order to meet this challenge, College Life sponsors action groups, conferences, a traveling Christian folk singing group The New Folk, and many opportunities for informal discussions with trained staff representatives.

Lutheran Student Association

The LSA meets regularly on the second and fourth Sunday of each month at 5:30 p.m. for a meal and program dealing with campus problems. The meetings are open for all interested persons.

MUST

Marshall University Seekers after Truth meet monthly at the Campus Christian Center for refreshments and program. Although sponsored by the Church of God, it is open to all who care to participate.

Newman Apostolate

The Campus Christian Center houses the Catholic students' organization, the Newman Apostolate. Newman is a group of students who strive together to learn more about themselves and their Church. In 1968-1969 Newman will undertake various projects—parties, dances, lectures, and discussions—besides regular meetings. Newman Club is a place to meet friends, to relax, to work together toward common goals. Newman at Marshall strives to bring an atmosphere of Christian Brotherhood to each Catholic student who is at Marshall.

Presbyterian Student Association

In an attempt to supplement and complement the ministry of the Church to the University, the PSA meets weekly in the Campus Christian Center for study of the matters of faith (Sunday mornings, 10:00 a.m.) and in the Presbyterian Campus Pastor's home (1545 Fifth Avenue, Thursdays, 7:30 p.m.) to share in discussion with other students and faculty members concerning the style of life for a Christian in today's world. All campus persons are welcome to take part in this attempt to come to grips with Christian presence in the University.

The United Methodist Student Movement

The MSM meets Tuesday evenings for programs and study at the Campus Christian Center. Through these programs, the MSM endeavors to make the lives of its members more relevant and more abundant in knowledge of the Church. Throughout the year, weekend retreats, monthly socials, a trip to Washington, and various service projects in the Huntington area are planned.

social organizations

A fraternity is a group of men or women joined together in a common bond who have pledged themselves to the pursuit of the highest standards of achievement and conduct. The best fraternities manifest a commitment to those standards in their daily operations.

A fraternity is closely associated with and considered an integral part of the University community. The principles and objectives of a fraternity complement the expressed aims of institutions of higher education. Membership gives rise to an interpersonal growth, engenders a spirit of cooperation, and develops a sense of responsibility. Whether or not to join a fraternity is a decision that each individual must make for himself. The value of association with any group is as beneficial as the individual himself chooses to make it.

Fraternities

Nine national social fraternities and one national social colony have established chapters at Marshall. A fraternity is a group of men who join together to further their social and educational development.

Most Marshall fraternities have their own chapter houses. The members are responsible for financing their house, providing meals, scheduling social activities, and participating in the numerous University and Inter-fraternity events which are scheduled each year. Each fraternity establishes high standards of conduct and attainment for its members. Each fraternity, through its president, is responsible to the Dean of Student Affairs.

The fraternities at Marshall have organized the Inter-Fraternity Council to promote the interest of the Greek-letter organizations. It is made up of two delegates from each fraternity chapter on campus. The IFC represents the fraternity system to University officials and sponsors a number of activities for all fraternity men. In addition, the IFC Judicial Board serves to settle charges of violations of IFC or University regulations by fraternities.

Any Marshall student may participate in the formal rush program of fraternity membership selection. Organized by the IFC, Rush Week will begin Monday, September 23. Upon payment of a small fee, any new student may visit the smokers and open house events held by each fraternity. At the end of the week, every fraternity submits to an IFC representative a list of the students to whom it desires to extend membership. Each student who has participated in the formal rush program picks up the bids which he has received at the Science Hall Auditorium on the last day of Rush Week. Provided he continues to meet IFC standards, he is then initiated into full active membership in the fraternity whose bid he has accepted.

Sororities

The seven sororities at Marshall University are all chapters of national organizations. They are governed locally by the Panhellenic Council which is composed of elected representatives of each sorority. Rushing rules and regulations are one aspect of Panhellenic operations. The members of Panhellenic are dedicated to uphold good scholarship, high standards of social conduct, and to work in harmony and understanding with each other to further the ideals of all groups.

Both nationally and locally, the groups express their belief that a ". . . sorority is a social experience based on the fundamental right of a free people to form voluntary organizations."

At the beginning of each semester a period of time is designated for formal Panhellenic Rush. This year it will begin Wednesday, September 17, with the Panhellenic Fashion Show, and will draw to a close Sunday, September 28, with the invitations for membership.

This rushing is organized to allow both the interested students and the sorority members an opportunity to become better acquainted and to make the selection of friends with whom they want close association. An emphasis is placed upon high values and standards in friendships, in leadership opportunities, and in scholastic achievement. Each group encourages its members to participate in other campus organizations, to contribute their services to community projects and to serve the University.

Marshall University is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Mid-American Conference which includes Bowling Green University, Kent State University, Marshall University, Miami University, Ohio University, Toledo University and Western Michigan University.

The "Thundering Herd" competes with all the conference schools and many other colleges and universities in football, basketball, baseball, golf, tennis, wrestling, and track.

Eddie Barrett will be serving his third year as Athletic Director of the "Thundering Herd."

football

The Marshall University football team prospects for 1969 should be improved over last season. There is hope for the future because head coach Perry Moss and his staff boast a freshman team that was undefeated in five games in 1968. These freshmen will graduate to the varsity this season, and there is no doubt that many of them will be counted on to fill starting roles. It is entirely within the realm of possibility that Marshall could take the field for the 1969 opener without a returning letterman among the 22 starters. Of necessity Coach Moss will be counting heavily on his sophomores and hoping that they can hold their own in the tough Mid-American Conference. Among the sophomores being counted on most heavily are quarterbacks Ted Shoebridge of Lyndhurst, New Jersey, and Robert Harris of Cincinnati, Ohio; offensive tackle Ron Mikolajczyk of Passaic, New Jersey; fullback Robbie Giardino from West Palm Beach, Florida; and offensive lineman, Jeff Angle from Logan, Ohio, among many others.

In addition, at least four junior college transfers are expected to challenge for starting positions.

Danny D'Antoni and Jim Davidson, three year starters, are gone and will be difficult to replace. Both were towers of strength for three years at Marshall, having led the Thundering Herd into the National Invitational Tournament during their sophomore and junior years.

This season Marshall will miss the experience of D'Antoni and Davidson, but Bernard Bradshaw and Dave Smith will return after fine sophomore seasons last year. In addition, junior college transfer Joe Taylor is back as a senior after a fine first-year performance for the Herd. Rickey Hall, Bob Didur, Rick Turnbow, Larry Osborne, Gary Pommerenck, and Pat Brady are back and should provide the necessary depth.

Transfer student, Bob De Pathy will join the squad as a junior after sitting out the one year eligibility requirement.

The unbeaten freshman squad will send four players to the varsity including (Freshman All-American) Russell Lee, his brother Eugene, who is also capable of taking over a starting berth, D. J. Jebbia an excellent shot, and Bill Bertalan a 6-9 pivot man.

Overall the 1969-70 Marshall team will lack seasoning and experience, however, it should generate more fire-power than last years aggregation. When practice starts this winter, Bradshaw, 6-6; Taylor, 6-6; Smith, 6-6; Pommerenck, 6-9; and Russell Lee, 6-5; should battle for the positions up front. Rickey Hall, 6-4; Larry Osborne, 6-0; Pat Brady, 6-0; Bob De Pathy, 6-3; Eugene Lee, 6-0; and D. J. Jebbia, 6-0; will be the top contenders for the back court slots.

If the newcomers develop and the veterans continue to develop, Marshall could be a fine basketball team.

golf

Last year the golf team took a sixth place finish in MAC tournament play and had an overall record of 27 wins and 37 losses, under the leadership of Ed Wescock in his first year as MU golf coach. Frank Sexton, a two time All MAC selection will return this season.

greenbackers

The "Greenbackers" is a campus organization which performs card stunts at the football games. They are under the direction of the Robe, men's honorary. Each Robe member serves as a row captain. In the fall the Greenbackers plan to perform two card stunts at each of the home games.

t. h. e. group

T. H. E. GROUP is the Thundering Herd Excitement Group which was created by a group of students interested in building Marshall's spirit at games. Three members from each fraternity are chosen to be members of T. H. E. GROUP; they can be recognized by their black top hats and their Chamberlin umbrellas. They assist the cheerleaders and stage stunts preceding the games and at half time to promote more enthusiastic school spirit.

Marshall majorettes are chosen for their ability to perform individual and group marching and twirling. Try-outs for all members of the corps are held in late spring. They perform along with the band during parades, pre-game shows, and half-time shows during football season.

It is the job of the cheerleaders to keep the spirits high in a losing game and to add excitement in a winning one. This years cheerleaders are Pam Slaughter, Gail Kucek, Lucianne Kaultz, Linda Enochs, Barbara Woodyard, Nancy Sheppe, Karen Lofland, and Debby Chambers.

Tryouts for freshmen interested in cheering on the freshman squad will be held in October. To try out one must have a 2.0 overall average, be single, interested, and willing to attend practices. Freshmen with tumbling ability are welcome on the squad.
