

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 3, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Max L. Corley III of Nutter Fort, a senior accounting major in Marshall University's College of Business, has been awarded the university's Walter C. Treanor Memorial Scholarship, according to Dr. Calvin A. Kent, dean of the College of Business.

The scholarship was established by Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Treanor of St. Albans in memory of their son, a 1971 graduate of Marshall's College of Business, who died in 1975. It is presented to a junior or senior in the College of Business based on academic pursuits and financial need.

Corley attended Roosevelt-Wilson High School in Nutter Fort where he was valedictorian of the class of 1990. He is an active member of Marshall's Accounting Club and participates in various intramural sports.

He is the son of Brenda and Faustino Medina of Nutter Fort and Max L. Corley II of Clarksburg.

Kent said Corley should graduate with honors from Marshall this May. He hopes to attend law school at West Virginia University next fall.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 3, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Sherri Ritter of Huntington, a computer technology major in Marshall University's Community and Technical College, has been selected as the recipient of the first grant from the Lucille Fogus Memorial Fund, according to Dr. F. David Wilkin, dean of the Community and Technical College.

The Fogus family created the scholarship fund in honor of Mrs. Lucille Fogus, a long-time resident of Cabell County.

Ritter, the mother of two young sons, is president of the OASIS Club, an academic support group for Community and Technical College students.

"This is indeed an honor for Ms. Ritter and our Community and Technical College," said Wilkin.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 5, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The Meeting," an award-winning play about what might have happened if Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. had met Malcolm X, will be presented Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall University's Fine and Performing Arts Center.

The performance by the Pin Points Theatre of Washington, D.C., is being presented in conjunction with the Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium being sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the Cabell County/Huntington Branch of the NAACP.

Pin Points Theatre's contemporary and historic adaptations have been highly acclaimed by the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington, D.C., Commission on the Arts and other organizations. Performances have been presented at more than 2,000 schools throughout the United States.

Ersky Freeman, founder of Pin Points Theatre, will portray Malcolm X. Greenfair Moses III, a nationally recognized Martin Luther King Jr. impersonator, will play King.

Freeman said the purpose of Pin Points Theatre is to utilize art to educate and entertain and to serve as an employment and training platform for both accomplished and aspiring artists.

more

The Meeting--Add 1

There will be an admission charge for the performance of $6 for adults and $3 for youth 17 and under. Tickets will be available at the Box Office at the Fine and Performing Arts Center and will be available at the door.

"The Meeting" is based on a book titled "Martin & Malcolm: A Dream or a Nightmare" written by Dr. James H. Cone. Cone, Briggs Distinguished Professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York, will present a free lecture on "Martin, Malcolm and America" on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 10 a.m. in Marshall's Memorial Student Center Room 2W22.

To obtain further details about "The Meeting" or other activities associated with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430 or 696-4677.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 5, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University will offer two courses, Communication Studies 103 and English 101, on Saturdays during the spring semester beginning Jan. 15, according to Dr. H. Keith Spears, interim dean of Adult and Extended Education at Marshall.

Spears said the three-credit-hour courses, which will be held on campus, are being held on Saturdays because many adults can't attend classes during the week. "These courses will offer those people the chance to enroll in two commonly requested classes," he said.

Persons can register for the classes on Monday through Thursday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Old Main Room 115.

"We are excited about the possibilities for weekend coursework," Spears said. "The success of these courses will allow us to build a larger schedule. We know many people want to take fundamental courses but do not have the time during the workweek. Marshall University is striving to make courses available when people can take advantage of them."

He said non-traditional times and new ways of attending class, like television courses, are allowing many people to gain

more

AEE Courses--Add 1

college credit where otherwise they would not have the opportunity.

To obtain further details about the courses contact the Marshall University Adult and Extended Education Center, 696-4723.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 6, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Sheila Wiley, production supervisor in the Computer Center, has been selected as the Marshall University Employee of the Month for December, according to Bill Burdette, chairman of the selection committee.

Wiley has worked for the university for 16 years.

She was nominated for the award by Registrar Robert H. Eddins.

In making the nomination, Eddins said, "Sheila Wiley is extremely deserving of receiving the award, Employee of the Month. Sheila has been employed at the university for 16 years and has risen to the position of supervisor of production. In this capacity she is constantly performing beyond the call of duty in that no job is too great, and her dedication to duty goes far beyond the 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. time concept of most employees of the university.

"Sheila does a great deal of work from her computer terminal at home. She also is exceedingly conscious of the pressures placed on the Office of the Registrar for registration, grade processing and items of that type where a tremendous amount of external pressure is placed. The bulk of the deadlines Sheila is asked to meet are not in her control to establish but are established by policies and procedures of the university and the academic calendar.

more

Employee--Add 1

"She consistently meets these deadlines and performs her duties with a positive attitude. She appears outwardly to meet the pressures of the job in a manner that makes dealing with her a pleasure at all times."

Wiley will receive a plaque and $100 for being named Employee of the Month and will be eligible for the Employee of the Year Award.

Marshall University President J. Wade Gilley and his wife, Nanna, provided funds through a grant to establish the Employee of the Month and Employee of the Year program.

The program has been designed to recognize outstanding performance by classified and non-classified staff at the university. Awards will be made to MU employees who have exhibited exceptional levels of work performance and displayed high regard and loyalty toward the university and their job responsibilities.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

JANUARY 6, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Office of Student Health Education Programs will sponsor "Fresh Start," a smoking cessation class developed by the American Cancer Society, beginning Monday, Jan. 24, at 5 p.m. in Prichard Hall.

One-hour classes will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays for two weeks, according to Carla Lapelle, coordinator of Student Health Education Programs.

The course will be open to the public free of charge, however enrollment will be limited.

To register or obtain further details contact the Office of Student Health Education Programs at Marshall University, 696-4800.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 6, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Office of Continuing Education will offer a series of college board reviews for the American College Test (ACT) during January and February.

Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall's Community and Technical College, said the purpose of the program is to provide to as many students as possible information about the ACT assessment.

During the sessions, students will take sample ACT examinations, learn test-taking strategies, discuss the content of the test and procedures to follow when taking the test, learn how to approach examination questions and learn specific strategies for each of the four sections in the ACT.

The review program will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from Jan. 18 through Feb. 17 from 6 to 8 p.m.

There will be a $75 tuition fee for the program and students will have to purchase the review text titled "Official Guide to the ACT Assessment" which is available at the Marshall University Bookstore for $12.95.

To register or obtain further details contact the Continuing Education Office at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 7, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. James H. Cone, the Charles A. Briggs distinguished professor of systematic theology at Union Theological Seminary in New York City and author of "Martin & Malcolm: A Dream or a Nightmare," will make a presentation titled "Martin, Malcolm and America" at Marshall University on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 10 a.m. in Memorial Student Center Room 2W22.

The presentation, open to the public free of charge, is being sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the local chapter of the NAACP in conjunction with Huntington's first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium.

Cone received a bachelor's degree from Philander Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., and a divinity degree from Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. He received his master's and doctoral degrees from Northwestern University in Evanston.

He has been awarded honorary degrees by Edward Waters College, Jacksonville, Fla.; Philander Smith College; Denison University, Granville, Ohio; Payne Theological Seminary, Wilberforce, Ohio; Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y., and Colby College, Waterville, Maine.

A prolific writer, Cone has authored 11 books and written

more

Cone--Add 1

more than 100 articles for professional publications and journals.

He has presented lectures at more than 400 colleges and universities throughout the United States and lectured abroad in Europe, Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

"We are fortunate to be able to get a speaker of Dr. Cone's caliber for our first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium," said Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University. "He is a nationally recognized scholar and author. In fact, one of the symposium's events is a play titled 'The Meeting' based on Dr. Cone's book, 'Martin & Malcolm: A Dream or a Nightmare,' which is available in the Marshall University Bookstore."

"The Meeting" will be presented Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Marshall University Fine and Performing Arts Center.

To obtain further details about the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium contact Marshall University's Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-4677 or 696-5430.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 11, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The Autism Training Center at Marshall University will hold a panel discussion and open house on Friday, Jan. 14, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. in observance of National Autism Week, according to Dr. Barbara Becker, director of the center.

The panel discussion, "Issues in Autism," will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

Panel members will include Janet Bucey, occupational therapist; David Smith, audiologist; Dr. Ruth Sullivan, director of the Autism Services Center in Huntington; Angela Patnaik, president of the southern chapter of the West Virginia Society for Autistic Children; Dr. Carlos Vega, psychiatrist, and Becker.

The open house will be held from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in Old Main Room 316. Autism Training Center staff members will be available to answer questions and information about autism and the center's services will be available. Refreshments will be served in Old Main Room 317.

Both activities will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact Wanda Wells at the Autism Training Center, 696-2332.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 11, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Purchasing Department will host a free seminar and trade show for minority and women business owners on Friday, Feb. 11, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Holiday Inn-Downtown University.

The purpose of the event is to encourage more minority and women owned businesses to sell their goods and services to the state of West Virginia and its colleges and universities, promote economic development and marketing opportunities for minority and women business owners and bring representatives of these businesses together with purchasing agents from the area's major corporations, public institutions and government agencies, according to Barbara Smentkowski of Marshall's Purchasing and Materials Management Office.

Presentations on how to increase sales to state and federal agencies and economic development programs available through Marshall's Research and Economic Development Center will begin at 10 a.m. A free luncheon at noon will be followed by a presentation by Dee Cook, a local entrepreneur and advocate for women.

During the afternoon session regional public and corporate purchasing agents will have the opportunity to evaluate goods and services offered by the minority and women owned business. Representatives of the businesses are encouraged to display company portfolios, product literature and samples.

more

Trade Show--Add 1

To obtain further details contact Smentkowski at Marshall University's Office of Purchasing and Materials Management, 696-3157.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 11, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Department of Music will hold a concert in honor of retired music professor Dr. Paul W. Whear on Thursday, Jan. 20, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall, according to Dr. Donald A. Williams, chair of the Music Department.

The concert, open to the public free of charge, will feature instrumental chamber music written by Whear.

Whear is an internationally recognized composer who has had works commissioned by many groups including the American Guild of Organists, the Strategic Air Command and the U.S. Navy Band. His composition, "March Onward," was recorded by the Calgary Symphony Orchestra for the 1988 Winter Olympics and his musical epic, "The Chief Justice John Marshall," was performed during the nation's Bicentennial celebration.

He has served as a guest conductor for various musical groups throughout the United States and in England, Canada and Japan.

Whear has been a consultant and editor for the Ludwig Music Publishing Company and has had works published by seven music publishers in virtually all mediums. His compositions have been performed and recorded by professional and collegiate organizations throughout the United States and several foreign countries.

more

Whear Concert--Add 1

A native of Indiana, Whear earned bachelor's degrees from Marquette and DePauw universities, a master's degree from DePauw and a Ph.D. from Western Reserve University.

He joined the Marshall faculty in 1969 and in 1987 was the recipient of the university's Meet-the-Scholars Award which honors faculty scholars who represent the highest standard of research or creative excellence.

Whear has received many awards for his work and has been honored numerous times by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

A founder and former conductor of the Huntington Chamber Orchestra, Whear retired from Marshall in 1992.

All of the works featured during the concert will be Whear's compositions. Some of the works were written specifically for the faculty members who will be performing them.

Marshall faculty members participating in the concert include Judi Fine, cello; John Mead, trombone; Leslie Petteys, piano; Wendell Dobbs, flute; Kay Wildman, piano; Reed Smith, violin, and Williams, clarinet.

The program will be repeated in a concert on Jan. 20 at Morehead (Ky.) State University.

more

Whear Concert--Add 2

Another concert featuring Whear's compositions performed by Petteys and Reed Smith will be held Thursday, Feb. 10, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall. This concert will include the world premiere of "Sonata for Solo Violin" which was written for Reed Smith and material the two musicians will perform for the national meeting of the Sonneck Society and various other concerts throughout the region.

To obtain further details about the concerts contact the Marshall University Department of Music, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 12, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium, sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the Cabell County/Huntington chapter of the NAACP, will open with a workshop for youth on Monday, Jan. 17, from noon to 2 p.m. in the Douglas Building Auditorium, 1448 10th Ave.

"An Investment in Leadership" will feature various African American community leaders who will discuss the importance and impact of leadership on family, education and community, according to Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall.

The purpose of the workshop, which is open to the public free of charge, is to let young people interact with recognized community leaders and explore and identify leadership qualities.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430 or 696-4677.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 13, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The future course of Marshall University's Community & Technical College will be examined in a study of the 18-year-old program this winter, MU President J. Wade Gilley said today.

Gilley announced the appointment of a nine-member task force to work with Community & Technical College Dean F. David Wilkin in reviewing the college's growth and planning its future. Frank P. Justice, executive director of Marshall's Research and Economic Development Center, will serve as chairman of the task force.

"The Community & Technical College has played a vital role in Marshall University's success over the last 18 years," Gilley said. "Today's changing world economy, with its strong emphasis on technology, provides even greater and more rewarding challenges for the college. We expect the task force to help us position the Community & Technical College to meet those demands."

Gilley said the task force will consider the college's mission and focus, potential new programs, location and facilities, costs, visibility, relationships with county and state vocational education programs and student credit transfer issues. It is to report its findings by April 1 of this year.

MORE

2-2-2

Dr. George B. Vaughan, professor of community college education at North Carolina State University and associate director of the Academy for Community College Leadership, Advancement, Innovation and Modeling (ACCLAIM), will serve as a consultant to the task force, Gilley said.

The Marshall Community College began operation in the fall of 1975 with 40 students and currently enrolls more than 1,600 in its programs. It serves hundreds of others through a variety of non-credit, continuing education courses each semester. Graduates of two-year programs earn associate degrees and many continue into third- and fourth-year programs at Marshall and other institutions.

Other members of the task force are Dr. Sarah Denman, associate vice president for academic affairs; Dr. Betty J. Jarrell, professor and chair, Business and Office Technology; Linda S. Wilkinson, associate professor and chair, Developmental and General Studies; Dr. Caroline A. Perkins, assistant professor, Classical Studies; Dr. William E. Walker, associate professor, Family and Community Health; Gerald McDonald, president, Huntington Area Development Council; David N. Harris, president, Basic Supply Co., and David Groves, director of vocational, technical and adult education for Cabell County.

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 13, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The opening of Marshall University's newly renovated Birke Art Gallery in Smith Hall will be held Thursday, Jan. 20, at 7 p.m., according to Dr. Marilyn Laufer, co-director of the gallery.

The gallery, which has been under renovation since May 1993, has a long tradition of bringing the finest works of regional, national and international artists to the area as well as exhibiting the works of students and faculty. Laufer said the new exhibition space will continue to be a showcase for the best in contemporary art.

She said the inaugural exhibition will feature the works of two artists with very different ideas and approaches to their art.

Michael Cornfeld, chairman of Marshall's Art Department, will exhibit a series of charcoal and pastel drawings completed last fall while he was on sabbatical leave.

"Even with their large format, Cornfeld's contemplative images of tree-filled landscapes and unpopulated interior spaces are equally concerned with the realistic definition of place and the ephemeral notion of memory," said Laufer. "They suggest the solitude and silence of someone completely lost in their own thoughts."

more

Gallery--Add 1

In contrast, the powerfully distinctive assemblage paintings of Allen Moore also will be on display. Moore has joined the Marshall Art Department through the support of the Birke Symposia Fund as an artist-in-residence for the spring semester.

Laufer said Moore's sculpture/paintings confront the viewer's expectations and assumptions concerning aesthetic experience in their free-form expression.

"Upon closer examination they suggest archaeological relics of past lives and cultures through their specific reference of embedded materials," she said. "Moore's surfaces of subtle colors and varied textures provide the viewer with a mirror into the very richness of the artist's psyche."

The exhibit and reception will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact Laufer at Marshall University's Department of Art, 696-2898 or 696-6760.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 13, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The board of directors for Marshall University's public radio station, WMUL-FM, has been selected for the spring semester, according to Dr. Chuck G. Bailey, WMUL-FM faculty manager.

The board consists of four new members and five returning members.

Sherri Thomas, a graduate student from Huntington, will return as station manager.

New board members are: Pete Collman of Washington, D.C., sports director; Raquel Ricard of Huntington, promotions director; Lisa English of Amherstdale, traffic director, and David Hoffman of Wardensville, training coordinator.

Members returning to the board are: Denton Anderson of Huntington, music director; Carol Elmore of Beckley, news director; Mark DiIorio of Huntington, continuity director; Cliff Haddox of Barboursville, production director, and Cameron Smith of Scott Depot, program coordinator.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 13, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The Division of Continuing Education in Marshall University's Community and Technical College is sponsoring a trip to Columbus, Ohio, for a performance of "The Great Radio City Music Hall Spectacular" featuring The Rockettes and Susan Anton on Saturday, March 5.

A limited number of tickets are available for the trip which will include time to shop at the City Center Mall, according to Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall.

Tickets will be $65 which includes transportation, main floor seating for the 2 p.m. performance at the Palace Theater, a City Center Mall discount card and escorts.

"With its trademark Radio City style, the world-famous Rockettes, Susan Anton, singers, dancers, lavish sets and costumes, this should be a great show," said Hensley.

To order tickets or obtain further details contact the Division of Continuing Education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 13, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's College of Business has awarded its Cynthia Lynn Curry Memorial Scholarship to Amy Elizabeth McHenry of Vienna, according to Dr. Calvin A. Kent, dean of the college.

McHenry, daughter of Bob and Paula McHenry of Vienna, is a senior marketing major at Marshall. She has served as vice president of the university's Panhellenic Council and is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, the Phi Eta Sigma scholastic honorary, Gamma Beta Phi scholastic honorary and the Order of Omega Greek honorary. She graduated from Parkersburg High School.

The scholarship was established by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Curry and family of Parkersburg in memory of their daughter, a 1984 Marshall graduate, who died shortly after graduation when she was struck by a car in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

This is the second consecutive year the scholarship has been presented to McHenry on the basis of her outstanding academic record and leadership qualities.

Kent said the Cynthia Lynn Curry Memorial Scholarship is presented annually to a Parkersburg area student who is enrolled in the Marshall University College of Business.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 15, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--A rally and the traditional candlelight march and memorial service in observance of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. holiday will be held in Huntington Monday, Jan. 17, beginning at 4 p.m. at Huntington High School, Eighth Street and Ninth Avenue, according to Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University.

The activities are being held in conjunction with the first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium being sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the Cabell County/Huntington chapter of the NAACP.

Cleckley said the program symbolizes Dr. King's ideals and the great need for freedom, justice, equality and human dignity in the community, state, nation and world.

The rally will begin at 4 p.m. at Huntington High School and will be followed by the candlelight march. Participants will march to the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church where the memorial service will be held beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Riggins R. Earl Jr., professor of ethics and theology at the Interdenominational Theological Center in Atlanta, Ga., will be the guest speaker for the memorial service.

more

King Service--Add 1

Earl received his bachelor's degree from American Baptist College in Nashville, Tenn., and received a master's of divinity degree and a Ph.D. in social ethics from Vanderbilt University in Nashville. He did postdoctoral studies at Boston University and Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.

He received a Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowship, a Rockefeller Fellowship and research grants from the American Association of Theological Schools and the Interdenominational Theological Center. He also was selected as a Hartford Seminary Scholar for the Experimental Seminar for National and Regional Executives of Denominational and Ecumenical Agencies.

Prior to accepting a position at the Interdenominational Theological Center, Earl taught religious studies at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. He currently serves as assistant editor of The Christian Education Informer.

Earl has presented lectures throughout the country and has written three books and numerous articles for professional publications and journals.

He is a member of the American Academy for the Study of Religion, the Society for the Study of Black Religion, the Society for the Study of Christian Ethics and the Black Catholic Scholars and Black Protestant Scholars organization.

The program will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430 or 696-4677.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 20, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The 25th annual Marshall University Jazz Festival, the oldest collegiate jazz festival in the country, will celebrate its silver anniversary on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3-5, according to Dr. Ed Bingham of Marshall's Department of Music.

The "Silver Anniversary Celebration of Jazz" will feature high school and collegiate jazz ensembles and professional musicians from throughout the region.

Concerts on Thursday and Friday will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Smith Music Hall. Groups from the University of Kentucky and West Virginia Wesleyan College will perform Thursday evening. Ensembles from Morehead (Ky.) State University and West Virginia State College will perform Friday evening. The festival clinicians and adjudicators also will perform Friday evening.

Fifteen high school jazz ensembles from West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana will perform at various times Friday and Saturday.

A special Marshall University Alumni Jazz Ensemble reuniting former students who have gone on to careers as professional musicians and educators will perform on Saturday at 6:45 p.m. in Smith Music Hall. The Alumni Jazz Ensemble will be conducted by J.D. Folsom, founder of the MU Jazz Festival.

more

Jazz--Add 1

Clinics will be conducted throughout the three-day event by Bill Scarlett of the University of Tennessee, Jim Olcott of the University of Miami and Phil de Greg of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Eddie Daniels, GRP recording artist, will be the featured performer for the festival. Daniels will conduct a workshop session Saturday afternoon and perform with the MU Jazz Ensemble Saturday at 8 p.m. in Smith Music Hall.

"Eddie Daniels is one of those rare musicians who is not only equally at home in both jazz and classical music but excels at both," said Bingham. "He has won prestigious awards on both saxophone and clarinet."

Daniels first came to the attention of jazz audiences as a tenor saxophonist with the Thad Jones-Mel Lewis Orchestra in 1966. Later that year, Daniels took a chance by spending $400 on a round-trip flight to Vienna to enter the International Competition for Modern Jazz organized by pianist Fredrich Gulda and sponsored by the City of Vienna. He won first prize for saxophone.

For the next few years, Daniels continued to play in the Jones-Lewis Orchestra which toured extensively in Europe. In 1968 a clarinet solo on one of the orchestra's albums, "Live at the Village Vanguard," garnered sufficient attention for Daniels

more

Jazz--Add. 2

to win Downbeat Magazine's International Critics New Star on Clarinet Award.

Daniels began studying clarinet when he was 13 and received a master's degree in clarinet from Julliard.

Jack Elliot, musical director of the New American Orchestra, was so impressed with Daniels that he commissioned Jorge Callandrelli to compose a major work for him. "Concerto for Jazz Clarinet and Orchestra" became the centerpiece of Daniels' debut album, "Breakthrough," recorded with the Philharmonia Orchestra of London.

Quincy Jones said, "Eddie's debut album for GRP will become the benchmark to judge all future recordings blending the world of classical music and jazz."

"Breakthrough" and Daniels' next two albums, "To Bird With Love" and "Memos From Paradise," all received Grammy Award nominations and "Memos" won a Grammy. He has released three additional albums and performed on several others.

Daniels has performed at jazz clubs and festivals throughout the country and also has performed classical music with the London Symphony, the Tokyo Symphony, the Polish Chamber Orchestra and others in concerts throughout the United States, Europe and Japan.

"We are very fortunate to have an artist like Eddie Daniels

more

Jazz--Add 3

for our Jazz Festival," said Bingham. "We also are fortunate that we were able to attract very high caliber musicians to serve as clinicians."

Admission to festival events will be $5 on Thursday and Friday and $8 on Saturday. Marshall students with valid identification cards will be admitted free.

To obtain further details about the Jazz Festival contact the Marshall University Department of Music, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 21, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Black to the Promised Land," a unique documentary that tracks a bold and fascinating cross-cultural experiment, will be presented at Marshall University on Sunday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

The film follows 11 African-American teenagers and their Jewish teacher, Stewart Bialer, from their home in one of New York City's poorest neighborhoods to Kibbutz Lehavot Habashan at the foot of the Golan Heights in Israel where they spent three months working side by side with Israelis as members of the Kibbutz.

Kenneth E. Blue, associate vice president for multicultural affairs at Marshall, said, "The film is a fascinating study of the value of a diverse educational experience for disadvantaged youth and Kibbutz members. It is a powerful and moving portrayal of the importance of cross-cultural exchange."

He said the documentary, which was voted "Audience Favorite" at the 1992 San Francisco International Film Festival, examines the effects of this unusual experiment in alternative education as the students attempt to resume life in the inner-city.

more

Documentary--Add 1

Bialer and two of the students will discuss the film, the cross-cultural exchange and answer questions following the presentation which is open to the public free of charge. There will be a reception following the presentation.

"This documentary challenges the myths and stereotypes that have been fostered in both the African-American and Jewish communities," said Blue.

The program is being sponsored by Marshall's Office of Multicultural and International Programs and the Federated Jewish Charities of Huntington.

To obtain further details contact the Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

JANUARY 21, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Thirty-seven Marshall University student leaders have been selected for inclusion in the 1994 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Students selected for this honor are considered to be among the nation's most outstanding campus leaders, according to the editors of the annual publication.

Campus nominating committees selected the students based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Marshall University students included in the 1994 edition are:

HUNTINGTON--A. Betts Carpenter, Ryan R. Cicenias, Cynthia Cruz, Amy Layne Daniel, Hugh Noel DiIorio, Gretchen Kessler, Scott Tyler Mayo, Shawn Morton, Gregory Todd Parrish, Alicia D. Pauley, Joseph W. Poe, Leo Rafail, Sherri Lynn Thomas;

BARBOURSVILLE--Tamara Beth Morrison; BLUEFIELD--Michael D. Miller; CHARLESTON--Raymond L. Crockett, Melissa E. Morrison, Vimal K. Narula; HAMBLETON--Donald T.C. Goss II; HANSFORD--Jennifer Hancock; KENOVA--Lisa Catherine Gilkerson; KEYSTONE--Sheree Price;

more

Who's Who--Add 1

LOST CREEK--Ken Bailey; MINERAL WELLS--Brian Michael Brown;
NEW MARTINSVILLE--Matthew Todd Himmelrick; PARKERSBURG--Kevin Grose; PRINCETON--Julia Farley; RIPLEY--Thomas Richard Burns;
SOUTH CHARLESTON--Denise Anita Hicks; ST. MARYS--Lana Gail
Snider; WEIRTON--G. Avery Kondik; YAWKEY--LaDonna Carnes;

OHIO--Donna Marie Bolden, Gallipolis; Kimberly Elizabeth
Kraft, Hamilton; Brent Neil Miller, Lebanon; Trevor W. Nelson, Hartville; Bethany L. Rose, Marietta.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 26, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Beyond the Dream VI: A Celebration of Black History" will be presented at Marshall University on Wednesday, Feb. 2, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Shawkey Room in Memorial Student Center.

The program, open to the public free of charge, will bring together national political figures, business leaders, political scientists, historians and educators to discuss the growing power of African Americans and other minorities in politics and the critical role of politics in forging solutions to our social ills, according to Kenneth E. Blue, associate vice president for multicultural affairs at Marshall.

Three major topics will be discussed: "Current Political Power and Challenges," "Profiles in Black Politics" and "Coalition Building."

The program is being presented in conjunction with Marshall's Celebration of Black History Month. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 26, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The Americans With Disabilities Act and Your Business" will be the topic of a free business workshop on Thursday, Feb. 3, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Marshall University Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Edna McClain, program manager of the Small Business Development Center at Marshall.

McClain said the workshop will help business owners and managers understand the effects the Americans With Disabilities Act has on businesses. "It is a program that every new and prospective business owner should attend," she said.

The workshop is being sponsored by the MU Small Business Development Center, the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, The SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

ADA Workshop--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 27, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Community and Technical College will sponsor 31 continuing education/community service courses during the spring semester, according to Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall.

Hensley said classes, the first beginning Feb. 5, will be diverse enough to appeal to a wide variety of needs and interests.

The schedule includes the following:

--"Introduction to Computers" on Tuesdays from Feb. 8 through March 15, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Northcott Hall Room 101, $60.

--"Introduction to Computers" on Fridays from April 8 through May 13, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $60.

--"Intermediate Computers" on Tuesdays from March 29 through May 3, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Northcott Hall Room 101, $60.

--"Introduction to DOS (Disk Operating System)" on Mondays from Feb. 14 through March 21, 5:15 to 7:15 p.m. in Northcott Hall Room 101, $60.

--"Intermediate DOS" on Mondays from March 28 through May 2, 5:15 to 7:15 p.m. in Northcott Hall Room 101, $60.

more

Courses--Add 1

--"Autocad" on Saturdays from Feb. 19 through April 2, 9 to 11 a.m. in Corbly Hall Room 439, $60.

--"Introduction to WordPerfect 6.0--DOS" on Thursdays from Feb. 10 through March 17, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 331, $66.

--"Intermediate WordPerfect 6.0--DOS" on Thursdays from March 31 through May 5, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 331, $66.

--"WordPerfect (6.0--DOS) Graphics" on Thursdays from May 19 through June 23, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $66.

--"Introduction to Lotus 1-2-3" on Thursdays from Feb. 10 through March 17, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $60.

--"Intermediate Lotus 1-2-3" on Thursdays from April 7 through May 12, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $60.

--"Desktop Publishing--Aldus Pagemaker" on Fridays from Feb. 11 through March 18, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $60.

--"Introduction to WordPerfect" on Fridays from Feb. 11 through March 18, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 437, $60.

--"Intermediate WordPerfect" on Fridays from April 8 through May 13, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 437, $60.

--"Introduction to WordPerfect/Windows" on Tuesdays from Feb. 8 through March 15, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 331, $66.

more

Courses--Add 2

--"Intermediate WordPerfect/Windows" on Tuesdays from March 29 through May 3, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 331, $66.

--"Basic Upholstery" on Tuesdays from Feb. 8 through March 29, 6 to 9 p.m. in the Sorrel Annex on 20th Street, $89 (plus materials).

--"The Adult Student: Overcoming Back to College Anxiety" on Wednesdays from Feb. 16 through March 23, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 108, $48.

--"Basic Writing Skills" on Mondays from Feb. 14 through March 21, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 113, $48.

--"Writing Film Scripts" on Mondays from Feb. 14 through April 4, 6 to 8 p.m. in Harris Hall Room 136, $90 (includes textbook and handouts).

--"Life Journey Journaling" on Wednesdays from April 6 through May 25, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 227, $72 (plus textbook).

--"ICD-9 & CPT4 Coding (Medical Record Technology)" on Tuesdays from Feb. 15 through March 22, 6 to 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 513, $75.

--"Medical Terminology" on Saturdays from Feb. 5 through Feb. 26, 9 a.m. to noon in the Community and Technical College Building Room 135, $54.

--"Medical Terminology" on Tuesdays from March 8 through April 12, 5:15 to 7:15 p.m. in Harris Hall Room 447, $54.

more

Courses--Add 3

--"Conversational Spanish" on Wednesdays from Feb. 9 through March 30, 6 to 8 p.m. in Harris Hall Room 447, $72 (plus textbook).

--"Conversational French" on Fridays from Feb. 11 through March 18, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 108, $54.

--"Keyboarding (Beginning Typing)" on Fridays from Feb. 18 through April 22, 5:15 to 6:45 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 433, $60.

--"Superwrite (shorthand)" on Tuesdays from Feb. 15 through March 22, 5:30 to 7 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 335, $48.

--"Human Resource Management" on Tuesdays and Thursdays from March 1 through March 10, 6 to 8:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 409, $60.

--"Time Management" on Tuesdays and Thursdays from Feb. 8 through Feb. 17, 6 to 8:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 437, $60.

--"Basic Bookkeeping" on Thursdays from Feb. 10 through March 24, 6 to 8 p.m. in Harris Hall Room 448, $60.

There will be a 10 percent discount for persons enrolling in more than one course, companies or organizations enrolling three or more employees in any one class, senior citizens (age 60 or older), and Marshall University employees.

Enrollment will be limited. Continuing education units will be awarded for participation in the courses. Temporary parking permits are available for $1 per week through the MU Parking Office.

more

Courses--Add 4

Hensley said the Continuing Education Office also can develop specialized programs in subjects such as computer skills, time management and total quality management for businesses and organizations.

To register or obtain further details about the programs contact the Marshall University Community and Technical College Division of Continuing Education, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 27, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The Business Plan" will be the topic of a free business workshop on Wednesday, Feb. 9, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Marshall University Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will be a great help to new and prospective business owners and will include a discussion and examination of the feasibility of proposed businesses.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

Business Plan--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 27, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Managing Cash Flow" will be the topic of a business seminar on Thursday, Feb. 10, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Marshall University Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will include a discussion on how to keep a business solvent by the proper management of cash flow.

There will be a $10 registration fee for the program which may be paid at the beginning of the workshop.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

Cash Flow--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 28, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Emerging Trends in Safety" will be the theme of the 12th annual Marshall University Safety Conference which will be held Monday and Tuesday, March 21-22, at the Radisson Hotel in Huntington.

The conference will feature presentations by several internationally known safety experts and Tri-State area safety professionals, according to Dr. Keith E. Barenklau, director of Marshall's Safety Technology Program which is sponsoring the conference.

Safety consultant and author Fred A. Manuele, formerly president of M & M Protection Consultants, will be the conference keynote speaker. Barenklau said another highlight of the program will be a presentation by Herb Burns, corporate risk manager for the Kroger Company.

Marshall's Safety Technology Program, part of the university's College of Education, provides both bachelor's and master's degrees in various safety related areas. Students enrolled in the program participate in the development of the Safety Conference.

To obtain further details about the conference contact the Safety Technology Program Office at Marshall University, 696-4664.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

JANUARY 28, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Approximately 15 government and summer employers are expected to participate in Marshall University's annual Government/Summer Jobs Fair on Wednesday, Feb. 9, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

The fair will provide an ideal opportunity for students to meet with employers to discuss potential government positions (full-time and part-time) and summer positions with various agencies and camps, according to Patricia Gallagher, recruiting coordinator in Marshall's Placement Services Center.

Gallagher said participants will include the United States Army, the West Virginia Division of Corrections, the Greater Huntington Parks and Recreation District, several summer camps in North Carolina and South Carolina, the Huntington District Corps of Engineers, the West Virginia Division of Personnel, the West Virginia State Police and other organizations.

To obtain further details contact Gallagher at Marshall University's Placement Center, 696-2371.

Preregistration will not be required to attend the fair.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 24, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The Meeting," an award-winning play about what might have happened if Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. had met Malcolm X, will be presented Wednesday, March 2, at 7 p.m. in the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall University's Fine and Performing Arts Center.

The performance by the Pin Points Theatre of Washington, D.C., is being presented in conjunction with the Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium being sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the Cabell County/Huntington Branch of the NAACP. The symposium was originally scheduled in January but had to be postponed until March 2, 3 and 5 due to inclement weather.

Pin Points Theatre's contemporary and historic adaptations have been highly acclaimed by the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington, D.C., Commission on the Arts and other organizations. Performances have been presented at more than 2,000 schools throughout the United States.

Ersky Freeman, founder of Pin Points Theatre, will portray Malcolm X. Greenfair Moses III, a nationally recognized Martin Luther King Jr. impersonator, will play King.

Freeman said the purpose of Pin Points Theatre is to utilize

more

The Meeting--Add 1

art to educate and entertain and to serve as an employment and training platform for both accomplished and aspiring artists.

There will be an admission charge for the performance of $6 for adults and $3 for youth 17 and under. Tickets will be available at the Box Office at the Fine and Performing Arts Center and will be available at the door.

"The Meeting" is based on a book titled "Martin & Malcolm: A Dream or a Nightmare" written by Dr. James H. Cone. Cone, Briggs Distinguished Professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York, will present a free lecture on "Martin, Malcolm and America" on Thursday, March 3, at 7 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Marshall's Memorial Student Center.

To obtain further details about "The Meeting" or other activities associated with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430 or 696-4677.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 3, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--A free videoconference titled "A New Era Of Discovery: Plans for Research on Space Station" will be presented at Marshall University on Thursday, Feb. 17, from 12:50 to 3 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

The live national videoconference, being presented by NASA and the Public Broadcasting Service, has been designed for researchers, scientists, engineers and students in the fields of the life and physical sciences, biotechnology, medicine and materials and technology development, according to Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College.

Hensley said a space station is expected to be operational in the latter half of this decade to provide scientists and engineers with a unique state-of-the-art research laboratory in space.

"This program will give people the opportunity to learn how research in the space station's low gravity environment will lead to new insights, products and processes in fields such as health, pharmaceuticals, materials processing, forestry, agriculture, computers, electronic systems and environmental technologies," explained Hensley.

more

Space Station--Add 1

Participants also will receive information on how to submit a research proposal to NASA and learn about research already accomplished in space and NASA's objectives and plans for space station research.

Martin Kress, deputy director for the space station project, will serve as moderator for a panel that includes NASA scientists, astronauts, researchers and educators.

"This should be an extremely interesting program for everyone and especially for those interested in space-based research opportunities and possibilities for future research activities," said Hensley.

The program will be open to the public free of charge. Hensley said persons interested in attending the program should preregister if possible so that handout materials can be prepared.

To register or obtain further details contact the Office of Continuing Education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations•Huntington, West Virginia 25755•304/696-NEWS

February 3, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Supervision--First Line" will be the topic of a business workshop on Wednesday, Feb. 23, from 6 to 9 p.m. at Marshall University's Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will examine methods of modern management techniques that will improve the bottom line of a business.

There will be a registration fee of $10 which may be paid at the beginning of the program. Persons who register in advance will be given priority.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC

more

Supervision--Add 1

program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 3, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Lawrence R. Schmitz, assistant professor of chemistry at Marshall University, has received a grant of 90 service units on the Cray C90 supercomputer at the Pittsburgh Supercomputing Center.

Schmitz said based on the center's rate for new corporate customers, the grant has a commercial value of $72,000.

During the last year and a half, Schmitz and graduate student Yi Ren Chen developed a technique for calculating heats of formation of a class of organic compounds called alkenes. This new grant will allow Schmitz and graduate student Rick Adkins to extend the study to include conjugated dienes.

The heats of formation of molecules are important properties that allow an understanding of the energy changes in chemical processes, according to Schmitz.

"Many scientists and engineers require this fundamental data," explained Schmitz. "Not surprisingly, there is a fairly massive literature on heats of formation that have been determined experimentally. However, the experimental determination of these data requires considerable time and money and in recent years the amount of funding for experimental work of this type has declined worldwide.

more

Schmitz Grant--Add 1

"Many compounds now exist for which this data is not available. Furthermore, the experimental determination of heats of formation for many compounds is not practical or is impossible using conventional techniques. Therefore, it is highly desirable to have a technique for the calculation of heats of formation that is inexpensive, fast and accurate."

Schmitz and his co-workers have shown that their technique can meet these requirements when applied to simple molecules. The new grant will allow Schmitz and Adkins to see if the technique can be successfully applied to the more complex conjugated systems.

In addition to the Pittsburgh Supercomputing Center, Schmitz said the work has been supported with computing time at the Marshall University Computer Center and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Flexible Manufacturing Systems.

Schmitz said the grant of supercomputing time is especially important since it allows calculations to be done that would not be practical on smaller computers.

To obtain further details contact Schmitz at the Marshall University Department of Chemistry, 696-3371.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 4, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--More than 40 employers will participate in the Operation Native Talent Job Fair which will be held at Marshall University on Tuesday, Feb. 22, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

Operation Native Talent is open to all West Virginia college seniors and recent graduates, according to Reginald A. Spencer, director of Placement Services at Marshall and fair coordinator.

"The real mission of this event is to help retain graduates, when possible, in West Virginia," Spencer said. He said participants should dress appropriately and have a supply of resumes to distribute to the employers. Preregistration is not required.

Recruiters representing business, health, science, retailing, banking, utilities, and state and federal sectors of the economy will attend the fair.

Operation Native Talent, now in its seventh year, is sponsored by the West Virginia Roundtable, the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce, the Governor's Office of Economic Development and various West Virginia college and university placement centers.

A videotape titled "How to Work a Job Fair" will be available for viewing at Marshall's Placement Services Center, 1681 Fifth Ave., on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. or by appointment. Spencer said the videotape will give students important tips on how to prepare for job fairs.

more

Native Talent--Add 1

A list of employers registered to attend the fair also is available at the MU Placement Services Center.

To obtain further details about Operation Native Talent contact the Marshall University Placement Services Center, 696-2370.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 4, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Gail Adams, a widely published fiction writer and a member of the creative writing faculty at West Virginia University, will make a presentation and read from her works at Marshall University on Monday, Feb. 14, at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

Adams' collection of short stories, "The Purchase of Order," won the Flannery O'Connor Award and was published by the University of Georgia Press.

Her stories have appeared in various publications including "The American Voice," "The Georgia Review," "The North American Review" and several anthologies including "Editor's Choice."

She has presented workshops and given readings at a number of universities and has lectured on the craft of fiction writing at conferences in West Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Prior to accepting a position at WVU, Adams served as McGee Professor of Creative Writing at Davidson College. She was educated at the University of Texas and Emory University.

Her presentation at Marshall, open to the public free of charge, is part of the university's Visiting Writers Series

more

Writer--Add 1

sponsored by the Marshall University College of Liberal Arts and the English Department.

To obtain further details about Adams' presentation contact Art Stringer in the Marshall University English Department, 696-2403.

Stringer said other writers scheduled to take part in the Visiting Writers Series this semester include poet Martin Lammon on March 10 and poet Valerie Colander on April 19.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 25, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. James H. Cone, the Charles A. Briggs distinguished professor of systematic theology at Union Theological Seminary in New York City and author of "Martin & Malcolm: A Dream or a Nightmare," will make a presentation titled "Martin, Malcolm and America" at Marshall University on Thursday, March 3, at 7 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

The presentation, open to the public free of charge, is being sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the local chapter of the NAACP in conjunction with Huntington's first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium. The symposium was originally scheduled in January but had to be postponed to March 2, 3 and 5 due to inclement weather.

Cone received a bachelor's degree from Philander Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., and a divinity degree from Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. He received his master's and doctoral degrees from Northwestern University in Evanston.

He has been awarded honorary degrees by Edward Waters College, Jacksonville, Fla.; Philander Smith College; Denison University, Granville, Ohio; Payne Theological Seminary,

more

Cone--Add 1

Wilberforce, Ohio; Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y., and Colby College, Waterville, Maine.

A prolific writer, Cone has authored 11 books and written more than 100 articles for professional publications and journals.

He has presented lectures at more than 400 colleges and universities throughout the United States and lectured abroad in Europe, Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

"We are fortunate to be able to get a speaker of Dr. Cone's caliber for our first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium," said Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University. "He is a nationally recognized scholar and author. In fact, one of the symposium's events is a play titled 'The Meeting' based on Dr. Cone's book, 'Martin & Malcolm: A Dream or a Nightmare,' which is available in the Marshall University Bookstore."

"The Meeting" will be presented Wednesday, March 2, at 7 p.m. in the Marshall University Fine and Performing Arts Center.

To obtain further details about the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium contact Marshall University's Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-4677 or 696-5430.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 25, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Frances K. Conley, a neurosurgeon at Stanford (Calif.) University Medical Center who has become a nationally prominent figure in the fight against gender inequities, will visit the Marshall University campus Tuesday and Wednesday, March 8-9, according to Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for Multicultural and International Programs at Marshall.

Conley will discuss the issues created by sexual discrimination in the professional world and meet with Marshall administrators, faculty, staff and students.

She will make several presentations and serve as the keynote speaker for the "Women Connect" program at Marshall University on Wednesday, March 9, from noon to 1 p.m. in the Shawkey Room in Memorial Student Center.

Conley received national attention in 1991 when she submitted her resignation over the appointment of a colleague she considered sexist to the position of chair of Stanford's Neurosurgery Department. She withdrew her resignation after Stanford made sincere efforts to address the gender sensitivity issue.

Since then, she has devoted much of her time to anatomizing

more

Conley--Add 1

gender insensitivity, which she considers the more subtle and pervasive form of sexual harassment that passes as cultural norm.

A native Californian, Conley received her bachelor's degree in biology and her M.D. from Stanford University. She also received a master's degree in management from Stanford's Graduate School of Business.

She has received several honors and awards including the Stanford University Graduate Award, a Special Research Fellowship Award from the National Institute for Neurological Diseases and Stroke and the Kaiser Award for Excellence in Clinical Teaching.

Conley has held various positions at the Stanford University School of Medicine and the university's Medical Center. She also serves as chief of the Neurosurgery Section and assistant chief of Surgical Service at the Palo Alto (Calif.) Veterans Administration Medical Center.

She belongs to numerous professional societies and organizations and has held medical-related appointments on both the state and national levels.

Conley has written or co-authored more than 125 papers, abstracts, letters and book reviews for professional publications and journals. She also has presented more than 50 papers at professional meetings and seminars throughout the United States and in Canada.

more

Conley--Add 2

"Dr. Conley is a respected doctor, researcher and professor and has become nationally recognized for her efforts to combat sexual discrimination," said Cleckley. "We are very fortunate to have someone of her caliber and position visit our campus for two days of programs and meetings. I would urge everyone to try to participate in some of the activities that have been scheduled."

On Tuesday, Conley will visit the Marshall University School of Medicine and meet with its Committee on Sexual Harassment and Student Abuse. She also will meet with Dr. Charles H. McKown Jr., dean of the School of Medicine; meet with School of Medicine department chairs; meet with faculty and staff of the Department of Surgery, and meet with medical students in an open forum.

"We are always delighted when our students and faculty have the opportunity to interact with a scientist of Dr. Conley's stature," said McKown. "Her visit provides a remarkable opportunity for them to increase their understanding of the human side of medicine."

Conley will make a presentation titled "Sexual Harassment in the Medical Education Arena" on Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Alumni Lounge in Marshall's Memorial Student Center.

On Wednesday morning, she will meet with MU President J. Wade Gilley, meet with Marshall student leaders and then serve as the keynote speaker for the university's "Women Connect" program.

The "Women Connect" program, open to the public free of charge, is held annually at Marshall to emphasize the importance of women's studies and the mentoring of women students and to recognize women who are working to address social justice issues.

more

Conley--Add 3

Conley will conclude her activities at Marshall by meeting with the MU President's Commission on Multiculturalism at 3:30 p.m. in the Shawkey Room in Memorial Student Center. Cleckley said she would like to urge all Marshall University administrators, faculty, staff and students to attend the meeting which also will be open to the public.

Conley's visit to Marshall is being sponsored by the Marshall University School of Medicine and Marshall's Office of Multicultural and International Programs.

To obtain further details contact the Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-4677, or the Marshall University Office of Women's Programs, 696-3112.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

Feb. 25, 1994

For Immediate Release

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. -- A Marshall University committee has helped acquire nearly $1.2 million in donated equipment, gifts and grants for use by the university's College of Science.

In a report to Marshall President J. Wade Gilley, committee chairman Leonard J. Deutsch, dean of Marshall's Graduate School, said the figure is expected to be "closer to $1.5 million" by the time the final report is submitted later in 1994.

"We're very pleased by the committee's initiative and the faculty's continuing efforts to provide a better learning environment for our students," Gilley said. "The College of Science is Marshall's fastest-growing academic unit and the committee's diligence in seeking to fill equipment needs demonstrates the university's commitment to the sciences."

Deutsch reported that donated equipment totaled $779,698, with $16,000 in equipment having been given by Johnson & Johnson and the remainder being government surplus, from the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Corporations and foundations donated $162,931 toward the Science '93 campaign and individuals contributed more than $88,000, including $28,000 raised by College of Science faculty participation in the university's annual Phone-a-thon in 1992 and 1993, Deutsch said.

(more)

Science '93

2-2-2

Another $62,081 came from federal grants and $62,081 resulted from a $10,000 allocation from The Marshall University Foundation Inc., $10,000 from the President's Equipment Fund, and $42,081 from matching funds for federal grants.

Several grant proposals are pending, Deutsch said, and other fund-raising opportunities should result in additional monies for science equipment.

Other regular members of the Science Building Committee included Dr. E.S. "Steve" Hanrahan, dean of the College of Science; Dr. Ralph Taylor, associate dean; Lynne Mayer, assistant vice president for institutional advancement; Charlotte Weber, executive assistant for federal grants with Marshall's Research and Economic Development Center, and Marshall alumnus John P. Ward, who retired as corporate secretary of Ashland Oil, Inc.

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 25, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--More than 3,000 high school students from West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky will participate in Marshall University's 16th annual SCORES Academic Festival on Saturday, March 5.

The festival is sponsored by the Marshall University SCORES (Search Committee on Recognition of Excellent Students) Department which is composed of representatives from every academic department on campus.

The festival is a spirited academic competition in which gifted students vie for top honors in various contests designed to test their knowledge. The competition is a way to encourage and recognize academic excellence among high school students, cultivate relationship with high schools in the region, and generate public awareness of the academic achievements occurring in area high schools. The tests will be given in approximately 120 subject areas, ranging from computer skills to drama performances. Each participant must have at least a 3.0 grade point average in his or her chosen area of competition.

The most coveted prizes are the large trophies presented to the schools with the highest point total for all tests taken within their division. The schools are divided into five divisions based on their student enrollment of the schools. First and second place winners will receive a trophy while third place schools will receive a plaque.

(MORE)

The trophies will be given in honor of distinguished and outstanding service of faculty members. The honorees for this year are: Dr. E.S. Hanrahan, College of Science; Neal Adkins, College of Business; Dr. Elaine Novak, College of Fine Arts; Elma Chapman, Community and Technical College, and Dr. Dorothy Johnson, College of Liberal Arts.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to the top three competitors in each contest, and honorable mention ribbons presented to the fourth place competitors. Seven of the festival's outstanding students will win scholarships for one year at Marshall, plus stipend.

The students registered for competition on Saturday are invited to participate in "A Night On Campus" on Friday evening, March 4. The evening's activities include a buffet dinner, bowling, billiards, a live country band, and MU students serving as hosts.

Competition will begin after breakfast on Saturday, March 5, and continue throughout the morning. The tests will be scored and the results compiled while the students have lunch and attend specially planned activities.

Results will be announced during the awards ceremony which will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Henderson Center Arena. A hospitality hour for principals, counselors, and parents will be held in the Atrium of Memorial Student Center prior to the awards ceremony.

For further details about the Academic Festival contact the Marshall University SCORES office, 696-6752.

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 28, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The traditional memorial service in observance of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, originally scheduled, Jan. 17, will be held Saturday, March 5, at 7 p.m. at the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, 1647 Ninth Ave., according to Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University.

The activities are being held in conjunction with the first Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium being sponsored March 2, 3 and 5 by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the Cabell County/Huntington chapter of the NAACP. The symposium, originally scheduled Jan. 17-19, had to be rescheduled in March due to inclement weather.

Cleckley said the program symbolizes Dr. King's ideals and the great need for freedom, justice, equality and human dignity in the community, state, nation and world.

Dr. Riggins R. Earl Jr., professor of ethics and theology at the Interdenominational Theological Center in Atlanta, Ga., will be the guest speaker for the memorial service.

Earl received his bachelor's degree from American Baptist College in Nashville, Tenn., and received a master's of divinity degree and a Ph.D. in social ethics from Vanderbilt University in

more

King Service--Add 1

Nashville. He did postdoctoral studies at Boston University and Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.

He received a Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowship, a Rockefeller Fellowship and research grants from the American Association of Theological Schools and the Interdenominational Theological Center. He also was selected as a Hartford Seminary Scholar for the Experimental Seminar for National and Regional Executives of Denominational and Ecumenical Agencies.

Prior to accepting a position at the Interdenominational Theological Center, Earl taught religious studies at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. He currently serves as assistant editor of The Christian Education Informer.

Earl has presented lectures throughout the country and has written three books and numerous articles for professional publications and journals.

He is a member of the American Academy for the Study of Religion, the Society for the Study of Black Religion, the Society for the Study of Christian Ethics and the Black Catholic Scholars and Black Protestant Scholars organization.

The program will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430 or 696-4677.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations•Huntington, West Virginia 25755•304/696-NEWS

February 28, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Worker's Compensation" will be the topic of a free business workshop on Wednesday, March 23, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Marshall University's Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will cover various topics concerning worker's compensation and unemployment insurance. "This is a workshop that every new and prospective business owner will find beneficial," he said.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

Stress--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 1, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The International Organization of Standards (ISO): A Practical Overview" will be the topic of a free business teleconference on Thursday, March 10, from 2:30 to 4 p.m. at Marshall University's Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

The teleconference will discuss the 1994 revised ISO 9000 standards and provide a practical overview of the cost and complexity of the registration process and the preparation and follow-through for a quality audit. An up-to-date assessment of the new and revised ISO 9000 standards and requirements for implementing and documenting an ISO system also will be presented.

Ian Durand, one of the drafters of the revised standards, will moderate a national panel of quality experts who will discuss the issues and also take questions during the live teleconference.

Kyle said any company or new business and prospective business owners interested in competitive quality assurance systems will benefit from the program. He said it also will be useful for experienced quality managers to update their knowledge of ISO 9000 standards.

more

ISO Standards--Add 1

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact Erica Cheetham at Marshall University's Research and Economic Development Center, 696-6373.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 1, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Martin Lammon, professor of writing and literature at Fairmont State College, will read selections of his poetry at Marshall University on Thursday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Student Center Room 2W22.

Lammon is a widely published poet, according to Art Stringer of Marshall's Department of English.

His work has appeared in many journals including the Iowa Review, Ploughshares and the New Virginia Review. He also has published several interviews and essays.

Lammon is the editor of the new literary journal, Kestral, produced at Fairmont State College. He also coordinates the annual Kestral Writers Conference at Fairmont State.

He has given presentations and readings at a number of universities and colleges and at the 1993 Associated Writing Programs Conference. He recently was awarded a grant for the "Poets in Person" program from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Lammon was educated at Wittenberg University and Ohio University.

His presentation, open to the public free of charge, is part of Marshall's Visiting Writers Series sponsored by the university's College of Liberal Arts and the English Department.

more

Lammon--Add 1

To obtain further details contact Stringer in the Marshall University English Department, 696-2403.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 1, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's "Women Connect" program will be held Wednesday, March 9, from noon to 1 p.m. in the Shawkey Room in Memorial Student Center, according to Frances Greller, interim coordinator of women's programs at Marshall.

The event is designed to emphasize the importance of women's studies and the mentoring of women students and recognize women who are working to address social justice issues.

Greller said three area women will be honored during this year's ceremony.

Dr. Frances Conley, a neurosurgeon at Stanford (Calif.) University Medical Center who has become a nationally prominent figure in the fight against gender inequities, will be the featured speaker.

The program will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Women's Programs, 696-3112.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Julianne Malveaux, syndicated columnist and a member of the visiting faculty in the African American Studies Department at the University of California, Berkeley, will make a presentation at Marshall University on Tuesday, March 8, at 7 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

Malveaux holds a doctorate in economics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Her research focuses on the labor market and public policy and the impact of policy on minorities and women.

She is co-editor of "Slipping Through the Cracks: The Status of Black Women" (Transactions Publications, 1986) and recently has completed a manuscript titled "No Images: Contemporary Black Women and Work."

Her weekly sociopolitical commentary appears through the King Features Syndicate and her editorials frequently appear in USA Today. She also is a contributing writer for Essence Magazine and is a weekly columnist for the San Francisco Sun Reporter. Her academic and popular writing appears in a number of other national newspapers, magazines and journals.

Malveaux can be seen weekly on the PBS television program,

more

Malveaux--Add 1

"On the Contrary." She also serves as a social commentator for ABC-TV.

An activist as well as an economist and writer, Malveaux has been president of the San Francisco Black Leadership Forum and San Francisco Business and Professional Women. She serves on the board of directors of the San Francisco NAACP and is a vice president of the trustees of the National Child Labor Committee.

She has chaired successful ballot initiatives to remove San Francisco city pension funds from companies doing business with South Africa and to keep playgrounds open after school.

Malveaux has worked with the Council of Economic Advisors, the Rockefeller Foundation, the New School for Social Research and San Francisco State University. She also has been affiliated with the Institute for the Study of Research on Women and Gender at Stanford University and has done consulting work for a variety of organizations including the NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund, the National Coalition of 100 Black Women and other organizations.

Her presentation at Marshall, sponsored by the Office of Multicultural and International Programs, will be open to the public free of charge.

To obtain further details contact Larry G. Jarrett, coordinator of African American Students' Programs at Marshall University, 696-2298.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Zanna Crager, administrative associate in the Registrar's Office, has been selected as the Marshall University Employee of the Month for February, according to Bill Burdette, chairman of the selection committee.

Crager has worked for the university for 38 years.

She was nominated for the award by the entire staff of the Registrar's Office.

Assistant Registrar Roberta Ferguson, speaking on behalf of the office staff, said, "Zanna Crager's loyal and dedicated service to Marshall University, students, her supervisor, faculty and staff is exemplary. Thirty-eight years of service create a unique historical perspective which is invaluable and irreplaceable.

"Zanna has worked diligently for fellow employees on the university's staff council since its inception. Each year she works tirelessly to organize commencement activities. To Zanna, commencement is special, almost sacred. Her face literally glows as she watches the graduates participate in the exercises. This is the best example of the pride Zanna takes in her work and the joy she receives from seeing the students accomplish their educational goals."

more

Crager--Add 1

Crager will receive a plaque and $100 for being named Employee of the Month and will be eligible for the Employee of the Year Award.

Marshall University President J. Wade Gilley and his wife, Nanna, provided funds through a grant to establish the Employee of the Month and Employee of the Year program.

The program has been designed to recognize outstanding performance by classified and non-classified staff at the university. Awards will be made to MU employees who have exhibited exceptional levels of work performance and displayed high regard and loyalty toward the university and their job responsibilities.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Department of Religious Studies has received a grant of $1,000 from the Muslim Association of Huntington, according to Dr. Clayton L. McNearney, department chair.

The gift will be used to help support the teaching of a new course, "The World of Islam."

This semester the course is being taught by Professor Majed Khader on Thursdays at 6:30 p.m.

Additional financial support for the course has been provided by Marshall's Office of Multicultural and International Programs.

"The department is grateful to both and is pleased that they have been able to enhance the departments' course offerings in such a significant way," said McNearney. "The new course will become a permanent offering of the department and part of a series of courses designed to explore the rich cultural diversity of our singular planet."

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The History of Science," a series of lectures featuring nationally known scholars, will be presented at Marshall University beginning Sunday, March 6, according to Dr. James Moloney, associate professor of mathematics at Marshall.

The schedule includes the following:

--"Egyptian Mathematics" by Frank Young of the University of Maryland on Sunday, March 6, at 9 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 105.

--"Greek Science Before Aristotle" by Stacy Stoyanoff of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign on Tuesday, March 8, at 8 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 105.

--"Medieval Muslim Science" by Alnoor Dhanani of Tufts University on Thursday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in the Shawkey Room in Memorial Student Center.

--"Warfare Between Science and Religion, Paris, 1277" by Roger Ariew of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University on Thursday, March 17, at 8 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 154.

--"From Flying Buttresses to Flying Monks (The Technology of the Middle Ages)" by Stanley Jaki of Seton Hall University on Thursday, March 24, at 8 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 154.

more

Lecture Series--Add 1

A presentation by Dr. Alan Altany of Marshall University's Department of Religious Studies will close the series. Altany's presentation will be held in April at a date and location to be announced.

"This will be a very interesting series and should appeal to people of varied interests," said Moloney.

The programs, sponsored by Marshall's College of Science and Office of Multicultural and International Programs, will be open to the public free of charge.

To obtain further details contact Moloney at Marshall University, 696-3045.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Birke Art Gallery will present a series of foreign films during March, according to Dr. Marilyn Laufer, co-director of the gallery.

All of the films, open to the public free of charge, will be presented on Fridays at 7:30 p.m. in Birke Art Gallery in Smith Hall.

The first two presentations are British films by director Derek Jarman.

"Wittgenstein" will be presented Friday, March 4. Laufer said it is a humorous portrait of one of this century's most influential philosophers. She said it is a visually stunning work reflecting Jarman's distinctive sense of style and sophisticated sense of the absurd.

Ludwig Wittgenstein was born in Vienna to a wealthy but ill-fated family--three of his four brothers committed suicide. A schoolmate of Adolf Hitler, he has been described as a cross between a monk, a mystic and a garage mechanic. Acknowledged as one of the greatest philosophers of the 20th Century, Wittgenstein gave away all of his money and throughout his life sustained an almost religious reverence for manual labor.

"Wittgenstein" is an intense, light, distressing, funny,

more

Films--Add 1

irreverent and entertaining film about modern philosophy and the dark genius who revolutionized it.

"Caravaggio," the story of 17th Century painter Michelangelo Merisi da Caravaggio, will be presented Friday, March 11.

In the film, as Caravaggio lies dying, Jarman reveals the artist's scandalous life--his brilliant nearly blasphemous paintings, his violent lifestyle and his flirtations with the underworld.

The final film of the series, "Nostalghia" by Russian director Andrei Tarkovsky, will be presented Friday, March 18.

"Nostalghia," produced in 1983, was a multiple winner at the Cannes Film Festival. Autobiographical and poetic in nature, the film concerns a young Soviet writer visiting Italy to research the life of an expatriate Russian novelist. Experiencing "nostalghia," a melancholy homesickness, he must come to terms with his own life and his new environment.

All of the films will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact Laufer in Marshall University's Department of Art, 696-6760.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 3, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Declaring Marshall University must give its graduates a competitive edge in a changing world, MU President J. Wade Gilley today outlined a series of initiatives to raise the university's academic standards and strengthen its curriculum.

"We must move now so the Marshall bachelor's degree of the 21st Century will be distinctive and set our graduates and this institution apart from the crowd," Gilley said in an address to the university faculty. "I believe we have the ability and courage to do what most institutions will not even attempt. We can elevate the level of competence of our graduates, every one, and the value of the Marshall degree."

In Charleston, Governor Gaston Caperton applauded the new academic initiatives.

"President Gilley and I have discussed his plans extensively in the course of several conversations," Caperton said. "I'm totally in favor of what he is trying to achieve at Marshall University and this initiative will serve as a model for others. This well may go down as 'The Marshall Plan for Higher Education' in West Virginia and elsewhere."

MORE

2-2-2

University System Chancellor Charles W. Manning also spoke at the faculty meeting.

"I want the Marshall faculty to know that I am excited about these proposals," Manning said, "and I am confident the members of the University System Board of Trustees will give their full support."

Gilley's proposed changes include:

- A "capstone experience" for all candidates for bachelor's degrees including a senior thesis or special project and "comprehensive assessments," probably in the form of tests similar to the Graduate Record Examination now used as part of the graduate school admission process.

- Scientific and technological literacy--particularly computer literacy--for all undergraduates.

- A narrowing of the range of elective courses students may take.

- A required set of global studies core courses.

- An alternative program of teacher education. Under the plan, a student could earn a bachelor's degree in liberal arts, science, business or fine arts plus a Master of Arts in Teaching and teacher certification in a five-year program.

- Creation of a new Bachelor of Integrated Science and Technology degree program.

MORE

3-3-3

Gilley said he had already written the deans of the undergraduate colleges and asked them to work with the faculty to begin to narrow and focus the elective courses appropriate for students to use in earning bachelor's degrees.

He also announced an additional $150,000 has been allocated for computerized writing laboratories in the English Department for use in teaching composition courses, bringing the total to $250,000. He termed this "a major move toward ensuring that every graduate is computer literate."

Gilley said a permanent university committee has been established to develop and oversee a new Bachelor of Integrated Science and Technology degree program with an initial focus on manufacturing. Describing the program as a new alternative to engineering, Gilley said he hopes to begin enrolling its first students in the fall of 1995. He said he hopes the new teacher education program also will be in place by the fall of 1995.

A task force has been assigned to "develop a policy and an implementation strategy for a capstone experience, including senior theses and comprehensive assessments for all bachelor's degree candidates, beginning with the class entering the university this fall." That task force also will be responsible for "ensuring that scientific and technological literacy and global competency are integral parts of the Marshall University curriculum." It is to report its recommendations by Oct. 1 of this year.

MORE

4-4-4

"Taken together, all of these initiatives may seem to be too much, too soon," Gilley said. "However, it is urgent that we move with all dispatch for two reasons. First, we owe our graduates an edge in the competitive world of the 21st Century and this package of initiatives will help.

"Second, we must prove to the public, to business and to government leaders that we CAN move when the times require us to do so," Gilley said. "Academe has the reputation of being overly conservative when it comes to changing ourselves, but the world is changing rapidly and we must change with it--or someone will make the changes for us."

##

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 8, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--More than 29 business organizations are expected to participate in Marshall University's 17th annual Business Fair on Wednesday, March 16, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

The fair will give students and graduates a chance to meet with employers and informally discuss the job market and potential opportunities with various businesses, according to Patricia G. Gallagher of Marshall's Placement Services Center.

A list of participating businesses will be available to interested students and Marshall alumni. Pre-registration is not required.

Gallagher said employers participating in the fair will include Nabisco, Frito-Lay, the West Virginia Division of Personnel, American Greetings Corporation, SuperAmerica and the City of Columbus/Police Department.

Persons interested in attending the Business Fair should contact the Marshall University Placement Services Center, 696-2371.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 8, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Jane Elliott, creator of the "Blue Eyes, Brown Eyes" discrimination exercise, will make presentations at the Huntington City Hall and Marshall University on Tuesday, March 15, according to Larry G. Jarrett, coordinator of Marshall's African American Students' Program.

Elliott will make a presentation at 2 p.m. at the Jean C. Stephenson Auditorium in the Huntington City Hall and make a presentation at 7 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Marshall's Memorial Student Center. Her presentation at Marshall will be followed by a reception in the Shawkey Room. Both presentations will be open to the public.

The "Brown Eyes, Blue Eyes" experiment was started in Elliott's third-grade classroom after the assassination of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. The sensitizing exercise in which participants are labeled inferior or superior based on the color of their eyes has been repeated with dramatic results with children and adults throughout the country.

Elliott, who has been chosen as a "Person of the Week" by ABC-TV, said she discovered that if you single out a group as underachievers and treat them that way, they will live down to your expectations.

more

Elliott--Add 1

Several television documentaries have covered her work including ABC's "The Eye of the Storm" which won a Peabody Award; "A Class Divided," broadcast on PBS's "Frontline" series, which dealt with the long-term impact of the exercise and Elliott's work with adults, and "The Eye of the Beholder," produced by Florida Public Television, which also dealt with adults and their reactions to discrimination. Both of the latter films received Emmy awards.

"A Class Divided" is being used with high school students in South Africa to teach them about the anatomy of prejudice and the effects of racism on both the perpetrators and the victims of discriminatory treatment.

Elliott is a recipient of the National Mental Health Association Award for Excellence in Education. She has been a guest lecturer at numerous colleges and universities and has appeared on many television shows including "The Today Show," "The Tonight Show," "Donahue" and "The Oprah Winfrey Show."

She is a veteran presenter who has addressed groups from colleges and universities, civil service organizations, elementary and secondary schools, corporations and businesses.

Through her exercise, Elliott said people learn to be judged on some random physical characteristic and the inferior people inevitably become angered about the mistreatment. She said people shouldn't be judged by the color of their skin any more than by the color of their eyes.

more

Elliott--Add 2

Her presentations in Huntington are being sponsored by Marshall University's Office of Multicultural and International Programs, the special events segment of Marshall's Campus Entertainment Unlimited, the African American Students' Program, the City of Huntington and the Cabell County Board of Education.

To obtain further details contact the African American Students' Program Office at Marshall University, 696-6705.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

MARCH 8, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University will establish a Mid-Ohio Valley Center in Point Pleasant to make higher education opportunities more accessible to people in that area, according to MU President J. Wade Gilley.

Expected to be operational for the next academic year, the new Mid-Ohio Valley Center is a cooperative effort between Marshall's Adult and Extended Education Program and education, business and industry leaders in the Point Pleasant area.

Dr. H. Keith Spears, interim dean for adult and extended education at Marshall, said a comprehensive schedule of courses has been developed for fall 1994.

"We are committed to bringing a full schedule of general education requirements," said Spears. "We know a significant number of potential students who live in the Point Pleasant and Gallipolis, Ohio, areas feel higher education programs are beyond their reach. This will no longer be the case. We intend to bring as many courses as possible to our Mid-Ohio Valley Center."

Spears said 22 hours of credit will be available this fall. He said a two-year schedule of general education courses at the Mid-Ohio Valley Center will allow a student to pick up nearly half of the requirements needed for a bachelor's degree.

more

Center--Add 1

The Mason County Board of Education will initially provide classroom space for the evening-oriented schedule.

"We have been wanting a program of this type for some time," said Michael Whalen, superintendent for Mason County schools. "We have worked with Marshall in the past and intermittently sponsored courses with the university so we feel very comfortable with this new initiative. We welcome this new center and will assist in whatever way we can to make it successful."

Homer Preece, a Mason County teacher and part-time instructor for Marshall, will be the local coordinator for the center. Preece will assist interested students in university admittance, scheduling of courses and registration.

Spears recently met with the Point Pleasant Rotary Club and received a strong commitment from local business people and educators. He said several members expressed interest in serving on an advisory board that is being established for the center.

"We are very excited about the opportunities the Mid-Ohio Valley Center will provide citizens in the Mason County and Gallipolis areas," Spears said. "I also want to stress that the center will serve adults as well as high school students and recent high school graduates."

To obtain further details about the Mid-Ohio Valley Center contact Spears at Marshall University's Office of Adult and Extended Education, 696-4723.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 10, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Several recitals will be presented the week of March 20 by faculty and students from Marshall University's Department of Music.

Leo Welch, assistant professor of guitar and coordinator of music theory, will present a solo classical guitar recital on Sunday, March 20, at 4 p.m. at St. John's Church in Huntington.

The following student recitals have been scheduled:

--Monday, March 21, Greg Hurd will present a senior recital on alto saxophone at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

--Tuesday, March 22, Amy McGlothlin will present her junior recital on alto saxophone at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

--Wednesday, March 23, Cindy Cruz will perform a senior recital on flute at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

--Friday, March 25, Eric Strother will present his senior recital on alto saxophone at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

All of the performances will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Department of Music, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 10, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Neil Arneson of Marshall University's Teacher Education Department and director of the university's Center for Economic Education has been selected to present a section at the 25th Northeast Regional Conference on the Social Studies which will be held March 23-26 in Boston.

"Social Studies: Promoting Equity and Human Rights" will be the theme for the conference. The program will feature clinics and sections from all disciplines of social studies as well as exhibits, a computer laboratory, a media festival and special events.

More than 2,500 educators from New England, New York and New Jersey are expected to attend the conference.

Arneson's presentation, "The Myth of Laissez-Faire in 19th Century America," was selected from more than 300 proposals submitted by educators from throughout the country. This marks the ninth consecutive year he has been chosen to present at this prestigious regional conference.

Arneson said the presentation will examine why people think there was little involvement by the local, state and national governments in the economic affairs of the 19th century.

more

Arneson--Add 1

"Examples such as aid to inventors, regulation of trade, help to railroads, internal improvements and financing of wars will be given and shown how they can be included in high school history classes," explained Arneson.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations•Huntington, West Virginia 25755•304/696-NEWS

March 10, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Renowned jazz drummer Louie Bellson will perform as a guest soloist with the Marshall University Jazz and Percussion ensembles on Friday, March 18, at 8 p.m. in the Jean C. Stephenson Auditorium in Huntington City Hall.

He will perform the "Concerto for Drum Set and Percussion Ensemble" with the MU Percussion Ensemble and several of his own compositions including "East Side Suite," "Blow Your Horn" and "The Louie Shuffle" with the MU Jazz Ensemble.

Bellson has been expressing himself on drums since the age of three. When he was 15 he pioneered the double bass drum set-up and when he was just 17 years old he triumphed over 40,000 drummers to win the Slingerland National Gene Krupa Competition.

As an internationally acclaimed artist, he has performed in most of the major capitals of the world and has appeared at the White House more than any other performer, except for his wife, Pearl Bailey, and comedian Bob Hope.

He has performed on and/or recorded approximately 200 albums as a leader, co-leader or sideman and performed with a "Who's Who" list of the country's most famous big band and jazz musicians.

Over the years, Bellson has taken several "bandleader's

more

Bellson--Add 1

holidays" to play under the direction of other leaders or lead someone else's band.

In 1942 he performed with the Benny Goodman band and Peggy Lee in "The Power Girl," the first of his many film appearances. When Bellson was 24 and a veteran of the U.S. Army Band, he joined Danny Kaye and a number of the era's top musicians in Howard Hawk's production of "A Song is Born."

During the 1960s he rejoined Duke Ellington for his Emancipation Proclamation Centennial stage production, "My People," the motion picture soundtrack for "Assault on a Queen" and for what Ellington called the most important thing he ever did--his Concerts of Sacred Music.

In 1966 Bellson toured briefly with Count Basie and his ex-boss Harry James. A few years later, Buddy Rich asked Bellson to lead Rich's band on a tour he couldn't make because of health problems.

Bellson's compositions and arrangements embrace jazz, jazz/rock/fusion, romantic orchestral suites, symphonic works and a ballet, according to Dr. Ben Miller of Marshall's Department of Music. "Little-known to many of his listeners, the versatile Mr. Bellson is a poet and a lyricist, too," said Miller.

As an author, Bellson has published more than a dozen books on drums and percussion and currently is working with his biographer on a book chronicling his remarkable career. The book will bear the same title as one of Bellson's compositions, "Skin Deep."

more

Bellson--Add 2

Bellson has received numerous awards and honors from many prestigious organizations and an honorary doctoral degree from Northern Illinois University. He has been nominated for four Grammy awards.

His most recent honor came in January when he was selected as an "American Jazz Master" by the National Endowment for the Arts. The NEA has bestowed this honor on only 28 other musicians.

Tickets for the concert are $10 for adults and $5 for students. To purchase tickets contact Dr. Richard Lemke at Marshall University's Department of Music, 696-2482.

Bellson's performance will take place during the West Virginia Music Educators Conference being held in Huntington.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 14, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Ben Sturgill of Petersburg and Kevin Allison of Nitro received "Best in Show" awards during Marshall University's seventh annual Juried Student Art Exhibition held recently in the university's Birke Art Gallery.

Sturgill received a $500 award for Best Overall Performance and Allison received a $500 award for Best Single Work.

Works featured in the show represented some of the best art work produced in studio art classes at Marshall by both art majors and non-majors during the 1993 calendar year, according to Dr. Marilyn Laufer of Marshall's Art Department.

Prizes of $100 for first place, $70 for second place and $30 for third place were awarded in various categories to the following students:

Fiber:

First Place--Cyndi Bolt of Wayne;

Photography:

First Place--Bonnie Charles of Huntington; Second Place--James Weekley of Huntington; Third Place--Donita Pepper of Ansted;

more

Art Awards--Add 1

Printmaking:

First Place--Ben Sturgill of Petersburg; Second Place-- Brandon Harris of Huntington; Third Place--Jamie Hamstead of Charleston;

Mixed Media:

First Place--Ben Sturgill of Petersburg;

Sculpture:

First Place--Randy McKinney of Shady Springs; Second Place-- Rebecca Wilson of Murfreesboro;

Ceramics:

First Place--Anthony Hensley of Huntington; Second Place-- Angela Benning of Scott Depot; Third Place--Mona Arritt of Huntington;

Painting:

First Place--Eben Howley of Scott Depot; Second Place--Mona Arritt of Huntington; Third Place--Analisha Johnson of Huntington;

Drawing:

First Place--John Cartwright of Ona; Second Place--Cindy Posca of Parkersburg; Third Place (Tie)--Jamie Hamstead of Charleston and John B. Wallace III of Huntington;

Graphic Design:

First Place--Chris Doolin of Catlettsburg, Ky.; Second

more

Art Awards--Add 2

Place--Diane Dukes of Gerrardstown; Third Place--Jenette Reed of Princeton.

Dr. and Mrs. Mahlon Brown of Huntington also were recognized during the awards reception for the establishment of the Garth Brown Scholarship for visual arts students. Dr. Brown is a former professor at Marshall.

Laufer said prizes for the annual exhibition come from people in the community who recognize the universal need for visual arts.

Jurors for this year's show were Louise Polan, exhibition curator for the Huntington Museum of Art, and Bobbie Hill, director of the Museum in the Community in Hurricane.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Art Department, 696-6760.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 14, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Community and Technical College will sponsor seven continuing education/community service courses during the remainder of the spring semester, according to Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall.

Hensley said classes, the first beginning March 28, will be diverse enough to appeal to a wide variety of needs and interests.

He said one course, "Life Journey Journaling," is being offered for the first time.

"Thousands of people worldwide keep a record of their daily lives, pursue thoughts at length and test ideas in journals," said Hensley. "However, until you become comfortable with writing a journal, you may have trouble beginning. This course will help you get started and allow you to share ideas with other journal writers."

The schedule includes the following:

--"Intermediate DOS (Disk Operating System)" on Mondays from March 28 through May 2, 5:15 to 7:15 p.m. in Northcott Hall Room 101, $60.

more

Courses--Add 1

--"Intermediate WordPerfect/Windows" on Tuesdays from March 29 through May 3, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 331, $66.

--"Intermediate WordPerfect 6.0--DOS" on Thursdays from March 31 through May 5, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 331, $66.

--"Life Journey Journaling" on Wednesdays from April 6 through May 25, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall Room 227, $72 plus textbook.

--"Intermediate Lotus 1-2-3" on Thursdays from April 7 through May 12, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $60.

--"Intermediate WordPerfect" on Fridays from April 8 through May 13, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 437, $60.

--"WordPerfect 6.0 (DOS) Graphics" on Thursdays from May 19 through June 23, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Corbly Hall Room 438, $66.

There will be a 10 percent discount for persons enrolling in more than one course.

Hensley said the Continuing Education Office also can develop specialized programs in subjects such as computer skills, time management and total quality management for businesses and organizations.

To register or obtain further details about the programs contact the Marshall University Community and Technical College Division of Continuing Education, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 14, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Leo Welch, assistant professor of guitar and coordinator of music theory at Marshall University, will present a classical guitar concert on Sunday, March 20, at 4 p.m. at Huntington's St. John's Episcopal Church, 3000 Washington Blvd.

Marshall's first full-time professor of guitar, Welch will perform works spanning 400 years including his own transcriptions of J.S. Bach's "G Minor Violin Sonata" and Simone Molinaro's lute music. The program also will feature "The Dark and Delicate Figures That Sing," a piece written for Welch by Steve Hicken, and a tarantella composed by Hungarian guitar virtuoso Johann Mertz.

Welch has performed throughout the eastern United States and Europe and has published numerous articles in leading guitar journals.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the Crane School of Music and Florida State University. He also has completed extensive study of Bach transcriptions at the Eastman School of Music.

The concert will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Department of Music, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 14, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Principles of Selling" will be the topic of a workshop at Marshall University on Saturday, April 9, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, said the workshop will give sales representatives and potential sales people the opportunity to learn new skills, enhance presentation skills and learn about topics such as buyer resistance and sales automation.

"Today's world of personal selling is full of challenges from many directions," said Hensley. "Multinational competition, sales force automation, evolution of the 'partnership' era and shifts in buyer behavior are but a few of the current issues facing sales representatives that we will cover in this program."

There will be a fee of $95 for the seminar which includes lunch.

To register or obtain further details contact the Office of Continuing Education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

MARCH 15, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The Marshall University Office of Women's Programs will sponsor its fifth annual Celebration of Women on Wednesday, March 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

Susan L. Taylor, editor-in-chief of Essence magazine and vice president of Essence Communication Inc., will be the featured speaker for the event designed to recognize the achievements of women in the Tri-State area and at Marshall University.

Frances Fanning-Greller, interim coordinator of women's programs at Marshall, said scholarships will be awarded to at least four women on the basis of outstanding community/university service, academic achievement and contributions to interracial understanding and gender equity.

Women from 17 area high schools also will be honored during the program for their accomplishments in academics, leadership and extracurricular activities. The honorees were nominated by their high school principals.

Taylor, known for her inspirational "In the Spirit" essays, will discuss her unique views on women in the workplace and the power of positive thinking in building self-confidence while precipitating change.

more

Taylor--Add 1

Taylor joined the Essence magazine staff in 1970 as a free-lance beauty writer.

Since she was named Essence editor-in-chief in 1981, the magazine's readership has grown to approximately 5.1 million people. She was named vice president of Essence Communication Inc. in 1986.

Taylor hosts the annual Essence awards program that recognizes achievements by African Americans and served as co-host of "Essence, The Television Program" which was broadcast four seasons and reached 70 percent of the African American marketplace. She has interviewed many famous people including Winnie Mandela and Diana Ross.

Her first book, also titled "In the Spirit," was published in 1993 and features a collection of her essays and new commentary.

Taylor received a bachelor's degree in social science and economics from Fordham University and received honorary doctorates from Lincoln University and Delaware State University.

She is a member of the National Association of Black Journalists, the Society of Professional Journalists, the American Society of Magazine Editors, the Alliance Directors

more

Taylor--Add 2

Resource Council for the National Women's Economic Alliance Foundation and Women in Communications.

Taylor's essays placed Essence among the first magazines to raise issues concerning drug use, incest, rape and other controversial subjects. She also advocates working with teenage mothers, women in prison and the poor in an effort to help them take charge of their lives.

"Susan Taylor embodies many qualities that make her perfect for our Celebration of Women," said Fanning-Greller. "She is a person who hopes to affect women's lives and empower them to recognize they can break all the barriers and reach beyond the 'glass ceiling.'

"Everyone who attends will get something out of the program. This is a great opportunity for men and women to learn and affirm the achievements of women in the Tri-State area and at Marshall University."

Taylor's presentation is being sponsored by Marshall's Office of Women's Programs, the Office of Multicultural and International Programs, the School of Journalism and Mass Communications, MU Faculty Women and the Special Events Committee of Campus Entertainment Unlimited.

The program and a reception afterward will be open to the public free of charge.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Women's Programs, 696-3112.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 17, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Major General James M. Lyle, commanding general, U.S. Army Cadet Command, Fort Monroe, Va., will visit Huntington on Monday and Tuesday, March 21-22, to chair a four-state commander's conference on the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Professors of military science and their senior noncommissioned officers from 20 colleges and universities from West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Maryland will attend the conference.

During his visit, Lyle will meet with Marshall University President J. Wade Gilley and attend a luncheon with several of the university's key administrators and Major General Joseph J. Skaff, adjutant general of West Virginia and secretary of public safety.

Lyle is responsible for officer production throughout the United States Army including ROTC programs, West Point and Officer Candidate School. He also is responsible for Junior ROTC programs throughout the world and is the oldest serving Junior ROTC cadet on active duty.

During his stay in the area, Lyle will visit the Junior ROTC

more

General--Add 1

unit at Paul Blazer High School, Ashland, Ky., and West Virginia State College, Institute.

Lyle will be accompanied by Brigadier General Gregory A. Rountree, the new commanding general of the 12-state Second ROTC Region headquartered at Fort Knox, Ky.

This is the first visit to Marshall University by a cadet command general in the ROTC program's 43-year history, according to Lt. Col. John F. Smith, chair of Marshall's Military Science Division, who will host the conference.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 17, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Six distinguished scholars representing four continents will assemble at Marshall University Thursday, April 7, to discuss--appropriately--"The Globalization of Higher Education."

The gathering, the first annual Drinko Symposium, will be from 2 to 4 p.m. in Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall's Fine and Performing Arts Center. The symposium will be open to the public.

All six participants are former Drinko Professors at Marshall under an endowed program to bring outstanding scholars and lecturers to the campus and the community. The John Deaver Drinko and Elizabeth G. Drinko Distinguished Chair in Liberal Arts was established in 1987 with a $1 million gift from a Marshall alumnus and his wife.

Drinko, an internationally prominent attorney, and Mrs. Drinko will be here for the newly established symposium, MU President J. Wade Gilley said. They also will take part in the university's annual Honors Convocation that morning.

"Through their generosity and their continuing interest, John and Elizabeth Drinko have had an enormous impact on scholarly activities at Marshall University," Gilley said. "We're very pleased they will be here this spring to see first-hand some of the results of their efforts on our behalf."

MORE

2-2-2

Returning to participate in the symposium are:

Dr. George McGovern, former U.S. senator from South Dakota and the Democratic presidential nominee in 1972. McGovern, who served as the first Drinko Professor in the fall of 1987, currently is president of The Middle East Policy Council in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Trevor Wilson, professor emeritus of history at Adelaide University in Australia. The Auckland, New Zealand native taught here as a Drinko Professor in 1989. He also will be the speaker at the annual Honors Convocation, scheduled for 11 a.m. in Joan C. Edwards Playhouse.

Dr. Norman A. Graebner of Charlottesville, Va., one of America's foremost historians. Graebner, professor emeritus at the University of Virginia, served as Drinko Professor in Marshall's Spring Term of 1989.

Dr. Grinor Rojo, Drinko Professor in the 1991 Fall Term. A native of Santiago, Chile, Rojo conducted classes and programs related to the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' encounter with the New World in 1492. He currently is teaching at California State University at Long Beach.

Dr. C. Anthony Broh, a 1967 graduate of Marshall, political scientist and authority on voting behavior. Broh was the second Drinko Professor, serving in the fall of 1988. Currently the registrar at Princeton University, Broh has taught at Rutgers, Columbia and Duke universities, among others.

MORE

3-3-3

Dr. Maurice Harmon, emeritus professor of Anglo-Irish literature and drama at University College Dublin (Ireland). Harmon, Drinko Professor in the fall of 1992, is spending the current academic year as the Burns Library Scholar in Irish Studies at Boston College. He is a former member of the University of Notre Dame faculty and has lectured throughout the U.S. and Europe.

Gilley will serve as moderator of the symposium.

"This is shaping up as one of the greatest academic events in Marshall's history," Gilley said. "We're bringing in a 'star-studded lineup' of scholars who will discuss an extremely important and timely topic--'The Globalization of Higher Education'--at an academic institution which is entering a pivotal phase of its existence. I believe all of us will profit from this experience."

##

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

MARCH 18, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Robert L. Dingman, professor in Marshall University's Counseling and Rehabilitation Department, has been selected as the 1994 recipient of the "Gilbert and Kathleen Wrenn Award for a Humanitarian and Caring Person" by the American Counseling Association (ACA).

The award will be presented at the banquet of the ACA annual convention on Monday, April 25, in Minneapolis, Minn.

Funds for the award were initially provided by the Wrenns as personal witness to their love and admiration for those who care for the welfare of others and care about social issues and problems. The award seeks to honor a person who gives to others without fanfare or expectation of reward other than personal satisfaction in seeing other persons made happier or the social milieu given more integrity.

One of the reasons Dingman was selected to receive the award is related to his involvement with the American Red Cross. Dingman has participated in ARC disaster services since 1981.

He has served the local ARC chapter (Western West Virginia chapter) in many capacities and currently serves as a Disaster Action Team member and chairman of Mental Health Services for the Disaster Committee.

more

Dingman--Add 1

Nationally, Dingman has assisted in the development of the mental health training materials and served in more than 30 disasters including hurricanes Hugo and Andrew and the Mississippi floods. He also has taught disaster mental health services courses in many states from California and Oregon to Maine and Georgia.

The American Counseling Association is the national organization for counselors. It has approximately 60,000 members throughout the nation. Dingman has been active in the organization and its affiliates since 1960.

He has served on many committees and written many articles for ACA publications. He currently serves as an associate editor of the Journal of mental Health Counseling, the journal of the affiliate American Mental Health Counseling Association.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 18, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Two Marshall University professors have been selected to participate in a Russia/East Europe Scholar Diplomat Program being held March 23-25 in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Carolyn Karr, professor of history, and Dr. Mack Gillenwater, professor of geography, will attend the program sponsored by the West Virginia Consortium for Faculty and Course Development in International Studies.

Funding for the meeting has been provided by a grant from the United States Department of Education.

A full complement of speakers representing the CIA, the U.S. Department of State, the Soviet Federation Embassy, the U.S. Department of Defense and the Senate Subcommittee on Foreign Affairs will give presentations to eight faculty members from West Virginia institutions of higher education at the Brookings Institute and the Pentagon.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations•Huntington, West Virginia 25755•304/696-NEWS

MARCH 18, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. David Hatfield, assistant professor of English at Marshall University, and Dr. Thomas Sloane, assistant dean of student life and adjunct assistant professor of education at West Virginia University, recently were presented MacBeth awards at the second annual MacBeth National Conference: Computing in the Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The national conference, sponsored by Apple Computer and Bethany College, explores incorporating computer applications in the humanities, social sciences and sciences.

MacBeth awards are given to recognize excellence in the use of the Macintosh computer in the college liberal arts classroom.

The award-winning presentation described a joint project Hatfield and Sloane developed through a West Virginia Board of Trustees Technology Grant.

Hatfield said the project created a long-distance, collaborative teaching environment that links students at Marshall and WVU in a common classroom, uses multimedia in the design and implementation of course materials and includes electronic submission and grading of students' writing.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 18, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's campus radio station, WMUL-FM (88.1 MHz), will celebrate the reopening of one of its production studios with a special ceremony on Thursday, March 24, at 3:30 p.m. at the facility located on the second floor of the Communications Building adjacent to Smith Hall.

Production Studio B, one of the station's three production facilities, was destroyed last year by a flood caused by a malfunctioning air conditioning system.

Dr. Joan Mead, interim dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will cut a green and white ribbon to officially open the new facility. Other university dignitaries and guests will attend the ceremony and a reception which will be open to the public.

"The staff has been making do with the two remaining stereo studios but looks forward with relief to having Studio B back in operation," said Dr. Chuck Bailey, WMUL-FM faculty manager. "The students appreciate the help of the university administration in getting Studio B rebuilt."

Bailey said WMUL-FM, winner of the 1993 Marconi Award for Outstanding College Radio Station and various other awards, depends heavily on produced programming, especially for its documentary and public affairs shows.

more

He said the construction of the new studio was itself a learning experience.

To prepare for the new equipment, the damaged studio was gutted by university carpenters and a new ceiling, floor and walls installed. John Gorrell, a specialist in radio station furniture construction, built the new console and equipment rack in his shop in Fairburn, Ga., from measurements provided by WMUL-FM staff members. Gorrell, who had never seen the studio, installed the perfectly fitting furniture in the studio in one day.

A state-of-the-art analog radio production facility was installed by WMUL-FM engineers Tom Irwin and Chuck Cook.

Bailey said staff members will control their production work from a new Audioarts Engineering Model A-50 stereo console which allows producers to simultaneously input a wide variety of sources including two Studer A807 MKII quarter-inch reel-to-reel tape recorders, two Denon 970 FA compact disk players, two Dynamax CTR Record/Playback Cart machines, one Techniques SL-1200MKII turntable and a variety of necessary accessories.

Bailey said the studio also was designed to be capable of handling future acquisitions of digital equipment.

WMUL-FM is operated by Marshall students, faculty, staff and community volunteers. It broadcasts 20 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year, presenting a variety of alternative programming.

more

WMUL--Add 2

"Our staff members are looking forward to their hands-on training in the new studio and also looking forward to producing more award-winning programming for the station and the school. WMUL-FM is proud of its winning tradition," Bailey said. "Now, the rebuilt Studio B will make it possible to create even better sounding programs.

"Thursday's ribbon-cutting ceremony will mark a new beginning at WMUL-FM as the station moves further into its fourth decade as 'The Broadcast Voice of Marshall University.'"

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 21, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Trent True of Ashland, Ky., a graduate student majoring in history at Marshall University, received an honorable mention award as the most outstanding student on the Palestinian delegation at the 1994 Model League of Arab States held recently at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

While a student at Paul Blazer High School in Ashland, True participated in the Marshall University High School Model United Nations and while an undergraduate at MU served as an officer of the Model United Nations Club.

True was one of nine students representing Marshall at the annual simulation which attracts students from throughout the United States.

Other Marshall students attending the event were: Matt Bromund of Springfield, Va., president of Marshall's Model International Organizations Club; Ken Bensch of Monclova, Ohio; Ali Bettencourt of Burke, Va.; Eric Gollannek of Walled Lake, Mich.; Jill Jerzyk of North Canton, Ohio; Sam Lovejoy of Scott Depot; Marquita Washington of Beckley, and Jennifer Wells of Huntington.

Most of the Marshall students represented Lebanon during the event.

more

MLAS--Add 1

Students were required to research positions of their assigned countries. They were judged on the basis of how realistically they represented their country and how successful they were in getting resolutions passed by the council.

The annual simulation is sponsored by the National Council on U.S.-Arab Relations in Washington, D.C., as an opportunity for students to apply their studies about Arab countries.

"We are not surprised that one of our students did well," said Bromund. "Historically, we usually win some awards."

This is the ninth consecutive year Marshall has sent a delegation to the Model League of Arab States. Marshall's participation in the MLAS was initiated by the late Dr. Jabir Abbas, a former professor of political science at the university.

Dr. Lynn Rigsbee, assistant professor of political science, currently serves as adviser to the Marshall club.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 21, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Ninety-three new members have been inducted into the Marshall University Chapter of Phi Eta Sigma national honor society, according to Linda P. Rowe, associate director of residence life at Marshall and chapter adviser.

The organization is a national honor society for college freshmen. Its goal is to encourage and reward academic excellence among freshmen in institutions of higher learning. To be eligible for membership a student must achieve a 3.5 grade point average while considered a full-time freshman pursuing a baccalaureate degree.

New members were inducted during a ceremony held recently at the Radisson Hotel. The keynote address was given by Dr. Maureen Milicia, professor of theatre at Marshall, who was awarded honorary membership.

The following Phi Eta Sigma Executive Council members presided over the ceremony: James Potter of Princeton; Matt Colflesh of Steubenville, Ohio; Megan Flynn of Fort Rucker, Ala.; Chris Hennessy of Birch Run, Mich.; Silvana Saleme of Huntington, and Amy Bailey of Craigsville.

New members are:

more

Phi Eta Sigma--Add 1

HUNTINGTON--Sara Christine Ashworth, Mary Janay Bailey, Jeremy Shannon Baisden, Carri Elizabeth Booth, Jeanette Anne Busby, Michael B. Coffey, Sarah Elizabeth Dalton, Laura Beth Endicott, Sarah Elizabeth Foster, Brian Keith Griffith, Peggy Arlene Harper, Brian Porter Henderson, Timothy Ray Nelson, Colleen Marie Nessel, Harvey Douglas Pate, Kristen Michelle Perry, Carol Michelle Petry, Vincent delCastillo Quodala, Geetha Subramanian, James Rodney Watts, Kathy L. Welch, Jennifer Leigh Wells, John Christian Wells;

ALVY--Jennifer Ann Walters; BALLARD--Jason Shane Pack; CHARLESTON--Lesleigh Dawn Barber, Kim Sosha Renee Bess, Sherry Lee Thompson; CHESTER--James Phillip Branham III; CLAY--Kelley Jo Schoonover; COWEN--Tina Marie Davis; CULLODEN--William Ghiz, Jennifer Leigh Hicks; DAVIS--Robert Andrew Kovach; DUNBAR--Angela Gail Holstein; FARMINGTON--Richard Dale Marstilller; FAYETTEVILLE--Randall Allan Hibbs II; GILBERT--Stephanie Robin Ellis; HANSFORD--Lutricia Frances Tampa; HARTFORD--Benjamin Meadows Lowman; HARTS--Lonnie Kent Lucas; HURRICANE--Sarah Elizabeth Ginn, Tina Suzette Rappold, Leslie Scott Rice, Jonathan Patrick Turner, Amy Marie Withrow; IAEGER--Heather Leigh Daniel; INSTITUTE--Daniel A. Richardson; KENNA--Alisha Danyiel Rhodes; LAVALETTE--Stephanie Shannon Taylor; LETART--Bethany Suzanna Roush, Carla Renee Sayre; LOGAN--Crystal Michelle Mills;

more

Phi Eta Sigma--Add 2

MILTON--Thomas Matthew Bock, Elton Ray Bond, Lisa Michelle Morris, Christina Gail Smith; MINERAL WELLS--Ryan Jon Stair; NEW HAVEN--Heather Lynn Lockhart; OMAR--Roger Dale May; PARKERSBURG--Andrea Kristen Boley; POCA--Rami Renee Barrier, Michelle Lea Hunt; POINT PLEASANT--Jan Michelle Click, Steven Elliott Dorsey Jr.; PRICHARD--Tracie Suzanne Wallen; PRINCETON--Eric Scott Himes;

SALT ROCK--Deidra Beth Colegrove; SCOTT DEPOT--Jennifer Dawn Cox, Cathie Lind Edwards; ST. ALBANS--Joseph Seldon Bailey, Shelly Rena Brennan; WAYNE--Scott Eric Maynard, William Dudley Napier; WHEELING--Alissa B. Burrall;

OHIO--Kimberly Lambert Baur, Loveland; Kenneth Gregory Bensch, Monclova; Kevin Douglas Brown, Proctorville; Carl Philip Capellas, Warren; Mark Alan Cremeans, Chesapeake; Jason Glenn Ellis, Chesapeake; Brea Carelle James, Proctorville; Tracy Lynn Mann, Stoutsville; Tricia Lynn McCarty, South Point; Christina Lynn McClure, Wheelersburg; Michelle Leigh Morgan, Proctorville; Laura Anne Nowels, Millersburg; Karen Ann Saunders, Gallipolis; Cynthia Ann Workman, Chesapeake; Nathan Linn Wyrick, Proctorville; FLORIDA--Leah Marie Glenn, Miami; MARYLAND--Michael Justin Gillispie, Westminster; MICHIGAN--Eric Frederick Gollannek, Walled Lake.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 22, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Robert Sawrey, professor of history at Marshall University, has been named chair of the Marshall University Honors Council, according to Martha Woodward, executive director of the university's Center for Academic Excellence.

Since joining the Marshall faculty in 1980, Sawrey has been active in several university functions and organizations and recently served as president of the Marshall University Faculty Senate.

He received his bachelor's degree from the University of South Dakota and his master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Cincinnati.

In his new position, Sawrey will be responsible for the university Honors programs which are housed in the John R. Hall Center for Academic Excellence. He will work with Honors students and also work with faculty members to develop Honors courses.

The MU Honors Program was established in the early 1960s to provide maximum educational opportunities for students of high ability. Woodward said Honors students are encouraged to raise their expectations of themselves by pursuing enriched courses both within and beyond the regular curriculum.

more

Sawrey--Add 1

Sawrey said he wants to involve more faculty in Honors education. "I enjoy working with bright students," he said. "Offering a challenging program for them is important."

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 22, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Renowned artist Wolf Kahn will make presentations at Marshall University and the Huntington Museum of Art during April, according to Dr. Marilyn Laufer, co-director of Marshall's Birke Art Gallery.

Kahn, whose works currently are on exhibit in the Birke Art Gallery in Smith Hall, will present a three-day landscape painting workshop April 9-11 at the Huntington Museum of Art.

On Tuesday, April 12, at Marshall University, the artist will give a pastel demonstration in the morning and present a lecture on current trends in painting at 3 p.m. in Birke Art Gallery. The lecture and a reception for the artist following the lecture will be open to the public free of charge.

Kahn, who came to the United States from Germany 54 years ago, is a landscape painter in the modernist tradition. He was a student of Stuart Davis and Hans Hofmann. Laufer said Kahn's work is a blend of realism and abstraction that provides the viewer with sensuous color and a romantic vision of wide open American spaces.

"His paintings suggest a feeling of sweet melancholy, a kind of dark poetic lyricism," said Laufer. "They are truly beautiful expressions of an exceptional artist who recently has been described as one of our great painters in the modernist tradition."

more

Kahn--Add 1

Kahn's work will be on exhibit in Birke Art Gallery through April 15. The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. and Monday evening from 7 to 9.

To obtain further details about Kahn's exhibit and presentations contact the Marshall University Art Department, 696-6760.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 22, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--A special art exhibit featuring the works of students in kindergarten through eighth-grade enrolled in Marshall University's Art Opportunity program will be held Saturday, April 16, from 1 to 2:15 p.m. in Marshall's Birke Art Gallery in Smith Hall.

"Art: The Universal Language" was the theme for this year's Art Opportunity program which began March 2.

The Art Opportunity program introduces students to a broad range of materials and techniques while also exploring various styles and cultures, according to Linda Anderson, director of the program. She said many challenging and exciting art lessons were held this year.

"Through art and visual symbols, all peoples regardless of age, culture or time period, are able to communicate. Art is the universal language," said Anderson. "This program, sponsored by the Marshall University Art Department, was designed to provide opportunities for children to explore the universal language of art."

The exhibit will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Art Department, 696-6760.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 22, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Veteran Marshall University professor Carolyn M. Karr will head a 12-member task force to redesign the Marshall bachelor's degree, MU President J. Wade Gilley announced today.

The Special Task Force on the Baccalaureate Degree is an outgrowth of Gilley's March 3 address to the Marshall faculty during which he outlined a series of initiatives "to give our graduates a competitive edge in the knowledge-based economy of the 21st Century."

Serving as vice chair of the task force will be Dr. Sarah N. Denman, associate vice president for academic affairs. Others named to the task force are Dr. Roger L. Adkins, Dr. Girmay Berhie, Donna H. Donathan, Dr. Jane C. Fotos, Dr. Bertram W. Gross (also president of the Faculty Senate), Dr. Roscoe Hale Jr., Dr. Shirley A. Lumpkin, Dr. Joan T. Mead, Dr. Judith A. Silver and Dr. Donald A. Williams.

Dr. Karr, professor of history and a member of the Marshall faculty since 1966, earned her bachelor's and master's degrees at MU and her doctorate at Ohio State University. She has written extensively about the late Henry D. Hatfield, legendary coalfield physician, progressive governor and U.S. senator from West Virginia.

MORE

2-2-2

Gilley said he hopes the task force can complete and obtain Faculty Senate approval of the first phase of its work during the current semester. This would involve development of a basic program including a "capstone" course and a preliminary set of global/international courses, as well as a policy statement regarding computer and science literacy for every baccalaureate degree candidate.

Phase II, targeted for next year, would consist of refining the first phase and development of appropriate new courses.

The task force's first meeting has been scheduled for April 5.

"I'm gratified an individual of Dr. Karr's stature on the Marshall campus has agreed to serve as chair of this project," Gilley said. "I'm convinced the work the task force is undertaking is of enormous importance to our students--and is crucial to Marshall's future."

##

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 24, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Globalizing Marshall University" will be the theme for the university's 28th annual International Festival which will be held Sunday, April 17, beginning at 4 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center, according to Dr. Will Edwards, executive director of Marshall's Center for International Programs.

The festival will feature exotic foods, traditional music and dance and displays representing many different countries and cultures.

The exhibits and entertainment will be open to the public free of charge. Tickets for the food-sampling session will be $6 for adults and $3 for children if purchased in advance, or $7 for adults and $4 for children if purchased at the door.

Edwards said the International Festival brings the Marshall University community and citizens from the Tri-State area together to share cultures and gives people the opportunity to celebrate and share their international heritage.

"This effort promotes understanding and awareness and reminds everyone of the increasing interdependence of all nations and peoples," he said. "Every individual is unique but also is a member of a larger community. All are invited to attend the festival."

more

Festival--Add 1

To order tickets or obtain further details about the International Festival contact Lena Ji, 696-2379, or stop by the Marshall University Center for International Programs in Old Main Room 212.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 29, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Office of Continuing Education will offer a series of college board reviews for the American College Test (ACT) during February and March.

Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall's Community and Technical College, said the purpose of the program is to provide to as many students as possible information about the ACT assessment.

During the sessions, students will take sample ACT examinations, learn test-taking strategies, discuss the content of the test and procedures to follow when taking the test, learn how to approach examination questions and learn specific strategies for each of the four sections in the ACT.

The review program will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from Feb. 28 through March 30 from 6 to 8 p.m.

There will be a $75 tuition fee for the program and students will have to purchase the review text titled "Official Guide to the ACT Assessment" which is available at the Marshall University Bookstore for $12.95.

To register or obtain further details contact the Continuing Education Office at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 28, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The next session of Children's and Teens' College, conducted by Marshall University's Community and Technical College, will begin Saturday, Feb. 12, and feature a variety of enrichment courses for students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

All of the 50-minute classes will be held from 9 to 11:50 a.m. on Saturdays from Feb. 12 through March 26 in Harris Hall or the Science Building, according to Richard Hensley, director of continuing education at Marshall. Classes will not be held March 5.

"The courses have been designed to be entertaining as well as educational and have been separated into four sections for students of different ages," said Hensley.

Courses for children in kindergarten and first grade include: "Reading Adventures," "Fun With Reading," "Travels in Space," "Fun With Numbers," "Storytelling/Acting," "Getting Along With Others," "Amigos and Pinatas (introduction to Spanish)," "Fossils, Creatures and Dinosaurs" and "Fun With Numbers."

Students in the second and third grades will be able to take: "Discoveries in Science," "Reading and Writing,"

more

Children's College--Add 1

"Conversational French," "Conversational Spanish," "Math Challenges," "New Horizons in Math," "Act II, Scene II (introduction to drama)" and "Discoveries in Science."

Courses for students in the fourth and fifth grades include: "Lego Engineering," "Developing Skills for Study, Listening, Note-taking and Test-taking," "Creative Writing," "Theater Workshops," "Young Scientists--Experiments," "Conversational French," "Improving Math Skills," "The News of the Week" and "Advanced Math."

Sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade course offerings include: "Advanced Math," "Theater Workshops," "Lego Engineering," "Writing--Special Topics," "Conversational French" and "Developing Skills for Study, Listening, Note-taking and Test-taking."

The cost per student will be $36 for one class, $60 for two classes and $81 for three classes. Families registering two or more students will receive a 10 percent discount.

To register or obtain further details contact the Office of Continuing Education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 31, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Applications are being accepted from students who wish to apply for the Larry Bruce Memorial Scholarship, according to Dr. Clair W. Matz, professor in Marshall University's Department of Political Science.

The scholarship was created to perpetuate the spirit and ideals of Larry Bruce Jr., former president of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF, who was a native of Huntington and a Marshall alumnus. Bruce died in December 1992.

Matz said the scholarship will be awarded to Marshall University juniors or seniors who in their freshman and sophomore years exhibited an international spirit as evidenced by: an interest in a career in international affairs; humanitarian service, or concern for children in the Third World. Students must have a grade point average of at least 3.0 at the time of application. The scholarship will not be awarded on the basis of financial need.

Applications must be accompanied by an essay (300-500 words) based on research about UNICEF or Larry Bruce or perpetuating his spirit.

The scholarship award is expected to be $500.

Application forms are available from Matz in the Political

more

Bruce Scholarship--Add 1

Science Department, Smith Hall Room 742. The deadline for returning applications to Matz will be March 15.

Scholarships will be awarded by a committee comprised of the faculty of the Political Science Department and two representatives from the community. Notification of the award will be made by April 29.

To obtain further details contact Matz, 696-2763.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

January 31, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY FACULTY AND STAFF ACHIEVEMENTS

Dr. KEITH E. BARENKLAU, director of the Safety Technology Program, will present a paper titled "Measurement of Ergonomic Program Success" at the International Symposium: Ergonomics which will be held June 24-25, 1994, in Las Vegas. BARENKLAU's abstract for the presentation was selected by the Peer Review Committee of the American Society of Safety Engineers on Nov. 23.

Dr. HOWARD R. D. GORDON, associate professor of adult and technical education, attended the American Vocational Association conference held Dec. 3-7 in Nashville, Tenn. He made two presentations for the Adult Vocational Education Association: "Houle's Typology--Time for Reconsideration" and "Motivational Orientations of Adult Education Graduates." He also chaired a research session for the American Vocational Education Research Association. The theme for the research session was "Scholarship on Alternative Research/Programming Strategies."

EARLE F. VANCE, grants officer for the Marshall University Research Corporation, participated in the national EPSCoR (Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research) Conference held recently in Rapid City, S.D., where he discussed national science policy with leaders in government, business and education from throughout the United States. The National Science Foundation established EPSCoR in 1979 to foster systematic and sustainable change in the capacities of universities in eligible states to support nationally competitive research and assure broad geographic distribution of research awards.

more

Achievements--Add 1

Dr. ROBERT KRIEBEL, assistant professor of business education and office administration, recently attended the annual convention of the American Vocational Association held in Nashville, Tenn. He assisted with the Delta Pi Epsilon programming section of the convention. KRIEBEL will be the faculty adviser to the new West Virginia Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon to be installed in February. Delta Pi Epsilon is a national honorary professional graduate research society.

Dr. DONALD J. CANNON of the Pathology Department presented a paper titled "Role of the Laboratory in the Diagnosis and Therapy of Prostate Cancer" at the fall meeting of the Association of Clinical Scientists held in Toledo, Ohio. Dr. ERNEST M. WALKER, chair of the Department of Pathology, presented two papers at the same meeting: "Clinical Analysis of Selected Anti-cancer Drugs" and "Use and Toxicity of Cis-platin Compounds." Dr. HOWARD QUITTNER of the Pathology Department presented a workshop on "Total Automated Immunoassay for Multiple Tumor Markers" during the meeting.

more

Achievements--Add 2

Dr. MARJORIE KEATLEY, associate professor of business and office technology, and DENECA MERRITT-DAMRON, assistant professor of business and office technology, attended the American Vocational Association's national convention held Dec. 2-6 in Nashville, Tenn.

ANESSA HAMILTON, coordinator of Greek affairs, and Dr. PAT BROWN, associate dean of student affairs in Marshall's School of Medicine, attended the National Interfraternity Conference and the Association of Fraternity Advisors held Dec. 1-5 in San Diego, Calif. HAMILTON was elected member at large Central Region of the National Panhellenic Council and Diversity Committee representative to the American Fraternity Advisor's Association.

Dr. ROBERT P. ALEXANDER, distinguished professor of management, has been appointed staff photographer for the West Virginia Municipal League's newsletter, League Sites. He recently conducted a workshop on "Parliamentary Procedure Fundamentals" for the Friends of the Cabell County Public Library. ALEXANDER also was recently elected chair of the KYOVA Instate Planning Commission which advises federal and state agencies on transportation (roads, etc.) plans in the area. He has had two peer reviewed papers accepted for presentation: one at the national meeting of the Academy of Business Administration in February 1994 and the other at the annual meeting of the Western Decision Sciences Institute in March 1994.

more

Achievements--Add 3

Dr. LEONARD J. DEUTSCH, dean of the Graduate School, gave a seminar on "Opportunities in Graduate Education" to the National Society of Black Engineers on Dec. 11 at the Cabell County Library.

Dr. BARBARA P. GUYER, director of the H.E.L.P. Program, and YVEA E. DUNCAN, coordinator of the Medical H.E.L.P. Program, presented a paper titled "The Dyslexic Medical Student and Physician: Prescription for Success" at a meeting of the International Orton Dyslexia Society held in November at New Orleans. GUYER also conducted a seminar for college students who attended the conference to discuss topics they wished to explore in more detail.

Dr. CHRISTOPHER L. DOLMETSCH, professor of modern languages, has contributed a review of David H. Sutton's "One's Own Hearth is Like Gold: A History of Helvetia, West Virginia. Swiss American Historical Society Publications," Vol. 8 (Frankfurt, Bern, New York, Paris & London: Lang, 1990) to the "1992 Yearbook of German-American Studies," Vol. 27, pp. 185-186.

ROBERT BICKEL and LINDA LANGE of the Educational Foundations Department are co-authors of a paper titled "Opportunities, Costs and High School Completion in West Virginia." The paper has been accepted for presentation at the annual meeting of the Society for the Study of Social Problems being held Aug. 4-6 in Los Angeles.

more

Achievements--Add 4

Dr. PHILLIP PREY, Professor LAURA WYANT and Dr. HOWARD R.D. GORDON of the Adult and Technical Education Program attended a seminar held Jan. 12 in Charleston. "Using the Full Power of DOS" was the title of the program conducted by Dunn & Bradshaw Business Education Services of New York.

Dr. MICHAEL P. CASTELLANI, associate professor of chemistry, had a paper titled "Equilibrium Constants for Homolysis of Metal-Metal Bonded Organometallic Dimers in Cyclohexane Solution. Reaction of the (MeCp)Mo(CO)₃ Radical with the Nitroxide Radical Trap TMIO" published in the December issue of Organometallics (1993, 12, 5000-5004).

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Papia Ghosh of Huntington, a student at Barboursville High School, has been awarded the second annual Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Scholar Award, according to Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University and chair of the Commission on Multiculturalism.

The $250 cash award is presented annually to the high school student and/or college undergraduate who writes the best formal research paper about the life and times of King or his impact. A plaque with the scholar's name is displayed in Marshall's James E. Morrow Library and the winning paper is permanently housed in the library.

Ghosh's paper was titled "The Life and Influence of Martin Luther King Jr."

Two Marshall University students received special honorable mention awards of $50 each in this year's competition: Israel G. Spaulding and Sheree Price, both of Huntington.

Cleckley said the purpose of the King Scholar Award is to promote research, writing and understanding about the life and times of King. The award is presented in conjunction with the community's annual Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium.

more

King Scholar--Add 1

The deadline for submitting papers for next year's competition will be Dec. 1.

To obtain further details about the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Scholar Award program contact Dr. David Wilkin at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3646.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Shirley J. Henson, senior administrative aide in the Alumni Affairs Office, has been selected as the Marshall University Employee of the Month for January, according to Bill Burdette, chairman of the selection committee.

Henson has worked for the university for 25 years.

She was nominated for the award by Linda S. Holmes, director of alumni affairs.

In making the nomination, Holmes said, "Shirley possesses the best work ethic I have ever seen. She believes in what she does and in the university and she gives 110 percent at all times. Shirley stays a step ahead of everything she is responsible for and never says it can't be done. She sets up all special functions and handles many of the details.

"Days of the week or weekends, any time of the day or night, she is there doing whatever is necessary. I often sit back and wonder how this office could run without her. She is a gem of an employee and Marshall University is lucky to have an employee of her caliber."

Henson will receive a plaque and $100 for being named Employee of the Month and will be eligible for the Employee of the Year Award.

more

Henson--Add 1

Marshall University President J. Wade Gilley and his wife, Nanna, provided funds through a grant to establish the Employee of the Month and Employee of the Year program.

The program has been designed to recognize outstanding performance by classified and non-classified staff at the university. Awards will be made to MU employees who have exhibited exceptional levels of work performance and displayed high regard and loyalty toward the university and their job responsibilities.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Lotus 1-2-3" will be the topic of a business workshop at Marshall University on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 17-18, from 6 to 9 p.m. in Corbly Hall, according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop has been designed for people who have only basic computer experience. The program will provide information about the Lotus spreadsheet and other subjects of interest to business owners and managers and prospective business owners.

There will be a $30 registration fee which can be paid at the beginning of the workshop. Persons who register in advance will be given priority.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

more

Lotus--Add 1

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 2, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Applications for a limited number of graduate student tuition waivers for Marshall University's summer terms will be accepted through Friday, April 8, in the MU Graduate School Office, Old Main Room 113, according to Dr. Leonard J. Deutsch, Graduate School dean.

In line with the West Virginia Board of Trustees Policy Bulletin 49, priority will be given to faculty and staff of the state's colleges and universities and to West Virginia residents. A small number of waivers will be awarded to nonresident students.

Deutsch said academic merit will be the major consideration in awarding waivers, which cover tuition, registration and Higher Education and Faculty Improvement fees. Student Activity fees must be paid by the recipient.

Academic merit will be determined by grade point average and Graduate Record Examination scores. Students must list their GRE scores in order to be eligible for consideration.

Up to three hours of waivers for graduate course work will be awarded to qualified applicants.

Students interested in being considered for a Board of Trustees tuition waiver based on financial need criteria should contact the Graduate School to obtain the proper application procedure. Eligible students may be awarded up to six hours of waivers.

more

Waivers--Add 1

Students who previously held waivers must reapply to be considered for summer term waivers.

Approved waivers can be picked up beginning Tuesday, April 19. Waivers not claimed by Friday, April 29, will be assigned to other qualified applicants.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Graduate School, 696-6606.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

FEBRUARY 11, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"The Baird Winds," the resident faculty woodwind quintet at Morehead (Ky.) State University, will perform in concert at Marshall University on Thursday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

The quintet performs throughout Kentucky and performed for the 1993 College Music Society Convention held at Ohio State University.

Members of the group are Robert Pritchard, flute; John Viton, oboe; Michael Acord, clarinet; Jennifer Schuler, bassoon, and L. Curtis Hammond, horn.

The program, open to the public free of charge, will include works by Eugene Bozza, Gyorgy Ligeti, Anton Reicha, Jacques Ibert and August Klughardt.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Department of Music, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 11, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--The American Management Association's sixth annual multicultural forum, "Mainstreaming Diversity," will be presented at Marshall University on Wednesday, Feb. 16, from 12:50 to 4 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

The program, open to the public free of charge, will include a live, interactive videoconference and a local panel discussion, according to Richard Hensley, director of Continuing Education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College.

Hensley said the conference has been designed to meet the needs of minority and non-minority business managers, executives and professionals who work in a multicultural environment, human resources personnel, prospective minority managers and minority graduate and undergraduate students planning a career in business.

Topics will include "Benchmarking Diversity: Results from 32 Pacesetting Organizations," "Transcultural Leadership," "How a Minority-Owned National Corporate Law Firm Manages Diversity and Success" and "Integrating Total Quality Management and Managing Diversity."

"This program will show how to take an active role in managing the talents of a diverse workforce and illustrate how to turn changing demographics to a competitive advantage by systematically investing in the talents of a multicultural workforce," said Hensley. "When conditions change, companies must change to survive. Such is the case with the changing nature of the workforce. I think this will be a valuable program for all managers and people involved in business or those who hope to be involved in business in the future."

more

He said participants will learn about managing diversity and how managing diversity can lead to improved profitability and learn about proven strategies for empowering a diverse workforce.

The national program will be moderated by Lee Thornton, an associate professor at Howard University and former White House correspondent for CBS news.

National panelists will include: H. Jesse Arnelle, founding partner of Arnelle and Hastie, one of the first minority-owned national corporate law firms; Richard S. Gaskins, vice president of the IDS Diversity Resource Center; R. Roosevelt Thomas Jr., founder of the American Institute for Managing Diversity and author of several books, and Carmen Vasquez, author of "Transcultural Leadership: Empowering the Diverse Workforce."

Local panelists who will react to the national program, discuss various ideas and accept questions from the audience will include moderator Dr. Chong W. Kim, chairman of the MU Management Department; Dr. Robert P. Alexander, distinguished professor of management at Marshall; David N. Harris, co-founder of Basic Supply Company; Dr. Edouard Piou, director of equal opportunities and affirmative action at Marshall, and Joan E. Ross, executive director of the Southwestern Community Action Council Inc.

more

Forum--Add 2

The program is being presented free of charge by the Marshall University Division of Continuing Education with assistance from the MU Office of Multicultural and International Programs, the Marshall Management Department and The Marshall University Foundation.

Hensley said participants should preregister so that handout materials can be prepared.

To register or obtain further details contact the Office of Continuing Education at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 11, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Carolyn E. True, a faculty member in the Department of Music at Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas, will perform in concert at Marshall University on Friday, Feb. 18, at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

A pianist, True received her bachelor's degree from Central Missouri State University, a master's degree from the University of Maryland and a doctoral degree from the Eastman School of Music.

Dr. Ed Bingham of Marshall's Music Department said True's performances have been critically acclaimed and described as "commanding, intuitive and masterful."

True was a recipient of the coveted Eastman School of Music Performer's Certificate in 1988 and as a result competed in and won the Eastman Concerto Competition. A semi-finalist in the 1986 University of Maryland International William Kapell Piano Competition, True was awarded several prizes including the Abram Chasins Award presented to the most promising contestant among the non-finalists.

She has performed nationally and internationally in cities such as Chicago, Seattle, New York, Washington, D.C., and Lyon and Paris in France. She also has been featured in radio and television broadcasts in Missouri, New York, Maryland, Michigan and Texas.

more

True--Add 1

True has maintained a private studio since 1976 and has taught on the faculties of the Hochstein School of Music in New York, Prince George's Community College in Maryland and the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp in Michigan.

From 1987 to 1990 she served as an assistant in piano at the Eastman School of Music and from 1989 to 1990 assisted Jeffrey Kahane with his studio of piano performance majors. She joined the Trinity University faculty in 1990.

Her program at Marshall, which will be open to the public free of charge, will include works by D. Scarlatti, M. Ravel and S. Rachmaninoff.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Music Department, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 16, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Changes must be made in the way we teach science and mathematics to insure that our students can compete in a world which places more and more emphasis on these two fields, according to Dr. Stan Maynard of Marshall University's College of Education.

Maynard said the West Virginia Department of Education has recognized the need for changes in mathematics and science instruction and has mandated a systemic change in how the subjects will be taught and evaluated.

In order to begin implementing these changes a Science and Math Summer Institute for primary and secondary teachers in Cabell, Wayne, Mason, Mingo, Logan and Lincoln counties will be held June 20-24 at Marshall University.

Funds for the workshop, directed by Maynard and Dr. Rick Bady of Marshall's College of Science, were provided through a $51,344 grant from the Dwight D. Eisenhower Math and Science Education Act distributed through the West Virginia State System of Higher Education. The six county school systems in the Regional Education Service Agency (RESA II) also are helping sponsor the program.

Maynard said the workshop is necessary because of the mandated changes in how science and math will be taught and evaluated. He said these changes have produced a critical need for retraining of teachers.

more

"All phases of this project are directed toward the retraining of primary and secondary teachers in the development of skills aimed at exemplary science and math instruction," explained Maynard.

The goal of the summer institute will be to improve the science and math achievements of children in the region.

"We hope the institute will have a very positive effect on math and science achievement in this area," Maynard said. "Right now, science and math achievement of children in the region is at best marginal when compared to national figures."

Teachers participating in the program will receive hands-on training that they will be able to apply in their classrooms. They also will be required to act as trainers for other teachers and school staff members in their counties. Follow-up sessions will be held in the fall and spring for all participants.

"Weaknesses in math and science performance are prevalent in many school systems throughout the nation," said Maynard. "This program has been designed to address those weaknesses in our region. We have very good teachers who are willing to participate in this program to help strengthen our math and science instruction and provide students with quality instruction that will meet their individual needs."

more

Science/Math--Add 1

The grant proposal included plans to extend the program over a three-year period to provide comprehensive training to meet the proposed changes for science and mathematics instruction in West Virginia.

To obtain further details about the program contact Maynard at Marshall University's College of Education, 696-2890, or Bady at Marshall's College of Science, 696-2753.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 16, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University, has been reappointed to the Executive Committee of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services (DACOWITS) for 1994.

Established in 1951 by former Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, DACOWITS assists and advises the secretary of defense on policies and matters relating to women in the military services.

The Executive Committee reviews issues and assigns to the appropriate subcommittee new agenda items to be introduced to the full committee; approves the rationale for recommendations, requests for information and continuing concerns that will be forwarded to the full committee, and reviews issues provided by subcommittees and ensures that the intent is clear and adequately reflected in the proper format for forwarding to the full committee.

Individual members of the committee visit military installations and organizations to keep fully informed on current military activities and policies.

Appointed to DACOWITS in 1992 for a three-year term, Cleckley has visited Fort Bragg in North Carolina, Fort

more

Cleckley--Add 1

Jackson in South Carolina, the 254th Army National Guard Transportation Company in Huntington where she met with officers and enlisted guardswomen. She also has toured United States military installations in Alaska, Japan, South Korea and Hawaii.

Her most recent visit, Dec. 4, 1993, was to the 130th Air National Guard in Charleston where she was briefed by the commander, toured the base and met with enlisted women and officers.

Cleckley also serves as vice chair of the DACOWITS Forces Utilization Subcommittee. She formerly served as vice chair of the DACOWITS Quality of Life Subcommittee.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 16, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Environmental Liability" will be the topic of a free business workshop on Tuesday, March 1, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Marshall University Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will include a discussion on how to avoid problems associated with environmental issues and regulations.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

Liability--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 16, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Art: The Universal Language" will be the theme this year for Marshall University's Art Opportunity program for students in kindergarten through eighth grade, according to Linda Anderson, Art Opportunity director.

The after-school program will be held on Wednesdays, March 2 through April 13, from 4 to 6 p.m. on the sixth floor of Smith Hall.

"Through art and visual symbols, all peoples regardless of age, culture or time period, are able to communicate. Art is the universal language," said Anderson. "This program, sponsored by the Marshall University Art Department, has been designed to provide opportunities for children to explore the universal language of art."

Anderson said the Art Opportunity program will offer a broad range of materials and techniques while also exploring various styles and cultures.

She said many challenging and exciting art lessons have been planned for this year's program.

Tuition will be $35 plus $10 for materials. There will be a 10 percent discount for families enrolling more than one child.

more

Art Op--Add 1

There will be a $4 late registration fee for registration after Feb. 27.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Art Department, 696-6760.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 16, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Tony L. Williams, professor of education at Marshall University, has been named chairman of the university's Division of Curricular and Instructional Support and Leadership Studies, according to Dr. Alan B. Gould, vice president for academic affairs.

Williams received his bachelor's degree in history from Marshall. He received a master's degree in social studies and a doctoral degree in curriculum and instruction from West Virginia University.

Prior to joining the Marshall faculty in 1970, Williams taught in the public school systems in Virginia and New Jersey, served as a graduate teaching assistant at West Virginia University and taught at West Liberty State College.

He has served in a number of positions at Marshall including director of off-campus programs, chair of the Department of Educational Foundations, associate dean for student personnel services, associate dean for academic programs and assistant graduate dean.

Williams has written two textbooks, "West Virginia: Our State" and "Social Problems and Issues in American Education," and a chapter for another textbook titled "The Teacher and School Law." He has written numerous articles for professional publications and journals, presented a number of papers at conferences and meetings and presented various workshops in the areas of school law, social studies and effective schools.

more

Williams--Add 1

He has been a member of the Cabell County Citizens Advisory Council to the Board of Education, the West Virginia Council for Social Studies, the National Council for Social Studies, Kappa Delta Pi education honorary and has been a member and officer of Phi Delta Kappa.

"Dr. Williams is an excellent choice to serve as chair of the Division of Curricular and Instructional Support and Leadership Studies," said Gould. "He has classroom and administrative experience at all levels of education and has been very effective in both areas."

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 16, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--William L. Redd, associate professor in the Legal Assistant Program of Marshall University's Community and Technical College, has been appointed moderator of a symposium to be conducted at the annual meeting of the West Virginia State Bar in April.

Redd will moderate the 10 a.m.-noon session of the Minority Lawyer Committee Symposium, "Federal Uniform Sentencing Guidelines--Pros and Cons." The April 29 event will be held in the Charleston Marriott Hotel.

Panelists will be federal judges Charles Haden and Irene Keeley; Professor Claude Weatherspoon of Capital University College of Law, Columbus, Ohio; Michael Carey, former U.S. attorney for southern West Virginia, and Rebecca Betts, current U.S. attorney for southern West Virginia.

Redd, a Huntington attorney and Marshall alumnus, has been a member of the Community and Technical College's full-time faculty since 1989.

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 18, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's seventh annual Juried Student Art Exhibition will open with a reception on Sunday, Feb. 27, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Birke Art Gallery.

Works featured in the show will represent some of the best art work produced in studio art classes at Marshall by both art majors and non-majors during the 1993 calendar year, according to Stanley Sporny of Marshall's Art Department.

"The exhibition will represent the whole gamut of art media from the more traditional processes such as painting, printmaking, photography and drawing to experimental and high technology approaches such as those generated through computers," said Sporny. "Three dimensional design and sculpture will be included as will craft media such as ceramics and weaving."

During the reception, which will be open to the public free of charge, students who created the winning art works in several categories will be recognized and presented cash awards. Dr. and Mrs. Mahlon Brown also will be recognized for the establishment of the Garth Brown Scholarship for visual arts students. Dr. Brown is a former professor at Marshall.

Sporny said most of the funds for prizes awarded during the annual exhibition come from people in the community who recognize the universal need for visual arts.

more

Exhibition--Add 1

He said, "Private citizens, as well as businesses such as the Twentieth Street Bank and Mack and Dave's, have made this increasingly prestigious exhibition one of their yearly contributions. The Ericson Alumni Center and Dr. Paul Balshaw, dean of the MU College of Fine Arts, also are yearly contributors."

Jurors for this year's show are Louise Polan, exhibition curator for the Huntington Museum of Art, and Bobbie Hill, director of the Museum in the Community in Hurricane.

Sporny said both jurors have a wealth of experience and exposure to a vast and complex array of the visual arts which will ensure a good quality and highly competitive show.

The exhibition will be on display in Birke Art Gallery through Friday, March 11. The gallery, located in Smith Hall, is open free of charge Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday evenings from 7 to 9 and Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Art Department, 696-6760 or 696-2296.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 21, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's public radio station, WMUL-FM (88.1 MHz), will broadcast the Southern Conference women's championship basketball tournament for the eighth consecutive year, according to Dr. Chuck G. Bailey, WMUL-FM faculty manager.

The women's tournament will be held March 10-12 in Greenville, S.C. Marshall's radio station will broadcast live all six games of the tournament.

WMUL-FM will be the only outlet, radio or television, to provide complete coverage of the tournament.

As a student-operated public radio station, WMUL-FM is able to broadcast the tournament through donations from area businesses. Advertising cannot be used on the air to cover the cost of operations for the tournament since WMUL-FM is a noncommercial station.

Raquel Ricard of Huntington, WMUL-FM promotions director, said the station is seeking donations from area businesses to underwrite broadcast expenses. "Local businesses can show their support for the university, WMUL-FM and the Lady Herd by giving a $200 donation to The Marshall University Foundation on behalf of

more

WMUL--Add 1

WMUL-FM," said Ricard. "In return, the businesses will receive on-air recognition during the tournament."

Pete Collman of Washington, D.C., WMUL-FM sports director, said the FM-88 sports team finds these yearly trips very beneficial. "Preparation has taken several months but the hard work and support from local businesses will make the tournament very successful. This is a great learning experience for us," Collman said.

In addition to Collman, student broadcasters making the trip will include David McWhorter of Proctorville, Ohio; Jason Philyaw of Ripley; David Maier of Madison, Wis., and Robbie Tuell of Welch.

Bailey said WMUL-FM staff members make several trips throughout the year. He said the pressure on the student broadcasters to perform is greater at the tournaments.

"Our primary goal is to give Marshall University student broadcasters valuable experience and also provide loyal listeners and fans quality broadcasts of sporting events and other activities," said Bailey.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 21, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Stress Management" will be the topic of a free business workshop on Thursday, March 3, from 6 to 8 p.m. at Marshall University's Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will help business owners and prospective business owners learn how to identify sources of stress and learn methods for reducing stress levels.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

Stress--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

FEBRUARY 22, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"Time Management" will be the topic of a free business workshop on Wednesday, March 9, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Marshall University's Research and Economic Development Center, 1050 Fourth Ave., according to Larry Kyle, director of Marshall's Business Development and Training Center.

Kyle said the workshop will help business owners and prospective business owners learn how to make the most out of their time which is one of their most valuable resources.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Marshall University Business Development and Training Center, the MU Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing.

To register or obtain further details contact the Marshall University Small Business Development Center, 696-6798.

Special provisions for disabled persons may be made by contacting the center prior to the workshop.

A division of the West Virginia Development Office, the SBDC program works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 centers throughout the state.

more

Stress--Add 1

The Marshall University Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the United States Small Business Administration. The support given through such funding does not constitute an express or implied endorsement of any of the co-sponsors or participant's products, opinions or services.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 22, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Ralph W. Taylor, professor of biological sciences and associate dean of Marshall University's College of Science, recently presented a "River Keeper" award to West Virginia Governor Gaston Caperton.

Taylor accepted the award on behalf of the governor at the ninth annual fall meeting of the Ohio River Basin Consortium held in Louisville, Ky.

The consortium is composed of scientists representing colleges, universities, industries and governmental agencies which have an interest in upgrading water quality and the overall ecology of the Ohio River and its tributaries. Membership in the organization is held by institutions in Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

Taylor said the concept of a "river keeper" originated in medieval England when owners of large landholdings would hire river keepers to ensure that polluters and poachers did not destroy the owner's prime trout streams.

"The consortium has picked up the idea and each year presents a 'River Keeper' award to a person or group involved in some aspect of Ohio River conservation," explained Taylor.

more

River Keeper--Add 1

"This year it was decided that since the people of the states along the Ohio River each year are involved in operation 'River Sweep,' removing many tons of trash from the river, these efforts should be recognized. The consortium therefore decided to present awards to the governors, as representatives of the people, of each state that participates in 'River Sweep.'"

Taylor said the 10th annual meeting of the Ohio River Basin Consortium will be held Oct. 30 through Nov. 1 at Marshall University.

The program will have sessions dedicated to all aspects of Ohio River study including: the settlement, anthropology and history of the inhabitants of the basin; the biology of the basin; water quality; the invasion of zebra mussels, and protection of the basin by governmental agencies.

To obtain further details about the meeting contact Taylor at Marshall University, 696-2338.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 23, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--"We shall overcome. We shall overcome beginning Wednesday, March 2," said Dr. Betty J. Cleckley, vice president for multicultural and international programs at Marshall University, paraphrasing the old hymn adopted during the 1960s for the civil rights movement.

She was referring to the first annual Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Symposium which originally had been scheduled in January but had to be postponed due to inclement weather. Symposium events have been rescheduled March 2, 3 and 5.

"Advancing the Dream and Promoting Social Justice" will be the theme for the symposium which will include a memorial service, a play and presentations by nationally prominent speakers.

"We were disappointed that we had to postpone the symposium," Cleckley said. "Several people put in a lot of hard work to plan and arrange an outstanding program. Fortunately, we have been able to overcome many problems and reschedule many of the activities."

Cleckley said the symposium planning committee composed of community leaders and Marshall University faculty, staff and

more

Symposium--Add 1

students hopes to accomplish the following objectives through the program:

--To encourage students, teachers and community residents to identify and address issues and questions about inequality, human rights and social justice.

--To increase knowledge and perspectives about Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and his value to society.

--To encourage commitment to social justice and new efforts to promote social justice for all.

--To improve intergroup relations.

The schedule includes the following:

Wednesday, March 2

7 p.m. "The Meeting," an award winning play about what might have happened had Dr. King met met Malcolm X, at the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall's Fine and Performing Arts Center.

Thursday, March 3

7 p.m. Lecture and discussion titled "Martin, Malcolm and America" by Dr. James H. Cone, a noted author and distinguished
more

Symposium--Add 2

professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York, in Marshall's Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

Saturday, March 5

7 p.m.

Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Service with special guest speaker Dr.
Riggins R. Earl Jr., professor at the Interdenominational Theological Center in Atlanta, Ga., at the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, 1647 Ninth Ave.

All of the activities will be open to the public free of charge except for the performance of "The Meeting" on Wednesday, March 2. There will be an admission charge for the play of $6 for adults and $3 for youth 17 and under. Full-time Marshall students with valid identification and activity cards will be admitted free.

Cleckley said other activities originally planned may be rescheduled in the near future. The symposium is being sponsored by Marshall University, the City of Huntington and the local chapter of the NAACP.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Office of Multicultural and International Programs, 696-5430 or 696-4677.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 23, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Lt. Col. Itzhak Itzhaki, former head of the educational branch in the general headquarters of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) and now a teacher and Bible interpreter, will give a lecture and slide presentation titled "The Bible and Archaeology" at Marshall University on Monday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

The presentation, open to the public free of charge, will concentrate on a discussion of everyday life in Biblical times including the economy and ritual, communal and family life, according to Dr. Lynne Mayer, assistant vice president for institutional advancement at Marshall.

Itzhaki's presentation at Marshall is being co-sponsored by the university's John R. Hall Center for Academic Excellence and the Federated Jewish Charities of Huntington. His visit was arranged through the B'Nai B'Rith Lecture Bureau.

Mayer said Itzhaki has won international acclaim as a dynamic teacher and interpreter of the Bible as the living history. She said his lecture will discuss exciting new findings in the field of archaeology and new perspectives on Biblical concepts.

more

Itzhaki--Add 1

Itzhaki joined the IDF in 1948 and took part in the War of Independence in Jerusalem as a platoon commander. After the war, in 1949, he was appointed education officer of a brigade and in 1950 education officer of the Territorial Central Command. From 1960 to 1963 he served as the commander of the Central Military School of Education.

He completed 21 years of service with the IDF and was in charge of its famed Yediat Ha-aretz (Knowledge of the Land) program which taught young Israelis the history and geography of their land.

In 1967 he visited the United States through a grant awarded to him for his work in adult education by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Upon retiring from the IDF in 1969, Itzhaki became director of the Pedagogic Center of the Israel Ministry of Education where he supervised development of curricula in the public schools and devised training aids for teachers. He currently serves as an educational consultant to many institutions in Israel and South Africa but his main work in Israel is the training of teachers.

Itzhaki has toured the United States several times as a B'Nai B'Rith Visiting Lecturer and is the author of many study materials related to the Bible.

To obtain further details contact Mayer at Marshall University, 696-2239.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 23, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

This year's edition of the Third House, an annual spoof of the West Virginia Legislature and state politics in general, is scheduled for Wednesday, March 9, at 8 p.m. in the Cultural Center at the State Capitol Complex in Charleston.

The show, which features members of the State Capitol press corps impersonating various state political figures, is sponsored by the Marshall University Journalism Alumni Association. Proceeds will be donated to Marshall's W. Page Pitt School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

Tickets, priced at $20 each, cover the performance and a reception afterward in the Cultural Center lobby. They may be purchased from any member of the Journalism Alumni Association's board of directors or at the State Capitol Press Room (MB-46). They also may be ordered by mail by sending a check to: 1994 Third House, c/o Tom Miller, 5 Stratford Way, Huntington, WV 25705. Checks should be made payable to the Marshall University Foundation, Inc.

For additional information, call 736-1321 in Huntington or 342-1418 in Charleston.

##

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

February 24, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--A team of 28 Marshall University journalism students has won the 1993 Warner-Lambert Campus Challenge award. The competition was sponsored by the Public Relations Society of America (PRSSA); Warner-Lambert, Inc., a New Jersey-based consumer products company, and Golin/Harris Communications, a Chicago-based public relations agency.

Announcement of the award was made earlier this month in Chicago.

The award was the first in national competition for the Marshall PRSSA chapter, which was established in 1978. Earlier in 1993, the chapter won its first district-level event, the Ohio Valley District title in PRSSA's annual J. Carroll Bateman Competition.

The PRSSA chapter was the second Marshall journalism organization to earn national recognition within the past 90 days. In November, the Marshall chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists was named the outstanding chapter in the nation.

The Warner-Lambert competition, which was open to PRSSA's 176 chapters, required students to design a public relations campaign for Halls Mentho-Lyptus Cough Suppressant Tablets, a Warner-Lambert product.

Part of the Marshall students' campaign involved a National Anthem-singing contest with the grand prize being the right to sing the Star Spangled Banner at a Huntington Blizzard hockey game Nov. 17. In addition to promoting the product, the campaign raised money for the West Virginia Special Olympics and generated interest in the Blizzard, an expansion team in the East Coast Hockey League.

The chapter's campaign partners were the Blizzard, West Virginia Special Olympics and WKEE-FM Radio.

The students, all members of Marshall's Wallace E. Knight Chapter of PRSSA, won a $2,000 cash prize. A contingent will travel to Warner-Lambert's headquarters in Morris Plains, N.J. in March to present the campaign to the company's board of directors.

Merritt Henderson, a graduate student from Kenova, was project director and Professor Randy Bobbitt was faculty adviser.

Other students involved in the project were:

Marty Belcher, Samantha Carney, Kathy Curtis, Lee Ann Ferry and Michelle Pierce of Huntington; Karim Al-Matani of Abdul-Aziz, Saudi Arabia; Rachel Boggs, Wheelersburg, Ohio; Shea Butler, Hamlin; Katy Dalton, Dublin, Ohio; Ashley Day, Ona; Candy Elkins, Barboursville; Julia Farley, Princeton; Tracy Gibson, Wyoming, W.Va.; Ally Goddard, Sardis, Ohio; Julie Hanlon, Parkersburg; Austin Johnson, Killeen, Texas; Aik Wah Leow, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia; Tom McCollum, Fayetteville, N.C.; Debbie McCutcheon, Summersville; Tom Moyer, Reading, Pa.; Joe Piek, Auburn, Wash.; Jennifer Pritt, Kenova; Vikki Steele, Apple Grove; John Suttle, Port Arthur, Texas; Everett Tackett, Auburndale, Fla.; LynWalker, Dunbar, and Amy Young, Elkview.

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

MARCH 24, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Students from Marshall University's public radio station, WMUL-FM, received six grand prize awards and four honorable mention awards during the National Broadcasting Society/Alpha Epsilon Rho 31st annual National Student Scriptwriting and Production Awards competition held March 19 at the Omni Park Central Hotel in New York City.

Dr. Chuck G. Bailey, assistant professor of broadcasting in Marshall's W. Page Pitt School of Journalism and Mass Communications and WMUL-FM faculty manager, said the students competed with broadcasting students from colleges and universities throughout the United States.

"It is an incredible accomplishment to win six grand prizes in the national broadcasting honorary's competition in a single year," Bailey said. "This is another outstanding performance by our students. Winning these prestigious awards speaks well for Marshall, as the student broadcasters of WMUL-FM consistently earn top honors in direct competition with nationally recognized colleges and universities."

Steve Burnett, a junior from Shady Spring, received a grand prize for scriptwriting in the Audio Comedy Program Script category for a program titled "Gaffe's Trail."

more

Charles D. Bissell, a junior from Ashland, Ky., and Clifford R. Haddox, a senior from Barboursville, received a grand prize for scriptwriting in the Audio Documentary Script category for a program titled "Distance Learning: Breaking the Barriers of Distance."

Bissell, Haddox and Paul Swann, a junior from Huntington received a grand prize for production in the Audio Instructional/Industrial/Promotional Program category for "Distance Learning: Breaking the Barriers of Distance."

Bissell received a grand prize for production in the Audio Public Service Announcements category for a spot titled "Report It" which was designed to call attention to the social problem of victims not reporting the crime of date rape.

Jason Philyaw, a senior from Ripley, received a grand prize for production in the Audio Promotional Announcements category for a promotional announcement titled "The Starting Lineup" designed to promote one of WMUL-FM's regular morning shows.

Mark DiIorio, a senior from Huntington, received a grand prize for production in the Audio Documentary category for a program titled "Full Patch: The Story of A.R.M." about the West Virginia chapter of the Association of Recovering Motorcyclists.

DiIorio also received an honorable mention award for scriptwriting in the Audio Documentary Script category for "Full Patch: The Story of A.R.M." and received an honorable mention award for scriptwriting in the Audio Drama Script category for a program titled "Tonight, the Wind is Angry."

more

Haddox received an honorable mention award for production in the Audio Public Service Announcements category for an announcement titled "Hey Doc" about the pride returning students feel when they receive a college degree.

Haddox, Philyaw and Bob Ball, a sophomore from Milton, received an honorable mention award for production in the Audio Comedy Program/Segment category for a segment titled "Low Budget Jeopardy Game Show."

This is the third consecutive year students from WMUL-FM received grand prizes and honorable mention awards in the NBS/AERho competition. Marshall students received two grand prizes last year and two grand prizes the previous year.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 24, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Three Marshall University theatre students have been selected along with seven other students from throughout the country to participate in the Stage Manager Mentoring Program sponsored by the United States Institute for Theatre Technology (USITT).

Marshall students selected for the program are Shannon Miller, a sophomore design/technical major from Huntington; Mindy Gulley, a junior acting/directing major from Cross Lanes, and Tyler Tackett, a sophomore design/technical major from Keyser.

Mike Murphy, assistant professor and technical director in Marshall's Department of Theatre/Dance, said the students were selected on the strength of their production experience. He said the management and leadership skills the students developed while mounting a wide variety of performance/production related activities at Marshall were instrumental in the selection process.

The Stage Management Mentoring Program pairs promising theatre practitioners with professional Actors Equity stage managers in a hands-on learning environment. Those involved in the program will be responsible for managing four major productions at the USITT national convention in Nashville

more

Theatre--Add 1

Miller will work with Jim Moody, an internationally respected lighting designer who has extensive credits in regional theatre and world concert tours. Gulley will be paired with Cindy Paulsen, former production stage manager of the Minneapolis Opera and currently a professor at the University of Wisconsin. Tackett has been assigned to work with Elynmarie Kazel, stage manager of the Santa Monica (Calif.) Playhouse and chair of the Stage Management Commission of the USITT.

Murphy said the national selection process for this program is highly competitive. "It is a credit to the students that they have been chosen for this program," he said.

To obtain further details contact Murphy at Marshall University, 696-2517.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 24, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Twenty-six Marshall University students will receive cash awards for work entered in the William J. Maier Writing Competition during an awards ceremony on Monday, April 11, at 3:30 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Alumni Lounge.

Twenty-seven awards will be given for papers in different categories including freshman papers (research papers and non-research papers) and upper-division and graduate nonfiction prose, poetry and fiction, according to professor Betsy Nordeen, acting chair of Marshall's English Department.

This year, due to increased funding from the Maier Foundation, the competition has been expanded to include papers from the College of Education. Marshall's College of Liberal Arts was added to the competition last year. Previously the competition had been limited to students in the MU English Department.

This is the second step in a four-year expansion of the program, according to Nordeen. By 1996, undergraduates from all of the university's schools will be able to participate in the competition.

Persons attending the awards ceremony will receive a booklet containing selected winning papers.

more

Maier--Add 1

Edward H. Maier, president of the Sarah and Pauline Maier Scholarship Foundation, also will present the Maier Latin Cup awards to area high school students and the Maier Latin Scholarship to a Marshall student.

The writing awards were established in 1973 after the late William J. Maier Jr. read an article on freshman composition by Marshall University professor John Teel in the National Review.

The awards recognize, reward and encourage excellence in writing by undergraduate and graduate students.

Latin awards were established by Maier in 1979 to repay, in some way, the special attention given to him by his high school Latin teacher. Maier credited this extra devotion to Latin and Latin students with helping him secure a scholarship to Harvard University.

High school students are presented the cash awards based on their scores on the College Board Latin Achievement Examination.

Maier Latin Sight-translation Contest awards also will be presented. The contest was created two years ago in conjunction with the West Virginia Junior Classical League Convention.

Each junior high school and high school represented at the convention could select one student to compete in each of the four levels of the contest. Students in the four levels of competition participated by translating Latin passages on sight.

more

Maier--Add 2

William J. Maier was born in Clarksburg and attended school in Elkins, Wheeling and Huntington, where he graduated from high school at the age of 16. He received a scholarship to Harvard and became a Rhodes Scholar.

After graduating from Harvard Law School, Maier practiced law in Charleston and established natural gas and merchandise storage businesses. He later dropped the law practice to concentrate on the management of his assets.

Maier, and the Sarah and Pauline Maier Foundation which he established in 1958, contributed millions of dollars to educational purposes and institutions.

The awards program will be open to the public free of charge. To obtain further details contact Nordeen at Marshall University, 696-2441.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 25, 1994
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Noted historian Trevor Wilson of Adelaide, Australia will be the principal speaker at Marshall University's annual Honors Convocation Thursday, April 7, at 11 a.m. The event will be held in Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall's Fine and Performing Arts Center and will be open to the public.

Wilson, internationally known for his work on the World War I period, served as a Drinko Professor at Marshall during the Fall Term of 1989.

His topic for the Honors Convocation will be "Typecasting Modern Wars: Some Thoughts about the Civil War, World War I and World War II."

Later that day, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., he will join five other former Drinko Professors in the first annual Drinko Symposium, "The Globalization of Higher Education," with MU President J. Wade Gilley serving as moderator.

"Trevor Wilson was extremely popular with students and faculty alike during his semester as a Drinko Professor," MU Vice President for Academic Affairs Alan B. Gould said. "We're very pleased he has agreed to travel all the way from Australia to take part in what is shaping up as one of the great academic celebrations in Marshall's history."

(MORE)

2-2-2

The Honors Convocation is considered the highlight of Marshall's academic year and features recognition of outstanding students and faculty. It is sponsored by the university's Honors Program, which is a part of the John R. Hall Center for Academic Excellence.

The Drinko Professors are underwritten through a $1 million endowment provided by John D. and Elizabeth G. Drinko of Lyndhurst, Ohio for the Drinko Distinguished Chair in Liberal Arts. John Drinko, a Marshall alumnus and internationally prominent attorney, and his wife will be present for both the Honors Convocation and the new Drinko Symposium, Gould said.

Wilson, a professor of history at the University of Adelaide, is a native of Auckland, New Zealand and earned degrees from Auckland University and Oxford University.

He has been a professor and lecturer at Canterbury and Manchester universities, a Commonwealth Fellow at St. John's College, Cambridge, a Visiting Fellow at Australian National University, an Academic Visitor at the London School of Economics, and a Visiting Fellow at Magdalen College, Oxford. He has been honored as a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society and a Fellow of the Australian Academy of the Humanities.

Gould said special awards to be presented at the Honors Convocation will be announced next week.

##

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 29, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Trombonist Gary E. Clarke, a graduate assistant completing requirements for a master's degree in music education at Marshall University, will present a recital on Sunday, April 10, at 3 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall.

The program, open to the public free of charge, will include works by George Friedrich Handel, John Davidson, Arthur Pryor, Eugene Bozza, Launy Grondahl and Sammy Nestico.

Clarke is co-director of Marshall's Music Preparatory Department and also serves as a private instrumental music instructor.

Prior to enrolling in Marshall's Graduate School, Clarke served as general manager of Eastern Heights Shopping Center in Huntington. Previously he served as assistant to the band director at Mariemont (Ohio) City Schools and served as band director at a school in Williamsburg, Ohio. He has been active in the music programs at several Tri-State area churches and established and directed the music program at the Mid-America Christian School and Harts High School.

Clarke is a student of Dr. John Mead, professor of music at Marshall. He will be accompanied on piano by Lois Skeens.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University Department of Music, 696-3117.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 29, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Randall Robinson, executive director of TransAfrica, will make a presentation at Marshall University on Tuesday, April 5, at 7 p.m. in the W. Don Morris Room in Memorial Student Center.

As executive director of TransAfrica, a Washington, D.C., lobbying group for Africa and the Caribbean, Robinson has become one of America's most visible opponents of apartheid in South Africa.

Larry Jarrett, director of Marshall's African American Students' Program, said Robinson single-handedly changed United States media opinion on South Africa, which ultimately moved the U.S. government to pressure the South African government to conduct free elections. The elections are scheduled for early April.

A Harvard Law School graduate, Robinson has had many articles published in major journals and magazines throughout the United States and has been active in the South African Relief Fund.

After working in Tanzania as a Ford Foundation Fellow, Robinson went in to a public-interest law practice in Boston.

more

Robinson--Add 1

In 1975 he moved to Washington, D.C., where worked as an aide to Missouri Representative William Clay and later worked for Michigan Representative Charles Diggs.

For his work against apartheid, Robinson has been honored with the Martin Luther King Jr. Distinguished Service and Humanitarian awards, the Congressional Black Caucus Humanitarian Award, the Johnson Publishing Company American Black Achievement Award and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference Drum Major for Justice Award.

He also received an honorary doctorate from Columbia College in Chicago and has been cited as a "Person of the Week" by ABC-TV.

His presentation, sponsored by the MU Office of Multicultural and International Programs and the African American Students' Program, will be open to the public free of charge.

To obtain further details contact the Marshall University African American Students' Program Office, 696-6705.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 29, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Barbara R. Brown, professor of English at Marshall University, has been selected to receive the university's Distinguished Service Award this year, according to Dr. Alan B. Gould, vice president for academic affairs at Marshall.

The prestigious award and $1,000 stipend will be presented to Brown during Marshall's Honors Convocation on Thursday, April 7, at 11 a.m. in the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall's Fine and Performing Arts Center.

Brown did undergraduate work at Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga., and West Virginia University. She received her bachelor's and master's degrees in English from Marshall and her doctorate from Ohio University.

She served as a teaching assistant while a graduate student at Marshall and joined the Marshall faculty full-time in 1965. In 1977-78 she participated in a Fulbright Educational Exchange program conducted by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under the program, Brown exchanged positions for one year with a professor at Cambridgeshire College of Arts and Technology in Cambridge, England.

Brown has received several Marshall faculty development and

more

Brown--Add 1

research grants and has received grants from The Marshall University Foundation, the Humanities Foundation of West Virginia and the West Virginia Department of Culture and History.

She has published several papers in professional journals and has made presentations and chaired sessions at various meetings of the Shakespeare and Renaissance Association of West Virginia. She also served as member of the editorial board for the Shakespeare and Renaissance Association of West Virginia.

Brown has been a member of the Modern Language Association, the West Virginia Association of College English Teachers, the National Council of Teachers of English, the West Virginia Humanities Center, the Johnson Society, Boswell-Auchinleck Society and John Buchan Society.

She has been involved in numerous activities at Marshall University and has served as acting director of the English Department's Writing Program and Writing Center and director of undergraduate and graduate curricula. She has been a member of the MU Research Board and Graduate Council as well as several other committees.

Gould praised Brown for her dedication to students, the English Department and the university.

"Students have long recognized her dedication and commitment to education," said Gould. "It is fitting that the university recognize her outstanding contribution by conferring upon her the Distinguished Service Award. She certainly deserves this honor."

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 31, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Dr. Charles O. Lloyd II, professor and chair of Marshall University's Department of Classical Studies, has been selected as the 1994 recipient of the university's Marshall and Shirley Reynolds Outstanding Teacher Award, according to Dr. Alan B. Gould, vice president for academic affairs.

Lloyd will be recognized and presented the prestigious award, which includes a $3,000 stipend, at the university's Honors Convocation on Thursday, April 7, at 11 a.m. in the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Marshall's Fine and Performing Arts Center.

A Huntington native, Lloyd received his bachelor's degree from Marshall and his master's and doctoral degrees from Indiana University.

Prior to joining the Marshall faculty in 1972, Lloyd served as an associate instructor at Indiana University.

Lloyd, who has chaired the MU Classical Studies Department since 1984, has been involved in numerous activities at Marshall. Recently he took on the responsibility of directing the university's highly successful Writing Across the Curriculum project.

more

Lloyd--Add 1

He served as coordinator of the university's Basic Humanities Degree Program and co-wrote the proposal accepted by the Maier Foundation establishing the Maier Freshman Latin Scholarship at Marshall. He also served as co-coordinator of the Maier High School Latin Cup Awards which are presented annually in conjunction with the Maier Writing Awards at Marshall University.

Lloyd has taught various Latin workshops for high school students and has presented in-service training sessions for teachers.

He has had several articles published in professional journals and has presented papers at many professional meetings and conferences. He has received several National Endowment for the Humanities awards and studied at The American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece.

Lloyd has been a member and officer of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South and a member of the West Virginia Classical Association.

Gould said Lloyd is an outstanding department chair and professor who enjoys the respect of his students and colleagues throughout the university.

"Students are always uppermost to Dr. Lloyd," said Gould. "He clearly exemplifies the best at Marshall University and in higher education in general. He is an outstanding teacher and deserves this award."

more

Lloyd--Add 2

The university's Outstanding Teacher Award was created in 1985 through an endowment established by Marshall and Shirley Reynolds of Huntington.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

March 31, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--J. Alfred Broaddus Jr., president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., will present the Marshall University College of Business' 25th Anniversary Lecture on Wednesday, April 20, at 8 a.m. at the Holiday Inn Downtown University.

Broaddus, who also is a member of the Federal Open Market Committee of the Federal Reserve System, will discuss recent developments in money markets and the Federal Reserve's initiatives to contain inflation as well as his forecast for economic development in the region served by his bank.

Dr. Calvin A. Kent, dean of the College of Business, said Broaddus also will talk about the issues raised by the proposed changes in bank regulation advanced by the Clinton administration. "This proposed consolidation of bank regulatory functions would mark a major change in bank regulation in our country," said Kent.

The presentation will be made during a breakfast meeting which will be open to the public. There will be a charge of $8 for the breakfast and presentation.

A Richmond native, Broaddus received his bachelor's degree from Washington and Lee University where he was elected to

more

Broaddus--Add 1

Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Beta Kappa. Following his graduation, he studied in France under a Fulbright Fellowship where he received a graduate degree from the Center of Advanced European Studies at the University of Strasbourg.

After military service, he received his master's and doctoral degrees in economics from Indiana University.

Broaddus joined the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond research staff as an economist in 1970, was named assistant vice president in 1972, vice president in 1975 and senior vice president and director of research in 1985. He was promoted to president in 1993.

He has written a number of articles on banking and monetary policy and has lectured at several state banking schools and taught courses at the University of Richmond.

Broaddus is involved in various community organizations in the Richmond area and is vice chairman of the board of trustees of the Health Corporation of Virginia.

He is a member of the advisory boards of the Virginia Commonwealth University Center for Economic Education and the E. Clairborne Robins School of Business at the University of Richmond. He also is a member of the American Economic Association, the National Association of Business Economists and the Southern Economic Association.

To make reservations or obtain further details contact Sherry Adkins at Marshall's College of Business, 696-2311.

###

NEWS RELEASE

Office of University Relations • Huntington, West Virginia 25755 • 304/696-NEWS

MARCH 31, 1994

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HUNTINGTON, W.Va.--Marshall University's Office of Continuing Education will sponsor a preparatory course for students planning to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), according to Richard Hensley, director of continuing education in Marshall's Community and Technical College.

The program will include seven sessions on Tuesdays from April 19 through May 31 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. in Harris Hall Room 402.

Hensley said beginning this month the SAT became a dramatically different test. He said students now will take the new SAT-I examination.

The SAT-I will have analogies, sentence completions and critical reading. Critical reading passages, including dual-format, will be 400 to 800 words long. Topics will cover the humanities, natural sciences, social sciences and mathematics. Scientific or graphing four-function calculators will be allowed for use on the test's 60 mathematics questions.

Students in the preparatory course will utilize new materials from Cambridge Educational Services, a new textbook, a mathematics tutor and basic mathematics review, five simulated tests with explained answers and actual tests.

more

SAT--Add 1

Classroom sessions will include a combination of lecture and review to give students a detailed look at the concepts found in the test. Test-taking strategies also will be discussed.

There will be a fee of $125 for the preparatory program which includes all course materials.

To register or obtain further details contact the Continuing Education Office at Marshall University's Community and Technical College, 696-3113.

###