MEET OUR COLLEGES

Marshall College

by James H. Herring

The one and one-half acre site of Marshall College was bought in 1837 for $40 from John and Lucy Holderby, who made the provision that the estate always be used for school purposes. Today Marshall is a multimillion-dollar institution whose campus covers 25 acres in the heart of Huntington. There are 12 permanent buildings and numerous temporary ones. College athletic teams have the use of a stadium seating 12,000 persons and a field house with a seating capacity of about half that many.

John Laidley, friend of Chief Justice John Marshall for whom the college was named, is considered the founder of Marshall College. It was first known as Marshall Academy. On March 3, 1858, by act of the Virginia Assembly, the Academy became Marshall College, with authority to confer degrees.

The financial status of the school was never very stable in the beginning, and the outbreak of war between the North and South made its money problems worse. The school was finally sold for debts, but it housed a private school during the Civil War because of the terms of the original deed.

Out of the confusion of war, the new state of West Virginia was created, and in 1867 the West Virginia State Normal School was established within the framework of Marshall College. Since that year Marshall has shown a steady growth in size and service to the state.

In 1902 a formal department of education was added with a model training school for prospective teachers. Bachelor of Arts degrees were first awarded in 1921, and a College of Arts and Sciences was established in 1923. In 1940 Bachelor of Engineering Science degrees were authorized. Graduate work began in 1938, and the Master of Arts and Master of Science degrees were conferred.

Marshall now maintains three divisions, each under a dean—College of Arts and Sciences, Teachers College, and Graduate School—plus an adult education program with a full-time director.

Marshall College is located near the nation's major coal fields and chemical industries. The institution has always placed emphasis upon an active cooperation with the expanding industry of its area and upon complete participation in community affairs. Some of its community activities include: A foreman-manager personnel conference for a five-state area; a vocational home economics program backed by federal aid received under the George Deen Act; night degree courses for those who work during the day; alien citizenship courses given in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Justice; conferences for public school personnel dealing with supervision, driver education, industrial English, public relations, coaching problems, and other subjects; and psychological and speech correction clinics.

Student government was organized at Marshall in 1926. The Student Senate sponsors the yearbook, plans Homecoming and Springtime Open House, sponsors student mixes and takes an active responsibility in all extra-curricular events of the College.

Marshall is an informal, friendly college, and this spirit is reflected in the out-of-class life of the students. There are many informal activities in which every student may take part. Also on the calendar are many formal dances, banquets and special programs by campus organizations.

The College has an advanced cultural program. Each student receives an activity card upon registering and is then admitted to 32 cultural events without additional charge.

Marshall's intercollegiate sports include football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis and golf. There is also an extensive intramural program in which more than 90% of the male student body takes part.

A landscaping and building program is under way at the College. The $2,000,000 Science Hall was finished in 1949. A brick addition to the Student Union is nearing completion and work on a new dormitory for freshmen women is about to begin.

We're used to seeing Charleston people in the student spotlight at Marshall College. But never before has a Charleston student become known and admired so quickly by so many of us as did James P. (Jim) Coen of 206 Berkeley St.

Jim was at Marshall only a few days last February, but there are many here who hope he'll make good in his plan to come back in September. (2)

The young man is blind. He suffered an attack of polio less than two years ago. The illness abated and he thought his recovery was complete. He returned to his job and after several months had almost forgotten about the polio attack.

Then one morning he was driving through Charleston on his way to work. A mist seemed to engulf the Kanawha Valley. He had noticed it slightly before leaving home. As his car moved along the boulevard, a front wheel suddenly ran upon the curb, upsetting the vehicle.

Jim was stunned but more by what he learned than by the minor mishap. Other motorists told him that there was no mist that morning. So Jim went to a hospital for a checkup. The verdict of the doctors was tough for an active young man like Jim Coen. Blindness! Total blindness except for a little light perception! A blindness that only God could diagnose as permanent or temporary!

The impact of a groping future was too great to allow the young man relief through tears. He wondered repeatedly: "Why? why? why?"

The only answer was a new strength sufficient to bring him over the roughened pathways of life, now ~~laden~~ ^{beset by} with the additional perils of darkness. Jim was determined to overcome his handicap.

He met a blind man who had completed his college education and become a vocational guidance specialist. Jim liked people and he had the traits that made others like him. So he came to Huntington to talk with Marshall College officials about completing his education. He, too, wanted to become a specialist in vocational guidance.

Blind students are nothing new at Marshall. A blind brother and sister from Dunmore, Pocahontas county, were about to wind up four years of college work when young Coen arrived on the campus. They are Asa Calvin Barlow, 23, and his sister, Mary Margaret Barlow, 22, who were among the 284 persons to receive Marshall degrees May 31.

Jim was accepted at Marshall and he moved into Hodges Hall, a dormitory for men. He decided to spend several days learning his way around the campus before completing his registration. Repeatedly he had to seek help from students and faculty members as he walked over the 25-acre plot. They liked his cheerfulness. They admired his courage to get up after a fall and walk on without even losing his smile, his facial assurance that one knew to mean: "That's all right. I'll do better the next time!"

After several days Jim decided that his blindness was too new for him to enter Marshall so soon. Unlike the Barlow brother and sister who had grown up with their blindness, Jim was used to the world as a sighted man knows it. There was more for him to learn about getting around safely without the use of eyes.

So, after consultations with the deans, he decided to postpone his schooling until he was more able to move around in darkness.

Jim is back home in Charleston now. He lives with his mother, Mrs. Perry Pryor Withers, 206 Berkeley St. And he's trying to make the difficult adjustment to a world unseen.

As a former Charlestonian, I know how residents of the Kanawha valley come to the aid of their unfortunate fellows. I believe there will be no exception in the case of Jim Coen.

It isn't for me to say what he needs. He may need people--- possibly Boy Scouts or Explorers---who will help him get used to his blindness. He may need those who will walk with him and protect him until the obstacles of a city become less hazardous. He may need help in attending the Seeing-Eye school in New Jersey.

Whatever he needs in adjusting to his new way of life, I hope he gets it. We want him back at Marshall as soon as possible.

At a time when there is so much turmoil in the world and it becomes so easy to find things to complain about, your morale gets a real boost when you see a young man of Jim Coen's courage and ambition. You find yourself in about the same position as the poet who penned this thought in more poetic language:

"I complained that I had no shoes...until I met a man who had no feet..."

For Immediate Release

(Workshops---1)

Two workshops will be featured in the Marshall College Summer School session which began yesterday and will continue for six weeks. Registration for the workshops and other regular courses will continue all this week with a one dollar late registration fee charged for each day late.

The workshops, The Third Workshop and Forum On Economic Education and the United Nations Workshop in connection with the Political Science department, began regular meeting sessions, yesterday.

The Forum on Economic Education is sponsored by Marshall in cooperation with the West Virginia Council on Economic Education and the ~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~ Joint Council on Economic Education and will be offered from June 1-18. The first Economic Workshop held at Marshall was in the summer of 1952. As a result of that first workshop, the West Virginia Council on Economic Education was formed. This summer thirty-three workshops are being conducted throughout the country.

The workshop staff is composed of: Edwin A. Gubby, director and assistant Professor of social studies at Marshall; James D. Calderwood, assistant director of Joint Council on Economic Education, and associate professor of economics at Ohio State University; Elizabeth Koleska, staff curriculum specialist and social studies teacher at Huntington High School; and Arthur G. Vieth, staff economist, and associate professor of economics at the University of Chattanooga.

A special feature of the economic workshops is the nightly sessions which are open to the public and are held in the Science Hall auditorium. Such topics as; "West Virginia's Place in the American Economy"; "The Economic Implications of Recent Population Trends"; "Maintaining Stability in a Free Economy"; and summaries of the entire week's work will be given in these night sessions.

The United Nations Workshop, under the sponsorship of the political science department, will be directed by Dr. Conley H. Dillon, Professor of political science at Marshall. The class will hold lecture periods each morning with the afternoon devoted to project meetings. (7)

The background lectures will be given by Dr. Carl Leiden, associate professor of political science at Marshall and the revision of the United Nations Charter project will be handled by Dr. Clyde Keglsten, consultant and professor of international law and director of studies in United Nations and World Affairs, New York University.

The object of the United Nations workshop is to develop

(New Bible and Religion course---1)

Sources of present-day religious ideas will be discussed in a new class in the department of Bible and religion which will begin meeting at Marshall College this morning. Anyone may still register for this or other summer classes by paying a late registration fee.

The course is listed as Bible and Religion 418 and is entitled "Development of Religious Ideas." It will carry three hours of credit and will be open to undergraduates in both teachers college and the college of arts and sciences with junior or senior status. It also will be open to students in the graduate school.

Those not wishing credit may take it as auditors. No prerequisites for the course have been established.

The class will meet daily, Monday through Friday, from 9:10 to ~~10:40~~ 10:40 a. m.

The course will begin with an analysis of the mind and religion of early men. The two primary sources of western religion and religious thought, the Hebrews and the Greeks, will be treated fully. This will lead to an analysis of medieval philosophy and religion to be followed by the period of the renaissance and reformation.

The study will conclude with an attempt to see the nature and place of religious thought as it has developed in the modern world.

Registration At Marshall Hits 1,645

Registration for the first summer term at Marshall College totaled 1,645 as of today with additional students still expected to enroll. Luther E. Bledsoe, registrar and director of admissions, announced today. The present total is 119 more than the 1,526 students who were registered at the close of registration for the first summer session last year.

Students may still enroll for the current term through next Monday. However, a late registration fee will be charged, this fee having been in effect since Tuesday when the regular registration period ended.

Mr. Bledsoe viewed the 1954 summer enrollment with optimism and said he believes it is the beginning of an upward trend. Colleges and universities throughout the nation expect that enrollment will begin rising and will continue to climb until sometime in the 1960's when it will level off. The predicted increase is based upon the large number of "war babies", children born during World War II, who will be entering college in the next few years.

Marshall is offering 457 courses this summer.

The current term will end on July 12 and the second six weeks period will follow immediately thereafter.

(Women's Dormitory---1)

The West Virginia Board of Education Wednesday (June 9) accepted the bid of a Cincinnati, Ohio, concern for $335,000 in revenue bonds to finance construction of a new Marshall College women's dormitory and awarded the contract for the project to a North Carolina company.

The board opened four bids on the revenue bonds and accepted that of Widmann and Company of Cincinnati. The contract went to the Southeastern Construction Company of Charlotte, N. C., for $552,800.

Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall president, said that a six percent architect's fee, provision for contingencies, furniture and interest on revenue bonds during the 360-day construction period would increase to the cost to $659,796.

The bond issue originally was set at $280,000, but was raised to $335,000 at Dr. Smith's recommendation when it was found the cost of the building would be about $55,000 more than the original estimate of $605,000.

The construction project will be financed by a state appropriation of $325,000 and by the sale of the revenue bonds.

The bond issue is for a period of 30 years at an average net interest of 3.478 percent.

Fete for Cam Is Scheduled For Saturday

HUNTINGTON, June 9— (Special) — As many as 1,000, most of them his "boys," are expected to attend a testimonial dinner for veteran Coach Cam Henderson in the Huntington Memorial Field House Saturday night at 7 p. m.

Chairman Everett (Boot) Elkins, who played under Cam at Marshall from 1936 to 1940, is chairman of the dinner and Jennings Randolph who was athletic director at Davis-Elkins College when Cam was coach there, will be the principal speaker. Randolph is now executive vice-president of Capitol Airlines.

All of Cam's "boys"—those who have played for him in his long-coaching career—are invited to the dinner. The price is $3 per plate and tickets may be obtained from Buck Jameson at South Charleston or from Marshall College Athletic Director Bob Morris.

A cocktail party will precede the dinner Saturday afternoon and a "bull session" will follow the dinner Saturday night at the Elks Club. Wives of the players are invited to attend the dinner.

Bonds Bids For College Dorm Begin

Bids on the sale of $335,000 worth of revenue bonds to help finance a new residence hall at Marshall College were to be opened in Charleston today by the State Board of Education.

The board, at a one-day meeting, also was expected to award a contract for construction of the women's residence hall at the college.

The Southeastern Construction Co. submitted a low bid of $552,800 in April for construction of the structure. Action on the bid was held without action pending sale of the $335,000 worth of bonds.

The Legislature appropriated $325,000 for the new dormitory. The bond sale will finance the remainder of the cost.

Also up for action today was consideration of preliminary plans and cost estimates on a proposed new health and physical education building at West Liberty State College, for which the Legislature appropriated $500,000.

The board was to take under study a report concerning Immanuel College of the Bible in Wheeling which seeks approval as a degree-granting institution.

Text Of Attorney General's Opinion To President Stewart Of University

Fox Rules That WVU Must Open Its Doors To Negro Students

State of West Virginia
Office of The Attorney General
Charleston 5
June 1, 1954

Dr. Irvin Stewart,
President, West Virginia University,
Morgantown, West Virginia,
Dear Doctor Stewart:

We have received your letter of May 21, which, for the sake of convenience, is quoted as follows:

"As you know, for a number of years West Virginia University has admitted Negroes to its graduate and professional programs not offered at West Virginia State College or Bluefield State College. We have admitted only West Virginia Negroes to these programs, refusing admission to out-of-state Negroes.

"In view of the recent opinion of the United States Supreme Court, I shall appreciate your opinion as to (1) whether West Virginia University should now admit West Virginia Negroes to courses of study offered either at West Virginia State College or at Bluefield State College and (2) whether there is any obligation to admit out - of - state Negroes to any of the University programs. It should be borne in mind that we do admit out-of - state white students and foreign students to all of our programs except that in the School of Medicine."

It is evident that Negro students were heretofore admitted to the graduate and professional schools of West Virginia University for the reason that such advanced educational programs were not offered at West Virginia State College or at Bluefield State College. It is further evident that Negro students were not admitted to the University to engage in undergraduate courses for the reason that such courses were available to such students at the two aforementioned educational institutions.

This policy was based on the long established doctrine of "separate but equal" educational facilities for the White and Negro races. This doctrine was established in the case of Plessy v. Ferguson, 163 U. S. 537 (1896), but has been rejected by the recent ruling of our Supreme Court.

In the recent cases, to which we shall refer as Brown et al. v. Board of Education, decided on May 17, 1954, the Supreme Court, in a unanimous decision, said:

"We conclude that in the field of public education the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. Therefore, we hold that the plaintiffs and others similarly situated for whom the actions have been brought are, by reason of the segregation complained of, guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment. . ."

In clear, concise and forceful language our highest tribunal has held that separation of races in the field of public education is a violation of the "equal protection" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The continuation of such separation can, therefore, no longer be enforced.

While the recent decision arose from cases involving only elementary and high school grades, we believe, from the tenor thereof, that it applies with equal force to state educational institutions of higher learning. This is especially evident because of the reference made by the Court to cases involving admission to graduate and professional schools of various universities.

In answer to your first question, it is our considered opinion that West Virginia University must now admit any person who applies for admission, regardless of race; provided, however, that such applicant shall fulfill all of the requirements then prescribed for entry. No prospective student may be refused admission because of his race.

The same principle applies in resolving your second question. While the University may doubtless prescribe additional requirements for out - of - state students, we believe, in view of the Brown case, supra, that no such prospective student can be refused entry because of his race. Whether such prospective student is Negro or White, he shall be admitted, if physical facilities permit, so long as he meets the requirements set forth for out-of-state students generally.

It is our desire to respectfully call your attention to Article XII, Section 8 of the West Virginia Constitution, and to Chapter 18, Article 5, Section 14 of the West Virginia Code, both of which prohibit attendance by white and colored students in the same school. The provisions of our Federal Constitution, as interpreted by the Supreme Court, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, constitute the supreme law of the land, and supersede and make null and void any and all state laws which are in conflict therewith. Constitution of the United States, Article VI. Therefore, the West Virginia constitutional provision and statute referred to above, are, by said recent decision, rendered null and void, and are now of no force and effect.

Very truly yours,
JOHN G. FOX
Attorney General

Marshall To Admit Negro Students This Summer

(See Page One Story)

CHARLESTON, June 9. (AP) — The West Virginia Board of Education today threw open the doors of state-supported colleges to Negroes today.

West Virginia is one of 17 states which has maintained separate school facilities for whites and Negroes. The state constitution says: "White and colored persons shall not be taught in the same school."

The board's action brought to light for the first time that Atty. Gen. John G. Fox had written an opinion on segregation June 1 to West Virginia University President Irvin Stewart.

The board had voted at its May 20 meeting to ask Fox for an opinion on what the board's "legal position is in the light of the U. S. Supreme Court decision."

The board expressly based its action on nine state colleges in a letter from Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred H. Caplan read at today's meeting, which said:

"An opinion rendered by this office June 1, 1954, and addressed to Dr. Irvin Stewart, president of West Virginia University, applies not only to the university but also to all state operated schools and colleges under the jurisdiction of the West Virginia Board of Education."

At Morgantown, Dr. Stewart said details of Fox's opinion would have to come from the attorney general's office.

The WVU president did say, however, that the opinion "says in effect the supreme court meant what it said. And for all practical purposes segregation as far as the university is concerned is ended."

In a statement later today President Stewart H. Smith of Marshall College in Huntington said his school would be opened to Negro students this summer. Said Smith:

"In view of the board's action, Marshall College will be happy to enroll qualified colored students beginning the second summer term July 12. Registration for the first summer term already has closed."

The board also appointed a two-man committee today to study and report back at its next meeting July 21-22 on how the board might go about carrying out the U. S. Supreme Court decision as to the state's deaf and blind schools.

Those named were the superintendents of the two institutions now segregated — Hugo F. Schunhoff and Edward A. Boling, who heads the Negro counterpart at nearby Institute.

Seen as factors in the deaf and blind action was the approaching retirement in August of Boling and the fact that the board must begin work on budgets of the schools for the next biennium this fall.

Budgets for the two - year period beginning July 1, 1955, will be presented to the 1955 Legislature which convenes next January.

Today's policy statement by the board applies to these white colleges:

Concord College at Athens; Fairmont State College; Glenville State College; Marshall College in Huntington; Potomac State College of WVU at Keyser; Shepherd College; West Liberty State College, and West Virginia Tech at Montgomery.

It also includes the state's two Negro Colleges, West Virginia State at Institute and Bluefield State.

The board's only Negro member, James H. Rowland of Beckley, has indicated on prior occasions that there would be a definite probability of white students seeking admission to those two institutions.

On the elementary and high school level, State School Supt. W. W. Trent notified the 55 county superintendents June 1 that boards of education should "begin immediately to reorganize and readjust their schools to comply with the Supreme Court (segregation) decision."

COMMENT: Everybody with a typewriter has discussed this subject. A popular error is that Man O'War was the f-i-r-s-t horse to win the Triple Crown. This honor, however, belongs to Sir Barton, year 1919. Man O'War didn't even run in the Kentucky Derby. He wasn't entered in the Run for the Roses. Make The Most Of Your Gifts

"Boys," as Cam Henderson always began his talk to his Marshall College squad a dozen or more years ago, "a lot of you are here and you're here to play football."

"Some of you will make the team. Some of you will get your pictures in the paper. Some of you will have to go home, but that will be no reason for you to become unhappy."

"Take me as an example. I love music, yet I can't read a note. But that doesn't mean I have to go in a corner and sulk when I am surrounded by people who have a better appreciation of music than I."

"Make the most of whatever gifts you have in this pop-eyed world and be happy."

In the Marshall College gym that morning was a massive young man just out of high school at Grant Town, W. Va. He listened intently and to this day hasn't forgotten Coach Cam Henderson's words of wisdom.

For the 9th consecutive year with the Cleveland Browns (pro football) Frank Gatski is making the most of his gifts, a 6 ft. 3 inch frame which is draped over 240 pounds of solid muscle, starring for Paul Browns great Cleveland eleven.

"When the day comes", says Frank, "that I have to quit football, I'll try to do what Coach Henderson told me to do. I won't cry about it. I'll make the most of whatever comes my way. A fellow can always hunt and fish."

HENDERSON DINNER

This is the same Frank Gatski who'll be among those present here Saturday night for the "Henderson Testimonial Dinner" at Memorial Field House, honoring the "Old Man" and his boys who wore the Green and White of Marshall College.

HURRY AND GET WELL

Today we are reporting with regrets — REAL regrets, too — that my lifelong friend, the Rev. Carl Hensley, Charleston Baptist Church, is quite ill at Memorial Hospital, room 231, in the Capitol City, where he was operated on for a blocked kidney.

Everybody in Huntington knows and loves Rev. Carl Hensley. He formerly was a star third sacker for the Huntington Boosters in the Mountain State League. He was, undoubtedly the sharpest (Please Turn To Page 14)

(Marshall's new dormitory---1)

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.---(Special)---Marshall College will be able to provide dormitory housing for 580 students after completion of the $660,000 freshman women's dormitory for which the West Virginia Board of Education let a contract this month.

Dormitory facilities for women will be increased from 220 to more than 400. The new building will accommodate 184 student residents. Present women's facilities consist of two dormitories in which 220 students are housed.

Residents of the new dormitory will live in double rooms. A typical room will consist of a sectioned wall composed of closets, book shelves, a chest of drawers, a mirror and storage space. Furnishings will include desks, chairs and beds.

Marshall now has three dormitories. Hodges Hall, a men's residence hall was built in 1937 and houses 175 men. College Hall and Laidley Hall, both women's housing units, accommodate 68 and 150 students respectively. (A)

The college also has seven sororities and seven fraternities which provide housing for 143 students each semester. Fraternity houses take care of 84 men students and sorority houses accommodate 59 women. (70)

The new Marshall dormitory will be erected by the Southeastern Construction Company of Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. Smock Gets Job At College

The appointment of Mrs. Marie H. Smock as manager and dietitian of the Marshall College dining hall was approved yesterday by the State Board of Education, Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall president, announced today.

Mrs. Smock, now dietitian and manager of the dining hall at West Liberty State College, will assume her duties August 1, succeeding Mrs. R. G. Rollins who resigned May 31 and has gone to join her husband who is in military service.

In the interim Miss Eunice S. Cook, member of the laboratory school faculty, will head the dining hall staff.

Mrs. Smock, a widow, has had about 15 years experience in food management and dietetics. Prior to going to West Liberty, she had served as head dietitian at Washington Jefferson College, as assistant dietitian at Pennsylvania State University and as head dietitian at Kiski Prep School in Pennsylvania. Before going into institutional work, she had had six and one-half years experience managing commercial cafeterias and dining halls.

Keep Veto In U. N., Urges Eagleton In Speech Here

So long as the principle of "sovereign equality" holds good and Iceland and Guatemala have as much voting power as does the United States or England, it would be dangerous to give up the veto in the United Nations, Dr. Clyde Eagleton, professor of international law and director of U. N. studies at New York University, said here yesterday.

Dr. Eagleton spoke at a session of the United Nations workshop which began June 1 and will continue through June 18 at Marshall College.

Discussing "Proposals and Prospects for review of the charter of the United Nations," Dr. Eagleton said:

"Let's look at some specific proposals. I feel sure that the first one in your mind is to get rid of the veto, but do you really want to? I certainly do not, and you can be pretty sure that the United States Senate doesn't. There may be a majority of the American people for it and perhaps there could be a bare majority of the members for it, but I doubt if it would obtain the required two-thirds vote of the members, including all the permanent members of the Security Council.

"I feel sure that almost any one of the five members of the council would veto a proposal to eliminate the vote unless some substitute could be provided which would protect it against a majority vote.

"There is a danger which any one of the great powers faces now, a danger which has become much in evidence within the past few years. A majority of weak and irresponsible states could vote us into some dangerous enterprise with which he had no sympathy or which we might regard as too great a burden on us."

The majority might, for example, Dr. Eagleton pointed out, "vote us into enforcement against an aggressor whom we would not regard as an aggressor—for example, France because she did not make Tunis independent; and this majority would be composed of states which, for the most part, would not put up a single man or gun or dollar to help us do the job."

The speaker stated that the United States "might, of course, be willing to modify the veto . . . and this, so far as we have one, is our official position."

The U. N. workshop is under the direction of Dr. Conley H. Dillon, head of the political science department at Marshall.

Mrs. Marie H. Smock has been named manager and dietitian for the Marshall College dining hall and her appointment has been approved by the State Board of Education, Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall president, announced yesterday.

Board Opens Colleges In State To Negroes

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia state colleges were officially open today to both white and Negro students for the first time in the history of the state.

The State Board of Education adopted a resolution yesterday which expressed its intention of complying fully with the recent Supreme Court ruling banning segregation of the races in public schools.

In Richmond, Va., meanwhile, Gov. Marland was attending a meeting of southern governors called by Virginia's Gov. Stanley to discuss the situation.

Gov. Marland earlier made it plain he had no intention of trying to evade the Supreme Court's decision.

The Board of Education's action was among the first positive steps to comply with the ruling taken by agencies of the 17 states which require segregation.

The West Virginia constitution states that "white and colored persons shall not be taught in the same school."

An earlier development in the state's move to adjust itself to the situation occurred June 1 when State School Supt. W. W. Trent notified the 55 county superintendents that integration of the races in schools should "begin immediately."

The board's action affects ten colleges under its control. West Virginia University, which already admitted Negro students to its graduate and professional schools, is under jurisdiction of its own Board of Governors.

WVU president Irvin Stewart indicated last night, however, that he expected the school's undergraduate divisions to be opened to Negroes.

Here is the statement released by the board of education:

"In conformity with the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the non-segregation cases, and in conformity with the subsequent written opinion of the Attorney General of West Virginia with respect to non-segregation in West Virginia's institutions of higher learning, any qualified student may be admitted to any state college under the jurisdiction of the West Virginia Board of Education."

The statement gave the first indication that Atty. Gen. John Fox had written an opinion on the question. His opinion was written June 1 at the request of the West Virginia University president.

On May 20 the board voted to ask Fox for a similar opinion. Its answer was a letter from Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred H. Caplan which said that Fox's opinion also applied to colleges under the board's control.

Since Fox was unavailable, Caplan declined to reveal the contents of the attorney general's opinion.

President Stewart also declined to release the opinion for publication, but he did say that it "says in effect the Supreme Court meant what it said, and for all practical purposes segregation as far as the university is concerned is ended."

The board's statement did not specify a date on which its order the action was effective immediately.

The schools affected by the board's action are:

Concord College at Athens; Fairmont State College; Glenville State College; Marshall College in Huntington; Potomac State College of WVU at Keyser; Shepherd College; West Liberty State College; West Virginia Tech at Montgomery, and the state's two Negro colleges, Bluefield State and West Virginia State at Institute.

The presidents of Fairmont State, Marshall and Glenville State indicated qualified Negro students would be accepted by their schools at the next registration.

Presidents of other schools were not available immediately for comment.

Part Of New Student Union Addition Open

The Marshall College Student Union building, which is being renovated and greatly expanded, yesterday reopened a part of its new soda fountain section.

Work on the $125,000 project is at a standstill during the construction trades strike, but Manager Don Morris said the new features of the union should be completed within six weeks after work is resumed.

The ballroom has been enlarged by 50 per cent, with a new floor laid throughout.

The new parts of the building include a basement and second floor.

The basement, when completed, will house two large recreation rooms, including ping pong and billiards equipment.

In addition to expansion of the ballroom, the first floor will house an expanded snack room, offices and a new kitchen.

The upstairs will house an office for the Chief Justice, Marshall College yearbook, a music room, meeting room and rest-rooms.

A Henderson protege the tall blond athlete said, "The 'Old Man' (meaning Henderson) is the greatest coach in the world as far as I am concerned. I never would have made the professional league if it hadn't been for his fundamental instructions of the game."

The Eagle player explained that he tried to capitalize on all the knowledge he picked up from Henderson. Willey served under the last four years of football coaching by the "Dean of West Virginia Football Coaches".

While in college Willey dreamed of becoming a professional player. During his college career from 1947 to 1950 he strove towards that goal. After graduation he was drafted by the Eagles and later became a permanent member of the team.

"Professional football is a scientific game. It is a lot faster and rougher than college ball. In the pro league we have to use the two team system because one man couldn't last sixty minutes," Willey told this reporter.

Last year the West Virginian was chosen as defensive end of the year by the Associated Press and was placed on the All Professional team. This ~~comparable~~ to being chosen on the collegiate All American team.

On being asked what he would tell boys wanting to become pro footballers' Willey advised, "They should have a deep love for the game and also some ability. While in college learn as much as possible about the fundamentals and put your heart into the game."

This season will be Willey's fifth year in the big league and he plans to play five more years barring any injuries.. The last of July the Eagles will begin training at Mursey, Pennsylvania. Their first conference game is against the Cleveland Browns.

Democracy is a dangerous way of life because "freedom implies danger," Dr. Stewart H. Smith told Huntington Lodge 313, BPO Elks, at the organization's annual Flag Day service Monday night, June 14.

The Marshall College president said "the securest man in the world is the slave. His master feeds, clothes, houses him and looks after him when he is sick. His master tells him where and when to work."

Dr. Smith said the free man has to take his chances with hunger, cold and disease.

"A free man," he added, "is constantly exposed to danger. Because of this, a free man must have extraordinary courage; not merely the courage to face death but the courage to do what he thinks is right."

The speaker emphasized that "democracy is not for cowards," and that "the Declaration of Independence would not be worth the paper on which it is written if the people lacked the courage to make it work."

Dr. Smith said "our freedoms are not guaranteed to us,"

He concluded:

"Our flag, the symbol of our freedom, which we commemorate on this Flag Day, will continue to wave valiantly and gloriously if we today and those who will follow us in future generations remain bold and reasonable, and honest, and hopeful, and steady and morally strong."

The program was open to the public. It included special music and a presentation on the history of the flag by E. E. Winters, past district deputy to the Elk's grand exalted ruler.

Marshall College has a total 1954 first summer term enrollment of 1673 students and of that number, 419 are graduate students. The graduate registration includes 175 men and 244 women.

Thirty-three West Virginia counties and eight states are represented in the graduate enrollment. The counties from which there are five or more graduate students enrolled are: Cabell, Kanawha, Logan, Wayne, Mingo, McDowell, Boone, Fayette, Raleigh, Putnam, Lincoln, Mason, Mercer, Wyoming, Jackson, Greenbrier and Wood.

The graduate students received their undergraduate degrees from Marshall and 39 other colleges and universities.

Marshall's summer graduate program offers special courses in certain fields. For example, there is a special program consisting of a combination of academic subjects and courses in education for principals in high schools, counselors, and teachers of home economics, social studies, business administration, physical sciences and music.

LARGEST CITY, HUNTINGTON

Negro students will be accepted at Marshall College; West Virginia's second largest institution of higher learning, beginning with the second summer term in July, it was announced in Huntington by Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall president.

Persons intending to register should get application forms from the registrar's office and seek admission to the college early. After acceptance, the student will report to the main reading room of the Marshall library July 12 to sign up for courses. Members of the faculty will be stationed there to advise students enrolling.

Marshall's first summer term began June 1 and will end July 9. Registration for this period has closed.

It will be possible to earn six hours of either undergraduate or graduate credit during the second 1954 summer term. Courses will be offered in thirty-one fields.

Students may register for the 1954-55 regular term at the Marshall College library September 17. They will be able to choose from more than 500 courses.

Marshall College is 117 years old and is located in the heart of Huntington, West Virginia's largest city. It is a multimillion-dollar institution whose campus covers 25 acres.

The college maintains three divisions, each under a dean--- College of Arts and Sciences, Teachers College, and Graduate School---plus an adult education program with a full-time director.

Marshall gives the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Business Administration, Bachelor of Engineering Science, Master of Arts and Master of Science. It offers pre-professional work in dentistry, engineering, forestry, law, medicine, pre-veterinary medicine, medical technology, nursing-occupational therapy, optometry, pharmacy and dietetics.

Other offerings include two-year curricula leading to the Associate degree in accounting, general business, retailing and secretarial science, and curricula leading to teacher certification.

Two Marshall Seniors On All-MAC First 9

OXFORD, O. — Two Marshall College ball players, first baseman Milan Zban and outfielder Eddie Walowac, were voted first team positions on the All-Mid American Conference team which was announced today.

Zban, who hails from Youngstown, O., and Walowac, whose home is Logan, W. Va., are both seniors.

A third Big Green player, second baseman Jim Swierczek, Seth, W. Va., senior was a second team pick while four others won honorable mention notices.

Ohio University's league champions and fourth-place Kent State tied with three berths apiece as six schools are represented.

As in previous years, the coaches chose an eleven-man first team which included a spare pitcher and a spare outfielder. Shortstop Wally Server of Bowling Green, Outfielder Dick Murphy of Ohio University and Pitcher Lou Bocci of Kent State appeared on the coaches' first team for the second straight year, but there are no "third-termers".

Two of last year's first team selections, Ron Jackson and Al Nagel of Western Michigan, dropped to the second this year. This year's first team included six seniors, four juniors and one sophomore.

Vieth To Talk At Marshall

The Forum on Economic Education now being conducted at Marshall College opens its third and final week of events at 9 A. M. Monday in Science Hall auditorium with an address by Arthur G. Vieth of the University of Chattanooga on the subject "The Problem of Size in our Economy."

PAST AND PRESENT — Three of the great names in Marshall College basketball history ran into each other at Memorial Field House last night, scene of a nostalgic testimonial dinner for veteran Big Green coach Cam Henderson. Left to right they are Walt Walowac, the recently graduated Logan All-American who shattered all existing Marshall scoring records; Jules Rivlin, who led Marshall's first truly great basketball team and established himself as Marshall's best all around star; and Aldo (Mr. Chips) Paletti, now coach of East and a teammate of Riv's on those great teams of the 30's.

PRAISE HEAPED ON HENDERSON AT BIG TESTIMONIAL BANQUET

By ERNIE SALVATORE

Ely Camden Henderson, Marshall College's great athletic coach, was given a rousing testimonial dinner last night at Memorial Field House in recognition of 41 years as a coach which brought he and his teams national fame and championships.

With more than 100 of his former athletes, many of them a little older and grayer perhaps than when they were flashing across the sports scenes, were present to do him homage. In fact, the entire affair was the product of several of his former stars headed by the great running back, Everett Lee (Boot) Elkins, the one time Hamlin Hurricane.

Guest speaker for the dinner, which overflowed with sentiment and nostalgia for an athletic history which has thrilled West Virginians and thousands of others, all over the nation, was Jennings Randolph of Elkins. Randolph, former U. S. Representative from his home area is now a vice-president of Capital Airlines.

IN HIS TALK, Randolph said: "Cam Henderson has placed the positive impact of his coaching skill on literally hundreds of men. Many of his boys are here tonight as we give our generous praise to a tall man whose athletic talent and teaching records have been both envied and applauded for almost 40 years."

Ralph said that Henderson's hopes for success were "as high as the hills of West Virginia" and that he "had the determination and drive to follow through on to victory."

The former Congressman who served as athletic director at Davis-Elkins during Henderson's 12 year tour of duty there, said that Henderson never had a taste for defeat and "when he or his teams were beaten it was a grudging acceptance of a temporary loss."

RANDOLPH then recalled some of Henderson's stirring achievements at Davis-Elkins, including a 2-0 upset football victory over Navy which rocked the nation back in the 20's. Henderson used only 11 men against a fine Middle eleven that day, a Middle eleven which regarded the game as a warmup.

Randolph also lauded the practice of lending financial help to deserving athletes who otherwise could never attend college.

"Personally," he said, "it is my considered opinion that the so called niceties of 'no help' reflects little genuine credit on educators. Help to deserving students, many of whom never have attended college because they or their parents did not possess enough money to do so, is not a practice of which we should be ashamed. The best education doesn't necessarily consist of just science, the language of mathematics."

DR. STEWART H. Smith, president of Marshall, opened the speaking portion of the program with an address of welcome to the big crowd after Dr. Arthur E. Beckett, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

Paul Foster was master-of-ceremonies.

Throughout the evening, past Henderson exploits were recalled—such as the three Buckeye Conference basketball championships he engineered for Marshall, the one Buckeye Conference football title and the three national basketball tournaments he captured.

Henderson himself was humble and grateful in his brief talk to the crowd.

ALL-CONFERENCE SELECTIONS — Ed Walowac, left, and Milan Zban, right, were selected to the All-Mid American Conference baseball team, it was announced yesterday by the MAC news bureau. Walowac, a senior centerfielder, and Zban, senior first baseman, were tops in hitting for Marshall this season, with Zban's .348 average leading the team. The remainder of the all-conference team included second baseman Geno Giola of Kent, third baseman Dick England of Ohio University, shortstop Wally Server of Bowling Green, outfielders Dick Murphy, Ohio, Bill Lajoie, Western Michigan, and Charles Duquette, Miami; catcher George Janik of Kent, and pitchers John Bier of Ohio, and Lou Bocci of Kent. Jim Swierczek of Marshall was selected to the second team second base spot. Receiving honorable mention were Marshall shortstop Earl Skaggs, catcher Carl Nutter, and outfielder Jim York of Huntington.

Student Union Building Nears Completion

By BEVERLY BARTON
Marshall Student Journalist

The Marshall College Student Union, constructed in 1932 at a cost of $35,000, and named for former college President Morris P. Shawkey, is nearing completion of its additions and renovations totaling $150,000; more than four times the original cost. Construction work is nearing completion.

This annexation and modernization program is being financed by a bond issue of the Bohner-Reinhart Bonding Company of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Persun Construction Company of Huntington has handled the construction. Sub-contracts have been issued to the Haskins Electrical Company and the Charles H. Hagen Plumbers, both of Huntington. Lewis Stettler, designer of Huntington's million-dollar Memorial Field House, was the architect.

An entirely new second floor, a full length basement, and south and west wings have been added to the old Union. According to manager, Don Morris, completion of work will nearly double our old facilities.

THE BASEMENT level will be composed of an east game room measuring 50 by 21 feet and containing three pocket billiard tables and a billiards table; also, shuffleboard and some other small-table games if space permits. The 40 by 33 feet west game room will probably house only table tennis, allowing the players sufficient room to maneuver around the four tables.

An attendant will check out game equipment. In conformation with the state fire code, there will be two stairways entering or leaving the basement; one from the outer south side of the building, and the other from the inner fountain room.

The east wing addition to the first floor has been completed for several weeks, furnishing an enlarged ballroom section with a juke box, and is used, as before, for lounging and student mixes with dancing during the day and evening on a $5,000 floor.

THE WEST WING addition to the first floor is immediately off the main fountain room and will have about 26 more booths located within it.

Among other rooms located in the space behind the bar sections, will be an office for Mr. Morris, storage rooms, and a kitchen.

The colorful, newly-appointed fountain room has many outstanding modernized features. Primarily, there will be two fully-equipped fountains, each with a separate grill, encased on either side of the new horseshoe type, formica-top bar. Fronting the bar, at the bend of the "horseshoe," will be a 12-foot showcase. In the center of the horseshoe a back bar will stand eight and one-half feet high, containing the fountain supplies, readily accessible to either side of the operation. A green statue of the traditional college buffalo is to be fashioned in wood, placed on top of the middle bar, and spotlighted.

The new fountain room floor is hand-laid vinyl tile, in red and cream checkerboard pattern and is the best now being produced.

The 18 new booths in the main fountain room will be similar to the old ones except their base will be of solid construction, instead of the hollow steel bar base, and the tables will have two legs cast iron standards, making the booths and tables more stable and giving more room to slide in and out.

The second floor will be divided into sufficient space for a student assembly room and a meeting room in the west section with a folding plywood door between the two for use when a larger room is desired. Also, there will be a music room, Chief Justice (college yearbook) room, accommodations for the janitor, and rest room facilities. Windows in the upstairs rooms are of the crank-type pressure seal casement.

Saw Daughter Get Degree

Kenova Mother To Be Graduated 29 Years After Entering College

By BEV BARTON

Marshall Student Journalist

Mrs. Sam H. Billups, 1614 Walnut street, Kenova, will be graduated from Marshall College next month, receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree in elementary education 29 years after having first entered the institution.

Mrs. Billups, who prefers that her friends call her "Fern," points out: "I've never really been out of touch with the school system, for when I haven't been going to school myself, I've been teaching my little third and fourth graders. Then, too, I've seen the older of my two daughters receive her education even before I completely received mine. Joyce graduated from Marshall two years ago."

After entering Marshall in the fall of 1925 and going to college for the following two semesters, Mrs. Billups began teaching in September, 1926. That was the starting-point. Since that time, Fern has attended Marshall during the summers and has taken some night courses, at which times it became necessary for her to renew her teachers certificate.

For the past 14 of these 29 years, she has taught in many sections of Wayne county and now lives in Kenova, where she usually teaches the fourth grade at Kenova grade school. Next fall, she expects to teach the third grade.

Even with the rapid pace Mrs. Billups has set and maintained, she took time out in 1930 for marriage to another Marshall student, Sam Billups, also from Wayne county. Mr. Billups is a railway postal clerk and has been employed by the United States government for 18 years.

The Billups' only children are two daughters; 20 - year - old Donna, who is now Mrs. Ray Thompson of Gulfport, Mississippi; and Joyce, who's 22, unmarried, and teaching physical education in Greenville, Ohio. Joyce was a student at Marshall and a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She graduated in the spring of 1952.

A year or so before her graduation, Joyce had designs on seeing her mother graduate along with her. However, after mother and daughter got together and computed Mrs. Billups' semester hours, they found it would have been just too much pressure on "mom".

Ironically enough, Mrs. Billups has taken courses in practically every division of the college, with the exception of the home economics department.

(Americanization Program---1)

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.---(Special)---Five hundred and thirty-five aliens have been enrolled in the Marshall College Americanization program since it was organized here seven years ago, according to Dr. Charles P. Harper, director of the program and professor of political science at Marshall College.

The only service of its kind in West Virginia, the Americanization program was set up in 1947 to prepare aliens for their final citizenship examinations. (116)

It was organized by Dr. Harper and Dean J. Frank Bartlett of the College of Arts and Sciences in cooperation with the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice.

Of the 535 total enrollment, 275 have completed their work and have received their citizenship papers or are ready for the final naturalization examinations. There were 62 who completed the program last year.

The program has students in 49 of the 55 counties in West Virginia. Cabell county with 65 students and Kanawha with 58 rank first and second respectively in regard to total enrollment. There are also students living temporarily in over half of the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

The aliens come from 57 foreign countries with the largest number coming from Germany. Most of the recent immigrants are "war brides" and "displaced persons."

The ages of the immigrants taking the naturalization course range from 17 to 80 years. The average age of the "war brides" is from 20 to 28. Over three-fourths of them are married and their families include from one to ten children.

The aliens are engaged in over 70 different occupations here in the United States. The two most engaged in are housekeeping and coal mining. There are also farmers, nurses, physicians, priests, architects, and librarians. 117

The naturalization training consists of two correspondence or home study courses. One course is in English and government for those who cannot read or write English and another is a course entitled, "Our Constitution and Government", for aliens having little or no difficulty with the English language.

The work books are prepared and furnished by the Immigration and Naturalization Service and follow the best educational methods and procedures from the known to the related unknown. The student's rate of progress depends upon his knowledge of the English language, his attainment in elementary school, high school, and college and the amount of time spent in learning the lessons. Last year one student completed the advanced course in one week.

The average student should finish the course in six months or a year and both courses in a year and a half. Each student prepares his lesson under the supervision of a helper who may be a relative, friend, employer, minister or teacher.

The work is done at home and the completed work book lessons and tests are returned to the director for grading and correction. They then are returned to the student.

Upon completion of the advanced course a congratulatory letter and a certificate is sent to the student. Dr. Stewart H. Smith, 118 Marshall College president, also sends a letter of congratulation to those who complete the training. The citizenship examination is given by an examiner from one of the field offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the citizenship oath is administered by a judge of the federal district court or of a state circuit court.

In recognition of the Americanization Program, Dr. Harper has been selected by the Governor of West Virginia to represent the state at the National Citizenship Conferences for five successive years.

Jeaneane Dowis' Recital Exciting, Well Received

Virtuoso technique, a poetic imagination, and youthful charm are the interesting combination of qualities that make Miss Jeaneane Dowis, pianist, and artist of extraordinary resources. She was presented last night in the Marshall College auditorium in a summer concert as a service by the college to the public.

Prior to the concert, Miss Dowis met Huntington's four Chopin Award winners, Miss Margaret Krinsky, Miss Anne McMillian, Mrs. Peggy Johnston, and Miss Barbara Keyser, and posed with them for a photograph. Miss Dowis is a winner of the national Chopin Award of the Kosciuszko Foundation, which carries a prize of $1,000.

Her recital last night was an exciting event, rarely excelled for fine musicianship and technical performance even by the notable professional concert pianists who have appeared here in recent years. Despite her youth, Miss Dowis showed an authoritative understanding of the mood and character of each of the widely contrasting pieces on her comprehensive program, and the assured skill to interpret them.

The program, besides interesting selections from Beethoven, Debussy, and Bach, included Schumann's "Carnival" and Samuel Barber's Sonata.

Her interpretation of the Schumann "war horse" made it something new, fresh and interesting throughout, and her playing of the Barber work was a stimulating experience. She made its strange and unfamiliar sounds and strong, driving rhythms exciting by an amazing variety of dynamics in extreme ranges, and her complete technical command so perfectly solved its extreme difficulties that her hearers were all but unaware that there were any.

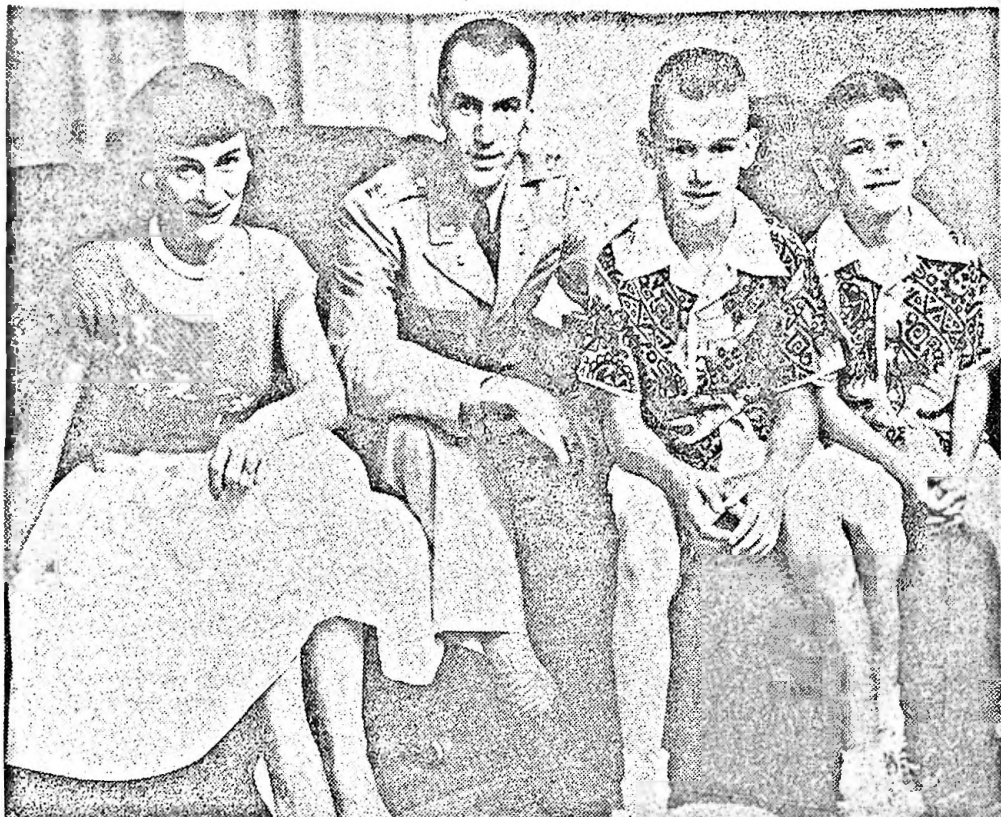

Miss Dowis is young and very pretty. A small mannerism, consisting of a habit of occasionally peering intently at the keys as if she were nearsighted, which she is not—made her appear at the keyboard sometimes to seem less pretty than she really is. This ought to be corrected.

After prolonged applause at the end of the program, Miss Dowis played two Chopin works as encores. It all added up to one of the finest piano recitals in the city's recent experience.

Plans Completed For Education Conference At Marshall Tuesday

Finishing touches were made today on the program of the Special Education Conference scheduled for Tuesday, June 22, at Marshall College, according to Paul H. Collins, Marshall director of adult education.

The program will include an address by Thomas Coleman Jr., assistant professor of special education at Wayne University, Detroit, Mich. He will speak on "Trends in Special Education." Dr. John J. Lee, dean of the graduate school at Wayne University, had been scheduled earlier to speak on that subject.

Old Main auditorium will be the conference site.

Held in cooperation with the West Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults and the International Council for Exceptional Children, the conference is open to all school administrators, public health officials, parents and other interested persons.

Conferees will register between 8:30 and 9:30 A. M. The morning session will begin at 9:30 A. M., with R. F. Brooks, local president-elect of the International Council for Exceptional Children, presiding. There will be short talks by Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, dean of Marshall's teachers college; J. Bert Schroeder, trustee of the West Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults; and Mr. Collins.

Sectional meetings will begin at 10 A. M.

The discussion groups and participants include:

Gifted children group — Dean Harrison Ferrell, West Virginia State College, chairman; Bernice Sullivan, reading supervisor, Cabell county schools; and Dr. Kenneth Loemaker, head of the department of psychology, Marshall College.

Slow learning — F. Ray Power, state director of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation; C. G. Polan, Huntington psychiatrist; Dr. Margaret Hampel, professor of education at Marshall; and Godfrey Stevens, administrative supervisor of special education, Cincinnati, O.

Speech-hearing — Miss Ruth Coffman, director of speech and hearing clinic, Marshall College; Dr. E. K. Jerome, director of speech and hearing clinic, West Virginia University; Miss Kay Craibbe, speech therapist, West Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults; and Mrs. Mary Page Rogers, teacher for the hard of hearing, Cabell county.

Sight Conservation — W. R. Cooke, superintendent, Mercer county schools; Florence Donchoe, sight saving teacher, Cabell county schools; Dr. Albert Esposito, ophthalmologist, Huntington; Miss Mary Hamilton, sight conservation teacher, Hillsboro, O.; and Burnetta Blatt, consultant, National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Blind — P. K. Martin, assistant school superintendent of McDowell county, chairman; Dr. Charles Polan, ophthalmologist, Huntington; Selvon Brannon, principal of the school for the blind, Romney.

Deaf — Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, president of the Hearing Association, Charleston, chairman; and Dr. Hugo Schunhoff, superintendent of the School for the Deaf and Blind, Romney.

Orthopedic — John St. Clair, assistant superintendent of Kanawha county schools, chairman; and Thomas Coleman Jr., Wayne University.

Emotionally Disturbed — Dr. Madeline Feil, psychology department, Marshall College; Dr. S. O. Johnson, superintendent of Lakin State Hospital; Margaret Gaulle, Cabell county schools; and Dr. James P. Garvey, psychiatrist at the Ashland, Ky., federal correctional institution.

The sectional meetings will be repeated at 11 A. M. in order that persons attending may participate in at least two groups.

Orville W. Hawes, executive director of the West Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., will preside over the afternoon session.

Two topics will be discussed before Coleman's address. They are "Facilities For Special Education Available in West Virginia," by H. Cliff Hamilton and Dr. Hugo Schunhoff; and "Special Education Legislation in Effect and Legislation Needed in West Virginia," by Dr. Sarah Louise Stevens and Senator C. H. McKown of Wayne.

A summer scholarship has been awarded to Dick Alderson, a Marshall College student and ballet dance instructor, to study with Ted Shawn, foremost ballet dancer and director at Jacob's Pillow, located nine miles from Lee, Mass., where a dance school and festival is held each year. He will leave June 22 and will remain there until September 10.

Dick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alderson of Jochin, on Cabin Creek. He began his career as a ballet dancer seven years ago, studying with Helen Schrader of Charleston.

For the past year he has been a ballet instructor at the Miss Enslow Little Ballet Theatre school in the Lewis Arcade in which he is associated with Becky Boardwine and Connie Preston.

While studying at the dance center he will participate in several of the festival programs. For his work he will receive eight college credits. The school at Jacob's Pillow was organized and incorporated in 1942 as an educational, artistic, non-profit institution. The theatre there, in which the students study and the festival programs are presented, was designed by Joseph Franz. It is the first theatre designed and built and used exclusively for the art of the dance. Such noted instructors as Margaret Craske formerly of the Royal Italian Ballet; Angel Casino, most famous dancing teacher in Spain, Bruce McClure, leading dancer of the Celtic ballet in Scotland, and Margaret Morris, artistic director and choreographer of the Celtic ballet, and many others are members of the festival staff.

MARSHALL CHEF ARCHIE LIPSCOMB GETS TRAY
Robert Schurman, Right, Makes Presentation

RETIRING MARSHALL EMPLOYEES HONORED
Otis Farley, William Webb and Mrs. Gertrude McComas

not

Archie Puts Skillet Away For Last Time

The man who has fed hundreds of thousands of meals to Marshall College students and faculty members for 38 years retired yesterday.

He is Archie Lipscomb, 1801 Doulton Avenue, who has been chief chef at the college since 1916. Mr. Lipscomb will be 63 June 25.

During a farewell party held yesterday afternoon in the Marshall dining hall for Mr. Lipscomb and three other retiring college employes, the veteran chef was presented an aluminum tray bearing the etched signatures of nearly the entire college maintenance and dining hall staff.

Despite the plannings by dieticians, Mr. Lipscomb knows the favorite food of collegians, whether they be of the Class of 1916 or 1954.

They will choose hot dogs or hamburgers every time, Mr. Lipscomb says.

The most popular dessert on the campus, year in and year out, is Boston cream pie.

When Mr. Lipscomb began cooking at the college in 1916, the kitchen and dining rooms were on the first floor of Old Main. For the next two decades the cafeteria was in the basement of Old Main.

For the past several years the college has been using a spacious dining hall, a separate building on the campus.

The chef recalls no excitement or unusual incidents during his long tenure. Things ran pretty smoothly over the years, he says.

Mr. Lipscomb plans to loaf and go fishing for the next couple of months before looking for another job to occupy his time. He'll visit with several nieces and nephews here.

His wife died in 1911.

Also honored at the party yesterday afternoon were William Webb and Otis Farley, who have been with the buildings and grounds department for seven years, and Mrs. Gertrude McComas, who has been on the dining hall staff for the past six years.

Five Marshallites Have 20 Years Of College

By GEORGIA DAVIS WALDRON

Marshall Student Journalist

Five students are enrolled during the first summer term at Marshall College who entered at least 27 years ago. There are four women and one man, all teachers. One is a graduate student and four are seniors, needing only a few hours' work for a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Three counties, Cabell, Logan, and Wayne, and the state of Kentucky are represented.

The students are Fern Billups, Phala McCutcheon, Georgia D. Waldron, Alice C. Walker, and W. B. Reeves.

MRS. FERN Billups of Kenova will receive her Bachelor of Arts degree at the end of this term. She was first enrolled in 1925. She has two daughters, one of whom, Joyce, was graduated from Marshall in 1953.

As to changes at Marshall, she says, "The greatest change is in the grading system. We used to get AA's."

Mrs. Phala McCutcheon of 1220 Sixth street, Huntington, was first enrolled in 1930, but she did not attend school at all between the years 1932-1950. She has been married and has been teaching in Cabell County schools for three years. She is a senior and expects to complete work for her Bachelor of Arts degree in 1956 by doing summer work. She commented on the many various changes in the college.

Mrs. Georgia D. Waldron of Man is attending summer school, and making a home for her nephew and son at 1830 Third avenue, although she had a serious operation in April. She also does her housework on week ends. She was graduated from Man high school and enrolled in Marshall in 1926 with her sister, Rebecca Davis Cook. Both are daughters of Mrs. Myrtle E. Davis, a former teacher. She has taught in Logan county 22 years and substituted in Wayne county five years, attending summer terms and taking all extension work possible.

In 1932 she was married to Rufus J. Waldron, who is employed by the Guyan Eagle Coal Company. They are the parents of two children, Beite and Jackie, students at Man high school. She hopes to send them to Marshall.

MRS. WALDRON, a member of the faculty of the Mallory Grade School, expects to complete work for her A. B. degree in 1955.

She says, "There certainly has been a great change in the college in nearly every respect since I first enrolled. There have been so many changes in the curriculum."

W. B. Reeves, Ashland, Ky., first enrolled in Marshall 27 years ago, and has attended during summer terms.

He is a retired West Virginia teacher, now teaching in Boyd county, Kentucky. He has taught for 39 years, of which 27 have been in Logan county. His wife is a teacher at Summit, Ky.

The couple now live on a farm a few miles out of Ashland. They have a daughter, Eileen Reeves Blackburn of Long Island, New York, who graduated from Marshall College in 1940. She has two children and plans to send them back to Marshall.

Mr. Reeves will complete work for his degree in January 1950. He says that the most noticeable change he can see is that "It has not only grown in buildings, but also in educational fields." He says that "His daughter's credits were not even cut when she went to New York."

Can't Use Peaceful Method

Guatemala Student At Marshall Says Revolt To Be 'Bloodiest'

By LEE RONALD MOORE
Marshall Student Journalist

"It is a shame that such a beautiful country as Guatemala has to be ruined by Communism," Marie Haydee Crespo, Guatemalan Marshall College student, lamented.

Senorita Crespo, a 21-year-old, green eyed girl is attending Marshall to learn to speak English. Having been here only five months she has taken to American customs and speaks English fluently.

"There is no peaceful method our country can use against the infiltration of Communism. Most of the Reds are in the government and the masses are peon workers," she said.

"The collectivist movement began the well worn path by seeping through the ranks of the working class and into the public schools. Most of the lower working group do not know what communism is, but they understand the meaning of a "full belly."

"Business and educated men in my country don't want Communism. They can foresee the dangers and are fighting it tooth and nail.

"My father is a coffee exporter and he owns four houses. The new government says since he can only live in one, the others must be given to them," the Marshall student said.

In her soft voice the young senorita said that the only way to oust Communism is revolution. This rebellion will be the bloodiest in the history of the country.

"Unlike most Latin American

(Con. on Page 4, in Col. 5)

Guatemala

insurrections, which only affect the government officials, this one will invade our homes. My liver turns over when I think of the murdering, robbing, and destruction."

Marie fulfilled her desire to come to America last January. She flew from Guatemala City, her home, to New Orleans, arriving the day of the Sugar Bowl game.

After spending five months in Huntington, Marie feels perfectly at home. "I get a little home sick for my parents but I like it here very much," she said.

Senorita Crespo lives in Barboursville with her cousin, Mrs. Basil E. Steward, who was the former Miss Olga Aguello of Guatemala City. Mrs. Steward is the wife of a sales representative of West Virginia Steel and Manufacturing company.

In February, 1955, Miss Crespo plans to return to her parents in Guatemala.

SURPRISE FOR FATHER: Sunday was a day of surprise gifts for millions of fathers all over the country, but chances are that few fathers had as unexpected or as pleasant a surprise as did Dr. Paul D. Stewart, 412 Norway Avenue, an assistant professor of political science at Marshall College. Dr. and Mrs. Stewart have been awaiting a visit from the stork about this time next month.

Detailed arrangements had been made for the Stewart's other two children to vacation with relatives in North Carolina for the next several weeks, and yesterday Dr. Stewart's brother arrived promptly on schedule to accompany them to the Tarheel state.

But the stork was even more prompt, in fact, an early bird. Rebecca Marie Stewart was born on Father's Day at St. Mary's Hospital.

The other children went on to North Carolina, mother and new daughter are fine, thank you — and Father is almost back down to earth.

Colorado Site Chosen For Air Academy

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Air Force Secretary Talbott today chose Colorado Springs, Colo., as the site of the nation's air academy. He said the site was "admirable for the establishment and development" of the school.

Talbott said the case for Colorado Springs was "the best" presented from among the three possible choices recommended to him by a special board which sifted through hundreds of applications.

The other two sites proposed for the academy were Lake Geneva, Wis., and Alton, Ill.

(See DENVER, Page 35)

Permanent Air Academy Won't Be Ready Till 1957

Denver To House Temporary School

Talbott also said a temporary academy home in Denver will be used to house the first cadet class of 300 which is scheduled to start July 1, 1955. The permanent home at Colorado Springs is not expected to be ready for use until July 1, 1957. Talbott didn't say where in Denver the temporary academy will be located, but the only large Air Force installation there is Lowry Field.

Pentagon speculation as to the choice of the site had been heavily in favor of the Colorado Springs site. It is located near the headquarters of the Air Defense Command and a favorite spot of many Air Force generals.

It was reported that President Eisenhower had a private choice for the home of the academy, but he didn't make it public. However, 60 miles north of the academy site, is Mrs. Eisenhower's home town and the President took a vacation near Denver last year.

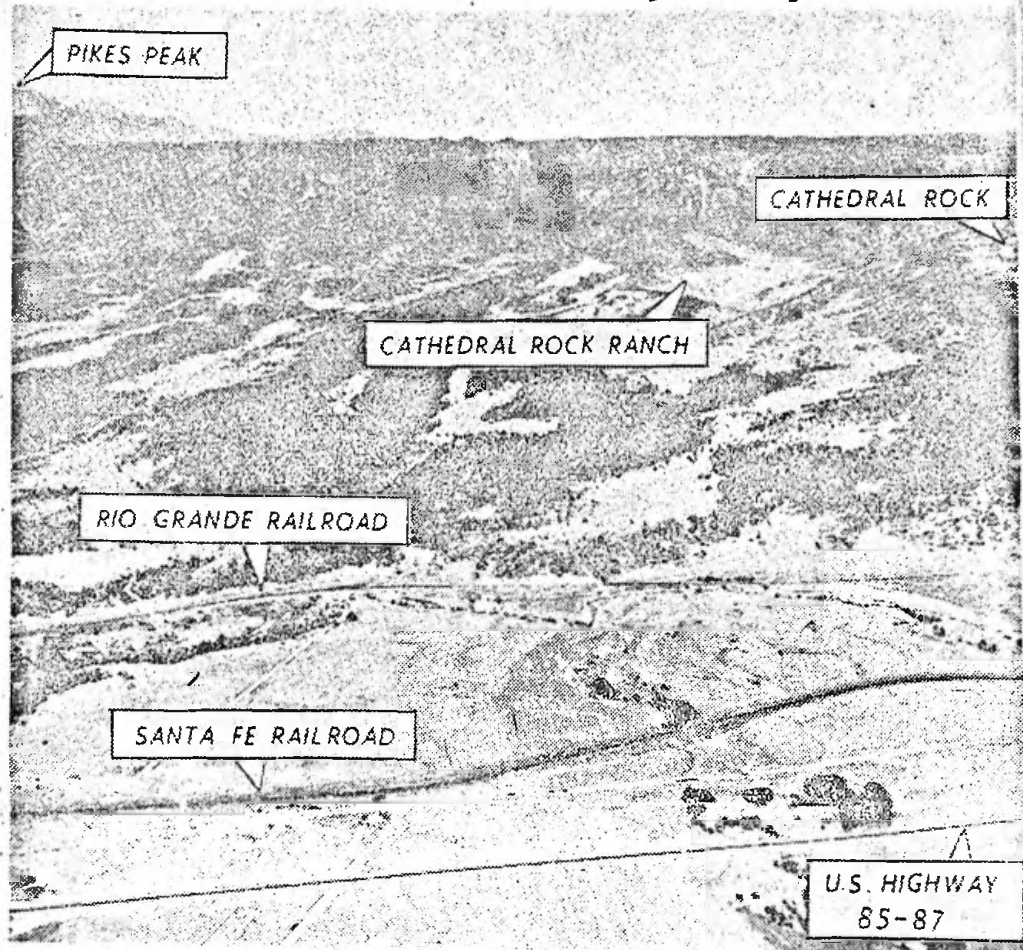

In commenting on the Colorado Springs choice, Talbott described it as "admirable for the establishment and development" of the school.

The site is about 15,000 acres located about six miles north of Colorado Springs.

The land is now mostly privately owned ranch land used for grazing. The altitude of the site varies between 6,400 and 7,500 feet. The climate is semiarid, with cool summers and moderate winters.

The city of Colorado Springs, with a population of some 65,000, is an all season recreation resort and social center. Colorado College is located there. The city has 92 churches, 6 hospitals, 3 airlines, 5 railroads and 9 bus lines.

Although Congress has not appropriated the money, it has authorized an expenditure of 126 million dollars to build the academy—25 million the first year. One million dollars of the money has been set aside to set up a tempo-

Summersville End-Back Will Enter Marshall In September

By GEORGE RORER

6-25-54

An 180-pound, six-foot high school gridder who starred at end and halfback for Nicholas County High at Summersville over the past three years, Eddie Mullens, yesterday became the first athlete of the 1954 class of graduating high schoolers to make known his intention to attend Marshall College this fall, it was announced yesterday by Coach Herb Royer.

Meanwhile, it was announced that 200-pound varsity tackle Jim Sovine would be ineligible to play football next season because of his grades. Sovine, of Hurricane, was one of Marshall's "iron men" of last season, taking over the center position in mid-year after regular center Jerry Snow was injured.

Sovine, according to the athletic department, will not be in school at Marshall next year.

The Summersville athlete who announced his intentions of coming to Marshall, won his share of honors in the New River Valley Conference while in high school.

Mullens was named to the all-conference team in his senior year in both football and basketball, and captured a berth on the all-tournament basketball teams in both the sectional and regional tournaments before the "Grizzlies" were eliminated by state champion Beckley in the regional finals.

Mullens' versatility and speed enabled his high school coach, Howard Mosser, to use him in both the line and backfield. Such a player would have been quite handy to Marshall's 21-man squad of last season.

Coach Royer said that he expected more announcements of new athletes in the near future, since several of the high schoolers are in the "shopping" stage now, and will not make their decisions until later in the summer.

A hefty freshman squad last season gave Marshall a better outlook — at least in strength of numbers — for next season than it has had for several years. Around 60 players who will be eligible for varsity competition worked out in spring training. Freshmen are ineligible for varsity competition at Marshall under a Mid-American Conference and NCAA rule.

Mullens, the two-sport star at Summersville, was also a leader in other fields at Nicholas County High. Besides maintaining an "88" average in his classes, he was president of his class in his junior and senior years. He attended Boys' State, was vice-president of the National Honor Society at Summersville, and was president of the Varsity N Club.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Silmon Mullens of Calvin, W. Va.

Teacher Works In School She Attended 46 Years Ago

By ELIZABETH MEADOWS WATTERSON
Marshall College Student Journalist

Mrs. Virginia Watterson Black, Marshall College summer student, teaches in a Mason county one-room school she attended as a child 46 years ago.

Virginia was born December 4, 1900, at Apple Grove, Mason County, and was reared by grandparents.

Her only early education was received at Watterson grade school, which is located on ground donated by her great-great uncle, Adam Watterson in 1885.

After Virginia received her eighth grade diploma in 1914, she was privately tutored by Miss Minnie Cobb, the sister of her best girl friend, Garnet Cobb. In 1916, Virginia and Garnet packed their clothes and planned to come to Huntington to go to school—high school or college, whichever was required, but Virginia's grandfather, William Carter, would not permit her to leave home, because of his fear that she would "get physically hurt, or possibly marry," so Garnet came to Huntington, and Virginia stayed at home.

APPARENTLY to her family and friends, that was the end of her education, because she married Harry Black, a dairyman, in 1921. In June 1923, a son, Warren, was born, and in January 1929, a daughter, Sonora, was born.

During that time Virginia kept house, but she still wanted more education. According to her son Warren, "No matter how much work Mom had to do, she found time for her book one hour each day."

In October 1949, Virginia's big chance came. She took the General Education Test at Marshall College, and the following February enrolled in a night course of music.

According to Virginia, the school has been greatly improved since she attended.

SHE SAYS, "When I went to school, there were at least 45 students, and three of us crammed together in an old wobbly seat, but now there are the nicest chairs with one arm desks, and just one student to each, with only about 23 in the entire room.

"When I went to Watterson, there was another building, a white frame like the present one. It burned in 1925; they built the new one about a hundred yards away.

"All the windows are on one side of the new school, while they were all over the old building.

"OF COURSE, the greatest improvement in the lighting system is the electricity; that was added about 10 years ago.

"The first Watterson school was just one room, but now there are two cloak rooms, the class-room, and a small hall which contains the water pitcher-pump. When I went there, we had to carry our water up a hill.

"In those days, we had shelves in the back of the room for our lunch-pails, and nails underneath for hanging coats.

"A BURNSIDE stove in the center of the room furnished heat 45 years ago, but now, although it's still a burnside stove, it has a jacket which helps distribute the heat more evenly, and it stands in the corner of the room.

"At the time I attended, in the winter we had to wade snow and slush knee deep, and in the summer, dust ankle deep because the road wasn't paved. The school is four miles from the main highway at Mercer's Bottom. Now there's an asphalt road by the school through to Pliny.

"The curriculum has been greatly improved since I went to school, especially in the last two or three years.

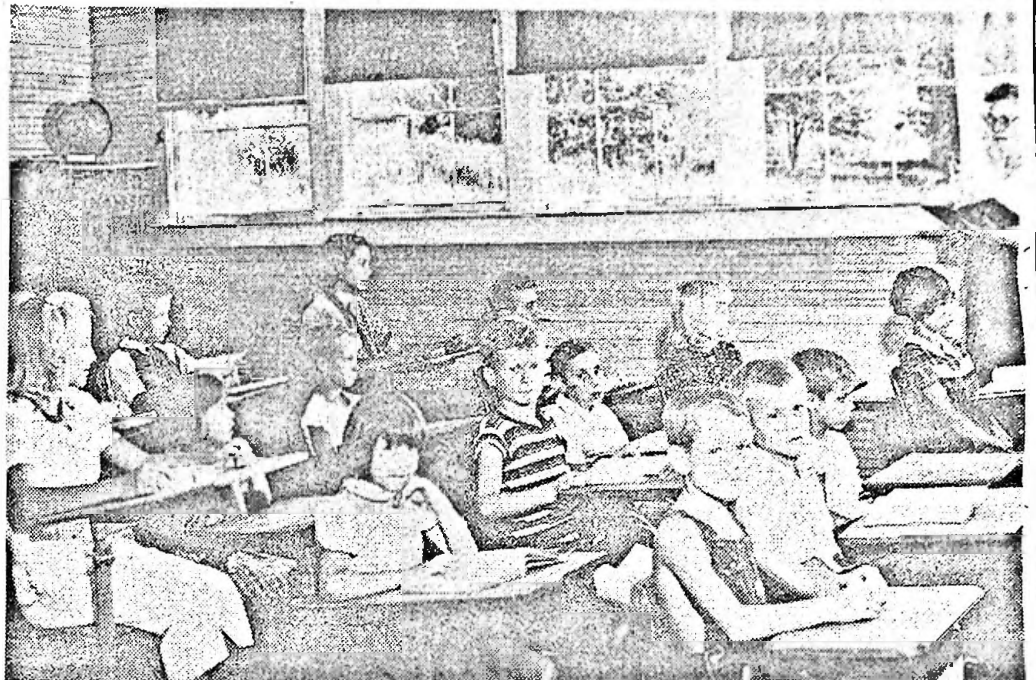

WHEN ASKED what subjects she teaches, she replied, "I teach all subjects required, and I try to teach them daily."

Virginia loves teaching, but if given her choice, she prefers teaching junior high students, or intermediate grades. Of these students, she says, "They are older, and more interested, and it is educational to me, also. We all get a thrill out of our lessons."

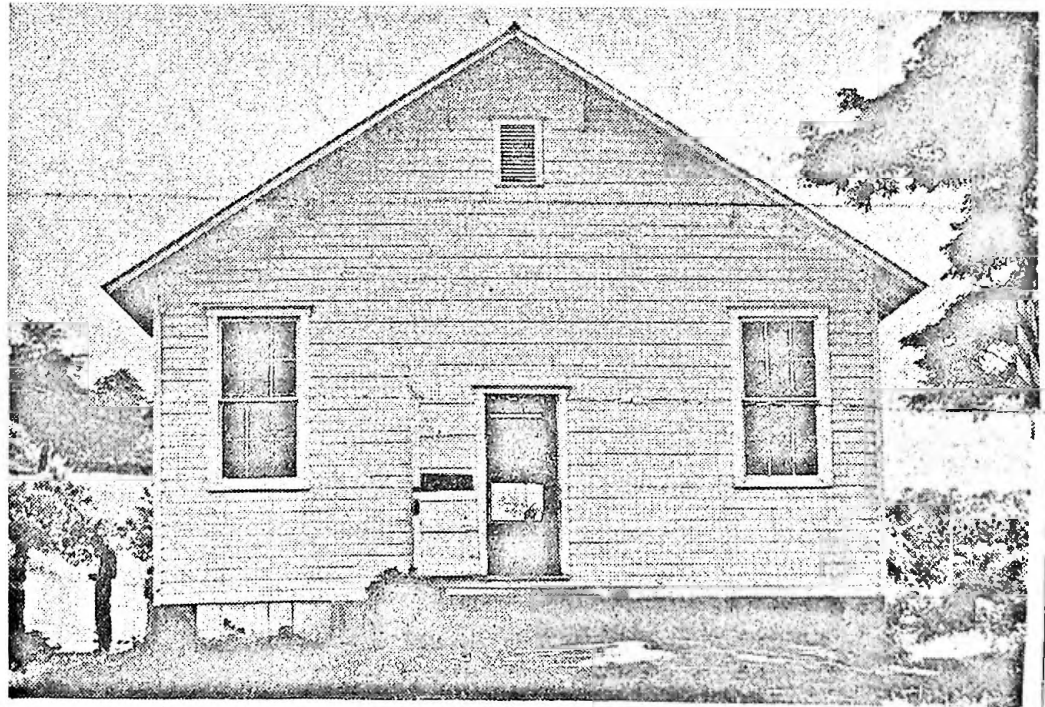

The latter six months of last year, Virginia taught, cooked the hot lunch for her students, did the janitor-work at school, kept house, and carried 8 hours at Marshall.

She is a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church here, where she has been a pianist and taught Sabbath School.

She is enrolled in the College of Education, and has earned fifty-five hours toward her A. B. degree.

MRS. VIRGINIA WATTERSON Black is shown teaching in the schoolroom near Apple Grove, W. Va., where she was a pupil 46 years ago. Below is an exterior view of the school. Pupils shown are Donald Thomas, William Stover, Wayne Meadows, Della Hughes, Ann Litchfield, Randall Litchfield, Ivan Benson, Joan Stover, Lora Stover, Bernie Hughes, Charles Otho Meadows, John Harold Carpenter, Edna Thomas, Clyde Thomas, Bobby Stover, Audrey Hughes. Boards Told Schools Need 'Team' At Top School superintendents and school board members must see each other as members of the same team trying to give the children of the community the best education possible, Dr. Neal Gross, director of school executive studies at Harvard University, told a meeting of school board members here last night.

The West Virginia School Board Association began last night on the Marshall College campus a meeting which will continue through today. Ross Tuckwiller of Lewisburg, of the West Virginia Board of Education, presided at last night's meeting.

Dr. Gross spoke on techniques of strengthening superintendent-school board relationships.

The educator said problems could be eliminated if school superintendents and board members would hammer out "ground rules" regarding their relationships on major problems.

He asked school board members to recognize the professional standards which have developed in school administration.

Dr. Gross said neither school superintendents nor board members received proper recognition for their service to the community.

The speaker said that where superintendents and school boards were unable to work together, confusion, dissatisfaction and frustration developed in the school system.

Discussion sessions will be held throughout this morning and the meeting will end with a luncheon. Speakers will include Paul Swope, director of transportation for the State Department of Education; Mrs. C. D. Ellifritz of Elkins, a past president of the West Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers, and State Attorney General John Fox of Charleston.

THREE MARSHALL COLLEGE faculty members are now listed in the American selective biographical reference, Who's Who in the East. The three men are John Frank Bartlett, dean of the College of Arts and Science, Conley Hall Dillon, professor of political science, and Stewart Harold Smith, president of Marshall College. Dean Bartlett gained recognition in chemistry and college administration. He came to Marshall as an instructor in chemistry in 1932, was made professor in 1938 and became dean of the College of Arts and Science in 1945 and has held that position since then. Professor Dillon received recognition as an author, organizer, and teacher. He came to Marshall in 1934 as an instructor in political science. He was made a professor in 1941. Dr. Dillon is co-author with T. C. Donnelly of The Government of West Virginia, which was completed in 1937, and is the author of Government Labor in Action, published in 1951. President Smith is distinguished by the Who's Who as an instructor and college administrator. He came to Marshall in 1945 as associate dean and became the acting president in 1946. He became the official president in 1947 and has held that capacity since then.

FACTS ABOUT THE MARSHALL COLLEGE INFORMATION SERVICE:

News releases go daily to two local daily newspapers and their Sunday edition, two wire services, four local radio stations, one television station and The Parthenon.

Stories of regional interest go regularly to 57 newspapers in West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Stories of wider interest in West Virginia go to 70 newspapers in West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Stories of national interest go to three wire services and to key metropolitan newspapers throughout the country.

Many stories are specially written for educational, professional, industrial, institutional or organizational publications of the state or nation.

Hometown stories about Marshall students have been sent to about 175 newspapers in about 15 states. Many of these have been accompanied by pictures taken by the Information Service photographer. (199)

Pictures of sufficient news interest have been sent out to newspapers for use with only explanatory cutlines.

The Marshall College Information Service has worked hand-in-hand with the Department of Journalism in distributing stories written by Marshall student journalists. These stories get local, state or national distribution, depending upon their news value.

Spot announcements have been prepared by the Information Service staff and distributed to local radio and television stations to promote interest in public programs on the campus. The stations have readily cooperated in using these announcements.

A permanent file is kept on material distributed through the Marshall College Information Service. That file for the first ten months of the Service's operation is more than 2400 pages long.

Plans for improving the program of the Information Service for the 1954-55 term include:

1---The use of more stories about faculty members--their research projects, their speeches before various groups, their civic activities in general.

2---More extensive publicity campaigns before every conference, convention or public performance on the campus. This will involve educating campus groups on what kind of stories and pictures can be used in connection with such events.

3---Expansion of the state, regional and hometown news program. 20

NOTE TO EDITOR:

The Marshall College Information Service will not operate its regular messenger service between July 1 and 9 and will turn out very little news in written form during that period. We shall endeavor, however, to keep you posted on campus events and to help you get any information you wish. We shall cooperate fully with your reporters who come to the campus or call.

The Information Service will be closed completely from July 10 to September 1. During that time you may want to maintain direct contact with college administrative offices.

We hope to be back September 1 to bring you a better news service for another nine months.

Thanks for your cooperation in the last ten months.

(First Place Winner---1)

Jo Ann Herring, columnist and woman's page editor of the Herald-Dispatch and 1950 journalism graduate of Marshall College, won first place in the West Virginia Associated Press news writing contest for her series of feature stories on the West Virginia State Prison for Women at Pence Springs.

The series was published in the Charleston Daily Mail on which she was employed as women's feature writer and columnist before coming to Huntington last September. The stories won Mrs. Herring a bronze plaque, first place award ~~xxxxxx~~ in the category, "Public Service Features in Series Form."

She was the only woman to receive a first place award for 1953.

Mrs. Herring is the wife of James H. Herring, director of the Marshall College Information Service and instructor in journalism. She is vice chairman of the Newcomer's Group of the Faculty Wives Club.

While at Marshall she was feature editor of the Parthenon and was recognized by the Fourth Estate, women's journalism honorary, for writing "the best feature of the year."

Mrs. Herring was a speaker at the 20th annual congress of the United High School Press of West Virginia at Marshall last spring.

HUNTINGTON---(Special)---Virginia Watterson Black of Apple Grove, Marshall College summer student, teaches in the same one-room school where she first went to school 46 years ago.

Mrs. Black was born December 4, 1900 and reared by grandparents at Apple Grove. She attended Watterson Grade School and received her diploma at the one-room school in 1913.

Miss Minnie Cobb then privately tutored Mrs. Black for a year. To her family and friends that apparently was the end of her education, because she was getting married in 1921 to Harry Black.

In June, 1923, a son, Warren, was born and in January 1929, a daughter, Sonora, was born. During this time Mrs. Black kept house but she still wanted more education. According to son Warren, "No matter how much work Mom had to do, she found time for her book one hour each day."

Then in October 1949 (she was 46 years old) her big chance came. She took the general education test at Marshall College and the following February she enrolled for a night course, music, and has been coming intermittently since.

She has taught four years in one-room grade schools, with the last three years spent at Watterson.

Mrs. Black likes teaching but if she could have her choice, she would prefer teaching junior high students or fifth through eighth graders. Of those students she says, "They are older and more interested, and it is educational to me also. We all get a thrill out of our lessons."

She also teaches a Sunday School Class at the Seventh Day Adventist Church here in Huntington where she is a ~~member~~ member.

The last six months of last year Mrs. Black taught, cooked the hot lunch for her students, did ~~janitor~~ janitorial work at school, kept house, and carried eight hours of night classes at Marshall College.

Today Mrs. Black has 55 semester hours and expects to continue toward a bachelor of arts degree.

No. Carolinian Will Assume Post As Marshall Religious Counselor

Lander L. Beal, a native of North Carolina and a member of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church, has been appointed student religious counselor at Marshall College, it was announced today by President Stewart H. Smith.

Mr. Beal succeeds the Rev. John S. Sargener who resigned the post at the end of the second semester of the 1953-54 college year and has moved to St. Louis.

At the present time Mr. Beal is serving a student appointment in the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church.

He will assume his duties here September 1.

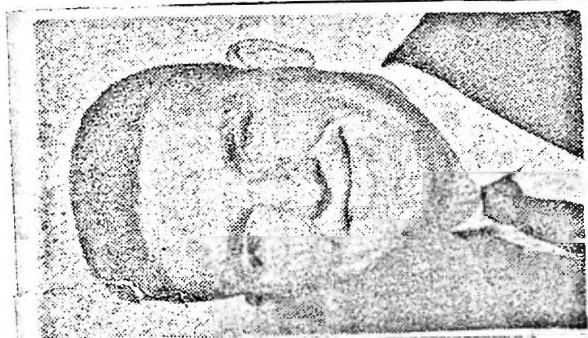

Mr. Beal received his Bachelor of Arts degree in history from High Point College after attending Duke University for one and a half years. He will be awarded his Bachelor of Divinity degree next month by the Chandler School of Theology of Emory University. At the Chandler School he has devoted much time to the study of courses which would help prepare him for a position as student religious counselor.

These have included: Church and youth, group work, religion and higher education, church and community, Christian worship, client centered counseling and philosophy of worship.

During his first 18 months at Emory, Mr. Beal was employed as assistant athletic director at the Atlanta Boys' Club. He has also worked under the Rev. John H. Carper at Bradley Memorial Methodist Church, Gastonia, N. C. as assistant pastor and director of youth work for the past two summers.

Mr. Beal is 26 years old and single.

The program of student religious counseling at Marshall is supported by churches in the city. The counselor's salary is paid by those churches.

Lander L. Beal, above, a member of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church, will assume his duties September 1 as student religious counselor at Marshall College.

3 Douglass Boys 'Like' Marshall

By FRED BURNS

(Herald-Dispatch Sports Editor)

The recent Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregation in public schools is going to make it a little rough on some of the Negro colleges . . . they're going to lose some of their top flight athletic material.

It is no secret that college coaches did a little scouting in anticipation of just such a court ruling. When it came they were well on their way toward selling their respective schools to some of the topflight high school Negro graduates.

It is definitely a probability that there will be at least one and maybe several Negro boys on the Marshall College football and basketball squads during the 1954-55 school season.

Football Coach Herb Royer or Basketball Coach Cam Henderson will not give you any information about any of the boys they have in mind but they have been looking and talking.

It wouldn't be fair to Marshall to reveal names but we have learned that at least three former star basketball and football players at Douglass high school have made some investigation about attending Marshall this coming Fall. One basketball player, who finished at Douglass two years ago, already has his application to fill out and two others who graduated this past Spring expressed a desire to attend Marshall. The latter two were football stars but also played basketball.

Coach Royer did admit that he is interested in three or four other Negro high school athletes in another section of West Virginia and is going to pay them a visit soon.

Royer recently returned from a coaching school at Illinois and while there saw J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates in action. "They also have a sophomore named Woodson and can he run. All three of those boys are fast and if I could just get two or three Negro boys who could run that fast, we certainly could use them."

Negroes have attended the Marshall graduate school the past couple of years but of course they were not eligible for athletics. This Fall will be the first time in history that Negroes will be eligible.

However, Marshall teams have played against Negroes who were members of the opposing teams many times. During the Buckeye Conference days and this past season in Mid-American Conference competition such teams as Miami, Ohio University, Toledo, in fact all other conference members, had Negro members on their squads.

Just two months remain before Coach Royer gets down to real work with his football squad. The official date to start practice under conference rules is September 1 but Royer plans to call his squad in a day or two early for the purpose of physical examinations, picture taking and fitting of uniforms.

376 Earn College Honor Rating; Straight-A Averages Made By 16

Singer Sumac, Indian Dancers To Appear

YMA SUMAC, PERUVIAN SINGER, will appear in Huntington with her company of 20 South American dancers and musicians on February 14 on the Marshall College Artists series.

Peruvian singer Yma Sumac and her company of 20 Andean dancers and musicians will appear in Huntington on February 14 at the Keith Albee theater on the Marshall College Artist series, Curtls Baxter, manager of the series, announced yesterday.

The program of South American artists replaces the Paul Gregory production originally announced. The only Gregory production scheduled for touring next season, Baxter has been informed, will be a national company of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," seen here in its original production last fall.

Miss Sumac, whose five octave voice ranges from a deep contralto to a bell-like coloratura, returns to this country after a successful tour of leading American cities last season. Her remarkable singing style has been acclaimed in many European and South American capitals. A direct descendant of an Inca King, the fragily beautiful singer is known to the Peruvians as the "Daughter of the Sun." She was discovered at the age of 14 when singing praises to the dawn in a sun worshiping ceremony high in the Andies Mountains. Moises Vivanco, an authority on Inca music, discovered her and later became her husband.

Miss Sumac is currently featured in a motion picture, "Secret of the Incas," which opens at a Huntington theater on Friday. The artists series for next season includes the Tamburitizans with Jean Madeira, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera; Luboshutz and Nemenoff, duo pianists; London's Festival Ballet; The Philadelphia Orchestra, and Victor Herbert Festival.

SENIORS TO GIVE RECITAL

MISS ANNA RUTH PERRY, a vocalist, will be presented in a senior recital at Marshall College Wednesday. Her accompanist will be Miss Donita Bentley. (Staff Photo)

Three seniors in the Marshall College Music department, Miss Anna Ruth Perry, Joseph B. Stanley, and Thomas McGlone, will be presented in recital Wednesday at 8:15 P. M. in the college auditorium, Dr. Lawrence Kingsbury, head of the music department, announced.

Miss Perry, a vocalist, is a student of John W. Creighton, and will be graduated from Marshall this spring with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Public School Music.

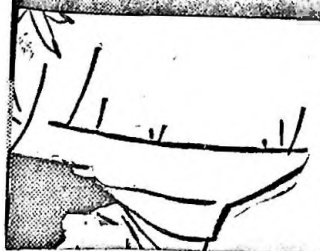

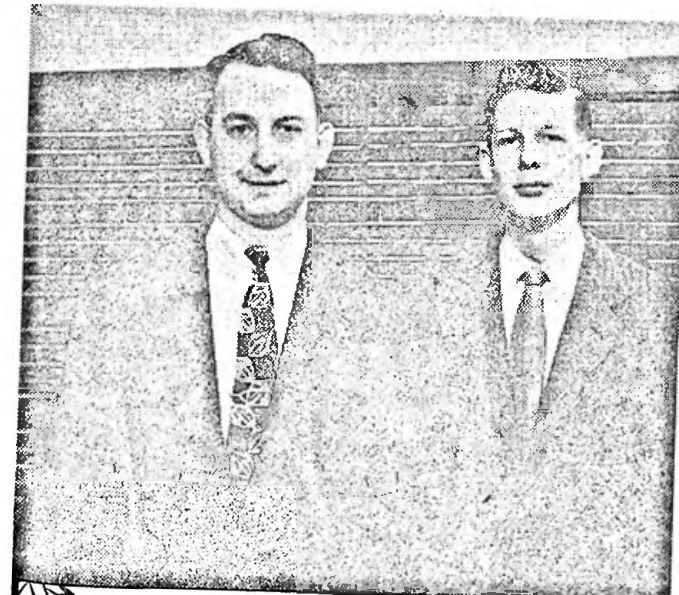

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milas B. Perry of Logan, and is a member of the Huntington Junior Music club, Artists Series Board of Marshall College, Symphonic Choir, Music Educators National Conference, and Delta Omicron, national professional music fraternity.

MISS PERRY's accompanist will be Miss Donita Bentley, Huntington sophomore.

Mr. Stanley, a pianist, is a student of Mrs. Lavelle Jones. He formerly studied with Mr. and Mrs. Jack V. Tait at Shenandoah Conservatory, Dayton, Va., and at Cincinnati Conservatory. Before going to the Conservatory, he studied locally with Miss Ethel Merrill and Mrs. Ruth Cook Jones.

Mr. Stanley is a former teacher at Enslow Junior high school, and while serving with the Army, he was chaplain's assistant for 15 months, during which time he served as organist and choir director. He will be graduated from Marshall this spring with a Bachelor of Arts degree in public school music.

Mr. McGlone is a trombonist, and a student of Wilbur Pursley. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGlone of 1312 B street.

McKray for its alleged failure to make personnel shifts in the Indian bureau.
He said: "I can't understand what's going on."
While Rizley promised personnel changes in the Agriculture Department, he denied sections of some Republicans that holdovers had an important shift of personnel in his own department in the coming government year.

Rizley said he believes the administration "is more alert to this problem now than it was during its first year."
But he added: "There's doubt about it. Congressmen are clamoring for more Republican in every department of the government."
The assistant secretary predicted there will be a greater shift of personnel in his own department in the coming government year.

Orchestra Plays Here Tomorrow

The New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra will be in Huntington tomorrow on the first stop of its two-weeks southern tour, the first major trip of the world famous musical organization since its voyage overseas in 1951 to appear by special invitation at the Edinburgh Festival.

The orchestra will appear in Huntington at 8:30 P. M. at the Keith - Albee Theatre under auspices of the Marshall College Artists Series.

You'll be thrilled, too, at how much more popular you are when your dancing is up to date.

DIMITRI MITROPOULOS, distinguished musical director of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, will be in Huntington with the famed orchestra tomorrow for the concluding concert of the 1953-54 Marshall College Artists Series. The orchestra will make its first stop here on its two-weeks southern tour, first major trip of the musical organization since 1951 when it went overseas to appear by special invitation at the Edinburgh Festival. The concert will begin promptly at 8:30 P. M. at the Keith-Albee Theatre. The appearance of the orchestra, oldest in America, here has been heralded as an outstanding event in Huntington's musical history.

Michigan State Shuts Out Marshall Tennis Team, 9-0

The Marshall College tennis team suffered a 9-0 defeat at the hands of Michigan State yesterday in the Big Green's 1954 net inaugural on the campus courts.

But, Coach Lanny Brisbin shrugged off the loss with the reminder that the Spartans won the '51 Big Ten championship and were runners-up to Indiana last season — accomplishments worthy enough to make MSC a recognized collegiate tennis power.

Marshall's next match isn't until April 22 when it plays Cincinnati captained by National Singles champion and Davis Cup ace Tony Trabert in Cincinnati. However, Brisbin has three tentative matches lined up between now and April 22 and hopes to have an announcement on them ready sometime this week.

CONSIDERING the caliber of opposition, the Big Green netters managed to put up some interesting battles. The hardest fought singles match developed between Arnie Hoffman of MSC and Marshall's Dave Howgate with Hoffman finally prevailing, 6-2, 6-3.

Walt Walowac, Marshall's All-American basketball star, filled a vacancy on the Marshall team in the absence of Bob and Bill Bias. Walt, with only one day of tennis practice, lost to Dick Menzel, 6-0, 6-1. Walowac is currently practicing with the Big Green baseball team and his appearance with the tennis squad makes him one of Marshall's few four-sports men. The results:

SINGLES: Captain Jim Pore, MSC, defeated Lynn Buskirk, 6-1, 6-2; Dave Brogan, MSC, defeated Bob Bradley, 6-1, 6-2; Dick Menzel, MSC, defeated Walt Walowac, 6-0, 6-1; Arnie Hoffman, MSC, defeated Dave Howgate, 6-2, 6-3; Dana Squire, MSC, defeated Don Dooley, 6-1, 6-0; John Brogan, MSC, defeated Larry Hite, 6-0, 6-2.

DOUBLES: Pore - Menzel defeated Buskirk-Howgate, 6-0 6-2; Britton - Squire defeated Bradley-Walowac, 6-1, 6-1; Brogan-Brogan defeated Dooley-Hite, 6-0, 6-3.

457 Classes Listed For Summer

The Marshall College 1954 summer school schedule, with 457 classes, is ready for distribution at the office of Luther E. Bledsoe, Marshall registrar and director of admissions.

The 26-page publication is available to prospective summer school students. Copies may be obtained either by coming to Bledsoe's office, room 105, Old Main, or by requesting that a copy be mailed.

Summer classes will be offered in two terms of six weeks each. The first will begin with registration Tuesday, June 1, from 8 A. M. to 4 P. M. Registration for the second term has been set for Monday, July 12, at the same hours.

BLED SOE urged persons planning to attend summer school to take advantage of opportunities to register in advance.

Advance registration machinery will be in operation April 26-30 and May 17-21 from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. and May 1, 8, 15, and 22 from 8:30 to 11:30 A. M.

Each person should report at room 105, Old Main, to begin the enrollment procedure.

Marshall offers each person a maximum of 12 semester hours of undergraduate or graduate work during the summer.

Special features of the 1954 summer session include new graduate programs for teachers in business administration, home economics, music education and physical science, and workshops in these subjects: Alcohol education; audio-visual aids; conservation of soil, forests and wildlife; the critic teacher; economic education; flower arrangement; music education, and the United Nations.

Summer school classes are available this year in these fields:

Art, Bible and religion, biological science, botany, business administration, chemistry, economics, education, engineering, English, French, geography, geology, history, home economics, home economics education, journalism, library science, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, science, safety education, science education, social studies, sociology, Spanish, speech, and zoology.

Baccalaureate For Marshall This Morning

Baccalaureate services will be held in the Keith-Albee Theatre at 10:45 A. M. today for the 281 who are to receive degrees at Marshall College's 117th commencement exercises tomorrow.

Dr. Floyd Faust, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church in Columbus, O., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, and will use as his subject, "The Next Step In History." Professor Louis Brown Jennings of the Marshall College faculty will give the invocation and benediction, and music will include Gounod's "March Pontificale" as the processional, "O God, We Pray" by Arensky as the call to worship, the anthem, "O, Magnum Mysterium" by Gabrielli-Lynn, the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," and Herbert's "Festival March" as the recessional.

Dr. Faust, who has held the Broad street Christian church pastorate since 1929, has been active in all phases of civic and religious life in his city and state, has served on numerous agency boards and advisory commissions, and for several years was president of the Columbus Council of Churches.

He has given considerable personal counseling, and is recognized.

Big Green Grid Tickets Go On Sale Thursday

Tickets for Marshall College's five home games next fall go on sale Thursday at the campus athletic office, it was announced today.

The Big Green's home opponents this year are Morehead State, Western Michigan, Morris Harvey, Kent State and Toledo in that order.

A season-ticket discount plan is being introduced this year, the athletic office added. The west side center section at Fairfield Stadium will be sold to season purchasers for eight dollars for the five home games—a savings of two dollars.

OLD BEECH

Old Beech Loses Limbs But Hangs On To Campus Life

By JUDITH CARTER

Marshall Student Journalist

The Old Beech Tree, landmark on the Marshall College campus, suffered the loss of another of its lofty branches during recent spring storms. To the many alumni working on the campus it was—like losing an old friend to see that branch on the ground. Comments were all along the same trend—“Poor old tree, I hate to see it going to pieces like that.” “It just won’t be Marshall campus without the Old Beech.”

After hearing such comments, the younger students began to inquire into the Old Beech Tree that stands in front of Marshall’s oldest building. On its bark there are many initials, dates, and markings, some of which have been cut in it many years ago as they are high in the branches now. Back before the days of the Student Union this was THE spot on the campus and everyone used it for a meeting place.

Back in the late 20’s and early 30’s there was an organization on campus called Phi Beters, a group composed of the outstanding men students. Each week before assembly (convocation now) they would gather under the old tree and have a very silent gathering. What went on the outsiders never knew, but there they were in their bathrobes and derby hats.

If a coed were to meet her best boy friend after class it was understood that he would be waiting for her under the old tree. College Hall girls and their dates always had to take a last walk around the tree before checking in at nights (Laidley was not built in those days).

Since this old tree has meant so much to the alumni in the past all of us had better take time out and go have a look at the Queenly old lady as she once again prepares to bloom forth to welcome spring on Marshall campus.

Busy Students Get Most Done, And 'A' Average

By TED FERRELL
Marshall Student Journalist

There may be no Einsteins at Marshall College, but 16 students did an Einstein job in making straight A (4.0 point averages) last semester. All these scholars either did outside work or took part in extra-curricular activities while they "burned the books."

The five others are Peggy Lou Trail, junior of Cabin Creek, W. Va.; Doris Lee Connor, junior from Moundsville, W. Va.; Mary Jane Frye, January graduate from Oak Hill, W. Va.; Ralph Roulette, sophomore from Kingston, Kentucky; and Dana Beard Brammer, senior of North Kenova, Ohio. Jane Hall, a part-time student of Huntington also made a 4.0.

TEN OF THE outstanding students are majors in Arts and Science College and six are Teachers College students. Their fields of interest include majors in education, pre-medicine, pre-law, business administration, engineering, and chemistry.

Jim York, who made his fourth 4.0 average last semester, has an overall 3.98 average and will graduate summa cum laude. Jim has been active in athletics, student government, and religious and interest activities at the College. He is president of Omicron Delta Kappa, the men's leadership fraternity; he is also president of Phi Eta Sigma, the freshman scholastic fraternity. Jim is winner of the Kootz Scholarship and has been a student Senator and is Chief Justice of the Student Court.

BERT McCORMICK, who carried a twenty-hour schedule in addition to his student pastorate at the Milton Presbyterian Church, has an overall 3.6 average. The twenty-two year old senior is vice-president of the Student Government and Omicron Delta Kappa. He is also an outpost worker for the Presbyterian Church at Gill, West Virginia. He was selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and has been president of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary for freshmen. Bert is a veteran baseball letterman and a member of Kappa Delta Chi, honorary religious fraternity. Bert is a major in engineering.

In making her fourth 4.0 average in two and a half years at the College, Sharon Madsen has settled on a history and political science major. She has begun majors in zoology, chemistry, and psychology. Sharon is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, scholastic honorary for freshmen women. She is studying voice and piano downtown, in addition to her full time college schedule.

Freshman Jim Davis has made all A's during his two semesters on the campus. He is following the example of his father, Dr. Leslie Davis of Marshall's geography department, by majoring in geography. Jim came to Marshall out of the upper 15 per cent of his senior class at Huntington High School last year. He is on the Chief Justice staff at the College and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity. He expects to pledge the freshman scholastic honorary this semester.

JOHN AND BILL Sheils, freshmen twins majoring in pre-medicine, are described by their mother as "identical in everything they do." Both were salutatorians at Huntington East High School last Spring. Both were participants in the All-State Band and All-State Orchestra. Both were members of the Torch and Latin Clubs in high school. Together they are building a 3-D adaptor for their movie camera and projector. Their joint hobby is movie photography.

Ray Hagley is learning anatomy pretty well in his pre-medicine major, as indicated by his first semester's grades. Ray came to Marshall from Huntington East High School where he was class honorarian. He was a member of the Varsity H and Science Clubs. Hagley has pledged the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity on the Marshall Campus.

Mildred Stone is learning the proper things to eat in her dietetics major. Tilda's first 4.0 average brought her overall school average up to a 3.69. Tilda has participated in social, dramatic, and religious activities. She is a member of the Tri Sigma Sorority, Student Christian Association, Women's Athletic Association, Westminster Fellowship, and College Theater.

PEGGY LOU TRAIL "plans to be a private secretary in the Charleston area" after her graduation next year. She is attending college on a West Virginia Steel Scholarship and has kept a 3.89 overall average. The eighteen year old scholar is a graduate of East Bank High School where she was president of the Student Body and editor of the school paper. She is president of Alpha Lambda Delta, women's scholastic honorary for freshmen, and a member of the Sigma Sigma Sorority.

Dana Beard Brammer has made a 4.0 average six out of his seven semesters at Marshall. He has an overall 3.98 average and will graduate summa cum laude this spring. He was valedictorian of his high school class in North Kenova, Ohio, where he belonged to the High-Y and the National Honor Society. Here he is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary.

Doris Lee Connor was valedictorian of Moundsville High School in 1951. She has maintained an overall 3.89 average during her two and a half years at Marshall. She was editor of her high school paper, a member of the national Honor Society, a member of the Thespians, a member of Masque and Gavel, and a participant in the Glee Club. At Marshall she is in Alpha Lambda Delta; Phi Alpha Theta, national history fraternity; Kappa Delta Pi, education fraternity, and the Student Christian Association.

MARY JANE FRYE closed her college career with a flourish as she graduated in January. Mary Jane is teaching school now in West Jefferson, O. Her four point average last semester closed out her overall average at 3.5. The Oak Hill graduate was a member of Epsilon and president of Kappa Delta Pi, the national education fraternity, in 1953.
