He was a school teacher.

The grandparents of Rev. Thos. Hawkins were Elyah and Margaret Cope Hawkins, of Culpeper County, Virginia. They were of Dutch and Irish descent.

Rev. Thomas Hawkins moved to Nicholas County, Va., now West Virginia, and his daughter Mary was born there. Later, he came to Dry Creek, a ($1\frac{1}{2}$ mi.) short distance below Mellou. He was a farmer, a wheelwright (maker of wagons and buggies), teacher, and preacher. He taught in Nicholas, Kanawha, and Cabell counties. He lived about a quarter mile up the creek, from the turnpike.

Mrs. Mary Moore said she went to school three months, in the year, in the winter, at Malcolm Springs, for several years. The teachers were Charles Hall, I. B. Summers. Lizzie Prendergast. She also attended the Newman School to her father, who was farmer, wheelwright, teacher, and preacher. He taught in Nicholas, Kanawha, and in Cabell County.

She did not remember seeing wild pigeons, and never saw but one deer, ^{on Dry Creek} in Cabell County. She had heard her father talk much about wild game in Nicholas County. Her sister Margaret was once followed by a bear, near their home, in Nicholas County. Father went for his gun, but squirrels were barking, and he knew the bear was gone. He once killed three deers.

Panthers screamed like a woman. Her father was pastor, at Mud River Church several years, and at Mt. Zion, Mason County, about 25 yrs. and at a church on Sleepy Creek.

In his early years. he preached at Cobbs Creek, on Coal River. Then at Mr. Morrah on Mud River, and on Turkey Creek, I have a picture of him and my mother after she was old. He was born in Virginia. He and mother were play-mates. He went to Tennessee after he was grown, but came back and married.
