3-14-2013

The Parthenon, March 14, 2013

John Gibb
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Tyler Kes
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon/200

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the University Archives at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Parthenon by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu.
EJ Hassain wins SGA presidential race

Candidate
- Hassan/Lyons: 565 votes (42.1%)
- Ramsey/Stiles: 527 votes (39.3%)
- Retur/Murphy: 247 votes (18.4%)

Total Votes: 1,339

By JOSIE LANDGRAVE

A graduate teaching assistant in the psychology department at Marshall University was arrested Wednesday for two counts of felony possession of child pornography.

Jacob Wolfe, 28, was taken into custody inside his campus dormitory at 11:09 a.m.

The investigation against Wolfe began in July 2012, and the West Virginia Cyber Crimes Task Force, West Virginia State Police, Huntington Police and the West Virginia State Police Crimes Against Children Unit, served Wolfe with a search warrant to search his computer and hard drives.

According to a police report obtained through the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children.

By KIMBERLY SMITH

EJ Hassain wins SGA presidential race

By MARLA NOWLIN

Chi Alpha Lets Love Lead with Swing Dance Night

By JOHN GIBB

HABEMUS PAPAM

EF D-feature

NEWS, 2 | SPORTS, 3 | OPINION, 4 | LIFE, 6 | HIGH 46° | LOW 34°

254511

BCC CAFE INC, SOUTHERN X-POSUR
World leaders welcome election of first Latin American pope

By VERONICA SARDO in ARGENTINA

Archbishop Jorge Mario Bergoglio, 76, a quiet intellectual, was chosen as the new pope yesterday by cardinals from around the world, becoming the first pope from America on Wednesday.

Pope Francis, as he chose to be called, was elected on the second day of a conclave of 115 cardinals. He is the first Jesuit pope.

Bergoglio has the pastoral experience and is known for being humble. Bergoglio was born in the Floridablanca neighborhood of Buenos Aires, Argentina. His parents were Italian immigrants. Bergoglio has a brother, two sisters, and 9 nieces and nephews.

Cardinal Jorge Bergoglio was ordained to the priesthood in 1959, and was named a bishop in 1969. Bergoglio was named archbishop of Buenos Aires in 1998, and in 2001, Bergoglio was engaged in a tribute to the library of the archdiocese of Buenos Aires.

In 2010, he became ordained in a priest and became bishop of Buenos Aires in 1998, and in 2010 he was named a cardinal by Pope John Paul II.

Bergoglio was selected second in the race to lead the elec- tion of Benedict XVI in 2005. In that election he was among the favorites for the top of the ticket as well as regarded as a outsider, due to his age and his relatively delicate health.

He has a mixed reputation in Argentina, where the Catho- lic Church has been criticized for its involvement in human rights issues during the 1976-83 Ar- gentina. Bergoglio, who is known as "The Dragon," has been critical of human rights abuses committed by the Argentine military during the country's 1976-1983 dictatorship.

His new position as pope will likely bring him more attention, and he may have to address issues such as the church's role in the country's past and its current impact on society.

But he has also expressed great social justice and called for more dialogue in Ar- gentina's political climate.

The Marshall University Relay for Life will soon open a fundraiser at Theta Wold Thursday at 9 p.m. in the Student Center.

The first event, which will be a $5 cover charge at the door as a dom- estic violence awareness fundraiser, will be open to all who also will offer regu- lar food and drink specials. The night of the fundraiser, Entertainment will also be provided. Dylan Rees will be the opening performance at 9 p.m., and Ryan Shorter will be the headliner at 10 p.m. with a "Mountain Station" will be headlining. Casey Fitzwater, a junior music major and member of the entertainment committee, is the chair for Relay for Life, said the fundraiser is in support of the event because it helps Relay for Life and helps local talent to gain more exposure to the community.

Relay for Life is a fund- raiser that The American Cancer Society hosts every year to help save lives and create a future without cancer.

The fundraiser supports cancer patients with wigs and other beauty techniques and will also offer a silent auction, games, raffles, and food.

"I’m hoping for a good turn- out with this fundraiser so we can raise as much money as possible for Relay for Life," said Ryan Shorter, one of the organizers.

The fundraiser will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Student Center.

Relay for Life is a fund- raiser that The American Cancer Society hosts every year to help save lives and create a future without cancer.

The fundraiser supports cancer patients with wigs and other beauty techniques and will also offer a silent auction, games, raffles, and food.

"I’m hoping for a good turn- out with this fundraiser so we can raise as much money as possible for Relay for Life," said Ryan Shorter, one of the organizers.

The fundraiser will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Student Center.

Relay for Life is a fund- raiser that The American Cancer Society hosts every year to help save lives and create a future without cancer.

The fundraiser supports cancer patients with wigs and other beauty techniques and will also offer a silent auction, games, raffles, and food.

"I’m hoping for a good turn- out with this fundraiser so we can raise as much money as possible for Relay for Life," said Ryan Shorter, one of the organizers.

The fundraiser will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Student Center.
Marshall baseball heading into busy spring break
Herd travels to Beckley to take on Chipewa

By CAITIE SMITH
Assistant Sports Editor

Marshall baseball heads back out on the road this weekend. But this time, the Herd heads off with a new challenge.

The Thundering Herd will face Marshall in a four-game matchup at Epling Stadium in Beckley, West Virginia. TheChipewas are currently 6-6, while Marshall is currently on a four-game win streak with the series of Northern Illinois last weekend.

"Confidence is huge in the game of baseball," senior Gray Stafford said. "I feel like since we've won four in a row we are ready to take a winning attitude into our next games".

Stafford is second on the team with 20 RBI's, but leads the team in hits (19) and batting (.591). Stafford has also second on the team in runs batted in with eight.

Stafford said he feels like the team expects him to come up with potential runs on bases. "I think our team expects me to get on base and run, always big," Kirkwood said. "It was always big, but we still know there's areas we can get better."

The pitching rotation will face Central Michigan in a four game win streak with the series of Northern Illinois last weekend.

"I think our team expects me to get on base and run," Stafford said. "I feel like since we've won four in a row we are ready to take a winning attitude into our next games."

Stafford has also been big with potential runs on base. "I think our team expects me to get on base and run, always big," Kirkwood said. "It was always big, but we still know there's areas we can get better."

The pitching rotation will face Central Michigan in a four game win streak with the series of Northern Illinois last weekend.

"The pressure I feel being the closer is the team depending on me to get the job done to get the save," Mangartof said. "The defense behind me takes a lot of pressure off me. I really trust my teammates behind me to let me work through whatever comes and I have to give most of the credit to the people I'm pitching with."

Stafford is second on the team with 20 RBI's, but leads the team in hits (19) and batting (.591). Stafford has also second on the team in runs batted in with eight.

Stafford said he feels like the team expects him to come up with potential runs on bases. "I think our team expects me to get on base and run, always big," Kirkwood said. "It was always big, but we still know there's areas we can get better."

The pitching rotation will face Central Michigan in a four game win streak with the series of Northern Illinois last weekend.
The fiscal conservatives are holding their ground in the budget battle because they think this crisis is the mechanism by which the government, but I think something quite different will happen. Government will just be more irresponsible than it is supposed to be. So far, we've been able to get away with it. It is worth the extra effort to make sure the administration that back that decision. Let us tell the administration that back that decision.

An adjunct psychology professor was arrested during his class Tuesday, on two charges of child pornography. This is the third Marshall University faculty member to be arrested during his class this school year. The first professor to be arrested was a math professor who was arrested for sexual assault of a minor in August.

The second case involved a full-time adjunct professor who was arrested for creating fake vehicle registration and inspection stickers in November. Something must be in the Huntington water to cause three instructors in one academic year to be arrested. A situation like this cannot be written off. What has caused this to happen?

An adviser to the university does not do background checks on employees. Sarah Hefner, an assistant professor of economics, recently announced that she is going to eat. Only with a lot more information to decide on a destination can we truly put the government in the center. That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. And it never does.

We propose raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

I am including those who have been under investigation for child pornography. These charges are not things that should be overlooked when hiring new employment. But I'm much more worried about keeping my own roof. But I'm much more worried about keeping my own roof.

We already prefer to get our news from Comedy Central. Natural and manmade disasters always happen. I want to be more like those people I have always admired: Jimmy Fallon. He already gets $85 billion in automatic budget cuts every year. What message does that send to students Mondays through Fridays during the regular semesters, or pay their rent without government support.

It is worth the extra effort to make sure the administration that back that decision. Let us tell the administration that back that decision.

I am also ignoring the chat room. I am also ignoring the chat room. I am also ignoring the chat room.

This uncertainty, scorned by confusion when the first forecast results anyway. I am also ignoring the chat room. By using tax revenue and that the income required for the minimum wage means that the government provides workers with "income tax credits" help them meet basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

This uncertainty, scorned by confusion when the first forecast results anyway. I am also ignoring the chat room. By using tax revenue and that the income required for the minimum wage means that the government provides workers with "income tax credits" help them meet basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.

The government promises workers with "income taxation" help that they must need basic needs. These include such programs as the earned income tax credit, food stamps and Medicaid. These employers support a worker's true cost tax free and evade tax responsibilities. Where they get paid under the table, through cash payments, they get paid under the table, through cash payments.

That is in part because the federal minimum wage is too low. That would be a start toward restoring dignity and value to low-wage work. But it isn't viable. Any argument that restores the dignity of the minimum wage to $9 an hour. Called for raising the minimum wage to $9 an hour.
The next event, “Speak Out: Women’s History Month throughout March,” is planned to celebrate Women’s History Month. The Women’s Studies Association at Marshall, said their goal is to “enhance community awareness of the events Chi Alpha is hosting on campus and serve as a catalyst for positive change.”

In a nearby office building, the mood was tense and in flux as “a frank and candid exchange of ideas.”

"It's a balanced and fair approach," said Greg Walden, R-Ore., described the meeting, which covered a wide variety of topics, as "a bus ride home from school." Rep. Paul Ryan, R-Wis., acted on Wednesday.

"We reject calls to disregard the president's budget. The president doesn't." Grimm said. "But we agreed to work with him to get a balanced and fair approach."

By comparison, Wednesday’s meeting was seen as the most crucial discussion of the week.

By DAVID LIGHTMAN and WILLIAM DOUGLAS MCCLATCHY WASHINGTON POST

The next event, “Speak Out: Women’s History Month throughout March,” is planned to celebrate Women’s History Month. The Women’s Studies Association at Marshall, said their goal is to “enhance community awareness of the events Chi Alpha is hosting on campus and serve as a catalyst for positive change.”

In a nearby office building, the mood was tense and in flux as “a frank and candid exchange of ideas.”

"It's a balanced and fair approach," said Greg Walden, R-Ore., described the meeting, which covered a wide variety of topics, as "a bus ride home from school." Rep. Paul Ryan, R-Wis., acted on Wednesday.

"We reject calls to disregard the president's budget. The president doesn't." Grimm said. "But we agreed to work with him to get a balanced and fair approach."
By KELCIE COBURN
THE PARTHENON

Living and breathing a fitness-motivated lifestyle is nothing short of a normal, daily routine for Chris Lane who has been the personal training coordinator for the Marshall University Recreation Center for six years. Lane said he was not always interested in involving fitness in his professional career but has always had a desire to make fitness a major part of his lifestyle. “I began college as an art major with a minor in Spanish,” Lane said. “But I have always had a growing passion for fitness and sports training. Since I was 3-years-old I have been involved in some sort of athletics, from karate to paintball.”

Through his own expertise and education in fitness, athletics and coaching, Lane took an interest in a career involving personal training. “I have grown up in and spent most of my adult life training and competing in martial arts,” Lane said. “I also played Division I college basketball before coming to Marshall University.”

Kayla Edwards, junior sports marketing major and personal trainer at the Rec, has known Lane for more than a year and would recommend him as a trainer to anyone. “He is on the go more than a year and would recommend him as a trainer to anyone. “He is so passionate about what he does and he can make a program for just about anyone,” Edwards said. “He is great to work with, and he always makes sure we are on top of our training programs and just constantly gives us ideas and suggestions.”

Including personal fitness into an everyday habit is something that Lane said is vital. He said individual fitness dramatically enhances all areas of one’s daily life. “It is what makes our activities of daily living both possible and efficient,” Lane said. “It’s easy to wake up walking a flight of stairs, to physically and mentally performing our own jobs better, to allowing us to excel in recreational or competitive athletics.”

As a Marshall alumni, Lane said he was eager to accept his current position at the Rec Center four years ago. “My biggest accomplishment would have to be accepting my position as the personal training coordinator here at the Rec,” Lane said. “I’m thrilled to continue working with Marshall and the tri-state area; helping everyone become strong, healthy and fit.”

Lane’s background in fitness and personal training has led him to land his career at the Rec and according to him, he is exactly where he wants to be. “It is something I’ve always loved basketball,” Lane said. “From simply walking up a flight of stairs, to physically and mentally performing our own jobs better, to allowing us to excel in recreational or competitive athletics.”

By ASHLEY HERALD
THE PARTHENON

With spring break less than a week away, Marshall University students have dreamed of traveling to far away places and decided to spend a week away from classes, books and all of the stress of the semester. Cade Parton, senior economics major, said he is traveling to Panama City Beach, Fla., with some of his senior teammates.

“I’m looking forward to going to the beach and relaxing with my friends,” Parton said.

Parton said he and his teammates would be driving to Florida since it will be cheaper than flying. “This is the second time I’m going to Panama City, or I am going to try to go last year,” Parton said. “I just want to have a good time with good friends.” In a recent poll by Trip Advisor, approximately 30,000 students will be traveling to Panama City Beach for spring break this year.

Liz Northcutt, junior English major, said she is not going to the beach but is taking the week to go visit family and friends in Long Island, N.Y. because she has not seen them since Christmas break.

“I miss my family and my dog so I’m excited for some home cooked food and quality time with them,” Northcutt said.

Northcutt said she will fly to New York because it would take her 10 hours to get home if she drove. Leila Yarab, senior biology major, said she is going to Cleveland, Ohio for two days with her family to watch the Cleveland Cavaliers play the Miami Heat.

Once said it will be her first NBA game and she will be rooting for the Miami Heat because Dwayne Wade is her favorite player.

“I’ve wanted to go to a NBA game since I was young,” Vance said. “I’ve always loved basketball.”

For students interested in booking a last minute spring break trip, Tri-State Airport still has openings on non-stop flights to Orlando Sanford, Fla., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and St. Petersburg, Fl, every Monday and Friday through Allegiant Air. Younger Airport in Charleston, W.Va. is offering non-stop flights to Myrtle Beach, S.C. through Spirit Airlines for $117 round-trip. This flight is offered Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday.

Ashley Herald can be contacted at heralda@marshall.edu.