Velvet Underground

Lou Reed died Sunday at 71

Lou Reed never had the prominence or commercial sales of 1960s peers such as the Beatles or Bob Dylan, his only major commercial hit was "Walk on the Wild Side." But his influence was just as vast, if not more so. Punk, post-punk and most strains of underground music of the past 40 years would not exist without the one of a kind merger of music and words pioneered by Reed and his groundbreaking band, the Velvet Underground.

Reed died Sunday at 71 in Southhampton, N.Y., of an ailment related to a liver transplant he underwent in May, his literary agent said.

Lou Reed handheld one of the most profound musical legacies of any 20th century artist. His output inspired a generation and was a template for the punk, post-punk and most strains of underground music of the past 40 years. It was not without the one of a kind merger of music and words pioneered by Reed and his groundbreaking band, the Velvet Underground.

Women’s soccer earns hard-fought draw on Senior Day

The senior class, Marshall Univerto show strength in goal with only one goal coming through several turns at the hands of Hurricane goalie. Hayley Harri

Tulsa defender Alyssa Cathey took the shot. A goal from the opponents to 298.2 yards per game that the 2013 version is a very bad thing. Even in Lil Joe the manatee fatten up: is he ready for the wild?

By KEVIN SPEAR

ORLANDO Sentinel (MCT)

‘Lil Joe the wayward manatee is fat and happy after being rescued a year ago from the Little Econ Lockhatchee River in east Orange County. The 10-foot, 8-inch animal was taken out of a marina after becoming stuck there for about three weeks and is now at Sea World Orlando Oct. 18.

It should be said that the Blue Raiders are a dangerous opponent for anyone who has, but the Herd should have won that game. The loss will hopefully motivate the teams going down the stretch and the hope is to see 2012 form once again.

The story is also San Francisco. The 49ers kept things tight and the Herd played its next two games at home against C-USA bottom feeders Southern Miss (6-7) and SMU (2-5) and has played well at Joe C. Edwards stadium so far this season.

The 2012 Herd may have had exciting games and deep and long shots, but in the end a disappointing 5-7-1 record and questions of how good the team really could have been. This season’s edition needs to shake off the bad and head into the 2013 that had so far set a much better mark.
