SCOPE AND CONTENT OF THE COLLECTION

The Huntington Junior League of the Association of Junior Leagues International records consist of newspapers, League Lines, magazines, scrapbooks, organizational materials, cookbook recipes, Garden Club material, horse show material, etc. The focus of the collection is evenly distributed among the different series. The reason the Garden Club series is so large is because there were numerous large items that had to be separated. The inclusive dates range from 1929-2015, however most materials are from the 1940s to the 1960s.

There is another collection for the Huntington Junior League located in Morrow as well. Its accession number is 2002/07.0709

A Brief History of the Association of Junior Leagues International

The Association of Junior Leagues International (AJLI) is made up of 294 chapters in the United States, Mexico, Canada and the United Kingdom. The History of the AJLI begins in New York City in 1901. Mary Harriman, “a nineteen-year-old debutante” founded the Junior League for the Promotion of Settlement Movements. Between the years 1907-1920, the Junior League turned away from settlement work and focused on social, health and educational issues. By 1921, approximately thirty chapters from across the United States came together to form the Association of Junior Leagues of America (AJLA), “to provide professional support to the Leagues.” The AJLA’s first president was Dorothy Whitney Straight. Beginning in Chicago, the decade of the 1920s saw the creation of children’s theater, a program that was so popular more than one hundred “Leagues” began their own programs. The year 1943 saw the first Junior League cookbooks, “a compilation of handwritten recipes by the Junior League of Minneapolis. The Minneapolis chapter raised over $3,000 from sales of their cookbook, and by the end of the 1950s, regional cookbooks were, “a key fundraising tool.” During the 1960s health, welfare and environmental issues became central to the AJLA’s mission. In 1971, the AJLA became the Association of Junior Leagues, Inc (AJL). In 1988, it was renamed again, under its current title the AJLI. The AJLI’s mission statement:

The Association of Junior Leagues International Inc (AJLI) is an organization of women committed to promoting voluntarism, developing the potential of women, and improving communities through the effective action and leadership of trained volunteers. Its purpose is exclusively educational and charitable. Junior Leagues reach out to women of all races, religions and national origins who demonstrate an interest in and commitment to voluntarism.
