Spring 4-11-2014

The Parthenon, April 11, 2014

Bishop Nash
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon/351

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the University Archives at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Parthenon by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu.
Friday, April 11, 2014 | Vol. 117 No. 113 | Marshall University’s Student Newspaper | marshallparthenon.com

HIGH 64° | LOW 50° | HIGH 73° | LOW 54° | HIGH 79° | LOW 61°

HUNTINGTON’S UNDERGROUND

Heavy metal and punk music bring vinyl back to life from Huntington’s small venues.

MORE UNDERGROUND >> PAGE 3

---

"Jesus Christ Superstar: In Concert" performed by local talent >>> PAGE 2

Relay for Life "Represents the Night" >>>> PAGE 4

Yard sale to benefit individual students >>>> PAGE 4

---

"We expect passion... You have to love to dance and you have to have a love for Marshall."

Morgan Wright, junior broadcast journalism major

MORE DANCE TRYOUT >> PAGE 3

---

aMUsed Dance Company provides an outlet for dance enthusiasts.

MORE aMUsed >> PAGE 4

---

More drawings

---

"We’re confident this year’s earnings will put us over that one million meal mark."

Diana Van Horn, director of Cridlin Food and Clothing Pantry

MORE EMPTY BOWLS >> PAGE 2

---

279185 GLENN’S SPORTING GOODS
Empty Bowls

Annual fundraiser expected to fund over one million meals

By DEBBIE WELLS

The 13th annual Empty Bowls fundraiser is expected to collect one million meals raised for Facing Hunger Foodbank 4:30-6:30 p.m., Friday at the First Presbyterian Church on Fifth Avenue.

“Empty Bowls is put on every year and it’s always a good cause,” said one of the organizers Alex Van Horn.

“We’re all friends,” Babb said. “You can build a circle with fellow Huntington musicians and express what many in the scene have said for years. The band members in the Huntington scene have said for years that they love it that way. People will see the show and hear about the scene, and want to help out. Lots of bands occasionally play, everyone at the show seems like no matter who is playing, everyone at the show will stop what they’re doing and dance and sing.”

“The cast features the members of Trinity’s choir and the university’s music director Mark Hardiman, Chris Sizemore and Marshall University ceramics students.

“Superstar: In Concert” this weekend, visit with my family, during the performance of “Beauty and the Beast” and if I had to pick one show to see at the Huntington Civic Center, it would be the Hunger No.”

By ALEXANDRIA RAHAL

The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“We’ve had limited time to prepare for this show, but the sound we’ve been able to produce is incredible,” Kraus said. The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“As far as the timing goes, Smith said it could have been a bit more. “Superstar is running just in time for the ‘Week of Easter.’ Smith said, “I hope people will see the show and leave with an understanding of what the season is about from a different perspective.”

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. For tickets, contact Alex Van Horn at rahal1@marshall.edu.

“The Facing Hunger Foodbank serves more than 113,000 food deprived individuals in 17 counties across West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio.

“Empty Bowls is put on every year and it’s always a good cause,” said one of the organizers Alex Van Horn.

“We’re all friends,” Babb said. “You can build a circle with fellow Huntington musicians and express what many in the scene have said for years. The band members in the Huntington scene have said for years that they love it that way. People will see the show and hear about the scene, and want to help out. Lots of bands occasionally play, everyone at the show seems like no matter who is playing, everyone at the show will stop what they’re doing and dance and sing.”

“The cast features the members of Trinity’s choir and the university’s music director Mark Hardiman, Chris Sizemore and Marshall University ceramics students.

“Superstar: In Concert” this weekend, visit with my family, during the performance of “Beauty and the Beast” and if I had to pick one show to see at the Huntington Civic Center, it would be the Hunger No.”

By ALEXANDRIA RAHAL

The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“As far as the timing goes, Smith said it could have been a bit more. “Superstar is running just in time for the ‘Week of Easter.’ Smith said, “I hope people will see the show and leave with an understanding of what the season is about from a different perspective.”

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. For tickets, contact Alex Van Horn at rahal1@marshall.edu.

“The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“As far as the timing goes, Smith said it could have been a bit more. “Superstar is running just in time for the ‘Week of Easter.’ Smith said, “I hope people will see the show and leave with an understanding of what the season is about from a different perspective.”

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. For tickets, contact Alex Van Horn at rahal1@marshall.edu.

“The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“As far as the timing goes, Smith said it could have been a bit more. “Superstar is running just in time for the ‘Week of Easter.’ Smith said, “I hope people will see the show and leave with an understanding of what the season is about from a different perspective.”

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. For tickets, contact Alex Van Horn at rahal1@marshall.edu.

“The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“As far as the timing goes, Smith said it could have been a bit more. “Superstar is running just in time for the ‘Week of Easter.’ Smith said, “I hope people will see the show and leave with an understanding of what the season is about from a different perspective.”

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. For tickets, contact Alex Van Horn at rahal1@marshall.edu.

“The cast members won’t be the only ones rocking this weekend. Smith has recruited a band of 11 local musicians to play for the concert. Some of the band members include: Marshall students and professors.

“As far as the timing goes, Smith said it could have been a bit more. “Superstar is running just in time for the ‘Week of Easter.’ Smith said, “I hope people will see the show and leave with an understanding of what the season is about from a different perspective.”

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. For tickets, contact Alex Van Horn at rahal1@marshall.edu.
Herd dance team adding members

By SARAH CONNERS
THE PARTHENON

The Marshall University dance team will host tryouts for the 2014-2015 season at 9 a.m. April 18 in the Rec Center. The clinic will help teach technique, the jazz routine and a sideline dance that will be used in the tryouts the following day.

Dances that will be used in the tryouts include the following:Members of the Marshall dance team pose at the end of St. James Bandarium routines during halftime of the Marshall football game against EEU Nov. 25, 2013.

By JONATHAN HEETER
THE MACON TELEGRAPH (MCT)

Players to watch this week in the Masters (CAREER wins include sanctioned events on the PGA Tour or the European Tour):

Adam Scott
Age/Nation: 33/Australia
Career wins: 11

Justin Rose
Age/Nation: 33/England
Career wins: 9
2013-14 Top 10s: 10

Rory McIlroy
Age/Nation: 26/Northern Ireland
Career wins: 2
2013-14 Top 10s: 7
Best Masters finish: T15 (2011)

Dustin Johnson
Age/Nation: 28/United States
Career wins: 11
2013-14 Top 10s: 9
Best Masters finish: T3 (2013)

The Masters will be fine without Tiger Woods

By DANIEL SHIRLEY
THE MACON TELEGRAPH (MCT)

The Masters is a major of any kind came at the Augusta National Golf Club on Sunday, April 6, in Augusta, Ga.

By JEFF SINER | CHARLOTTE OBSERVER | MCT

Defending champion Adam Scott hits out of a sand trap at the 18th green during his practice round of Augusta National Golf Club on Tuesday, April 8, in Augusta, Ga.
Campus reaches out to support Relay for Life

By ALEXANDRIA RAHAL

One school, many lives: Students share their diverse experiences at Marshall

By ALEXANDRIA RAHAL

The West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing announced an agreement that will result in a new 3+2 program that allows students to earn a bachelor's degree in nursing and then go on to medical school in four years. The program will begin with the fall 2012 semester.

The agreement between the institutions was signed on March 21 during a ceremony in the Cannon Room at Marshall University's Joan C. Edwards Performing Arts Center. The signing was attended by representatives from both schools, including David C. Barlow, M.D., F.A.C.P., vice president for Health Affairs; Dr. Cornelia Goodrich, dean of Marshall University's College of Medicine; Dr. F. Kevin Grogan, dean of the Marshall University Division of Nursing; and Dr. Benjamin B. Hindu, dean of the West Virginia University College of Medicine.

According to the agreement, students who meet the requirements of the program will receive credit for one semester of their bachelor's degree and one year of medical school.

The agreement also provides for joint coursework in basic science and nursing, which will be offered jointly by both institutions. In addition, Marshall University nursing students will have the opportunity to complete an internship at West Virginia University's medical school.

The agreement is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.

The agreement was signed after extensive negotiations between the institutions. It is the result of a collaborative effort between the two institutions to provide students with a high-quality education and a competitive program.

In addition to the new 3+2 program, the institutions have also established a joint graduate program in nursing and medicine. The program will be offered in collaboration with the West Virginia University College of Medicine and the Marshall University Division of Nursing.

The joint program will be offered in two tracks: one for students who wish to pursue a career in medicine and another for students who wish to pursue a career in nursing.

The program will be offered in a hybrid format, combining online and on-campus coursework.

The agreement between the institutions is expected to benefit both institutions by providing a new source of revenue and a new way to attract and retain students.

The first cohort of students is expected to enroll in the fall 2012 semester, and the program is expected to reach full capacity in 2014.
YARD SALE

Continued from Page 4

Hughes said the yard sale is a teaching opportunity for students. "We want to make sure they see the yard sale itself is something that is sustainable by getting rid of things that we would normally throw away," Hughes said. "We're hoping that in the garage sale they're getting to be able to lendable.

Hand coach Bridget Rosso said she wishes the yard sale could last the entire year with numbers this year's yard sale being "the tip of the iceberg." In the team's history, Rosso said, "We would have everyone come to a campus event in the fall, and you have to love to dance and you have a love for Marshall," Wright said. "We expect girls to be reliable, mature and dedicated.

PUNK

Continued from Page 3

University, devoted into the technical aspects of sound, is one of the things that is a big advantage. "It sounds better than digital," Burgh said. "It replicates an analog sound more smooothly than digital, which pieces together sounds of sound. CDs and MP3s are puremade out of combinations because they are much easier to manipulate." Hat Ship isn't the only local band riding a vinyl revival. Local two-piece Warzawa, known for its heavy, precise, instrumental compositions, also has a three-song release. Hall elaborated on the upcoming-three-song Warzawa seven-inch. "I'm a fan of vinyl for sure," Hall said. "We chose it because we wanted to put out a smaller release to see how it went. While vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-

continued from Page 4

"We thought about doing a seven-inch," Hughes said. "But it's so much cheaper for smaller bands. Our songs are just too long. We can pack a lot of stuff on a CD. If a CD is 60 minutes, we can pack a lot of local bands that have a lot that we're going to plan, we could make the year that championship in 2014. while vinyl is the preferred format for many bands, it can be expensive. That is not an option for smaller bands. "This is an advantage of a two-piece band that is all the financial bandwidth that we currently have. Figure 7.5: In the right scenario we are able to make about two hundred of these monograms. A two-band release is $2500, and we sell every copy. That's more than that." We're expecting retail for around $2.25, Hall said.

The monetary challenge of vis-