Spring 4-18-2014

The Parthenon, April 18, 2014

Bishop Nash
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon/356
"He doesn’t eat any bread except for on Tuesdays."
Vickie Goodson-Scott, owner and operator, Vic’s Ivy Cuisine

Marshall football alumnus and Baltimore Raven Omar Brown returns to Huntington for training and a little home cooking.

"It just feels like home. As if I was still in South Carolina. I am just comfortable here."
Omar Brown, Baltimore Ravens safety

"I got to start having a brand new kind of relationship with [my daughter] as an adult and in a way where we were working as partners on something together."
Linda Spatig, College of Education and Professional Development professor

"We need the team to put all of its sticks of dynamite together and blow it up."
Shaunda Stanton, head coach, Marshall softball

"I’m just trying to make sure that I have improved through my years here, and that I’m working my hardest."
Rachel Thompson, senior, Marshall women’s golf

"He doesn’t eat any bread except for on Tuesdays."
Omar Brown, Baltimore Ravens safety

"It just feels like home. As if I was still in South Carolina. I am just comfortable here."
Vickie Goodson-Scott, owner and operator, Vic’s Ivy Cuisine

Marshall football alumnus and Baltimore Raven Omar Brown returns to Huntington for training and a little home cooking.

"I got to start having a brand new kind of relationship with [my daughter] as an adult and in a way where we were working as partners on something together."
Linda Spatig, College of Education and Professional Development professor

"We need the team to put all of its sticks of dynamite together and blow it up."
Shaunda Stanton, head coach, Marshall softball

"I’m just trying to make sure that I have improved through my years here, and that I’m working my hardest."
Rachel Thompson, senior, Marshall women’s golf

"He doesn’t eat any bread except for on Tuesdays."
Omar Brown, Baltimore Ravens safety

"It just feels like home. As if I was still in South Carolina. I am just comfortable here."
Vickie Goodson-Scott, owner and operator, Vic’s Ivy Cuisine

Marshall football alumnus and Baltimore Raven Omar Brown returns to Huntington for training and a little home cooking.

"I got to start having a brand new kind of relationship with [my daughter] as an adult and in a way where we were working as partners on something together."
Linda Spatig, College of Education and Professional Development professor

"We need the team to put all of its sticks of dynamite together and blow it up."
Shaunda Stanton, head coach, Marshall softball

"I’m just trying to make sure that I have improved through my years here, and that I’m working my hardest."
Rachel Thompson, senior, Marshall women’s golf
With ‘Salem,’ WGN America hopes to put a spell on TV viewers

By JESSICA ROSS

The show itself will be a trial...
Omar Brown lifts weights as he jumps while working out.

 Typically is for other rookies probably wasn't as hard as a program like this itself," Brown said. "A lot that you carry on from the program easily. To football, and Brown said a lot of tradition when it comes to football, and Brown said the Baltimore Ravens, has attended Park University, when he left school early to find a job in Washington, D.C. Georgetown Scott soon found a career working for National Airlines, later known as Pan Am, for 15 years.

 After traveling the world, Goodson-Scott decided to return to Huntington, and then in her senior season, she has been working with him for three years. I think we have this relationship where it's not just a lot of guesswork and trial and error. I just come back and we get right into it," Brown said.

 However, he was later removed from the Ravens roster, and added by the Ravens for the upcoming NFL season.

 "You know, all that grass fed steaks and chicken," Brown said, "I'm trying to work into things in the weight room. I had to take a lot of time off season so far," Thompson said. "I'm just trying to make sure that I have improvement, and that I'm working my hardest to make sure that I have improvement this part of the season." She said she plans to keep it up through the year, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she plays is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 “I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 We just don’t get the clutch calls when we should," Stanton said. "We just have to be consistent and we need to get that little bit hit, the numbers are there, we just need to be consistent." The defensive side of things, Stanford said the move from leather to support freshman pitcher Jorden Dunn than better than they have been.

 "It means a lot, and it’s a big thing for the area," Goodson-Scott said. "We've accomplished this week." Brown said. "You know, all that grass fed steaks and chicken," Brown said, "I'm trying to work into things in the weight room. I had to take a lot of time off season so far," Thompson said. "I'm just trying to make sure that I have improvement, and that I'm working my hardest to make sure that I have improvement this part of the season. She said she plans to keep it up through the year, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she plays is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "It means a lot, and it’s a big thing for the area," Goodson-Scott said. "We've accomplished this week." Brown said. "You know, all that grass fed steaks and chicken," Brown said, "I'm trying to work into things in the weight room. I had to take a lot of time off season so far," Thompson said. "I'm just trying to make sure that I have improvement, and that I'm working my hardest to make sure that I have improvement this part of the season. She said she plans to keep it up through the year, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she plays is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.

 "I don’t really see this year as going out and leading the team," Thompson said, "I'm just trying to make sure that I have worked my way through my years here, and that this part of the season is where the C-USA tournament this year, which she played in with the school for the Conference USA tournament, which has made her more excited to finish out her time with Marshall.
“When you walk out, particularly when you have something serious on your mind, it really is better than any trip to a psychologist.”

Patricia Demarest

Catholics see confession in new light

When you walk out, particularly when you have something serious on your mind, it really is better than any trip to a psychologist.”

When you walk out, particularly when you have something serious on your mind, it really is better than any trip to a psychologist.”

By PATRICIA PARISI

The Rev. Arcadio Munoz gives absolution to a parishioner at St. Mary’s Church in Dumont. Confession can be heard out in the open, a departure from the standard confessionals of the past.

THE RECORD (MCT)

The Rev. Arcadio Munoz gives absolution to a parishioner at St. Mary’s Church in Dumont. Confession can be heard out in the open, a departure from the standard confessionals of the past.

THE RECORD (MCT)

“People sometimes think we were throw-away items,” said Alexandra, 24, who was in the group with her sister Yana, who was in prison for six months. “They think we were disposable.”

People sometimes think we were throw-away items,” said Alexandra, 24, who was in the group with her sister Yana, who was in prison for six months. “They think we were disposable.”

“The act of confessing is a spiritual resurrection and to me it’s a welcome change. It’s what broke the image we received from the outside world.”

“The act of confessing is a spiritual resurrection and to me it’s a welcome change. It’s what broke the image we received from the outside world.”

The church has also allowed priests to share their own experiences in confession during a service.

The church has also allowed priests to share their own experiences in confession during a service.

“We’re seeing people who were away for 20, 30, 40 years start to come back,” Corcoran said.

“We’re seeing people who were away for 20, 30, 40 years start to come back,” Corcoran said.

For church members like Patricia Demarest of the Haskell Paterson, N.J., diocese. Corcoran said the church is considering new ways to attract more people to confession.

For church members like Patricia Demarest of the Haskell Paterson, N.J., diocese. Corcoran said the church is considering new ways to attract more people to confession.

“People sometimes think we were throw-away items,” said Alexandra, 24, who was in the group with her sister Yana, who was in prison for six months. “They think we were disposable.”

People sometimes think we were throw-away items,” said Alexandra, 24, who was in the group with her sister Yana, who was in prison for six months. “They think we were disposable.”

The church has also allowed priests to share their own experiences in confession during a service.

The church has also allowed priests to share their own experiences in confession during a service.

“We’re seeing people who were away for 20, 30, 40 years start to come back,” Corcoran said.

“We’re seeing people who were away for 20, 30, 40 years start to come back,” Corcoran said.

For church members like Patricia Demarest of the Haskell Paterson, N.J., diocese. Corcoran said the church is considering new ways to attract more people to confession.

For church members like Patricia Demarest of the Haskell Paterson, N.J., diocese. Corcoran said the church is considering new ways to attract more people to confession.
exciting tournament," Zdikoff said. "I can see the course and played great golf. I think that you will have a pretty good feel for the math, and that it sets up pretty well for us.

He also said that the team shouldn’t be “shocked” because they’ve only been getting ready.

“We are going to have great impressions and surprises,” he said. “I think that they’ll be able to see a few more things here and there.”

Spatig said. “We started talking about this together,” Layne Amerikaner reveal in an email. “It definitely deepened it to work on this together,” Layne Amerikaner said. “It definitely added to the experience.”

As the offseason comes to a close, this time, Goodson-Scott reflected on her past months with the program. “I think that’s what I’d do any scholarly project or any work I’ve done with me,” Spatig said. “I needed to write this book and put this book together, so I decided to write a book.

I thought the obvious thing was to tell the story of this program,” Spatig said. “I thought that was what I’d done the most work on and I felt it was an important story to tell.”

During the time Spatig conducted research with the program, Layne Amerikaner had grown up and graduated from college. She then returned home to visit her parents before she began graduate school. "I remember us having lunch together, and she told me about this book that she needed to write and that book this put together," Spatig said. “She started talking about the possibility of doing a book and she was interested in that. She was just really interested in the book in women’s studies, so I was very interested in the project.

She had written papers and books in the past and so she had excited her mother to help her with the book, but she was also concerned with how difficult the task would likely be going into.

Spatig said she was happy to have her daughter agreed to work with her. She and Layne Amerikaner reveal in the last chapter; what their experience writing the book together was like and how their relationship evolved throughout the process.

"It is actually one of my favorite parts of the book because it is personal to me, but I talk about how it was defi- nitely transformative," Spatig said. "I was reticent and not excitable for me because I started having a brand new kind of relationship with her as an adult, and in a way where we were seeking out partners on everything together.

Amerikaner said she was happy to have a new type of connection with her mother as well. "We already had a strong relationship, but I think it defini- tely expanded it to work on this together," Layne Ameri- kaner said. "It definitely added a different dimension to our relationship.

She loved being able to talk about the experience in a way that made sense to her and her mother, but it is not out of the ques- tion. For now, she is focused on releasing this book on her last year at Marshall.

"I’ve always loved my work here and this research proj- ekt really helped me find a way to do this for a long time," Spatig said. "It was a special thing to be able to share that as mother and daughter.

"We have a little bit of time together," Spatig said. "I think the experience has been so valuable and we are going to continue it."