Biographical Sketch:

Beginning on December 1, 1977, a group of poets and creative writers from the Huntington, West Virginia and surrounding geographical communities have met to read their work(s) in progress. On December 5, 1992, poets met to celebrate 15-years of the Poetry Society as well as the publication of the anthology The Guyandotte Poets, 1. The Guyandotte Poets did not publish any other anthologies as a Society, but they did continue to meet and workshop their poems on a monthly basis through 2018. During these meetings writers received feedback on how to improve their poetry, gained skills to improve their writing technique, and gained a sense of community with other writers.

Individuals involved with the Guyandotte Poetry Society were primarily professors and students, but generally the only requirement to attend a meeting was that an individual have a love of poetry. This collection contains hundreds of poems and features the work of 82 writers. Among these authors are those well known to the Huntington, WV community, including: Art Stringer, John McKernan, Llewellyn McKernan, Andi Fekete, John Patrick Grace, Ron Houchin, Mary Lou Pratt, and Chris Green.

Scope and Content:

This collection contains the professional documents of the Guyandotte Poetry Society. The contents in this collection span from 1989 to 2018. The collection includes correspondence, directions to meetings, directories of poets who participated in the Society, and poems that were submitted and workshoped. The materials in this collection document the various writers who either served as reviewers or submitted poetry for review. This list of writers is included following the list of folders and their contents.

Series 1	Correspondence
Series 2	Poetry Workshops

Processing Notes:

The Guyandotte Poetry Society meetings were originally grouped together by meeting date. Items from each monthly meeting were stapled together with the date of the workshop/meeting written on the first poem in each stack. Items were separated, but still maintained their original monthly meeting/workshop order. Items were not organized by year, but were completed as such for the processing of this collection as a way to best utilize the cross-referenced list of authors included in this collection.
