Fall 9-25-2014

The Parthenon, September 25, 2014

Codi Mohr
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon/392

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the University Archives at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Parthenon by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu.
Marshall Greek life speaks out against hazing

By BRITANIE MORGAN
THE PATRIOT

The Greek community has been vocal in reiterating its disapproval of hazing in the past. However, this is the first time Greek organizations have come together in such a public way to speak out against the practice.

"We are all so scared of the word gossip," said Chelesa Somerville, Delta Zeta vice-president of programs. "It's all about living that out and representing what we stand for.

"We're a sisterhood. We're a family," said Cameron Lyons, Alpha Sigma Phi chapter president. "We're very passionate about our community and about our school, and we're very passionate about helping other students and making our campus a better place for everyone.

"We're all connected. We're all part of the same thing," said Alana Jones, Alpha Sigma Phi vice-president of membership. "We're all part of the same community, and we all want to make sure that everyone feels included and valued.

"We're not afraid to speak up," said Cameron Lyons. "We're not afraid to stand up for what we believe in. We're not afraid to be vocal about what we believe in."
Student input needed

Faculty Senate initiative will disallow students to park on the first three levels of 3rd Ave. parking garage

By HANNAH SATRE
THE PARTHENON

The Marshall University Faculty Senate has passed an initiative to prohibit parking on the first three levels of the Third Avenue parking garage overnight.

J'leigha Long can be contacted at long160@marshall.edu.

Police release name of victim in early morning stabbing

VIA WOWK

THE PARTHENON

The following information was provided by the Marshall University Police Department.

Stolen Bike with Drugs Paraphernalia

MUPD was called at 12:34 p.m. on the 300 block of 16th Street on Sept. 19 for a report of a suspicious person. Police found a 44-year-old white male holding cable cutters and a needle. He was also riding a stu- dent's bicycle that was his. The name was not released since there are no charges.

Drunk Drivers

MUPD was called at 3:52 p.m. on Old Main Sept. 19 for a report of a motor cell phone. Police said the student utilized the Find My Phone application and discovered the phone was on Sixth Avenue between 15th and 16th Streets. No arrests have been made in the case.

The investigation continues and the pres- ident's office will be contacted to see if charges need to be filed in the case.

Student Health provides Q&A for student health insurance

By J’LEIGHA LONG
THE PARTHENON

The Student Health Education Programs, or SHEP, is hosting a Student Health Insurance Q&A event at the Marshall University Rec Cen- ter Friday 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Q&A will provide information about health insurance enrollment and general insurance questions.

“Lots of changes happened to students in the last year,” said Amy Saunders, director of SHEP. “Students have questions about their eligibility and maybe where the best place is for them to go to look and locate health insurance. We have a grant from West Virginia Access to Affordable Health Care, to help enroll and help steer stu- dents’ questions about health insurance coverage.”

With the affordable health care changes that have occurred, some students can remain on their parent’s health insurance until the age of 26, but some students are not eligible for that type of coverage. Saunders said SHEP will help students choose the best type of insurance for their needs.

“We are working to help them get enrolled and look at all the student’s different op- tions that might be available to them,” Saunders said. “We don’t tell the students what to do. We advise them on what programs would work for them while they are here at Marshall.”

Students who want assis- tance signing up for insurance will need to know their Social Security number and bring their W2s or a pay stub.

J’Leigha Long can be con- tacted at long160@marshall.edu.

Police Blotter

By TIM CARRICO
THE PARTHENON

The following information was provided by the Marshall University Police Department.

Stolen Bike with Drugs Paraphernalia

MUPD was called at 12:34 p.m. on the 300 block of 16th Street on Sept. 19 for a report of a suspicious person. Police found a 44-year-old white male holding cable cutters and a needle. He was also riding a stu- dent’s bicycle that was his. The name was not released since there are no charges.

Student Health provides Q&A for student health insurance

By J’LEIGHA LONG
THE PARTHENON

The Student Health Education Programs, or SHEP, is hosting a Student Health Insurance Q&A event at the Marshall University Rec Cen- ter Friday 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Q&A will provide information about health insurance enrollment and general insurance questions.

“Lots of changes happened to students in the last year,” said Amy Saunders, director of SHEP. “Students have questions about their eligibility and maybe where the best place is for them to go to look and locate health insurance. We have a grant from West Virginia Access to Affordable Health Care, to help enroll and help steer stu- dents’ questions about health insurance coverage.”

With the affordable health care changes that have occurred, some students can remain on their parent’s health insurance until the age of 26, but some students are not eligible for that type of coverage. Saunders said SHEP will help students choose the best type of insurance for their needs.

“We are working to help them get enrolled and look at all the student’s different op- tions that might be available to them,” Saunders said. “We don’t tell the students what to do. We advise them on what programs would work for them while they are here at Marshall.”

Students who want assis- tance signing up for insurance will need to know their Social Security number and bring their W2s or a pay stub.

J’Leigha Long can be con- tacted at long160@marshall.edu.

The Q&A will provide in- formation to keep the initiative from becoming permanent. “We want the students to know that SGA does not support this initiative, and for them to respond to the survey via the SGA Twitter,” SGA chair of the campus life and service committee Kristen Stevens said.

Student Health provides Q&A for student health insurance

By J’LEIGHA LONG
THE PARTHENON

The Student Health Education Programs, or SHEP, is hosting a Student Health Insurance Q&A event at the Marshall University Rec Cen- ter Friday 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Q&A will provide information about health insurance enrollment and general insurance questions.

“Lots of changes happened to students in the last year,” said Amy Saunders, director of SHEP. “Students have questions about their eligibility and maybe where the best place is for them to go to look and locate health insurance. We have a grant from West Virginia Access to Affordable Health Care, to help enroll and help steer students’ questions about health insurance coverage.”

With the affordable health care changes that have occurred, some students can remain on their parent’s health insurance until the age of 26, but some students are not eligible for that type of coverage. Saunders said SHEP will help students choose the best type of insurance for their needs.

“We are working to help them get enrolled and look at all the student’s different options that might be available to them,” Saunders said. “We don’t tell the students what to do. We advise them on what programs would work for them while they are here at Marshall.”

Students who want assistance signing up for insurance will need to know their Social Security number and bring their W2s or a pay stub.

J’Leigha Long can be contacted at long160@marshall.edu.

UN chief calls on world leaders to find ‘seeds of hope’ in world seeming to fall apart

UNITED NATIONS (AP)
The United Nations chief called on world leaders Wednesday to join an international campaign to ease the plight of nearly uncounted refugees, the displaced and victims of violence in a world wracked by war, disease, youth-spreading and deadly disasters.

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said leaders must find and nurture “seeds of hope” in the turmoil and despair of a world that may seem like it’s falling apart with people crying out for protection from greed and inequality.

“Not since the end of the Second World War have there been so many refugees, displaced people and asylum seek- ers. Never before has the United Nations been asked to reach so many people with emergency food assistance and other life-saving supplies,” Ban said in his state of the UN world and regional address at the opening of the U.N. Gen- eral Assembly’s annual ministerial meeting.

UN officials, including Jordan’s King Abdullah and Turkey’s President Recep Erdogan addressed the challenges — financial and social — of hosting hundreds of thousands of refugees from Syria.

Abdullah, whose coun- try is sheltering nearly 1.4 million Syrians, said the refugee crisis “de- mand a global solution.”

Visa release name of victim in early morning stabbing

VIA WOWK

THE PARTHENON

The following information was provided by the Marshall University Police Department.

Stolen Bike with Drugs Paraphernalia

MUPD was called at 12:34 p.m. on the 300 block of 16th Street on Sept. 19 for a report of a suspicious person. Police found a 44-year-old white male holding cable cutters and a needle. He was also riding a stu- dent’s bicycle that was his. The name was not released since there are no charges.

Drunk Drivers

MUPD was called at 3:52 p.m. on Old Main Sept. 19 for a report of a motor cell phone. Police said the student utilized the Find My Phone application and discovered the phone was on Sixth Avenue between 15th and 16th Streets. No arrests have been made in the case.

The investigation continues and the pres- ident’s office will be contacted to see if charges need to be filed in the case.

The Student Government Association is working to keep the initiative from becoming permanent. “We want the students to know that SGA does not support this initiative, and for them to respond to the survey via the SGA Twitter,” SGA chair of the campus life and service committee Kristen Stevens said.

Student Health provides Q&A for student health insurance

By J’LEIGHA LONG
THE PARTHENON

The Student Health Education Programs, or SHEP, is hosting a Student Health Insurance Q&A event at the Marshall University Rec Cen- ter Friday 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Q&A will provide information about health insurance enrollment and general insurance ques- tions.

“Lots of changes happened to students in the last year,” said Amy Saunders, director of SHEP. “Students have ques- tions about their eligibility and maybe where the best place is for them to go to look and locate health insurance. We have a grant from West Virginia Access to Affordable Health Care, to help enroll and help steer students’ questions about health insurance coverage.”

With the affordable health care changes that have occurred, some students can remain on their parent’s health insurance until the age of 26, but some students are not eligible for that type of coverage. Saunders said SHEP will help students choose the best type of insurance for their needs.

“We are working to help them get enrolled and look at all the student’s different options that might be available to them,” Saunders said. “We don’t tell the students what to do. We advise them on what programs would work for them while they are here at Marshall.”

Students who want assistance signing up for insurance will need to know their Social Security number and bring their W2s or a pay stub.

J’Leigha Long can be contacted at long160@marshall.edu.

Police Blotter

By TIM CARRICO
THE PARTHENON

The following information was provided by the Marshall University Police Department.

Stolen Bike with Drugs Paraphernalia

MUPD was called at 12:34 p.m. on the 300 block of 16th Street on Sept. 19 for a report of a suspicious person. Police found a 44-year-old white male holding cable cutters and a needle. He was also riding a stu- dent’s bicycle that was his. The name was not released since there are no charges.

Drunk Drivers

MUPD was called at 3:52 p.m. on Old Main Sept. 19 for a report of a motor cell phone. Police said the student utilized the Find My Phone application and discovered the phone was on Sixth Avenue between 15th and 16th Streets. No arrests have been made in the case.

The investigation continues and the pres- ident’s office will be contacted to see if charges need to be filed in the case.
By AMBER PAYNE
THE PARTHENON

Assistant coach Kellie Schmitt said the Marshall University women’s tennis team, the future is now.

For the Marshall University women’s tennis team, the future is now. The team features five returning players from a year ago, but only one senior, Kai Broomfield. Two freshmen and four sophomores join her to round out the 2014 roster.

“For the Marshall University women’s tennis team, the future is now. It’s hot off the court, it will just take its course.”

The future is here for women’s tennis

By SHANNON STOWERS
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

For the Marshall University women’s tennis team, the future is now. The team features five returning players from a year ago, but only one senior, Kai Broomfield. Two freshmen and four sophomores join her to round out the 2014 roster.

“This past weekend, the team traveled down to Williamsburg, Virginia, for the Tribe Invitational. On the first two days, the team picked up four wins in doubles play and five in singles. By three, the team has had four doubles wins from the weekend came from underclassmen combos. Schmitt said the blossoming of a young team is that those winning combinations in doubles matches can be found early on in their careers and may pop up down the road. “That’s what’s nice about being a young team,” Schmitt said. “You start them out young, then they play together for so long, and by the end they’re pretty good.”

“We were kind of nervous going in, but they would all react, especially the two freshmen, being their first tournament,” Schmitt said. “We had some ups and downs and we have a lot to work on, but it’s nice because we just have that one senior (Broomfield), so everybody is going to be back for a couple of years.”

Three of the four doubles wins from the weekend came from underclassmen combos. Schmitt said the blossoming of a young team is that those winning combinations in doubles matches can be found early on in their careers and may pop up down the road. “That’s what’s nice about being a young team,” Schmitt said. “You start them out young, then they play together for so long, and by the end they’re pretty good.”

Assistant coach Kellie Schmitt said she wasn’t sure how the team was going to react in its first tournament of the season, but sees promise in the Herd’s future.

Assuming head coach Doc Holliday explained at Tuesday’s press conference why having a four-game stretch is a good thing for the team.

“The future is here for women’s tennis. We were kind of nervous going in, but they would all react, especially the two freshmen, being their first tournament,” Schmitt said. “We had some ups and downs and we have a lot to work on, but it’s nice because we just have that one senior (Broomfield), so everybody is going to be back for a couple of years.”

“We were kind of nervous going down, with how they would all react, especially the two freshmen, being their first tournament,” Schmitt said. “We had some ups and downs and we have a lot to work on, but it’s nice because we just have that one senior (Broomfield), so everybody is going to be back for a couple of years.”

Three of the four doubles wins from the weekend came from underclassmen combos. Schmitt said the blossoming of a young team is that those winning combinations in doubles matches can be found early on in their careers and may pop up down the road. “That’s what’s nice about being a young team,” Schmitt said. “You start them out young, then they play together for so long, and by the end they’re pretty good.”

The future is here for women’s tennis

By SHANNON STOWERS
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

For the Marshall University women’s tennis team, the future is now.

The future is here for women’s tennis.

“We were kind of nervous going down, with how they would all react, especially the two freshmen, being their first tournament,” Schmitt said. “We had some ups and downs and we have a lot to work on, but it’s nice because we just have that one senior (Broomfield), so everybody is going to be back for a couple of years.”

Three of the four doubles wins from the weekend came from underclassmen combos. Schmitt said the blossoming of a young team is that those winning combinations in doubles matches can be found early on in their careers and may pop up down the road. “That’s what’s nice about being a young team,” Schmitt said. “You start them out young, then they play together for so long, and by the end they’re pretty good.”

Assistant coach Kellie Schmitt said she wasn’t sure how the team was going to react in its first tournament of the season, but sees promise in the Herd’s future.

Assuming head coach Doc Holliday explained at Tuesday’s press conference why having a four-game stretch is a good thing for the team.

“The future is here for women’s tennis. We were kind of nervous going in, but they would all react, especially the two freshmen, being their first tournament,” Schmitt said. “We had some ups and downs and we have a lot to work on, but it’s nice because we just have that one senior (Broomfield), so everybody is going to be back for a couple of years.”

“We were kind of nervous going down, with how they would all react, especially the two freshmen, being their first tournament,” Schmitt said. “We had some ups and downs and we have a lot to work on, but it’s nice because we just have that one senior (Broomfield), so everybody is going to be back for a couple of years.”

Three of the four doubles wins from the weekend came from underclassmen combos. Schmitt said the blossoming of a young team is that those winning combinations in doubles matches can be found early on in their careers and may pop up down the road. “That’s what’s nice about being a young team,” Schmitt said. “You start them out young, then they play together for so long, and by the end they’re pretty good.”

Assistant coach Kellie Schmitt said she wasn’t sure how the team was going to react in its first tournament of the season, but sees promise in the Herd’s future.
State Editorial

For West Virginia tourism, turn it up

Thursday, September 25, 2014

The Charleston Daily Mail

In 1947 to 1977 was a band of young musicians gathered in Studio Three in Dinsmore, Georgia. It would record a song for their second album. Guitarist Ed King started the recording with a few licks that would become one of the most famous guitar riffs in American music.

The most environmentally friendly option is to walk to the supermarket, making the trip to a store and back inclusive of your daily commute. But you know your friends' eyes glaze over when you talk about it? Whether it's music, politics or Marshall football, you get your voice heard. Unplug your phones, our computers, TV, air conditioner, and tell 'em again.

The Baby Stella is perfect for kids and adults. It's small size and easy-to-use design make it ideal for beginners of all ages. This guitar is the perfect gift for anyone looking to start playing again or learn to play for the first time.

For West Virginia tourism, turn it up. The Parthenon, Marshall University's student newspaper, is published Wednesday through Friday during the regular semester and Thursday during the summer. The editorial staff is responsible for news and editorial content.
In Junction City, Wichita and Kansas City, Kansas, some of the assets were released back to the businesses. The Kansas City Minority Leader Anthony Henley, a Topo Desmont, the aunt of the victim, said that her nephew was shot to death. His brother, a police officer, has been investigating the case.

Kansas Brown faces a strong competitor from Democratic challenger Paul Davis. While many say the race is too close to call, the results are expected to be known by the end of the day.

Justice Department investigates Ferguson police

By JIM SELIG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Ferguson Justice Department of Investigation on Wednesday named Paul and Morgan Davis as the chief investigators of the shooting of Michael Brown.

Brown's death in Ferguson sparked a nationwide debate about police conduct and the use of force.

The investigation will also look into the department's handling of the case.

A man charged in the disappearance of Virginia University student was captured on Wednesday morning in a seven-story apartment building.

The suspect, a 19-year-old man, was arrested in connection with the disappearance of a Virginia University student.

The case is being handled by the Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles and the Virginia State Police.

The suspect is a 19-year-old man who was last seen in the area of the Virginia University campus.

The investigation is ongoing and the suspect is being held in a secure facility.

The Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles and the Virginia State Police are working together to provide updates on the investigation.

The suspect is a 19-year-old man who was last seen in the area of the Virginia University campus.

The investigation is ongoing and the suspect is being held in a secure facility.

The Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles and the Virginia State Police are working together to provide updates on the investigation.
“It’s a great way to celebrate his life and legacy here at Marshall. This was the 10th annual President’s Invitational Quoits Media Challenge and was one of the most popular events in this year’s Constitution Week at Marshall University.”

Marshall University President
Stephen J. Kopp