1-30-2015

The Parthenon, January 30, 2015

Megan Osborne
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Shannon Stowers
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Jocelyn Gibson
Parthenon@marshall.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon

Recommended Citation
http://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon/439

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the University Archives at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Parthenon by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu.
FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 2015  |  VOL. 118  NO. 78  |  MARSHALL UNIVERSITY’S STUDENT NEWSPAPER  |  marshallparthenon.com

WEEKEND EDITION

in this issue...
> WEEKEND WATCH page 3
> HB 2015...............page 5
> PUMP ‘N’ RUN.......page 5
> ASSESSMENT DAY,page 5

and more...

AMERICAN DREAM MOVEMENT

“My main concern has always been seeing this unfortunate repetition of African American men not really striving for success, not really living up to their potential.”
- Charles C. Meyers, Jr., director and founder

more >>> page 3

JAZZ FESTIVAL

“We try our best to bring quality musicians to the campus for people to check out and listen to, and I think those are important opportunities people need to open themselves up to.”
- Martin Saunders, director of jazz studies

more >>> page 2

SUBMITTED PHOTO

more >>> page 3

and more...

“It was a tight game throughout the whole game, and if we’re worried about offense, we’ll struggle on our defense.”
- McKenzie Akers

more >>> page 3

“This will tear at your soul with parts that can bring you to tears, and it will appeal to everyone across the spectrum.”
- Jenny Kelly, ‘La Boheme’ booking agent

more >>> page 4

“‘My main concern has always been seeing this unfortunate repetition of African American men not really striving for success, not really living up to their potential.’”
- Charles C. Meyers, Jr., director and founder

more >>> page 3

“‘A lack of knowledge prevents growth in areas involving growing and selling your own food in markets.’”
- Adam Taylor, WVNMA

more >>> page 2

BCC CAFE INC, SOUTHERN X-POSUR
JANUARY STRIP AD
West Virginia Farmers Market Association to train new farmers and vendors alike

By William Zezo
The Parthenon

West Virginia is entering farmers markets throughout the state and is growing in numbers and significance. The West Virginia Farmers Market Association hosts the annual state festival in Huntington each year. The festival takes place on the weekend following the New Year’s Day with various vendors and entertainment. The West Virginia Farmers Market Association is a part of the West Virginia Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources. The organization offers training to new sellers and vendors alike.

Anita Langary, from London, England moved to Cambridge, Massachusetts in 2013 to attend Antlia Ruskin University. Langary is now a journalism exchange student at Marshall University, and she said her first semester in America has been better than she expected. “The people are much friendlier here,” Langary said. She said there is one thing from America that she would like to take home. “One of your 10%’s, although I’d have no trouble in parking here,” Langary said. “Our cars are much smaller.”

Langary explained the education system in England. She said students start studying at the age of 14 and begin a series of preliminary tests that continue until the end of high school. The student attends college for three years instead of four and focus on his or her major. Classes are separated into large lecture classes and smaller seminars with independent research.

Langary said she sees a difference in teachers in the U.S. and teachers in England. “The teachers care so much more here,” Langary said. “Our students have the training annually and complete specific training for everything.”

According to Langary, the class is structured here in a more suitable for a learning environment. She said the teachers are much hands-on and give assignments every week instead of leaving it up to the student.

Langary said class is not the only thing she likes about Marshall. “I had pizza at Harless a few days ago that was better than what we get in England,” Langary said. “We have one dining facility on our campus, but it doesn’t have much. And it’s very expensive.”

Langary said she has enjoyed the incomensurability of America. “Everything back home costs about three times as much as it does here,” Langary said. Langary said she finds it strange American rely on cars to get around and that shopping in cars close by. In Cambridge people rely on bikes or walking to get where they are going and most shopping can be done about a two to five minute walk from campus.

The only things she said she misses are friends and the comfort of knowing where everything is. Caitlin Fowlkes can be contacted at fowlkes2@marshall.edu.

---

Festival gathers bands and all that jazz

By Mihai Keener
The Parthenon

Marshall University’s 46th annual Winter Jazz Festival started Thursday at the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Huntington.

The festival features various bands and smaller groups, and is one of the top five jazz events in the world. The festival began in 1969 as a way to spread the love of jazz music in public schools. Students were given the invitation to the community and other college groups in the area.

The festival begins on Saturday afternoon and ends on Sunday morning. The event offers various performances by the Marshall University Jazz Band, the University of Tennessee Jazz Ensemble, and the New York City Jazz Symphony.

Students can purchase tickets for Saturday’s concert for $10 and $30 for the public at the box office in The Joan C. Edwards Playhouse in Huntington.

Please contact Wilson at kmcferna@marshall.edu and others for more information on the festival.

---

EXCHANGE STUDENT PROFILE

Anita Langary
London, UK

THE PARTHENON
Herd women come back to win second straight

By ADAM POLSKY

Marshall University women's basketball fought back Thursday from a 12-point deficit to defeat the University of Southern Mississippi 67-65 in the Cam Henderson Center. It was a game of runs with Southern Miss putting together a 13-0 stretch in the first half only two give up a 7-0 run to the Thundering Herd immediately after.

The Thundering Herd would take the lead for good with a 9-0 streak in the last three minutes of the game.

"I'll take it any way we can get it," Marshall head coach Matt Daniel said. "Somebody was asking me about the [Lady Eagles'] technical foul for putting six people on the floor. That was Al [Johnson's] two free throws. 67-65 Herd."

Johnson and sophomore guard McKenzie Akers led the Thundering Herd with 17 points each.

They respectively went 4-12 and 5-13 from beyond the arc. Despite struggling for most of the game, it was Johnson and Akers who contributed all of the Herd's nine points in its final push toward victory.

"We can't just get our heads down about one shot because that can affect everything else," Akers said. "It was a tight game throughout the whole game, and if we're worried about offense, we'll struggle on our defense."

Southern Miss' senior guard Tamara Jones led all scorers with 20 points including a three-pointer that put her team within one point with just 13 seconds to play.

Senior center Chika Ezeigbo contributed to her C-USA leading nine double-doubles with 10 points and 10 rebounds for the Herd.

The reigning C-USA Player of the Week, senior forward Leah Scott, also added 14 points. She knocked in 5-7 from the free throw line, all in the second half.

Scott is the only Marshall player to win Player of the Week honors twice in one season.

The Thundering Herd shot 40 percent from the field for the game. It is now 11-0 when shooting a field goal percentage of 40 or higher. The team is now 12-0 on the season when scoring 61 points or more as well.

The Lady Eagles fell to 12-7 and 5-3 in conference with the loss. The Herd climbed to 13-6 and 5-3 in C-USA with the victory.

Marshall will prepare for Louisiana Tech University and head coach Tyler Summitt, son of legendary coach Pat Summitt, Saturday.

Adam Polsky can be contacted at polsky@live.marshall.edu.

Whitney Frazier, Forward, #2
Frazier is an experienced senior forward who leads the team in scoring this season at 15.2 points per game with a 50 percent shooting clip. She does most of her damage in the paint offensively and creates second-chance opportunities, grabbing 2.6 offensive rebounds per game while averaging a total of 6.4 RPG. Defensively, Frazier isn’t much of a shot blocker as she has just two total blocks all season. Frazier’s collegiate career has been decorated, as she was named All-C-USA last season and second team All-Western Athletic Conference as a sophomore. In her career, she has just two total blocks all season. Frazier’s collegiate career has been decorated, as she was named All-C-USA as a sophomore.

All-Western Athletic Conference as a sophomore. In her career, she has just two total blocks all season. Frazier’s collegiate career has been decorated, as she was named All-C-USA as a sophomore.

Christasia Walter, Guard, #10
Walter, a senior, ranks fifth on the team in scoring at 7.2 PPG, but she ranks first in the conference and 16th nationally in assists at 6.1 per game. Walter’s skillset goes beyond her excellent passing and court vision. She also has size as a 5-foot-8 guard and athleticism to make an impact on the glass averaging a team-leading 6.5 RPG. She isn’t much of an outside shooter as she has made nine 3-pointers in 17 games this season and shot 1-8 against the Herd in last year’s contest.

Michelle Craddock
Craddock enters Saturday’s meet after being named C-USA Swimmer of the Week Tuesday. Craddock competes as a free-style swimmer for Western Kentucky University and notched two individual wins and relay win in the team’s meet last weekend. Craddock won the 500 freestyle, and the 100 freestyle in which she set a new pool record at 50.82 seconds. Craddock also accomplished a split time of 22.65 seconds during the 200 freestyle relay where the team also set a new record.
It is important for college engineering major, said he thinks members to be a part of it."

Members went out and really the program’s growth thus director, Charles C. Meyers, Jr., boys in the Huntington area. Church.

The American Dream Movement group is pictured at its first public ceremonial for new Movement planned its sec... to the Marshall Artists Series

This is a timeless story even though it was composed nearly 300 years ago." Jenny Kelly, booking agent, said the opera is special and unusual because there are still people living like the characters do within the opera.

“La Bohème” is on a world tour and started the U.S. leg with Huntington as one of the first stops in its travels. Kelly wanted to stress opera from that moment not necessarily меньше hay, other singers belting across the stage. "I think people are going to be shocked and really appreciate how good looking the cast is," Kelly said. "The media has put us in a habit of being unattractive, but we have a young, attractive cast that helps us gain favor with what they hear.” The opera is in French, but there will be supertitles projected above the stage. Tickets for the opera are free for Marshall University students, and all others can be purchased at the Keith Albee Performing Arts Center box office or online at marshall.edu.

Kaitlyn Clay can be contacted at clayk12@marshall.edu.

By MALCOLM WALTON

The American Dream Movement planned its second public ceremony for new members at 7 p.m. Feb. 8 at Antioch Missionary Baptist Church.

ADM is a group of young-adult advisors who mentor African American teenagers boys in the Huntington area.

The group's founder and director, Charles C. Meyers, Jr., a 2013 Marshall University graduate, said he is proud of the program's growth thus far.

"When I envisioned the program, I saw it grow in my mind," Meyers said. "So, I am very proud that the existing members went out and really put out a good word for the Movement and encouraged their friends and fellow classmates to be a part of it.

The Movement consists of individuals intended to help the students prepare for their futures, including learning how to be and proper dress et cetera.

The American Dream Movement advisor Troy Fitzpatrick, coordinator, engineering major, said he thinks it is important for college students to get involved with the local middle school and high school students in the community to provide them with a positive role model.

"A lot of kids around this age really don't take their education seriously," Fitzpatrick said. "They might need that reinforcement from people who are getting their secondary education. Just to let them know how crucial an education is to the future and what it brings them in their lives.

ADM meets for its weekly sessions Saturday morning in Marshall's campus.

The attending organizations include Saint Mary's, King's Daughter's Medical Center, Flucause, Rite-Aid, Walgreens and Wal-Mart.

Stoler said the expo is expected to have a large turnout and plans are in place to make the expo an annual event.

The expo is open to pharmacy students only and will be in the Memorial Student Center from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. if they wish to be interviewed. No walk-ins will be taken.

Many hospitals and pharmaceuticals will be in attendance at the expo to offer interviews and job opportunities to students who are interested.

The annual event includes Saint Mary's, King's Daughter's Medical Center, Flucause, CVS, Rite-Aid, Walgreens and Wal-Mart.

Stoler said because the School of Pharmacy is relatively new, there is no need for a large career expo before now.

Stoler said the goal of the expo is to give students a chance to meet with recruiters, market their skills and speak with potential employers to give them a head start in their job searches.

"Even if a student does not find a job at the expo, they will at least have a chance to develop and refine their interview skill and gain experience with job hunting," Stoler said. Recruiters will also be treated to a lunch with Dean of the School of Pharmacy, Dr. Kevin Yingling.

Stoler said the expo is expected to have a large turnout and plans are in place to make the expo an annual event.

The expo is open to pharmacy students only and will be in the Memorial Student Center basement in room R51.

Pharmacy students will be able to browse among different organizations from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Matthew Eplion can be contacted at eplion11@marshall.edu.
ART STUDENTS PRESENT UNIQUE EXHIBIT IN BIRKE ART GALLERY

Marshall University art students collaborate on the exhibit, "Exquisite Corpse," at the Birke Art Gallery. The exhibit is on display until Feb. 28.

By MATTHEW PRANDONI
THE PARTHENON
Marshall University artists were recently given the chance to collaborate with different art forms as part of an exhibit titled "Exquisite Corpse." The exhibit is on display at the Birke Art Gallery until Feb. 28.

The art will be up at the gallery until Feb. 28.

谢丽·哈里森，马歇尔大学副教授，是这幅画的作者。她被要求完成这个作品。她被告知，这个作品将由另一个艺术家完成。哈里森说，她被给予的是创作一幅画的要求。她在图中的部分将被用来完成这幅画。哈里森画的顶部画面使用了彩色铅笔，而下面的画面使用了红色铅笔。

By ANDREA STEELE
THE PARTHENON

Exquisite corpse is a drawing game in which artists contribute to a drawing, with each adding a different part to the overall piece. The gallery's exhibit featured a display of these artworks, showcasing the unique collaborative process of the art students.

The art will be up at the gallery until Feb. 28.

W.Va. House proposes revisions to sex offender law

By LEXI BROWNING
THE PARTHENON
State lawmakers have proposed legislation that would prohibit certain sex offenders from loitering within 1,000 ft. of a daycare facility, school, or residential care area.

Loitering, as defined, in House Bill 2025, refers to lingering or being idle without lawful purpose in an area.

Lead sponsor Delegate Gary Howell, R-Mineral, introduced the bill Jan. 14. After revisions were made in committee, the House passed the bill Jan. 23 and then sent it to the Senate.

Republican Delegates John Shott, Danny Harmon, William Remine, Kelly Schepers, Paul Espinal, Carol Miller, Ron Wolfe, Joe Staley, Brian Barnard and Ray Canterbury sponsored the bill.

Delegate William Remine, R-Tyler, said the bill had no reason to be opposed.

“The idea is to protect children. As Executive Director of Playmates Child Development Center, I work with over 2,000 children and their families annually,” Barker said. “These are our most vulnerable population and many children have suffered from abuse. It’s time as a community we step up to prevent sex offenders from having easy access to our children.”

HB 2025 was introduced to the Senate Jan. 26 and has been sent to Senate Judiciary for further review.

“We need this amendment to better protect our children,” Barker said. “It is the responsibility of every community and our legislatures and other leaders to make the amendments to protect our children,” Barker said. “We need this amendment to better protect our children from sex offenders.”

Barker said her position at playmates makes this particular piece of legislation significant. “As Executive Director of Playmates Child Development Center, I work with over 2,000 children and their families annually,” Barker said. “These are our most vulnerable population and many children have suffered from abuse. It’s time as a community we step up to prevent sex offenders from having easy access to our children.”

HB 2025 was introduced to the Senate Jan. 26 and has been sent to Senate Judiciary for further review.

Lexi Browning can be contacted at brownng16@marshall.edu.

ART STUDENTS PRESENT UNIQUE EXHIBIT IN BIRKE ART GALLERY

By ANDREA STEELE
THE PARTHENON
Marshall University art students collaborate on the exhibit, "Exquisite Corpse," at the Birke Art Gallery. The exhibit is on display until Feb. 28.

Harrison did the top half of the picture and Samantha Belcher, a Marshall professor, did the bottom. The top part of the picture used colored pencils, while the bottom half used shading pencils.

The Birke Art Gallery is located in Smith Hall. The art will be up at the gallery until Feb. 28. Matthew Prandoni can be contacted at prandoni@marshall.edu.

Rec Center Pump and Run 5k set for Saturday

By MERCEDEZ SPIGHT
THE PARTHENON
The Rec Center’s 5th Pump and Run event starts at 8 a.m. Saturday. The event will include a 5k around Marshall University’s campus and a Pump and Run Event. The event was modeled after the Arnold Clas-

10

12

15

17

19

21

23

25

27

29

31

March 1

5

Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Weekend Weather:

WEEKEND NEWS:

FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 2015
THE PARTHENON
WEEKEND WEATHER:

FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 2015
THE PARTHENON

10

12

15

17

19

21

23

25

27

29

31

March 1

5

Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.

Math said the average turnout for the event is about 30 people, and they are mostly male. Marshall freshman Amber Sturgeon said she has participated in the Pump and Run Event in the past but said she was not going to participate this year.

“I don’t know if I could do it if I would go, but I can’t lift,” Turner said. Marshall student Zach Wagner said he likes competition, but he will also not be participating in the Pump and Run Event this weekend. “I can lift, but I hate running,” Wagner said.