Biographical Notes:

Dr. William Spiller Rosenheim, Sr. (April 1, 1882-March 9, 1944) was a dentist in Huntington, West Virginia. He married Frances Harris. Rosenheim was the head of the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, was active in advocating for the completion of the Huntington Flood Wall as well as advocating for industrial development to occur in Huntington and other social and economic Huntington developments.

Scope and Content:

This collection consists of copies of newspaper clippings related to the life and death of William Spiller Rosenheim. Clippings are related to his practice as a dentist, his marriage, and his sudden death, including tributes from colleagues.

Also included in the collection are transcriptions from his journal of 1899 and 1900 when he was living in Wytheville, Virginia. In these brief snippets, he provides detailed descriptions of himself, including various measurements, as well as provides accounts of spending and what he did. Additionally, transcripts and abstracts from letters written by him are included, discussing how he met his wife and other daily events from 1900-1914.
