CONTENT AND SCOPE OF THE COLLECTION

The Cam Henderson papers consist primarily of papers related to his career as a football and basketball coach at Muskingum, Davis and Elkins and Marshall Colleges. A significant part of the collection relates to his wife Roxie Bell Henderson and includes many personal and family items as well as material related to her career as a public school teacher. Included also is material gathered by Dr. Sam Clagg for his biography of Henderson and afterward.

Printed materials comprise most of the collection: yearbooks, newspaper clippings, textbooks, and books related to coaching basketball and football. The bulk of the correspondence is that of Roxie Bell Henderson. There are also numerous photographs of the Bell and Henderson families.

The collection was the gift to Dr. Clagg from Henderson's daughter, Camille Henderson Waldeck., and was originally organized by Dr. Clagg in preparation for writing The Cam Henderson Story: His Life and Times (Parsons, W. Va.: McClain Printing Company, 1981).

ELI CAMDEN HENDERSON, 1890 - 1956

Eli Camden 'Cam' Henderson was born in Joetown, Marion County, West Virginia on February 5, 1890, the son of John and Kate Strosnider Henderson. He attended public schools in Marion County, West Virginia Wesleyan College Academy, Waynesburg College (Pennsylvania), and graduated from Glenville State Normal School (West Virginia) in 1911. In 1912, he married Susan Roxie Bell of Glenville and the young couple began teaching in Harrison County, West Virginia schools. In 1916, the Hendersons enrolled at Salem College, where Cam graduated in 1917. Roxie Henderson continued a career as a public school teacher. Their only child, daughter Camille, was born in 1928.

After coaching positions at Shinnston High School, Muskingum College and Davis and Elkins College, Henderson became athletic director and head basketball, football and baseball coach at Marshall College, now Marshall University, in 1935 and remained at Marshall until his retirement in 1955. He eventually relinquished responsibilities for the athletic department and football and baseball coaching to concentrate on basketball. The overall success of Henderson-coached teams is unparalleled in school history; he is the only coach to win two championships in two different sports: the Buckeye Conference football championship in 1937, and the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball (NAIB) tournament in 1947.

Shortly after his retirement in 1955, Henderson succumbed to heart disease complicated by diabetes

Henderson is credited with inventing the zone defense, which was a key element in Marshall basketball strategy for years after his retirement. He received recognition for his achievements in coaching through selection as Coach of the Year by the West Virginia Sportswriters Association (1947) and his election to the NAIB Hall of Fame (1952), West Virginia Sports Hall of Fame (1955), and the College Basketball Hall of Fame (1974).

In 1981, Henderson was recognized on the Marshall University campus with the dedication of the Henderson Center, a multipurpose athletic facility and home court of the Marshall University basketball team.¹
