Biographical Notes:

Robert Lum (possibly Lune) Day (October 9, 1853-July 7, 1928) was an architect in Huntington, West Virginia from 1900 to 1924. Some of his well-known architectural projects are the Miller & Ritter Building, Huntington Publishing Company, and the West Wing of the Cabell County Courthouse in Huntington. He made a specialty of fireproof construction.

His son, Sidney Logan Day (Dec. 4, 1887-February 22, 1968) joined the firm in 1913, soon after graduating from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston. After his father's retirement, he moved the firm's offices from the Frederick Building to the First Huntington National Bank Building. He eventually retired in 1963.

Scope and Content:

The collection consists of materials from Robert L. Day and Sidney L. Day's education and professional lives as architects in Huntington, West Virginia in the early to mid-twentieth century, with the majority of the collection relating to their professional careers. Dates for the materials range from 1894 to 2009 with the bulk of materials created between 1910 and 1960. Multiple material formats are found within the collection. Formats include paper documents such as business correspondence and project estimates, industry tools and instruments, industry catalogs, clippings, and brochures, architectural blueprints, architectural renderings, and educational certificates, with blueprints and renderings consisting of fifteen flat file drawers, or nearly half of the collection. The collection is divided into two series: professional materials and educational materials. These two series are further divided as follows:

Series 1 – Professional Materials

- Professional work: blueprints, drawings, photographs, and sketches of planned buildings, both commercial and residential. These materials are in boxes 1, 4, 5, and in the blueprint map case.
- Financial documents: cost estimates, billing statements, and receipts. These materials are in boxes 1, 3, 5, and 7.
- Clippings: items clipped from newspapers, journals, and catalogs. These materials are in boxes 2, 3, 5, and in the blueprint map case.
- Tools and publications: architectural tools and industrial literature, including catalogs, fliers, professional newsletters, industry journals, and reference books. This series is located in boxes 1, 3, 4, 7, and 8.

Series 2 – Educational Materials

- Educational materials from three of the schools Sidney Day attended: International Correspondence Schools, Marshall College, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Formats include certificates, textbooks, coursework, and blueprints and drawings. This series is contained in boxes 4, 6, 7, 8 and in the blueprint map case.

Processing Notes:

This collection was already processed at the time the finding aid was created. Minimal changes to folder titles, order, or content were made. Existing inventories with folder lists already completed were used in the creation of this finding aid.
