AAUP calls for equal treatment of SDS

By SUZANNE WOOD
Editor-in-Chief

A resolution was passed Wednesday by the Marshall branch of the American Association of University Professors calling for equal consideration of Students for a Democratic Society in its petition for campus recognition.

The resolution, which was adopted by a 26-3 vote, was not the one which was introduced by Dr. Stuart Colie, professor of political science, at last week's meeting.

Dr. Colie's motion had called specifically for AAUP to recommend to the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee that SDS be granted recognition on campus.

The motion adopted was proposed by Dr. Edward Cubby, professor of social studies, who termed it a "compromise position."

The resolution read as follows:

"1. That the Marshall University Chapter of AAUP, in line with principles of academic freedom and free association, urges the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee to recognize any student organization that meets the formal requirements for campus recognition.

"2. That, in the specific case of the SDS, the same standards be applied to this organization as would be applicable to any other which might petition for recognition."

Dr. Colie withdrew his own motion and supported Dr. Cubby's. However, he still contended that "since it appears that SDS has met all the requirements, we (AAUP) should recommend that it be recognized."

The AAUP membership represents about one third of the Marshall faculty. Twenty-nine voted Wednesday with other members who were present abstaining.

Dr. Cubby in presenting the substitute motion said the resolution was written "in more general terms and does not give the impression that we are advocating or denouncing anyone."

Walter C. Felty, associate professor of social studies, said that although he thought the motion was superior to the one introduced by Dr. Colie, he didn't like the specific mention of SDS in it.

Professor Felty expressed concern over AAUP's setting a precedent by singling out one specific group in a resolution.

William Cook, professor of economics, said he believed "there would be some psychological value to the organization (AAUP) in including the SDS phrase."

"It makes us look afraid and weak not to mention SDS," Professor Cook said, adding that the resolution did not imply approval or disapproval of SDS.

John Callebs, assistant professor of social studies, denounced the motion noting that AAUP might be pre-judging the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee before it acts. He also asked if the committee had asked AAUP for a resolution.

Dr. Sam Clagg, professor of geography and president of the University Council, said he would rather the question had never come up. He termed it "not the business of AAUP" which he said should be concerned with such things as tenure, salaries and sabbatical leaves.

Dr. Colie replied the issue was "exceedingly relevant" to AAUP's business since AAUP is concerned with student rights.

Senate hears 7 amendments

Seven proposed amendments to the Constitution of the Student Government were read to Student Senate Tuesday night by Sen. Jane Braley, Huntington senior and chairman of the Parliamentary Affairs Committee.

The proposed amendments would revise the constitution to comply with the new Senate reapportionment, which will go into effect in the March 12 General Election.

Under the reapportionment, senators will be elected from constituencies rather than classes. Each student will register as a member of a group, and vote only for senators running from that group.

The proposed amendments are:

- 1) In case of a vacancy in the Senate, the members of the constituency in which the vacancy occurs shall caucus and choose a replacement. In the past, the president of the class in which the vacancy occurred appointed the replacement.
- 2) In the event of the vacancy of a class president, the vice president shall succeed and appoint a new vice president. The new vice president would not be chosen from the members of Senate in the past.
- 3) In the event of the vacancy of the vice president of a class, the class president will appoint a replacement. This replacement will not be chosen from the members of the Senate as in the past.

4) All students classified as either graduate or unclassified may elect one president and vice president in October of each year from their combined ranks. Since the part-time students are now paying an activity fee, they will be represented in Senate.

5) Those candidates in the General Election receiving the second highest number of votes for president and vice president of the student body, may, after the inauguration of the newly elected administration, assume the full status and responsibility of senators.

6) A proposed amendment will be presented to the student body, but not necessarily at the General Election.

7) A proposed amendment shall go into effect if approved by a majority of the students voting in any regular or special election. That is, an amendment which could formerly be approved only in the General Election, can be approved by students in any election.

These proposed amendments will be discussed and acted upon by the Senate next week. If approved by Senate, they will be placed on the ballot in the General Election for the approval of the student body.

In other Senate action, Mike Gant, Huntington freshman, is now president of his class due to the ineligibility of former Class President Sam Quesenberry of Beckley, and vice president John Marshall of Huntington, who were disqualified because of grades.

Freshman senators Thea Hambrick of Huntington, and Kathy Van Leur of Louisville, Ky., are also ineligible due to grades.

Gant appointed Jim Foglesong of Huntington, Grace Moore of Buckeye, and Susan Martin of Bridgeport, to fill the vacancies.

Registration by constituency begins for March 12 election

By LEIGH FERGUSON
Staff Reporter

Registration for the March 12 student elections began Wednesday and will continue through Feb. 28.

Students can register from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Student Government Office until a registration booth is placed in front of the Student Union.

Because of a change in the Student Government Constitution students must register in one of six constituencies to vote in the elections.

If students do not register they will not be able to vote, but they will be included in a constituency count so the number of senators elected from the constituencies can be determined.

"The number of people you elect should not be based on how many register, but on the total number of people in each constituency," said Sen. Suzanne Maddox, Nitro junior.

She added that students who don't register will be placed in constituencies according to their college addresses as recorded in the Student Affairs Office, but they will not be able to vote.

Voters can register in one of the following constituencies: Greek (Panhellenic division), Greek (IFC division), Interdorm Council (women's division), Interdorm council (men's division), transient (Huntington and surrounding areas), and unaffiliated students from out of town living in apartments.

Students who qualify for more than one division must chose which constituency they wish to represent them.

Candidates may file for the elections from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Student Government Office and will meet March 3. They must be fulltime students, have a 2.0 overall grade average and be members of the constituencies in which they registered.

THE POLITICAL PURGE

So you want to enter politics? If that is the case, then you are in for a surprise. Whether you know it or not, each of you is a politician, engaged in the complex haggling and compromise known as life.

As Aristotle wrote, "Man is by nature a political animal," and the game of politics permeates nearly all of our activities—clubs, organizations, occupations, sports, marriage and friendship as well.

All of us understand very well the practical operations of political life — the convincing and cajoling, the lining up of support, and the follow-through—all accomplished under the highly tenuous facade of friendship and camaraderie. What happens when the political life — the convincing and cajoling, the lining up of support, have a phenomenon known as the political purge.

One of the tragic lessons of politics—whether in day-to-day life or the real thing — is the art of political survival, a much more highly sophisticated form of the game.

When faced with the political purge, the victim is shaken by a breakdown of trust that often takes away any rewards gained in the political process. His assailant, operating usually from a position of power, attempts to undermine the integrity and/or ability of his victim, through a blanket indictment intended to gather widespread support within a short span of time. In the political purge, the process is quick, surreptitious and ruthless.

As an example, two individuals in an organization might find themselves in a position to vie for a promotion in the organization. One of the individuals, seizing the opportunity, quickly spreads rumors to undermine faith in the other person, receives his promotion, and quickly forgets any statements made. The other person, stunned by the rapid attack, retaliates slowly, is defeated, and is effectively removed from any possibility of viable effectiveness in the organization. The political purge is most often conducted in volunteer organizations, where promotion is more haphazard and the relationships more informal.

What type of person falls victim to such a purge? More than likely, our outwitted lad tends to be rather active in the organization, thus gaining his share of enemies as well as friends. Being more trustworthy than should be expected, this type will be rather naive as to the nuances of politics and the workings of the aggressive mind.

After weathering a purge or two, our victim develops a cynicism, that replaces the naivete, and a wariness that supplants his trust. Hardened by his misfortunes, our outfoxed aspirant becomes more skilled in developing manipulative power, and less bothered with such things as basic human concern for his fellow politician. Is it no wonder that Richard Nixon's best friend is not a politician and professes no willingness to become one?

TV station interviews Nelson

Dr. Roland H. Nelson Jr. Wednesday was interviewed by WCHS-TV newsmen Ralph Murphine, producer of that station's version of the TV-magazine type news show, Concept.

Mr. Murphine explained, "We are doing a long feature on Dr. Nelson and we wanted to capture his personality.

"As he talks to students and we watch it, it is easy for people to see what kind of rapport he has with students."

Television cameras were focused on Dr. Nelson outside Shawkey Student Union as he stopped students to talk with them.

Mr. Murphine said the feature would be on the show at 6:30 p.m. Sunday if he got back to Charleston in time.

The interview started in Dr. Nelson's office then moved outside for a chance to see Dr. Nelson with students. The interview continued at the president's home with his wife and children.

Letters to the editor

Mrs. Payne voices views

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was sent to the Charleston Gazette-Mail by Mrs. E. Wyatt Payne, of Huntington, in response to one of their editorials which was reprinted in The Parthenon. Mrs. Payne requested her letter also be printed in The Parthenon.

Letter to the editor:

Although I shall not answer "in kind", your lead editorial in last Sunday's paper needs some correcting in the interest of objectivity and truth. First, exposing with documented evidence, the people and operations responsible for the Socialist-Communist influence today, whether nationally or on the home front, is not a "Witch Hunt"; It is the action of well-informed, courageous people who are concerned about losing this nation.

For over 40 years (not 20) I have studied, researched and exposed the Socialist and Communist programs and plans in America which brought us to the present-day crisis. Their clever infiltration and introduction has literally changed the basic American concepts which safe-guarded this Republic, probably affecting the government, economics, schools, churches and particularly our youth. This is the real "happening" in the United States.

May I say I am not leading the fight you mentioned, but I am proud to be associated with these "rag, tag and bobtail" allies and fundamental ministers who have the courage and dedication to stand up for BOTH God and Country. "May their tribe increase" It will! By the way, did you include the 1000 member Huntington Women's Club (which joined hundreds of other citizens in the campus protest) in your category?

Next, your researchers goofed. Robert Ruark was one of my favorite columnists, and for your information, the American Legion led that fight to protect our campus from another group whose record proved they should not be given "platform privileges with a captive audience."

If school officials are determined to continue, in the name of "academic freedom", these Russian Roulette Talk-a-thons on, or in, school facilities, then, at least, they should present both sides on a 50-50 basis. Their present record of using "freedom of speech" as license to propagandize and destroy is strewn across the country from Berkeley to Columbia. Personally, I think every high school, college and university should have a plaque at the front entrance which reads—this is an institution of learning. Those who enter for that purpose, are welcome. NO OTHERS ARE ALLOWED. This would strengthen and protect the great majority of students who appreciate the opportunity to get an education in this wonderful country, and also aid officers in keeping law and order.

Finally, we Huntingtonians may be naive and "more wary" of subversion, but we have faith that our good-neighbor Charlestonians who know the score also believe that "to sin by silence makes slaves of free men."

MRS. E. WYATT PAYNE, Huntington

To the editor:

I have been observing the activities of an id, amour propre group. Their instinctual regression to sibling rivalry with a representative from Dow Chemical was amusing, considering the fact that industries in Huntington are involved in making and shipping war materials. The naive subjectivism of this group proposes only emotional non-valuable judgment based on unattached idealism. They promote Castroism (a dictatorship) over democracy. Their intellectual prowess deserves Castro's nickname, El Caballo, (the horse). When this group breaks harmony and stops all educational process, you will be losing hard earned money waiting to get an education.

Section of music hall ceiling falls near coed

"If you see a girl walking across campus with a helmet on, you'll know it's me!" stated Dianna Poland, Clarksburg junior.

The 20-year-old coed was referring to "The Henny-Penny Happening" occurring Thursday on the second floor of the Evelyn Hollberg Smith Music Hall.

"Before going into my class, I stopped for a drink at the water fountain. Rounding the corner, I heard a terrible crash! You can imagine my dismay when I saw a section of the ceiling lying on the floor."

"The fountain and surrounding floor was covered with dust and dirt. Everything was black. If I had been a minute later I know I would have gotten hit," Miss Poland said.

A transfer student from West Virginia Wesleyan, Miss Poland continued, "When I came to MU I never thought I'd have to wear a crash helmet to classes in a new music building."

When C. Steve Szekely, superintendent of buildings and grounds, was contacted concerning the cause of this incident he said, "Somebody must have . . . just reached up and pulled the bracing from the ceiling down."

Campus briefs

RELIEF IN SIGHT

The longest two-hour course at Marshall is about to disappear from the campus scene.

Journalism 360, a news photography course, has been approved as a three-hour course by the College of Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee and the University-wide Academic Planning and Standards Committee.

The change will probably become effective during the summer terms.

Students in the two-hour course take at least nine photo assignments during the semester, develop the film, and make the prints — apart from the two 50-minute lecture periods weekly.

SOUTHEAST ASIA TOPIC

Francis K. Aldred, associate professor of history, will speak on "Southeast Asia" at 9:15 p.m. next Wednesday at the Campus Christian Center. Professor Aldred will discuss topics concerning Southeast Asia and the Paris Peace Talks. On March 5, Associate Professor J. Harvey Saunders will give a talk on "Cuba—the Castro Decade."

SERIES TICKETS

Tickets will be available Monday and Tuesday for the last Artists Series of the year — Arthur Fielder and the Washington Pops Orchestra — to be held Monday, March 3 at 8:30 p.m. in the Keith-Albee Theatre. Students may pick up their tickets in the rear hall of Old Main between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. by presentation of activity cards. Fiedler is known as "Mr. Music" and the ensemble, under the musical direction of Howard Mitchell, is called "The Orchestra of the Presidents," now in its 38th season.

AUDITIONS SET

Auditions for "Lysistarata" will be held starting Feb. 28 at Old Main Auditorium for two days. People participating in auditions are required to memorize one minute of their own choice of material. The cast will consist of 40 persons divided equally among the men and women. All parts are available and the cast will be completed on the last day of audition.

ALPHA XI PROVINCE HEAD

Mrs. Sue Solstein, province president for Alpha, Xi Delta sororities in West Virginia, will visit the Marshall chapter this weekend for the annual national inspection. She will observe chapter meetings and ceremonies. Mrs. Holstein is a graduate of Marshall University and has served the Alpha Xi Delta chapter for the past six years. She will officially end her term of office at the Province Convention in Parkersburg, April 11-13.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON HOUSE RISES AT 14TH STREET, FIFTH AVENUE
... Will house 42 men, have ballroom

SAE house nears completion

By STEVE GIBSON
Staff Reporter

Construction of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house on the corner of Fifth Avenue and Fourteenth Street is scheduled to be completed May 15, according to Bill Blenko, Milton senior.

Cost of the house which will accommodate 42 men is $246,000. The fraternity is the first on campus to construct a new house.

The two-story structure will include such features as a $15,000 stained glass window in the form of the fraternity pin, a ballroom, which according to Blenko will be the third largest in Huntington, and a dining room with accommodations for 80 people.

Other features include an AM-FM stereo intercom system, 21 dorm rooms, library and office space. The housemother will have a living room, bedroom and bath.

Originally the house was to be completed this month, but due to a brick-layers strike the completion was delayed.

Tentative plans for the house were begun in 1958, but construction did not begin until last year.

Financing is being handled by alumni, friends and House Corporation.

Seniors team-teach at Oley

Twenty-eight Marshall University seniors are doing their student teaching at Oley Junior High School in a new way called team teaching.

"They're doing a type of teaching which calls for the general presentation being made by the supervising teacher and, then, in an effort to give more individualized instruction to the student, they are backed-up by the student teachers," said Jack L. Corron, Oley principal.

"In a class of 24," he added,

Want to speak? Here's chance!

"Put a little fun in your life — try speaking."

This could be the suggestion of Dr. Eugene Hoak, Professor of speech and coach for individual speakers, in an attempt to encourage more students to participate in up-coming speaking events.

Dr. Hoak emphasizes the fact that all students are eligible.

Individual speaking tournaments will be taking place at Miami University, Jackson's Mill, University of Kentucky, and Ohio University. The one at Miami will be on March 7.

Persuasive speaking (oratory), extemporaneous, impromptu, after-dinner, oral interpretation of poetry and prose, and radio speaking are events in which students can enter.

"The special dividends derived from these activities are not only personal coaching, but also exciting experiences before live and appreciative audiences," said Dr. Hoak.

"the supervising teacher gives a general lecture for the first part of the class period. Then the students divide into three teams of eight and discuss and work out their problems."

Mr. Corron feels that the entire school is involved in the student teaching. The new teachers can observe others and are able to practice in both their teaching fields.

There are usually two student teachers and one supervising teacher to each classroom.

Mr. Corron said, "This team teaching helps the student gain the teacher's confidence. The student teacher is so often not given enough credit for his teaching. He isn't given an opportunity to teach the way he wants. Student teachers need a chance, and they now have it."

Debbie Powell, Clarksburg senior, said, "I think team teaching is a wonderful plan, mainly because it enables us, the teachers, to give more individual at-

Swim team prospects eyed

What are the prospects for Marshall's swim team?

How well might the fledglings do in future competition?

Coach Robert C. Saunders, instructor of physical education, took some time to analyze the prospects.

As for the coach himself, he attended Brooklyn College in New York City and received his B.S. and M.A. degrees in physical education from Ohio State.

He taught three years of high school at Lakeland, Fla., where he was chairman of the Department of Physical Education and head of the cross country and intramural teams. The coach then went to the University of Maryland as a graduate assistant working for his Ph.D. in physical education.

In 1967 Coach Saunders came to Marshall to coordinate the aquatics program and teach physical education.

This is MU's first season with a swim team and the bulk of the team is made up of freshmen. With eight members on the team and two varsity swimmers, the team had to compete under the name of the Marshall University Aquatics Club, Coach Saunders said.

Because the MU aquatics program is young, Coach Saunders feels that it will take some time to build a strong swim team. He said that when growth takes place the program will attract more and more swimmers.

"We hope to get more financial aid. Our development depends upon an increase in financial aid," said Saunders.

Coach Saunders pointed out a need for more facilities. He said, "The swimming facilities are adequate from our standpoint, but they could be better. For instance, we could not host the Mid-American Championship here because of the lack of a three-meter facility. The pool could be wider also."

Coach Saunders said that prospects for next year's team are bright. He has contacted a few swimmers from Lakeland, Ohio, who he feels are fine collegiate prospects. He has also contacted men from some Pennsylvania schools.

The bright spot of the swimming team, he feels, is Dave Hall, Lakeland, Ohio, freshman. "Hall is a very versatile swimmer. He is potentially outstanding. He has the potential to be a top-flight collegiate swimmer, and to date he is doing very well," he said.

Coach Saunders went on to say, "On the basis of times achieved this season, the following men give every indication that they will be point scorers in that MAC championships. They are: David Beakes, Clarksburg junior; Ralph Gardner, Cincinnati, Ohio, freshman; Jay Winegardner, Newark, Ohio, freshman, and Richard Houvouras, Huntington freshman. Varsity members include Jim Hollock, Butler, Pa., junior, and Dan Hyre, Clarksburg senior."

There are two meets left in the season. The first one is this Saturday against the University of Kentucky at home. On March 1, the team will meet the Miami University freshmen at Miami.

The team's record now stands at 2-3.

Intramural Sports

Tau Kappa Epsilon has compiled 140 points in intramural sports to become the new overall leader in the intramural point standings.

Kappa Alpha Order dipped to second place with a total of 135 points. DI's are in third place with 85 points.

In Monday's basketball play, a total of four games were scheduled, but only three contests were played due to a forfeit. The Banana Splits won this forfeit over the Niners.

Brent Pleasant, Chesapeake, Ohio, junior, and John Kinney, Wheeling senior, each scored 18 points as they led Kappa Alpha Psi Ones over We Five, 46-27.

Ace & Meline's Megicians defeated Sigma Alpha Epsilon Twos, 67-29, as Bill Oberly, Alexandria, Va., senior, Lou Bowmand, Huntington senior, and Spencer Ripley, Wheeling freshman, combined to score 50 points.

DI Threes smashed Everybody's Nuts Twos, 45-19, behind Fairlawn, N. J., sophomore, Jim McFarland's 12 markers. Mike Watson, Logan senior, also banged in 11 points for the victors. Jim Preston, Paintsville, Ky., senior, topped Everybody's Nuts scorers with six.

In other intramural action, the handball tournament began play Tuesday with a total of four games played. Don Toma, Metuchin, N. J., senior, defeated Scott McCormick, Bridgeport senior, by a score of 11-8 and 11-5. John Oblinger, Charleston junior, squeezed past Ron Rudowsky, Tawaco, N. J., junior, 11-6, 2-11, and 12-10.

DI's, Jim Gilbert, New Martinsville senior, rolled over Phi Kappa Tau's, Dominick Versale, Saddlebrook, N. J., junior, 9-11, 11-2, and 11-2. Mark Hensley, Barboursville freshman, defeated Gary Forren, Quinimont sophomore, by a score of 11-3 and 11-4.

MU captures honors at regional tournament

Marshall competitors fared well last weekend in the regional tournament of Association of College Unions Intercollegiate Tournaments held at West Virginia University in Morgantown.

Students from schools in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maryland and the District of Columbia competed in the tournament.

Marshall's Barry Hixon, Huntington junior, captured the championship in the pocket billiards tournament by defeating his opponent from Indiana University in the final match. University of Maryland placed third in competition.

14 teams from nine schools competed in the regional chess tournament.

Results of the chess tournament were: (1) University of Maryland B team, (2) University of Maryland A team, (3) Albright College, (4) Marshall University B team, (4) Penn State B team and (5) Pennsylvania A team.

Other schools competing in the Regional tournament were: West Virginia University, Shepherd College, Slippery Rock State College, Washington and Jefferson College and Davis and Elkins College.

BAZAAR SET

An old-fashioned bazaar will be held in spring by the Little Sisters of Minerva, an affiliate of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Items sold at the bazaar will be hand-made by the sisters. Featured will be painted lunch-pail purses, made to order.

Aquatics club will host UK this Saturday

The Marshall Aquatics Club will be out to improve its 2-3 record Feb. 21 when they host the University of Kentucky at 4:30 p.m. in Gullickson Hall pool.

The club's last outing was a 61-35 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan that saw seven school records broken in swimming and diving.

David Beakes, Clarksburg freshman, set records in the 1,000 yard free style (11:30.5) and the 200 yard backstroke (2:18.4). Ralph Gardner, Cincinnati, Ohio, freshman, established records of 2:09.5 in the 200 yard individual medley and 5:26.4 in the 500 yard free style.

A new diving record was set by Jim Hollock, Butler, Pa., junior, with 193.70 points and Jay Winegardner, Newark, Ohio, freshman, set new school records in the 50 yard free style (23.5) and 200 yard butterfly (2:16.8)

"I expect the UK meet to be rough because they have a very complete team and an outstanding sprinter in Tom Stuss," stated Coach Robert Saunders.

A good cry cleanses the soul

After all is shed and done, your soul may be saved... but your contacts need help. They need Lenseine. Lenseine is the one contact lens solution for complete contact care... preparing, cleansing, and soaking.

There was a time when you needed two or more different lens solutions to properly prepare and maintain your contacts. No more. Lenseine, from The Murine Company, makes caring for contact lenses as convenient as wearing them.

Just a drop or two of Lenseine coats and lubricates your lens. This allows the lens to float more freely in the eye, reducing tearful irritation. Why? Because Lenseine is a compatible, "isotonic" solution, very much like your eye's natural fluids.

Cleaning your contacts with Lenseine retards the build-up of foreign deposits on the lenses. And soaking your contacts in Lenseine between wearing periods assures you of proper lens hygiene. You get a free soaking-storage case with individual lens compartments on the bottom of every bottle of Lenseine.

It has been demonstrated the improper storage between wearings permits the growth of bacteria on the lenses. This is a sure cause of eye irritation and in some cases can endanger your vision. Bacteria cannot grow in Lenseine because it's sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic.
