'Farewell to Ike'

By KATHY STEPHENSON
Staff Reporter

Eighty-eight coeds from the women's dormitories along with a number of other Marshall students braved 29 degree weather Tuesday morning in order to attend a brief service for the late General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The service took place when the train, which carried the late president's body, arrived at 5:30 a.m. It lasted about 10 minutes, and was conducted by the Rev. James C. Burchett of the Trinity Church of God before an estimated crowd of 1000.

One Marshall coed, Patricia Tallarico, South Charleston freshman, carried a "Farewell to Ike" sign.

Miss Tallarico said, "I pictured Eisenhower more as a general than as a president."

That image was preserved as the platform was flanked by an Honor Guard consisting of American Legionnaires and two World War I veterans in uniform.

There were 49 women from West Hall, 25 from Prichard and 14 from Laidley who attended the ceremony. The housemothers turned the side-door alarm systems off allowing the girls to leave as early as 4 a.m.

The service consisted of an invocation and brief eulogy by Rev. Burchett, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Taps were then played by Eric France, a Marshall graduate student and music teacher at Buffalo High School.

Judicial board formed for dorm

A seven-member judicial board has been organized at South Hall to prevent further vandalism in the dormitory.

At a recent dormitory meeting residents voted to establish the board to hear cases concerning vandadlism.

There has been no further vandalism since an undisclosed number of students was allowed to withdraw from the University after hearings last week with acting Dean of Student Affairs Harold L. Willey and two associate deans.

Investigations have been stopped, according to Bill Redd, Gary freshman and member of the board.

"The fact of the board's presence has perhaps stopped any further vandalism," Redd said. "No cases have come before the board as yet, but people seem to have more respect for the dorm now, so it seems to be working out."

The board has made a progress report to President Roland H. Nelson Jr. and, according to Redd, Dr. Nelson "seemed pleased." President Nelson has made several visits to the dorm since the vandalism occurred.

Redd felt that the main problem was that there were three people in the rooms.

"The students involved felt they needed to rid themselves of their hostilities so they took it out on the furniture. The damage will be repaired, and next year things will start out better," Redd added. "As long as there are three in a room, there just isn't enough space."

Many extend holiday

Widespread absenteeism was apparent on the Marshall University campus Tuesday. The apparent reasons were the national day of mourning for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Easter vacation which begins today at noon.

Housemothers in women's dormitories reported 82 coeds had checked out before Tuesday morning. One of the dorms had 36 absences.

Residence directors in men's dormitories could not give a total number of absentees because men do not have to sign out.

Fraternity and sorority housemothers said a total of 101 Greeks had left campus. This total includes 18 coeds and 83 men. One fraternity reported 37 missing members.

Two results of the widespread absenteeism were an abundance of near campus parking spaces and the attendance in some classes dropped 50 per cent.

SENATE TO MEET

Jim Wooten, Beckley senior and student body president, announced that a Senate meeting is scheduled for April 8 in Smith Hall Auditorium at 5:45 p.m. All senators who weren't at the inauguration will be sworn in at the meeting.

50 pct. for new positions

'69-70 pay increases noted

Fifty per cent of the increase in personal service budget funds will go for salary raises for current employees at Marshall, President Roland Hill Nelson Jr. told the University Council on Friday.

This means that approximately $394,000 will be used for this purpose in 1969-70.

The remaining 50 per cent will be used for new positions including 29 new faculty positions and 18 clerical positions.

The personal service budget for 1968-69 was $5,636,727. It will be $6,425,239 in 1969-70.

The 1969-70 budget includes a 3.5 per cent salary increase for those who received a satisfactory rating from department chairmen and administrators. Ratings were based on five evaluations—from A to E, with E the highest rating and B indicating satisfactory service.

For those in the C category, the percentage salary increase will be 5.5 per cent; D, 8 per cent, and E, 10 per cent.

Average increases, based on 1968-69 nine-month salaries, will be: 5.8 per cent for full professors, 5.25 per cent for associate professors, 4.96 for assistant professors, and 8.4 per cent for instructors.

Average salaries now (with average increases next year in parentheses) are: $14,089 for full professors ($700), $11,682 for associate professors ($600), $10,019 for assistant professors ($500), and $8,439 for instructors ($650).

"On faculty salary increases," President Nelson said, "I was told by the West Virginia Board of Education and by influential legislators that across-the-board raises were not to be tolerated. Salary increases were to be based on merit."

To obtain additional funds for personnel, President Nelson requested the last session of the West Virginia Legislature to shift $83,000 in the equipment budget and $33,000 in the closed-circuit ETV budget to personnel services. He was given authorization to do this.

This action reduced equipment funds for the 1969-70 budget, although President Nelson indicated that additional funds would be available through the student instructional fee.

An increase of $50,000 has been appropriated for current expenses (telephones, utilities, etc.), $14,000 increase for repairs and alterations, while travel funds ($18,000) will remain the same except for contributions to the Commitment to Marshall drive.

Using an "emerging university" concept for comparison of faculty salaries, President Nelson said Marshall is competitive in salaries with comparable institutions in Virginia and Kentucky, but not with those in Ohio.

Tickets are still available for Greek Week activities

With Greek Week only a short time away (April 8-12) plenty of tickets are still available for the activities sponsored by the Interfraternity Council.

Approximately 500 tickets still remain for the 8 p.m. April 9 concert at the Keith-Albee Theater featuring soul singers Sam and Dave. Price of the tickets, available in the Student Union or at the Keith-Albee ticket booth, is $7 per couple.

MU's seven sororities will serve buffets open to all Greek organizations on the evening of April 10.

On April 11, the annual Greek chariot race will be held at 7 p.m. Residents of each fraternity will ride in the chariots along 4th Ave. from 13th to 16th St.

Greek games will be held April 12. The games will start at 1 p.m. and will be played on Central Field.

At 8 p.m., the IFC is sponsoring a dance at Memorial Field House. "The 006's," a soul group from Pittsburgh, will entertain.

Daily Digest

Here's what's happening on campus today and during vacation:

TODAY

THURSDAY

8 p.m. — Harrison Salisbury, New York Times managing editor will speak at a Community Forum in Old Main Auditorium.

Advanced registration

Advanced registration for both summer terms begins April 9 and continues through April 15. Registration time is from 8:15-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-4 p.m.

April 12 is reserved for students living off campus. They may register between 9:30-11 a.m.

Advanced registration is open to all present and former students and new graduate students fully admitted. It is the first time undergraduate students will not be permitted to advance register.

All tuition and registration fees must be paid at the time of registering.

Letters to the editor

To the editor:

In the March 27 Forum Dr. Richard Dorsey hinted at the great progress made in the conceptual capabilities of the social elite at Marshall University. Leaping forward out of the dark ages of states rightsism they now see the world in the dazzling light of fraternities rightsism. The penetrating insights into racial discrimination with which Dr. Dorsey defends the "established equilibrium" warms to the very depths of my toe nails; am I really expected to genuflect to this same old conventional wisdom?

If we accept and follow through with Dr. Dorsey's line of reasoning it becomes clear that the reason six million Jews died in the Nazi gas chambers is simply that the "overwhelming majority" of the German people did not wish to have the antagonistic Jews forced upon them in the social sphere. But it is difficult to follow Dr. Dorsey's line of reasoning, e.g. in one paragraph he praised the single member black ball system used by many fraternities, but in a subsequent paragraph he exuberantly announced that "the reason that these groups have remained all white is, simply, that this is what suited the overwhelming majority of members." It seems to me that a handful of strategically placed racists would tend to constitute an effective majority — I have met more than a handful of lilly-white racists decked out in a frat badge, tasseled loafers, graph paper trousers, black socks (?) and a buttoned down collar. Other examples of less than sound logic abound in Dr. Dorsey's article.

Let me explain that I do not intend this as a personal attack upon Dr. Dorsey, but rather an attack upon the illogical, emotionally-laden arguments presented in his article. I would also like to confess that I was a member of a—CONTRA SATANAS—social fraternity at another campus, so I've seen what is on both sides of the badge. Just for the record, I am a pale skinned Caucasian—whatever that is.

To the editor:

Once again Huntington has proven that even in the 20th century there is one place on God's earth where residual Puritan beliefs can be upheld with pride. Congratulations to Reverend Villers in his stand against pornography on the MU campus.

Students and young children must be protected against immorality. Perhaps we should censor all art forms as they are clearly representative of pagan beliefs and practices. The good Reverend Villers may never have seen Van Eyck's Ghent Altarpiece nor Masaccio's Expulsion from Paradise in the Brancacci Chapel (both are of nudes, neither of which are Mary nor Jesus) but surely he is familiar with the Sistine Chapel.

The nude is an established and respected tradition in the art world. If Reverend Villers plans to continue as an art critic perhaps he might find it wise to learn something about the subject. A juried show is common practice but the good Reverend should not have assumed the privilege of censorship.

SHERRY EDWARDS,

To the editor:

The female nude has figured prominently in art since some pre-historic hunter carved the Venus of Willendorf by his campfire some 25,000 years ago. Contemporary Man, it seems, has at times and places not been able to accept the rendered female form. Being crotchety, a 25,000 year old hang-up tends to make me want to stomp my foot with impatience.

More black entertainment is considered

The Student Conduct and Welfare Committee is researching the possibility of more black entertainment on campus and a black minister at the Campus Christian Center.

The problem lies in the financing of the entertainment, according to Dr. Howard L. Mills, professor of botany and committee chairman.

Any group not brought in by Artists Series is brought in by the Student Government, said Dr. Mills. Increased entertainment by them would mean increased activity fees.

Bringing new groups to Marshall is being considered as a result of the racial discrimination report which was submitted to the committee last month.

The committee will meet again in two weeks.

Engineers to study Fairfield upgrading

Osborne Engineering Company of Cleveland, Ohio has been commissioned by Marshall University to study the feasibility of upgrading Fairfield Stadium, the University's home football field.

Main features of the study are: (1) increasing the seating capacity to 25,000; and (2) installing a synthetic playing surface.

In announcing the plan Saturday, Athletic Director Eddie Barrett said the $5,000 contract will be paid for by the Marshall Athletic Department. "If the study finds renovation desirable further finances will be decided later," Barrett said.

Marshall shares the Fairfield facilities with Huntington High and Huntington East High schools.

Fairfield Stadium currently seats 11,000. Barrett pointed out that every other institution in the MAC either has, or has stated intentions to construct within three years a stadium of not less than 25,000 capacity.

Barrett said that the present size and condition of Fairfield Stadium caused University of Louisville and East Carolina University to leave the Marshall schedule after 1970.

Increasing the seating capacity at Fairfield Barrett feels, would enable the University to offer an adequate guarantee to one opponent annually such as Pitt, Kentucky, Virginia Tech, West Virginia or Wake Forest.

Furthermore, the MAC recently doubled its guarantee to visiting conference teams to $5,000 per games. Barrett estimated the move will cost about $31,000 more next season.

Barrett proposed enlarging and improving of Fairfield as one way to avoid building a new stadium which he estimated would cost in excess of $1 million, not counting land values.

Among suggestions to be studied by Osborne are:

1. Lowering the playing field by excavating to provide additional seats in front of the existing stands;

2. Installation of a synthetic playing surface;

3. Constructing additional seats above and behind the present stands, and in the end zone.

4. Recommendations for repair and improvement of the existing facility, including press box, rest rooms, and other facilities needed to accommodate the larger capacity. (These recommendations will include a report on the advantages and disadvantages of the site location and the condition and life expectancy of the present facility.)

The Osborne report will also include a model of the completely developed stadium, indicating phases of development and estimates of the cost of each phase.

MU-Dayton baseball today

By BOB WADE
Sports Writer

The MU baseball team hosts the University of Dayton at St. Cloud Commons Field in a single game at 3 p.m. today.

Marshall opened the season Friday by splitting a double-header with the Glenville State Pioneers at St. Cloud Commons.

MU dropped the opener 5-2 with Glenville's Mike Wentzel limiting the Herd to only four hits, but came back to take the nightcap 8-2 with MU's Carl Hewlett pitching a four-hitter.

Marshall jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the third inning of the first game as Glenn Verbage and John Mazur drove in runs.

Glenville scored its final run in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Jackie Robinson, but the run was meaningless as MU could not rally in the bottom of the seventh.

Jim Fantuzzo led Marshall with two hits in the first game. Rodney May was charged with the loss.

The second game was all Marshall as MU scored one run in the first inning, two in the second, one in the fifth and four in the sixth.

MU starter, Carl Hewlett, went the distance and held Glenville scoreless until the seventh inning when he gave up a two-run single to Tom Haught.

Sophomore Gil Koury led MU in the second game with three hits including a double. John Mazur and Glenn Verbage also hit doubles and Horlin Carter tagged a triple. Roger Gertz had a single.

Saturday's double-header with Concord College was postponed indefinitely because of wet grounds.

Coach Jack Cook said he has submitted several dates to Concord for possible rescheduling of the games.

Thursday the Herd hits the road for a four-game stint traveling to Emory, Va., for a double-header with Emory and Henry. Friday they travel to Johnson City, Tenn., for a single game with East Tennessee State, and Saturday they will be hosted by Milligan College for a single game also in Johnson City.

Monday, MU returns home to host West Virginia State in a single game at St. Cloud Commons. Tuesday, the Herd is back on the road traveling to Morehead, Ky., for a double-header with Morehead State.

MU begins conference competition April 11 when they travel to Bowling Green, Ohio, to face the Bowling Green Falcons.

Golfers travel to Oxford today

By ROGER HENSLEY
Sports Writer

Marshall golfers leave today for Oxford, Ohio for a quad-rangular match on Thursday with Ohio State, Ball State and Miami of Ohio.

Saturday the team will continue on to Columbus for a match which includes all the Big Ten teams with the exception of Northwestern.

The second match of Marshall's two match home-schedule will be April 25-26 when Marshall and Guyan Golf and Country Club will host the 1969 MAC Invitational.

Bad weather and a stubborn Ohio University team spoiled Marshall's opening match Saturday at Guyan Country Club.

Marshall defeated West Virginia State 17-7 but lost to Ohio 12½-11½. Ohio, pre-season favorite in the MAC, was playing its first match since returning from a six-match road trip through the south.

According to Coach Ed Westcott, Saturday's loss was disappointing but, "considering the weather we did real well and we were also trying out some new men on the team."

Complete results of Saturday's match are:

Frank Sexton (M), 37-37-74, def. Ludi Schenk (O), 38-37-75, 4-0, and Jack Sharp (WVS), 39-38-77, 4-0.

Ken Bowen (M), 40-36-76, def. Mark Brugner (O), 41-39-80, 4-0, and Phil Edwards (WVS), 39-44-83, 3-1.

Bill Monett (O), 38-37-75, def. Bryan Harter (WVS), 40-43-83, 4-0, and Mike High (M), 43-41-84, 4-0.

Jeff Billie (M), 41-35-76, def. Gregg Moore (O), 41-39-80, 3½-½, and Bill Ray (WVS), 46-43-89, 4-0.

Tim Reardon (O), 36-37-73, def. Marc Sprouse (M), 44-41-85, 4-0, and Gerry Johnson (WVS), 48-45-93, 4-0.

Jim White (O), 39-38-77, def. Jim Hawley (WVS), 47-46-93, 4-0, and Fred Lester (M), 51-43-93, 4-0.

Dr. Colie going to Connecticut

Dr. Stuart E. Colie, associate professor of political science, will leave Marshall at the end of the spring semester.

Dr. Colie will join the faculty at the Central Connecticut State College in New Britain. He will hold an associate professorship and held open a new political science department which the school is just starting.

This semester will end his second year at Marshall in the Political Science Department. Dr. Colie has been teaching for 14 years and taught at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon prior to coming to Marshall. Dr. Colie received his doctorate degree in political science at Princeton University in 1963.

National Teacher Exam April 12

The National Teacher Examination will be given April 12 in Science Hall Auditorium. Seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require examination scores are eligible to take the test.

The test includes a common examination of professional and general education plus one of the 15 teaching area examinations which are designed to evaluate his understanding of the subject matter and method applicable to the area he may be assigned to teach.

Bulletins describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from the Office of Dean of Teachers College or the Registrar's Office.

The tests are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J.

Mid-term exam policy viewed

Students who missed mid-term exams Monday will be given make-up tests at each instructor's convenience, according to Dr. Donald N. Dedmon, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Classes in which tests were scheduled were missed Monday due to the national day of mourning for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dr. Dedmon said, "I have no special instructions. If a test was scheduled for Monday it will probably be given at the next class period."

Mid-term grades were to be in the dean's offices of the respective colleges by 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Robert B. Hayes, the Dean of Teachers College, said he did not know if the deadline would be changed, but he would confer with Dr. Dedmon.

Prichard Hall repairs made

The bathroom ceilings of Prichard Hall have been repaired.

In response to a petition earlier in the year by Prichard residents, cracks and holes have been replastered and the ceilings painted.

C. S. Szekely, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said he has investigated and tried to do something about any valid complaints he received. He indicated, however, that to initiate any major changes, funds would have to come from a higher authority.

There is a possibility Prichard will receive new or reconditioned furniture for the basement, according to Warren S. Myers, housing director.

He said there is a program in mind for improving Prichard but would not give any specific plans because "there are too many things pending." He said the program may be revealed later in the school year, depending on what funds he has to work with.

Dormitory fees next year will be the same for Prichard as for the other dorms if there are only two in a room, according to a spokesman for the Business and Finance Office.

Coed named top chemistry student

By LISBETH MONTGOMERY
Staff Reporter

Anyone who thinks chemistry is a man's world should talk to Linda Handloser, Huntington senior, who was chosen outstanding senior chemistry student.

Miss Handloser, a chemistry major with a minor in math and physics, was chosen from all senior chemistry majors on the basis of her academic record and research in chemistry. She was selected by professors in the Department of Chemistry.

When asked why she chose chemistry as her field, Miss Handloser said, "I like it. I have been interested in it since high school and when I came to Marshall the enthusiasm of the instructors was very helpful."

Being in what is primarily a man's field doesn't bother her. "So far I have not gone far enough along to have noticed any prejudice," Miss Handloser said.

After graduation, her plans are to continue her studies in chemistry. She has been accepted at Yale to do graduate work and work toward her Ph.D. After she accomplishes this, Miss Handloser hopes to get a medical degree and go into medical research or apply for a teaching position at a university.

Receiving this award has been "quite an honor" for her. "This year there was a larger number of chemistry majors to be considered," Miss Handloser added. She will be awarded an 18-month associate membership in the American Chemical Society.
