Lindsley resigns

Faculty salary decisions hit

By SUSAN MARTIN
Staff Reporter

David Lindsley, instructor of business administration, has resigned from the Marshall faculty to complete graduate work at Michigan University where he has been offered a fellowship.

However, that is only one reason for his leaving. Lindsley's resignation was "prompted by the fact that he got stuck with a lot of courses outside his field" of finance and investments.

Lindsley was asked to teach management classes but refused because he had only two management courses himself.

Nevertheless, a finance course he was planning to teach has been cancelled and a management course substituted.

Another reason Lindsley gave for his resignation concerns the contract situation in which "raises are supposedly awarded on merit." He cannot "see any merit in cases where some raises were given."

"It seems to me the administration has made a huge 'faux pas' and should do something to correct it," Lindsley said.

Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, vice president of academic affairs, and Dr. E. R. Browning, acting chairman of the Department of Business Administration, had no comment on Lindsley's statements.

Lindsley isn't the only faculty member who has resigned. Dr. Stuart Colie, professor of political science, has accepted a position at Central Connecticut State College, New Britain, Conn., for several reasons.

The main ones are: the job offer is "attractive and challenging in a newly-formed political science department," and there are "scholarly contacts and resources in that region within a 30-mile radius of Yale, Wesleyan, Trinity and University of Connecticut that are almost unique."

Three members of the Department of English also have resigned. Juliet W. Kincaid is moving to Lexington, Ky., where her husband has been granted an assistantship at the University of Kentucky. Mary Byus is "retiring teaching."

Betty McClellan is expecting a child in July, so will be unable to return to teaching in the fall.

John McKernan is not resigning, but is going on a leave of absence for a year.

William C. McComas, instructor of psychology, has been granted a special professor assistantship at Southern Illinois where he will be working on his doctorate in social psychology.

Dorm hours at issue today in coed vote

Voting is under way today on a resolution to abolish dorm hours for women.

Polling began at 9 a.m. and will continue until 5 p.m. in the office of each of the women's dorms. According to the Student Senate resolution calling for the vote, only women living in the dorms may vote and women may vote only in the dorm where they live.

A provision in the resolution calls for a $5.76 increase in dorm fees per semester to employ a security guard for each dorm.

The resolution also stipulated that an approval of the referendum by the women, the resolution would be presented to the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee for action.

The dorm resolution was introduced in last Wednesday's Senate meeting by Sen. Madeline Stover, Beckley sophomore. The resolution passed with only one dissenting vote.

If approved by the dorm coeds the proposal will then go to the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

Student teachers will not be placed in Ironton this fall

By PAULINE CARROLL
Staff Reporter

MU student teachers will not be placed in the Ironton school system during the first semester of 1969-70. As for second semester, the decision is still under consideration.

This action results from the withdrawal earlier this month of four student teachers from the Ironton school district because of local opposition to one student teacher who is an SDS member.

Because of the withdrawal so late in the semester, a question has arisen as whether Marshall's student teaching program should be re-evaluated.

According to Dr. Lawrence Nuzum, director of student teaching, MU doesn't require student teachers to divulge personal information about themselves. However, if a school board doesn't want a member of a certain organization to do student teaching in their district, Marshall can do nothing about it.

Dr. Nuzum said this situation is currently being taken into consideration and a new policy might be required to cope with it.

As to whether the four student teachers will be affected grade-wise by their transfer from Ironton to the Marshall Lab School, Dr. Nuzum said the students would not be penalized. If their case study reports, a requirement of student teaching, is not completed because of the transfer, they will be evaluated on the basis of their work already completed.

Evaluation will come from the supervising teacher in Ironton, where the students spent about nine weeks, and from the lab school, where they will complete the term.

Education department creates new positions

By SUSAN MARTIN
Staff Reporter

Dean Robert B. Hayes and the Teachers College faculty have completed plans for administrative reorganization of the Department of Education.

A plan calling for 11 new positions was recently approved by the West Virginia Board of Education. The restructure is designed to make organization more responsive to changes in teacher education. It is intended to provide more leadership for the professional education area. Leaders of specified programs will be fully responsible for the development of those programs.

Of the new positions, five have been filled. Dr. Bernard Queen, associate professor of education, has been named Chairman of the Department of Instruction.

Dr. Harvey Sterns, a member of the University administration staff, and Philip Suiter, principal of the Laboratory School Annex, are to be heads of Early Childhood Education and Secondary Education, respectively.

Department of Administration, Supervision and Field Services will be under the direction of Dr. Neil Gibbins, professor of school administration.

Assuming the leadership for the Department of Counseling is Dr. Clark Hess, professor of education.

"While 1968-69 was a year of administrative reorganization, 1969-70 will be a year of intense study of the curricula for teacher education," Dean Hayes said.

Writers to attend conference

Marshall University Writer's Conference — "A skyburst of talent, writing, and books from the hills and valleys of Appalachia in a creative dialogue with the world..."

In describing the conference, May 8-10, Dr. Harry Barba, conference director, referred to ideas brought forth recently by various speakers during Impact Week.

"Actually, the conference has much to do with these very same ideas. The group of writers which the conference will present will be trying to resolve problems in terms of the past, present and future," Dr. Barba said.

The three day conference will bring to campus, six young novelists and six known writers, also publishers, editors and other persons in the writing arts.

"This is the first time that Marshall has attempted such a conference. I hope that it will become an annual affair," said Dr. Barba. "It has been established to help develop growth of the writing arts in this area."

Allan W. Eckert, author of 12 books and many magazine articles, will be among the distinguished writers and publishers taking part.

The Conference, open to anyone interested in writing, at no cost, is being sponsored jointly by the University's English and Journalism Departments with funds made available through a federal grant.

Eckert, a resident of Englewood Beach, Fla., will join a panel of authors the nights of May 8 and 9 in either Old Main Auditorium or Smith Hall Auditorium, with questions to follow from conference participants. Other writers and publishers taking part in the conference will be announced later by Dr. Barba.

DR. CONSTANTINE W. CURRIS is the new dean of student personnel programs. He will take office July 1. He is presently familiarizing himself with present campus programs.

Student composers' contest will end music festival today

A contest for student composers will be today at 3:30 p.m. in the Evelyn Hollberg Smith Music Hall as a feature of the Contemporary Music Festival held by the Department of Music.

Open to Marshall students, the contest will feature original works in chamber music or solo performance areas. The performances will be judged by Dr. Walter Hartley, chairman of the Department of Music at Davis and Elkins College, and instrumental composer of international fame. First and second place winners will be chosen.

Dr. Hartley, at a convocation this morning, spoke on the role of contemporary music in society and the work of the music itself. The festival opened Sunday with a concert of wind literature by the University Symphonic Band, Wind Ensemble, and Brass Ensemble.

A contemporary choral music concert was given Monday with Dr. Paul A. Balshaw, assistant professor of music, conducting the Symphonic Band.

This is the second Contemporary Music Festival to be held at MU.

Clarksburg junior wins GOP office

Dennis S. Poe, Clarksburg junior, has been elected vice president of the West Virginia Federation of College Republicans.

Poe, president of Marshall's Young Republican Club, was elected during the federation's annual meeting April 19 and 20 at Charleston.

Sixty delegates from six state colleges and universities attended the convention.

Others elected include John Stevens, Morris Harvey College, president; Ann McConaughy, Fairmont State College, secretary; and Robert Hopkins, West Virginia University, treasurer.

2 ad majors win recognition

Two journalism advertising students won certificates of achievement in the recent creative competition of the Huntington Advertising Club.

They are Gary Hood, Huntington junior, and Louis Soulsby, St. Albans senior. They placed second and third respectively in one of the 13 divisions of the Ad Club's annual creative competition.

This is the first year Marshall University has been represented in the local club's award program. Three students submitted entries. They are enrolled in an advertising copy and layout course taught by Robert L. Blann, assistant professor of journalism.

Last week four members of the journalism advertising program accompanied Professor Blann to the spring workshops of the West Virginia Writers and Advertisers Association and the West Virginia Press Association. The workshops were held in Parkersburg and the principal speaker was Paul Haney, former public affairs officer of the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Advertising students also are planning to visit a nationally-known advertising agency in Cincinnati next month.

Religion discussed in session

Dr. Richard W. Waite, director of counseling and testing, said the marriage counseling session held last week was very successful.

Dr. Waite said the basic concern of the group was religion. They discussed the decisions on what will be the religion the children will follow and in what church will the marriage ceremonies will take place.

Behind the times

"Time waits for no man," as the old saying goes, but at Marshall University man must wait for time.

Daylight savings time went into effect Sunday at 2 a.m., but MU clocks didn't start making the change until sometime Monday.

Why not?

Building and Grounds said they were not responsible for setting the University clocks. Simplex Time Recorder Co. is in charge of time keeping at Marshall, and as they must reset clocks all over town, they "just didn't get to Marshall" until a day late, according to the office of C. Steve Szekely, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

40 cadets trained in weekend camp

Forty junior and senior cadets had pre-summer camp training last weekend at Camp Arrowhead, a boy scout camp, near Ona.

The cadets trained for night time tactics, night perimeter defense, map and compass readings, and had leader reaction tests, which tested the leaders to certain circumstances. There were night patrols, classes for night vision techniques, classes for combat movement, cross-country movement and physical training.

The summer camp will begin in June for 7,500 ROTC students across the country at Indiantown Gap, Pa. for six weeks.

The pre-summer camp was planned and designed by the senior cadets to help the juniors learn what the military atmosphere is like and follow the training of a military group.

MU finishes fifth

OU wins MAC golf tourney

Ohio University captured its third consecutive Mid-American Conference Invitational title Saturday with a 15-stroke victory over second place Miami. Marshall finished fifth.

Carlton (Slugger) White, an OU sophomore from Beckley, was medalist with a one over par 217 for the 54-hole contest. Coach Kermit Blosser and his Bobcats produced the medalist for the second straight year. Ludi Schenk was medalist last year.

Marshall finished fifth in the tournament with 1,151 and was led by Mike High's three round score of 225. Frank Sexton and Ken Bowen were right behind High, scoring 226 and 227 respectively.

Marc Sprouse, Huntington junior, finished strong for the Herd with 230, having rounds of 81, 75 and 74. Following Sprouse were Brecht Peoples, Huntington junior, with 245 and Jeff Billie, Emmaus, Pa., junior, with 249.

Ohio led by nine strokes after Friday's 36-holes and increased that lead to 15 in Saturday's action.

Medalist Slugger White took a seven-stroke lead into Saturday's play and coasted to a four stroke victory over Western Michigan's Timo Kelpelainen. After the tournament White stated, "I didn't play well at all today but I was just fortunate to have built up a lead yesterday." White added that he is quite familiar with the Guyan course because he plays it in the summer and felt this gave him an edge over some of the players.

Only Ohio and Miami finished ahead of Marshall out of the seven MAC teams in the tournament. MU's chances of a strong finish were cooled off on the last four holes of the tournament as Frank Sexton bogeyed the last three holes and Ken Bowen bogeyed the last four. According to Bowen, Marshall's co-captain, "We were physically alright but we couldn't seem to get ready mentally."

Low round for MU was turned in Friday when Mike High shot a one under par 71. Marc Sprouse and Frank Sexton had low rounds in Saturday's final round, each with a two over par 74.

Ohio and Miami will now advance to next weekend's Northern Intercollegiate Tournament on the Scarlet course at Onio State University. From this tournament teams and individuals are selected for the NCAA Championship.

According to OU Coach Kermit Blosser, all the Big Ten schools will be represented along with Notre Dame and Houston. Coach Blosser hopes to make a good showing for the Mid-American Conference.

Hewlett beats Miami twice

Baseball team's win streak hits five

By BOB WADE
Sports Writer

The Thundering Herd baseball team extended its win streak to five games this weekend by sweeping a three-game series with Miami of Ohio and jumping into third place in the Mid-American Conference.

"Everything went well. We played good defense and got good hitting and pitching. We just played winning ball," said Coach Jack Cook.

John Mazur proved the difference in Friday's game with the Redskins. After being down 3-0 for eight innings, MU scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth and sent the game into extra innings. In the 11th inning, Mazur ended the game with a 380 ft. home run over the center field fence.

"I hit a fast ball," said the happy catcher, "I knew it was gone the minute I hit it."

Marshall's three-run ninth inning included five hits with Jim Dinwiddie smacking a two-out, two-run single to tie the game.

Paul Holley started the game and was relieved by Bob Hull. Hull was then relieved by Carl Hewlett who recorded the win.

Hewlett also recorded a win in Saturday's double-header. He started the first game and limited the Redskins to one run and five hits. To add to his fine pitching performance, Hewlett hit a grand slam home run in the seventh inning, a 370 foot blast over the right field fence.

In that game, MU erupted for 11 hits and nine runs. Jim Fantuzzo, Jim Dinwiddie, Glenn Verbage, John Mazur and Carl Hewlett each collected two hits. Hewlett also led the team with five runs batted-in.

Tom Stimpson started the second game and pitched a shut-out. Stimpson had trouble in the first and seventh innings, but struck out the last batter in each to get MU out of trouble.

Stimpson doubled home Roger Gertz in the second inning for the only run he needed. MU added two insurance runs in the sixth as John Mazur singled to center field and Jim Stombeck was safe on a fielder's choice while Miami failed to get Mazur at second. Glenn Verbage then doubled to center to score both runners.

Verbage led MU hitters. He was 9-14 for the series. "I knew he could hit," said Coach Cook. "I guess he had a little pressure on him because he was a sophomore, but he hit everything they threw in there this weekend."

Other standouts include Hewlett with his grand slam and two wins; Mazur with five hits including his game-winning home run Friday; Fantuzzo with four hits including a 375 foot blast over the center field fence in the first inning of Saturday's opener and Jim Winwiddie who collected key hits in a reserve role.

Marshall gets back into action today hosting the Morris Harvey Golden Eagles in a single game at St. Cloud field. Game time is 3 p.m.

Coach Cook said he would go with either Gary Stobart or Rodney May. He expressed some concern as to whether the game would be played or not with the rain, but said he hoped it could be played.

DE PATHY SIGNS

Bob De Pathy, Hollywood, Fla., junior, who has set out a year after transferring from Florida State, signed a basketball grant-in-aid last weekend.

De Pathy played in Huntington's Independent league this winter to keep in shape and turned in several 40-plus scoring performances.

TENNIS TEAM BLANKED

The University of Kentucky blanked MU's tennis team Saturday, 9-0, at the Gullickson Hall courts.

MU's Bill Young scored the most points for the Herd but lost 6-3 and 6-4. Marshall will play Mid-American Conference foe Bowling Green University Wednesday at Bowling Green, Ohio.

SHUFFLEBOARD

HILL FINISHES SEVENTH

MU's Bill Hill, Wheeling junior, finished seventh in the Drake Relays steeplechase Saturday. The meet was only Hill's second attempt against top flight competition.

Hill ran the distance in 9:28.2 while the winner, Kerry Pierce of Texas El Paso, finished in 8:56.4. MU track coach Jack Shaw said he was impressed with Hill's performance. "He ran a real fine race against top flight competition."
