Nelson to appear before council

Report submitted to NCAA

By GINNY PITT
Editor-in-chief

MU is due for final examination by the National Collegiate Athletic Association soon, President Roland H. Nelson Jr. told The Parthenon Tuesday.

Dr. Nelson said the University had submitted a report to the NCAA and has been visited by an NCAA official. He appeared before a committee of the association in Kansas City and is scheduled to appear before a council meeting later. Dr. Nelson said the NCAA would issue a statement concerning Marshall's standing in college athletics after this last meeting.

He said negotiations with the Mid-American Conference had been suspended until after the NCAA announces its decision. "Following this," Dr. Nelson said, "we would return to the MAC with the hope of discussing our future in the conference."

President Nelson also told The Parthenon he agreed with Student Body President Jim Wooton, Beckley senior, concerning the Oct. 15 "discussion day" coinciding with the national Vietnam Moratorium, when he termed it "a meaningful educational experience."

Dr. Nelson reiterated the administration would follow the decision of faculty and students regarding suspension of class for the day. Student Senate in providing for seminars and discussions that day "responsible" and maintained "striking and sitting around holding signs is the easy way out. To devote a day to serious study of one of the most vital issues facing the country today is certainly one of the purposes of the University."

In reference to a resolution passed by the Alumni Association that student athletic fees be increased, Dr. Nelson explained that he had also received a recommendation from a special committee within the University to raise the athletic fee from $7.50 to $10 a semester. The Alumni Association resolution, a separate act, was sent directly to the Board of Regents.

Non-academic fee increases should be approved by the students, Dr. Nelson said. He has made no recommendation to the Board concerning fee increases, because he has not yet had a chance to refer the recommendation to the Student Senate, "the elected representatives of the students."

Dr. Nelson said he would send a recommendation to the student legislative body with the assumption that the students realize "the student athletic fee is unrealistically low." He added, however, no fee increase would be imposed without first submitting it to the Student Senate.

Black students give comments on Greek integration policy

By JACK SEAMONDS
Staff reporter

Black students have voiced their support of the administration's move last week to begin integration of the Greek system at Marshall. The Parthenon interviewed students to determine black attitudes toward the policy.

Of the students interviewed, most viewed the move optimistically, predicting a gradual cooling off period among the whites who opposed it. "The whites and blacks are going to have to live and work in the same fraternity house, so I think any friction between the two groups will gradually cool down," commented Dan Crockett, Matewan sophomore.

All of the blacks interviewed opposed forced integration, citing tokenism as the probable end result. "If the Greeks are forced to integrate, each of the fraternities will accept one black man just to meet the regulations and stay on campus," said Don Ross, Huntington senior. "Their attitude will be 'Here's ours, so don't bother us about regulations.'"

"A student, regardless of his color, should be able to choose the group he wants to join," said Mike Redd, Oak Hill junior. "His color should not stand in his way in this matter."

A similar comment was that of Harry Ransom, Williamson sophomore. "It's no greater honor to be a member of a white fraternity than it is to be a member of a black one, but the individual should be allowed to make his own choice."

"It is inconceivable to me that an institution in this country should have black students on its campus and not allow them the same freedoms as the white student," commented John Nedge, Kenya, Africa, sophomore. "I cannot see why these societies exclude blacks because of their color. They seem to see only the skin, not the fact that they are human beings. With the administration allowing such a policy to exist, it would seem that black students are not wanted here at the University."

Ross commented, "The attitudes of the Greeks towards the black man are changing every day. I believe it's only a matter of time until Greek discrimination is a thing of the past."

Senate passes beer measure

By LESLIE SMITH
Staff reporter

A motion to petition the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee to allow the serving of beer at campus social functions received unanimous support in Student Senate Monday evening.

The bill, introduced by Sen. John Rice, South Charleston senior, asks that recognized groups be allowed to petition the Office of Student Personnel Programs for permission to serve beer in the student union or dormitories for a paricular function.

Senator Rice noted that the bill, which does not provide for the sale of beer, is not a step toward asking for the sale of beer in the new student union.

Instead, the bill is intended to provide students with social opportunities similar to those allowed fraternities and sororities.

Other provisions of the bill allow governing bodies of each dormitory to decide whether or not to support the measure

Chief Justice due Thursday

The 1969 Chief Justice are expected to arrive sometime today, and will be distributed tomorrow beginning 9 a.m. All full-time students both semesters last year may pick them up from a booth in front of Shawkey Student Union.

and sets penalties for people selling beer at the functions.

In other action, a motion asking that campus police refrain from carrying firearms and mace was passed. Approval followed a committee report on qualifications of the officers and the need for carrying the devices. The proposal will now go to the Senate Student Affairs Committee which will take the matter before Joseph S. Soto, vice president of business, and the campus security force.

Senate also approved reports by Sen. Jack Holt, Hinton junior and junior class president, on plans for Winter Weekend and by Richard Dunfee, Wheeling senior and freshman activity coordinator, concerning Student Government-sponsored activities for freshmen.

'Mame' tickets available

Due to lack of student interest, tickets are still available for the smash Broadway musical hit "Mame" to be presented Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Keith-Albee Theatre. Students may get them in the inner-lobby of the theater Wednesday and Thursday by presenting activity cards.

The performance is the opening of a new season for the Marshall Student Artists Series.

Admission to Thursday's performance will require student ID.

Student board member plans discussions with campus leaders

John Hoblitzell, newly appointed ex-officio member of the West Virginia Board of Regents, will be on campus this week to meet Marshall students and student leaders.

Hoblitzell, a 21-year-old West Virginia University student, will be present at an open discussion upstairs in Shawkey Student Union Friday at 2 p.m., according to Student Body President Jim Wooton, Beckley senior.

The son of a former Republican U.S. senator, Hoblitzell was originally appointed as a voting member of the Board July 1 by Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. The State Senate, however, refused to confirm his appointment.

Governor Moore last week by executive order appointed Hoblitzell as a non-voting student advisory member to the Board. Hoblitzell has expressed a desire to visit the campuses of all state colleges and universities to confer with students on each. He intends to bring problems of individual campuses directly before the Board.

Campus Briefs

New student teaching policy

The new placement policy for students doing student teaching began the first semester of 1968-69, and is still in effect.

Dr. Lawrence H. Nuzum, coordinator of student teaching, explained that the immediate area surrounding the campus will be reserved for students who have permanent residence in this area. Other students will be required to do their student teaching in assigned areas away from the campus to meet the needs of the program.

Students who live in the Kanawha, Wood and Logan county areas must plan to do their student teaching in these centers.

Students from out-of-state or outside the immediate area will also be assigned to one of these centers.

New placement director needed

Marshall needs a new Director of Career Planning and Placement.

A permanent director is being selected now, according to John Callebs, director of development. Members of the administration have interviewed several candidates, and the decision will be made soon, Callebs said.

The office has been held by various acting directors since the resignation of Robert Alexander in June.

Alexander, who received his doctorate in June, resigned the directorship to teach in Marshall's School of Business.

At present Luthar Bledsoe, retired registrar, is holding the post.

Sig Ep Derby Day today

Sigma Phi Epsilon's annual Derby Day is today from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Only sorority women and members of Sigma Phi Epsilon may participate. Women are supposed to find a numbered heart hidden somewhere on campus and then return it to the man with the corresponding derby. The sorority collecting the most derbies is declared the winner.

Two new campus police added

Two men, Luther Wode Sr. and Charles D. Casto, have been added to the Marshall security police force for 1969-70, increasing the total to nine.

Officer Wade is a former Cabell County Deputy Sheriff and former Assistant Athletic Director for the Job Corps. He was referred to Marshall by Russell L. Daugherty, judge of Cabell County Juvenile Court, who described him as "one of the best that ever served this court."

Officer Casto was a security officer in Dayton, Ohio, and is a veteran of the U.S. Army.

The addition of the men means Marshall now has one policeman per 1,000 population while the national average is almost two per 1,000.

Nelson hits grad center

President Roland H. Nelson Jr. Monday criticized the domination of West Virginia University at the Kanawha Valley Graduate Center and renewed efforts to involve MU in the center.

Dr. Nelson challenged what he termed "institutional self-aggrandizement" in operation of the center while addressing the Charleston Exchange Club.

Marshall attempted to join in the center as a full partner when it opened as a legislatively-supported institution in 1967 but it was opened under the name of WVU alone.

According to Dr. Nelson, the Kanawha Valley Graduate Center could be the cooperative efforts of all institutions of higher learning in the area.

"Marshall stands ready to cooperate with colleges in the area and not just on paper," said Dr. Nelson. "It is our hope that the KVGCC will return to its original design and purpose, and utilize on a cooperative basis all of the strengths of higher education in this region."

"Our needs are too great, our resources too limited to permit institutional self-aggrandizement to stand in the way of meeting the continuing needs of the Kanawha Valley," he said.

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

"You said if ever I couldn't find you, to meet you on the horizon and we'd walk back together. But I only found a man there looking very old and wrapped in a yellow shaw, tears gleaming in the sun above his wrinkled cheeks and a wilted flower in his hand."

This poem was written by a woman after a man we both loved died in Vietnam.

I'm not a member of the SDS, SDI or any organization in the world for that matter. I'm just a man who spent 12 months in Vietnam as a reporter and who watched men send other men out to have their bodies blown apart and watch these same men go out at night, get drunk and laid, then extend in Vietnam another six months because it was so much fun. Then I come home and watch these same men (our country's leaders) complain of a lull in the war and how it may affect their chances of becoming a colonel or a general.

I made it back, but a lot of guys didn't, and if you give a damn about your life or the life of someone you love, then you won't show your face in class Oct. 15; and, profs, you won't teach class Oct. 15. Now, let's have peace, baby.

THE MARSHALL cafeteria has a new look this year. Here students help themselves to salads which are on a table in the middle of the floor.

Two officers join ROTC

Maj. Harry Skeins Jr. and Capt. James W. Dunkelberger have joined the staff of the Department of Military Science while Staff Sgt. Maj. William R. Vernon is leaving Marshall, Wednesday to retire.

Major Skeins, assigned to Marshall Sept. 2, was previously associated with the 173rd Airborne Division. Obtaining his A.B. degree in 1958 and his M.A. degree in 1960 from Marshall, Skeins also received his direct commission in 1960.

Major Skeins has earned the Bronze Star with three oak leaf clusters, the Air Medal with six oak leaf clusters, the Combat Infantryman's Badge, and the Vietnamese Gallantry Cross with the silver star as well as others.

The other addition to the Department of Military Science, Captain Dunkelberger, arrived at Marshall Sept. 12, from Ft. Bliss, Tex. He received his bachelor of science degree in sociology as well as his commission from North Dakota State University.

Captain Dunkelberger, instructing all freshmen military students, has received the Bronze Star and the Army Accommodation Medal as well as the Service Medal for service in Vietnam.

Vernon came to Marshall in August, 1968. While at Marshall, he instructed all freshmen military students. Vernon will retire at Ft. Hood, Tex., on Oct. 31, after 22 years of service. He and his wife will live in Belton, Tex.

PE 303 is more fun than it sounds

By SARAH MILLER
Staff Reporter

"I was coming down the hill at 35 miles an hour and a fence was coming up fast," said Ezra Simpkins, Huntington senior. Simpkins, a student in the Physical Education Department's Outdoor Recreation class was describing his adventures while skiing with the class at Ogleby Park near Wheeling.

"There I was, strapped by my feet onto two pieces of wood about five inches wide and six feet long, and feeling completely unprotected. I turned out my heels and dug in with the ski poles, but that only slowed me a little. So, I folded up my knees and fell on my side, like a parachute jumper."

"After I got on my feet again, I realized how much fun it was and went back for more," Simpkins said. The class activities were a lot more fun than it sounds when you say P.E. 303.

The class also includes hiking, bicycling, camping, cave exploring, mountain climbing and repelling (backing off mountains with the aid of ropes), canoeing, riflery, archery and ice-skating. The two hour course meets twice a week, but uses weekends for laboratory work.

"Hiking was enjoyable, too," according to Tom Miller, Huntington junior, "but, oh, those blisters." Tom's class hiked about 18 miles one Saturday. "Some of the students tried dropping out to sneak a ride on a passing vehicle, but the instructor saw what they were doing, and made them walk an extra mile or two, after the hike."

Instructor is Ronald Crosbie, assistant professor of Physical Education. Crosbie said, "We would like to arrange some day for the class to spend two or three weeks camping, and we are thinking about using the Beech Fork Lake Area, 17 miles from Huntington."

"Next fall, we hope to take a trip to Seneca Rocks for the Highland Festival, where the mountains are really high, and climbing them would be a challenge," Crosbie said. "The purpose of the class is to provide experiences in outdoor recreation, and to stimulate interest and develop skills for this type of activity, for use in the increasing amount of leisure time," according to Professor Crosbie.

Intramural football sprang into action Monday with five games being played on Intramural and Central fields.

In the American League Eastern division, the Sigma Alpha Epsilon ones ripped the Sigma Phi Epsilon twos 6-0 when quarterback Corky Layman, Huntington senior, combined a quarterback roll-out with a mad dash to score for the SEA's.

The Pershing Rifles trounced the Ozarks 13-0 masterminded by PR quarterback Densel Raines, Dunbar sophomore, who incorporated a quarterback "sneak" and a toss to Aubrey Harris, Charleston senior, to pick up 12 points for the 'Rifles.' Raines again proved his prowess when a pass to J.D. Bradley, Dunbar sophomore, scored the extra point for the PR's.

South Hall threes won by forfeit over the Phi Kappa Tau ones in the final American League game Monday.

Kappa Alpha Psi, of the National League Eastern division edged the Trojans 13-6, in a close battle on Central Field. Bob Wright, Williamson junior, tossed to Maurice Cooley, Lewisburg senior, for one touchdown and Tom "Choo" Coleman, Beckley sophomore, passed to Wright for the final K A Psi TD. Fred Bizzel, Cleveland, Ohio, sophomore, scored the extra point for the Kappas bringing their total points to 13. Scoring for the losers was Howard Drennen, Ansted freshman, who latched on to an aerial from QB James Deligne, Ansted freshman.

The Kappa Alpha ones utilized a safety in order to squeak by the Miners 8-6 in a tight duel on Central Field. Scoring for the KA's were Rod Jenkins, Charleston sophomore, who was a target for a pass from Kelsey "Radar" Hill, Charleston senior; and Howie Day, Carlisle, Pa., senior, who instituted the safety play for a KA win.

Al Wade, Gary freshman, scored the only touchdown for the Miners on a pass from Nick Shaffron, Gary senior, bringing the losers 6 points.

In the final National League game, Tau Kappa Epsilon pulled out an 18-6 win when their number one team waded around the Silverfish for their first victory of the season.

Scoring for the TKE's were quarterback Roger James, Long Island, N.Y., senior, who ran the ball for the first TD, and Dave Slaughter, Buchannon senior and John Snyder, South Charleston junior, who received passes from James.

Scoring for the Silverfish was Steve Duncan, Portsmouth, O. senior when he caught a pass piloted by quarterback Mike Yeagle, Portsmouth, O. junior.

Today's football action will see the Western division of the National League on the Central Field with Pi Kappa Alpha ones and the Sigma Phi Epsilon threes at 4:30 and at 5:30, Tau Kappa Epsilon twos will play the South Hall ones.

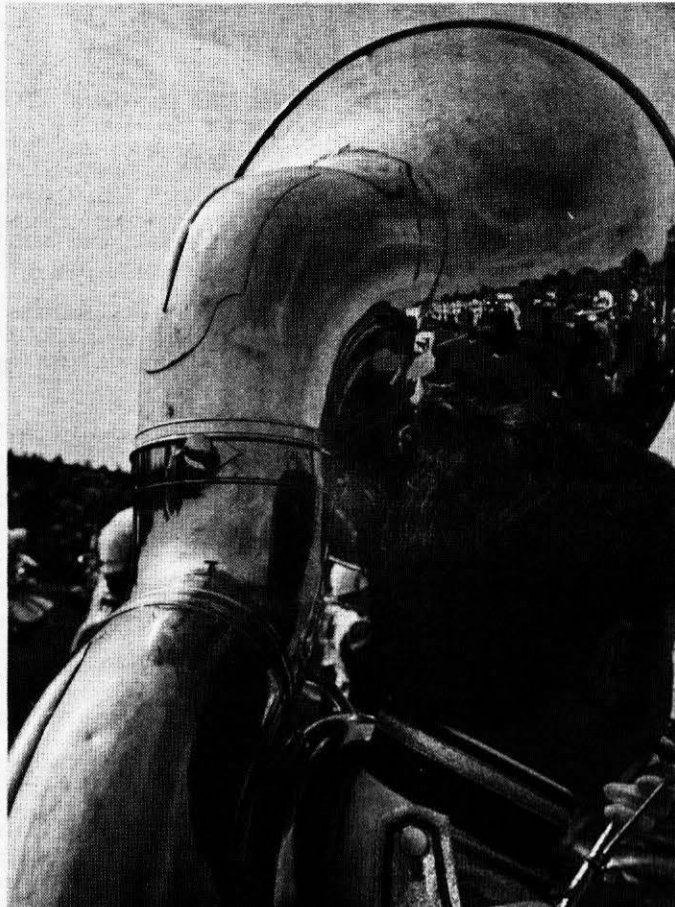

Also today at 5:30, the East Tower threes will take on the Pi Kappa Alpha threes at the Intramural Field in the Eastern division American League football.

Band sports new look

The Big Green Marching Band sported a new look for Saturday's game at Fairfield Stadium.

This year's edition of the marching unit has new uniforms and is 20 percent larger than last year--now 96 members.

Band Director Robert Clark, associate professor of music, has termed the band "one of the strongest potential groups we've ever had at Marshall."

"A Musical Tour of the United States," was the theme of the halftime show presented Saturday. It featured songs about various cities.

Musicains are still wanted for the band, Clark said, since there are 130 new uniforms. Persons interested may contact him in Room 146, Evelyn Hollberg Smith Music Hall.

Counseling services offered to students

The Counseling and Testing Center at MU offers many services which students don't take advantage of, Director William Strawn said.

Strawn, new director of the center, says most students don't know they exist or they don't know what they involve. Still others see going to the center as admitting they have a weakness.

Strawn said services include counseling on family and emotional problems, classroom problems and financial problems. Some examples include help for unwed mothers, those with drug problems and those with student-teacher conflicts.

Strawn believes a large percentage of the academic problems can be credited to the fact students are forced to choose a major upon entering the University. He believes a major should be chosen at the end of two years.

Vocational and psychological tests are given at the center. Appointments are not necessary. If Strawn thinks he can't help an individual, he can contact people who can meet the individual's needs. Some examples are "lawyers, physicians and psychiatrists."

The center is located at 1618

Fifth Ave. The residence has a remedial center on the third floor.

Some new innovations this year include a program now being initiated at the dormitories. The program allows a student to receive counseling in the individual's room "if they feel more comfortable." Future programs will include "Operation Talent Search." This involves finding talented people throughout West Virginia who don't have the financial means to attend institutions of higher education.

Strawn also hopes to have three or four additional staff members by spring, 1970.

Nelson to speak at convocation

Dr. Roland H. Nelson Jr. will address the University community 11 a.m. Thursday in his keynote address at the President's Convocation in Gullickson Hall.

Faculty has been asked to dismiss classes and lab sections at 10:30 a.m., according to A. Mervin Tyson, vice president of academic affairs.

College Republicans meet tonight

Marshall University College Young Republicans will meet at 8 p.m. today at the "Swiss Challet" at the Little Switzerland Brewery.

Beer and pizza will be served at the gathering which will include a short business session at 9:15 p.m.

Several members of the West Virginia House of Delegates from the Huntington area, and officers of the West Virginia College Young Republican Federation are expected to attend.

Tickets for the night can be obtained free of charge from club officers or at the door.
