MARSHALL UNIVERSITY STUDENT NEWSPAPER

NO. 17

MU security precautions investigated

Student Body President Jim Wooton has requested the Student Senate to conduct a full study of university security measures before submitting any proposals to the administration concerning campus police.

Wooton's request came after the Senate passed a bill last week requesting campus police to refrain from carrying firearms and mace.

Jeff Stiles, Charleston senior, was appointed chairman of the study committee and will report to the Senate in two weeks.

In other action, Senate approved the appointments of Charles Wendell, Fayetteville junior, and Pam Slaughter, Dunbar senior, to the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

Reports on "commitment to Marshall," a fund raising drive, homecoming, homecoming election rules, and the sophomore class activity were also approved at the Monday night session.

GUITARIST CARLOS MONTOYA

To play here Thursday

Famous guitarist Convocation opener

Carlos Montoya, world-famous master of the flamenco guitar, will be heard in concert 11 a.m. Thursday in Old Main Auditorium for the first Convocation of the year.

Montoya is returning by popular demand for his third appearance at Marshall. According to Curtis Baxter, convocation director, he is the only artist ever to receive a standing ovation during a Convocation.

A Spanish gypsy, born in Madrid Montoya was the first flamenco guitarist to display his artistry in a solo concert. He has also become the most recorded flamenco artist in history.

Montoya plays all his own arrangements and original compositions based on the Spanish gypsy tradition. The essential creative element of flamenco is added when he plays, however, for Montoya creates as he goes along. He never plays things quite the same way twice.

Montoya remains a man who must feel free in his art, one who refused to be tied down even to his own arrangements. Because of this, he cannot rely on printed music by another composer. Also, this masterful musician doesn't read a note.

Admission to the concert will be by student activity card.

Decision pending on black center

A decision will be made today by the executive committee concerning the black student relations center.

Dean of Student Personnel Services Constantine W. Curris stated Monday the proposal was in about the same stage as it was a week ago. Curris said, "Dean Donald Carson, (associate dean of student personnel services) and I would not have submitted the proposal to the executive committee if we didn't believe in it."

Dr. Curris seemed to think there would be favorable action, but no final statements will be made until after the meeting.

Birch Bayh to speak Oct. 15

Indiana senator tells why he's coming to MU

By JOHN HENDRICKSON
Staff reporter

Sen. Birch Bayh, (D-Ind.) chose to speak at the National Vietnam Moratorium at Marshall, Oct. 15, because he "felt West Virginia is too often left out of the national scene."

According to Charles D. Preston, Columbus, Ohio, junior, and coordinator of the moratorium for Marshall, Senator Bayh could have gone to several other schools in the country, but he felt he could help a school that is trying to progress more than going to a larger school.

"Therefore, we owe this man a great deal and the common courtesy of having a large attendance at his speech," Preston said. "Each and every student at MU should be proud of the fact that their school was chosen by such an important national figure, and owes it to himself and his school to make sure that this senator is given the respect of having a large crowd."

Preston said the day is planned to be an objective study of the war in Vietnam in order to bring peace as soon as possible.

The reason for the moratorium, Preston explained, is that former McCarthy (Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn), workers in the '68 campaign wanted to give the new administration enough time to bring peace. They decided, in view of the slow pace and after consultation with national figures, that the "so-called Nixon vacation" is over and that so far nothing has been done.

Preston emphasized that the moratorium is a national movement supported by the Marshall student government and is not affiliated with any other campus group.

Twenty five U.S. senators are openly supporting the moratorium as well as the New York Times, the Washington Post, and several congressmen, Preston said.

Preston stated that Senator McCarthy said the first judgment of the Vietnam War was the primary elections of 1968.

New York senator Charles Goodell has said, "This constructive effort to work for an end to this senseless war is truly a high form of patriotism."

Support also comes from Senator Mark Hatfield of Oregon, who has said, "The type of non-violent action which the moratorium asserts is not only highly commendable, but also sorely needed."

Continuing, Preston said the moratorium was organized by two college students, former McCarthy workers. They decided to go back to the campuses to demonstrate a second judgment on the war in Vietnam to those who hold political power.

With reference to closing classes Oct. 15, Preston explained that the national standard is to have school completely called off, but each school has to work out its own solution.

"The student government has approached the faculty and asked them to allow students to decide whether to attend class or go to the programs being conducted on campus," Preston stated.

"We're trying to make this day a day of education on what we feel is the most vital issue facing the American people today which would justify school not being held," he continued.

President Roland H. Nelson Jr. reported in a general faculty meeting last week that the attendance policy would be left up to the individual instructors.

Preston stated that an "unofficial word-of-mouth poll had been conducted with professors and most were sympathetic to the idea of allowing students to attend the seminars being planned for the moratorium."

The complete program for the moratorium has not been finalized.

Among the entertainment planned is a folk group and the Huntington Ministerial Association, which will conduct a peace program Wednesday morning on campus.

Preston added that several professors will conduct seminars Oct. 15 with emphasis on their respective fields.

Specific times for the day's events have not been announced.

Alumni homecoming set Oct. 31 - Nov. 1

Howard B. St. Clair, Alumni Association director, is hopeful that alumni attendance at homecoming will increase.

St. Clair said, "rather than be negative, we plan to hold our own. We are sending announcements to the alumni. We also plan to send students downtown to try to get window displays. The last few years alumni attendance has dropped but has leveled off and we hope to start it on the upswing this year."

This year's alumni program will begin Friday, Oct. 31 with a pep rally on campus at 6 p.m. At 8:30 p.m. there will be a student concert featuring the Chambers Brothers. A reception from 8-11 p.m. will be held at the Hotel Frederick, sponsored by the Alumni Association.

Nov. 1 there will be campus tours from 9-10 a.m. beginning in the main lounge of Smith Hall. At 10:30 a.m. the homecoming parade will begin. The Alumni Association is sponsoring the Homecoming Queen's float.

The game against Bowling Green will start at 1:30 p.m. and immediately after the game the fraternities and sororities will hold open houses.

The final alumni event will be a dance at 9:30 a.m. at the Hotel Prichard featuring the Howard Jennings Orchestra.

In discussing alumni programs, St. Clair said, "Basically we're following the same programs set by Harry Sands, as directed by the Alumni Board."

According to St. Clair, "the Alumni Office maintains contact with over 15,000 alumni."

weekly but a leadership lab on Tuesdays.

Three coeds are taking a freshman ROTC class this semester. Although the class is open to anyone, the women are all members of the Pershing Ruffles, a coed drill team.

The women wear their Ruffles uniforms to lab and drill with the Ruffles instead of in a male unit.

Linda Wilmoth, Huntington junior; Donna Davison, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, junior, and Gaytha Edwards, Hurricane senior, pre-registered for the class last spring. This fall class entrance was initially refused. However, the three coeds were later given the go ahead.

Miss Wilmoth explained, "If for some reason the Ruffles could not attend drill, we would have a one hour lecture that period."

Miss Edwards said that according to Sergeant Major Vernon, their first instructor, the Department of Military Science had to check with First Army at Ft. Meade, Md. First Army's reply was "Welcome aboard."

Capt. James Dunkelberger, assistant professor of military science, is the women's current instructor. When asked about what instruction the women would receive he said, "The women will receive the same instruction as the rest of the class including manual of arms (learning how to operate and care for a rifle) except they will not be expected to shoot on the rifle range."

Why take Military Science? Miss Davis said, "I've always been interested in the military and this seemed a good opportunity to learn more, also to prove women are as capable as men in this field."

Future military plans? Miss Wilmoth said, "No, I definitely wouldn't want an Army career but it's an interesting class."

Miss Edwards, coed commander of the Pershing Ruffles, felt it would "enable me to better instill military discipline and courtesy to the other coeds."

"No career for me unless it would be as an Army wife," said Miss Edwards.

The women receive two hours credit from their colleges for the class. There is no obligation incurred as women may only take the two-year basic course. The class requires not only one hour lectures twice

However, Miss Davison is not so sure. With a strong military tradition in her family--her mother was an Army Corp nurse during World War II--and her father is a retired Major-General, she said, "I've always been military minded. I hope to serve immediately after school. I'll probably join the Army, but I've been looking into the Marines program also. I'd prefer some type of military intelligence work."

West Virginia engineers group votes MU teacher vice president of the Board, Pennsylvania Glass Sand Corporation, Berkeley Springs. Andrews, who is also vice president of the West Virginia Board of Regents, is a past national president of ASCE and past president of the West Virginia section.

Professor Samuel T. Stinson, chairman of the Department of Engineering, was elected second vice president of the West Virginia Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers on Sept. 26-27. He will take office Jan. 1, 1970.

Professor Stinson, who is a fellow in ASCE, represented MU at the annual fall meeting of the ASCE at Woodmont Club near Berkeley Springs.

A former MU engineering student, Duane S. Ellifritt, who received the BES degree from Marshall in 1957, also attended the meeting. Ellifritt is now an instructor at West Virginia University where he expects to receive the Ph.D. next May.

Host for the meeting was Earle T. Andrews, chairman

Select teaching fields carefully, Teachers College dean advises

By JOHN HENDERICKSON
Staff reporter

Students preparing for a teaching career should select their fields carefully and concentrate on areas where demands exist, advised Dr. Robert B. Hayes, dean of Teachers College.

According to a recent National Education Association report, the critical shortage of teachers during recent years is nearing an end.

"School districts will be more selective and superintendents will look for people with sound academic records who have produced academically with proven skills in teaching, and students who have been actively involved in campus activities," Dean Hayes said.

He added that a minimum demand exists for teachers in social studies and men's physical education, and shortages exist for elementary, mathematics, science, and women's physical education teachers.

The Herd's sophomore flanker Jack Repasy never was superstitious but he is beginning to scratch his head after what has happened to him in the first three games.

It appears some sort of "sophomore jinx" may have hold of him since in every game so far officials' flags have nullified many of his catches, and in two contests proved to be turning points in the ballgames.

Saturday against Northern Illinois Repasy was cited for offensive pass interference in the end zone which meant Marshall lost possession of the ball while driving for a go-ahead score.

But the films show Repasy didn't make the mistake but the official did.

That wasn't the first time he was a victim of a bad call. At Morehead, with the score 14-14, he caught a ball despite being interfered with by a Morehead defender, but once after being tackled the ball was jarred loose and the official ruled the catch incomplete.

The Herd was then forced to give up the ball and the Eagles scored and went ahead to stay.

Another pass was called back in the Toledo game after Ted Shoebridge had connected to Repasy for a substantial gain when a Marshall lineman jumped offside.

"This same type of thing happen to me when I was a sophomore in high school," the Cincinnati Moeller High product said. "I caught four touchdown passes and on every one I caught them out of the end zone."

Up until Saturday's game Repasy was credited with only one catch, having at least three others nullified, but against the Huskies he pulled in seven, one short of tying the record for MU.

After Saturday's near win, Head Coach Rick Tolley is convinced the Herd could win every game remaining on its schedule. "We have proven to ourselves we can win, but naturally we were disappointed that we didn't. We're definitely not going to have a give up attitude though," the coach said. "We're going to keep after it."

One sign of their improved play was the number of injuries suffered.

"It's the fewest injuries we've had. That's because we were hitting them instead of taking the licks ourselves for a change," Tolley surmised.

The most notable ailment was to Shoebridge's knee and there is a possibility he will not be ready for Saturday afternoon's encounter at the Miami University Homecoming game at Oxford, Ohio.

Jim Sly, who started at tackle for the first time this season suffered a neck injury.

Tolley said all those who missed Saturday's starting lineup due to injuries would now have to try to win their jobs back this week.

One of the biggest stories of the Thundering Herd this season is the pass receiving of Larry Carter, Dunbar senior, who has already caught two more passes this season than he did all last year.

Carter last year was the number two receiver on the team with 19 catches for 264 yards and already this year he has grabbed 21 for 253 yards.

Prior to Saturday's game he was ranked 19th nationally and is likely to have improved on that position after grabbing seven against the Huskies for 109 yards.

Among action taken by the Marshall Athletic Committee during the 1968-69 academic year was the approval of a proposal for the following needed athletic facilities: (1) Fairfield Stadium development, (2) Tartain track-lighted, (3) Three football practice fields at the University Heights Campus, (4) an all purpose field-lighted, (5) four tennis courts-floodable for ice rink-lighted, (6) baseball field and (7) four outdoor basketball courts (use existing parking area after 5 p.m.).

Another recommendation, this one to the University Council, was for a second student member be appointed by the Student Government.

Press box comment on Marshall's Ted Shoebridge has been highly favorable during the Herd's first three games. "This boy is as good a sophomore quarterback as there is in the entire country," said Jack Klotz, Boston Patriot scout.

"When you've got a quarterback like this youngster plus a bunch of young, eager and aggressive kids like you're got this year, you're a threat to beat any team at any time," said John Wren, former assistant coach at Northern Illinois.

Intramural grid action heavy

The spring-loaded arm of Roger James, Long Island, N.Y., senior, led the Tau Kappa Epsilon ones to victory over the Trojans Monday afternoon on Central field. As the eastern division of the National league started its third week of intramural football.

John Snyder, South Charleston senior, started the scoring for the TKE's when he zoomed across the goal line for a touchdown and rang up the extra point, a pass from James.

Dennis Mills, Barboursville junior, and Dave Slaughter, Buchannon junior, also scored on James' aeriels making the final score, TKE's 19, Trojans 0.

In another game on Central field between the Miners and Hodges Hall, the Miners won their first game of the season, 23-7.

Quarterback Nick Shaffron, Gary senior, piloted the Miners in a game of passing with Alan Wade, Gary freshman, scoring two TD's and Bill Redd, Gary sophomore, scoring once.

Steve Leith, St. Clouds, Fla., sophomore, and Charlie Titlow, Airlington, Va., junior, added to the Miner's score with two safeties and an extra point play on a pass from Wade to Dave Lester, Gay sophomore, ending the scoring for the Miners.

Scoring the only TD for Hodges Hall was Mike Colo, Keystone freshman, when he intercepted a Miner's pass and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. Sigma Alpha Epsilon pulled out a 6-0 victory over the Miners as Jim Stombeck, Huntington senior, scored on a touchdown pass from Corky Layman, Huntington senior, in the waning minutes of American league east football on the Intramural field.

South Hall once again exhibited its football prowess when the South Hall threes defeated the Sigma Phi Epsilon twos 7-0 in the final game of the day.

Our pill.

Does it really work?

If you've ever resorted to NoDoz® at 4 a.m. the night before an exam, you've probably been disappointed.

NoDoz, after all, is no substitute for sleep. Neither is anything else we can think of.

What NoDoz is is a very strong stimulant. In fact, NoDoz has the strongest stimulant you can buy without a prescription.

Caffeine.

What's so strong about that?

If we may cite The Pharmacological Basis of Therapeutics: Caffeine is a powerful central nervous stimulant. Caffeine excites all portions of the central nervous system. Caffeine stimulates all portions of the cortex, but its main action is on the psychic and sensory functions. It produces a more rapid and clearer flow of thought and allays drowsiness and fatigue. After taking caffeine, one is capable of more sustained intellectual effort and a more perfect association of ideas. There is also a keener appreciation of sensory stimuli.

Very interesting. But why take

NoDoz when you can get caffeine in a cup of coffee?

Very simple. You take NoDoz all at once instead of sipping coffee for 10 minutes. And if you take two NoDoz tablets, the recommended dosage, you get twice the caffeine in a cup of coffee.

Two tablets— isn't that likely to be habit forming? Definitely not. NoDoz is completely non-habit forming.

Which means it's safe to take whether you're cramming at night. Or about to walk into an 8 o'clock class. Or driving somewhere (even though you're rested) and the monotony of the road makes you drowsy.

One last thing you should know about NoDoz. It now comes in two forms. Those familiar white pills you take with water. And a chewable tablet called NoDoz Action Aids®. It tastes like a chocolate mint, but it does everything regular NoDoz does.

And if you've managed to stay awake this long, you know that's quite a lot.
