Committee approves beer proposal

By MARY O'DELL
Campus editor

A policy which would permit the sale of beer in the new student center has been unanimously approved by the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee. It is now before President Roland H. Nelson Jr. for consideration.

The policy also stipulates that the use of nonintoxicating (3.2) beer on University property is limited to functions and sites which have received approval of the dean of students.

Secret ballots were sent to each member of the committee

(10 voting members) who subsequently voted in favor of the policy.

Leo Imperi, associate professor of music and chairman of the committee, stated he was reluctant to release the proposal until the president had had a chance to review it and make recommendations. He said the President would probably want to discuss the proposal with him before making any decision.

The policy, as it now stands, was drawn up by a sub-committee consisting of Dr. Donald K. Carson, dean of students; Dr. Clarke F. H.

professor of education; and Suzanne Wood, Clifton Forge, Va., senior.

The policy is as follows:

1. Marshall University faculty, staff and students, as all citizens, are subject to all West Virginia statutes and local codes and Board of Regents regulations relating to the use of intoxicating beverages and beer on university property.

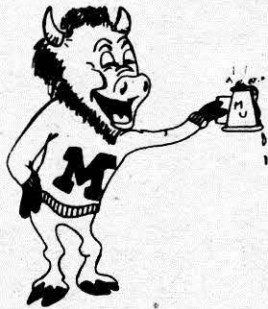

2. The Committee approves the selling of nonintoxicating beer in the new Student Center, provided that (1) the governing board of the Student Center so chooses, and (2) safeguards are established to insure compliance with state laws relating to the sale and consumption of nonintoxicating beverages.

3. The use of nonintoxicating (3.2) beer on University property is limited to functions and sites which have received the approval of the Dean of Students.

4. Drunkenness, disorderly conduct or property damage resulting from the use of intoxicating beverages or beer will subject individuals responsible to disciplinary action.

*The Student Conduct and Welfare Committee reserves the right to review the procedures developed by the Dean of Students.

Miss Slaughter critical of Senate--'job not done'

By BEV BURGESS
Staff reporter

Silence followed the talk by Student Body President Pam Slaughter, Dunbar senior, when she addressed the last meeting of the outgoing Senate Thursday.

Outgoing President Slaughter, succeeded by Michael Gant, Huntington sophomore, in recent student body elections, said, "On the whole, I can't commend the Senate. There is nothing to commend for a job not done."

"I would like to commend those of you--the few of you--who have worked hard, with special emphasis on the Rules Committee, and hope that we have more like the few in the future," she said.

"Under the adverse conditions we have gone through, we have done fairly well," said

Jeff Stiles, outgoing student body vice president and Senate president.

He then turned the Senate key over to his successor Madeline Stover, Beckley junior.

Miss Slaughter and Stiles recently moved up to their respective offices following resignation of former Student Body President Jim Wooton, of Beckley. They have been serving in these posts for one month.

In other Senate action, Senator Sandy Stewart, West Columbia junior, reported the committee studying the $10 absentia fee for seniors will soon be distributing questionnaires to get senior majority response to this effort.

Senator Dave Brooks, Huntington senior, announced the Second National Interracial Conference will be held at Jackson's Mill April 16-18. A

Johnson plans effort in Federal Courts

By WILLIAM O'CONNELL
Staff Reporter

Former Marshall Basketball Coach Ellis Johnson was planning Tuesday to turn to Federal Court in another effort to be reinstated as head coach, according to his attorney, Samuel J. Smith of Wayne.

Smith said he planned to file the action Tuesday evening in U. S. District Court in Huntington.

The plans were disclosed after the West Virginia Supreme Court on Monday denied to grant Johnson a hearing on his petition for a writ of mandamus seeking to have him re-instated as coach. The West Virginia Board of Regents and Marshall President Roland

H. Nelson Jr. were named as respondents in that action.

As for the planned Federal Court action, Smith said it will ask that Johnson be reinstated as head coach for the current year and also be granted another contract for next fiscal year -- July 1, 1970, to June 30, 1971.

He also said the suit would seek $100,000 damages.

Smith said defendants in the suit would include officials of the West Virginia Board of Regents and Marshall University.

Johnson was removed as head coach by Dr. Nelson last August in the wake of Marshall's indefinite suspension from the Mid-American Conference.

Resolutions postpone bidding till April

By TOMMIE DENNY
Editor-in-chief

Sorority bidding and pledging ceremonies have been postponed until April because of possible irregularities during last week's rush activities.

Questions arose when information concerning the possibility of membership selection pressure from alumnae and representatives of sororities' national headquarters was brought to the attention of the Office of Student Personnel Programs.

Reportedly, the issue of outside pressure in membership selection arose because some sororities were seriously considering pledging black students. There are no black coeds who are members of Marshall social sororities now.

Bidding and pledging was postponed by resolutions passed Monday by the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee (SCWC) and the Human Relations Board in a joint meeting. On Friday, Dr. Constantine W. Curris, director of student personnel programs, ordered sorority bids delayed.

One of two resolutions passed Monday immediately required "sorority adherence to University policy as prescribed on page 34 of the Student Handbook. Such adherence would entail new votes for membership selection being taken for each sorority."

The "Standards for Recognized Student Organizations," on page 34 of the handbook referred to in the resolutions, says:

Every student organization recognized and approved by the University is expected to be free to select its membership upon the basis of individual merit. However, any student organization which selects or restricts its membership based on race, color, sex, ethnic origin or religious affiliation (except when the express and legitimate purpose of the organization requires limitation as to sex or religion) will be considered to be operating in conflict with University policy and University recognition of the organization will be withdrawn."

The second resolution stated: "The Student Conduct and Welfare Committee and the Human Relations Board recommend that the Office of Student Personnel Programs make it clear that the University will not allow sorority bidding and pledging procedures to be completed if evidence indicates that Marshall University chapters of national sororities are not fully free to choose their own members. The Office of Student Personnel Programs should no longer provide services for membership selection to groups in violation of University policies."

In a statement Dr. Curris, said, "Serious questions arose last Friday as to whether or not certain practices characterizing the latest sorority rush were in conflict with established University policy. In order to affirm continued adherence to University policy the sorority bidding and pledging ceremonies were postponed."

"The Office of Student Personnel Programs is presently moving to implement fully the approved resolutions and members of the office (Student Personnel Programs) have been and will be in meetings with the Panhellenic Association and members and alumnae of Marshall sororities. It is our hope that sorority bidding and pledging can be held as soon as possible."

In meeting with sororities, Dr. Curris said, "I am not interested in hurting any sorority, especially if they try to progress. The problems may or may not apply to each sorority. I'm not coming around making judgments."

He also said:

"It is the committees' feeling that in some of the houses the University policy had not been followed, that there were efforts to influence the active chapters' selection from outside the active chapter."

"The keypoint is that University policy has been violated and neither I nor members of the committees can stand for this. The University will terminate all sororities found in conflict with this policy."

"The only other alternative to the resolutions passed was to conduct an investigation of every house to see who violated it and who did not. But we didn't want to do this because it takes time, we didn't want to drag it out any longer and because it (continued on page 4)

Impact--radical?

By WAYNE FAULKNER
News editor

Impact 70 begins April 19 and student response in helping on the Impact committee has been poor, according to Pete O'Dell, Ravenswood senior and Impact coordinator.

O'Dell emphasized that help is needed with Impact. "The response of help from students has not been good. A group of sorority pledges turned in applications, but other than those there haven't been many."

Impact, operating on a $12,000 budget this year lists speakers the likes of David T. Dellinger, Dr. Nathan Hare, Paul Crasner, and Malcolm Boyd, and features a magazine devoted to the program.

IS THE PROGRAM this year worthy of the $12,000 to be spent on it? Are the speakers too radical? What about non-students paying to hear the Impact program?

O'Dell explained, "I don't think we'll go over the $12,000, but we will come very close to that amount. But what has to be realized about Impact is that getting speakers is quite expensive."

Between $8,000 and $9,000 goes to pay the speakers' fees, but what many people don't realize is that many of these fees include a flat rate, plus accommodations transportation, meals, and receptions. We also have to build a stage and many other things.

"I intend to turn in an itemized statement," explained O'Dell.

The Impact magazine is being put out by Suzanne Wood, Clifton Forge, Va., senior, and will cost between $1,500 and $2,000, according to O'Dell. "This is another major expense and we have had to cut the budget for the magazine from last year's $2,500.

WHEN ASKED ABOUT complaints that Impact 70 is one-sided and too radical, O'Dell said, "Since some people think that the program is too radical you have to look at it in context. We had General Maxwell Taylor and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa earlier this year. These men represent one side of the spectrum. But I still don't think the program is leftist. We have Gale McGhee who is pure American; he's a hawk too. Boyd (Malcolm Boyd) may be a little unorthodox, but he's not a rabid radical. He says we should love each other, that we should preserve the world--this isn't radical."

"As far as the speakers not being good enough or important enough, I say bull. There aren't any names to shake the world, but many times the popular people have been too far over our heads. One such speaker was Dr. Herbert Aptheker who spoke last year."

"I'D LIKE TO explain some of the qualifications of our speakers this year," continued O'Dell. "Take, for instance, Dr. Nathan Hare. He has a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He was the protagonist against Hayakawa. Gale McGhee, also of the University of Chicago, is an avid hawk on the war. Jeremy Lerner, an Ivy Leaguer, was McCarthy's speech writer. Paul Crasner is an author of the beat generation. Dellinger is a graduate of Yale. He was a pacifist during World War II when it wasn't at all popular to be one. I think he's brilliant. He comes from a prestigious family."

O'Dell pointed out that Dellinger was under contract to be here if his legal situation allows it. We had George Wallace coming but his candidacy for governor will keep him away.

"Malcolm Boyd went to a seminary and became priest-at-large for the United States campus. He has appeared in Hugh Hefner's Playboy After Dark."

ONE ISSUE concerning Impact that has come up this year is whether or not to charge non-students for attending Impact and for the Impact magazine.

"I'm very much in favor of non-students paying. We have a reason for changing though. We aren't trying to keep people away. It's not some idea I thought of either. I discussed this with Jim Wooton last year, but we didn't come to any formal decision. As soon as the student government cabinet meets we will present a proposal for fees for non-students."

"One of the big reasons for charging for non-students is the Impact magazine. Last year the magazines were distributed badly. I know of some people who carried away five at a time. There were non-students who got handfuls of the magazines. Many of them were used to sit on. Those things cost 55 cents a piece."

"The students are paying for Impact," explained O'Dell, "and we're setting it up so the students can get a magazine. This is student money and students have been taken."

Letter to the editor

TO THE EDITOR:

It is appalling to me, as a student and an individual, that the students of Marshall University have been duped by the financial aid office and the University system. How can students, who have been counting on work study money, and who have budgeted their funds to last to the end of the academic year, be expected to get along on money that was there at the beginning of the school year and that now has mysteriously disappeared?

Do they expect the students who have been jilted out of their funds to accept a simple "I'm sorry, but that's the way it is?"

Correction noted

The Parthenon would like to correct erroneous information which appeared in the March 13 story on the Marshall University Writers Conference.

According to information received after publication, "Poems From The Hills--1970," an anthology published by Morris-Harvey Press, was not an "outgrowth" of the work of Marshall University graduate students, nor was it linked to the Writers Conference.

The anthology was a result of efforts by William Plumley, Morris Harvey College instructor of English, according to Marshall coordinator of Morris Harvey Press, Maureen Milicia, instructor of speech.

from Mr. Myers and be satisfied? If the administration does, then I hope that they are sadly mistaken. It is now your responsibility as students who have lost out to take up the fight for truth in the administration. It is also Mr. Myers' responsibility to be honest with the students, and to help them over the rough spots. This needs to be done now and not some time in the future, Mr. Myers.

Baseball postponed

By EMIL RALBUSKY
Sports writer

Cold and wet weather has caused Marshall University to postpone the opening of the 1970 baseball season till Friday. Monday's game with West Virginia State was first changed to Tuesday, and now due to bad weather, the game has been rescheduled for the end of the week.

The doubleheader will start at 1 p.m., and will be played at Central Park in Ashland, Kentucky. "For at least the next two weeks, all MU home games will be played in Ashland because of the unfinished resodding work on Marshall's St. Clouds Park," said Baseball

Tennis team opens season

The tennis team will open their season today by starting a road trip with two matches today and four matches in the next five days.

Today's matches will be at 9 a.m. against Virginia Commonwealth University and at 2:30 p.m. against the University of Richmond.

The other matches are against: Hampden-Sydney College at 2 p.m. Thursday; Randolph-Macon College at 1:30 p.m. Friday; VPI at 10 a.m., Saturday; and Morehead State University at 1:30 p.m., Monday.

Coach David Knouse has not decided in what order his six players will compete, but said this trip will be very important in evaluating his players and team as a whole.

The six players are Chuck Barnes, Cheverly, Md., junior; Jim Knapp, Beckley freshman; Jeff Stiles, Charleston senior; Jeff Smith; Tom Woodruff, Charleston senior; Bill Young, Vienna senior, and Wallace Taylor.

The Herd netters finished last season with a record of five wins and 12 losses.

Coach Jack Cook.

In the event of rain on Friday, the doubleheader will be moved up to Saturday at 1 p.m.

MU will play a doubleheader against Glenville State College at Glenville today at 1 p.m. Coach Cook has a young, and inexperienced team this year. He says that all positions are open and that he expects to shuffle players in and out.

Cook gave a tentative starting line-up, which he said was "subject to change up until game time."

The probable starting line-up is: Joe Goddard, catching; Carl Hewlett, pitching; Ted Shoebridge, or Lou DiMenna, or Herb Karlet at first base; Glen Verbage at second base; Roger Gertz at third base; Ralph Owens at shortstop; Jim Stombeck in left field; Craig Dickson in center field; and John Wiseman in right field.

The next scheduled game is a doubleheader against Concord College. This March 31 contest starts at 1 p.m. at home.

Educational talks centered on 70's

"The Governor's Conference On Education," sponsored by Governor Arch A. Moore, Jr., is scheduled March 31-April 1 with the theme "Education in West Virginia: Action in the 70's."

This is not a meeting of professional educators but of community people who are interested in education.

The conference is divided into three basic areas: early childhood education, elementary and secondary education, and education after high school.

Dr. Robert B. Hayes, dean of Teachers College, and David Brooks, Huntington senior, are members of the committee for education after high school.

This committee will discuss: how and to what extent should lay people be involved in the decision of education after high school; how can or should financing of higher education be accomplished, and the structure of education systems after high school.

An estimated 1,500 to 2,000 are expected from every county in West Virginia.

The German Club will hold a meeting Wednesday, April 1 at 8 p.m. in the Campus Christian Center. Color slides of Europe will be featured and it is open to the public.

SIGNALS TO BE TESTED

The Cabell - Huntington Civil Defense will test public warning systems (sirens) Thursday for three minutes. The purpose is to evaluate coverage of the signal and to keep the equipment operational. The signal will be to take cover or go to the nearest shelter if the signal were real. Bob Spencer, Buildings and Grounds, is the campus warning system official.

APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE

Applications for room and roommate preferences for the fall semester 1970-71 are now available in the offices of the seven residence halls on campus, according to Warren S. Myers, housing director.

A $25 deposit is required to accompany the applications. They are required to be turned into the Housing Office no later than April 17. The Housing Office will not be responsible for applications turned back into the dormitory offices.

In light of University housing policies, sophomores will be required to live in residence halls.

Florida trip less popular

An expected 25,000 students from colleges all over the country will be headed for the playground of the Easter vacation, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The 25,000 expected this year is quite a drop from the 55,000 that crowded the beaches last year.

Why the decrease in sun bathers? According to Captain Carrie of the Fort Lauderdale Police Department the city is unable to accommodate all the students. In the past students were allowed to sleep in cars and on the beach, but a new city ordinance now prohibits such action, so the homeless funseekers crowd the sidewalks only to be told to move on by city police.

Another factor that may be lessening the crowd is the weather.

Miss Huntington Pageant has three requirements

Huntington Jaycees are sponsoring a Miss Huntington Scholarship Pageant Saturday, April 25, at the Huntington High School Auditorium.

To qualify, a young lady must be between 18 and 28; must be a high school graduate and must have never been married. Poise, beauty, and talent are the three major requirements.

Talent will be considered in the judging and each contestant should possess some quality of talent, either trained or potential. In discussing the talent qualifications, Jim Farley, pageant general chairman, stressed that the range is varied and that no girl must necessarily be trained in any specific field. He pointed out that many entrants in previous pageants did not realize they possessed a quality of talent until they considered entering the contest.

Judging of the candidates will be based on the same values as the Miss West Virginia Pageant and at the national Miss America Pageant.

Applications for entering the contest may be obtained by contacting Howard Minor Jr. entries chairman, at 529-7640 or 523-3481.

He also said he did not think the irregularities lie with the sorority women, but rather with the system.

When asked if the same actions would have been taken had there not been black women rushing, Dr. Curriss said, "Anytime an injustice is brought to my attention, it is my responsibility to try to correct it."

Sorority representatives have been invited to appear before the SCWC and Dr. Curriss is setting up a meeting with Panhellenic Council to discuss the selection problems.

We didn't make it for just anybody.

We did make it for people who like sleek new shapes. Long hoods. And fast fastbacks.

We made it for people who like to drive on a road. Not just ride on it. That's why Camaro has an improved road-hugging front and rear suspension.

Camaro is made for people who like to choose their power. Four transmissions are available. And six engines, up to the Turbo-Jet 396.
