Colts' owner donates $50,000

By DAVID J. CRANCE
Staff reporter

Fifty-thousand dollars each has been donated to the Marshall University Memorial Fund and to the Wichita State Memorial Fund by Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts professional football team.

THE GIFT is the end result of a conversation Rosenbloom had with Marshall Acting President Donald N. Dedmon and Wichita State President Clark B. Ahlberg, after the Marshall air tragedy.

During that conversation Rosenbloom said he told both presidents he wanted to do something for their schools, but had not yet reached a decision on it.

Tuesday Rosenbloom announced he was making the donations, the largest yet received from any single source.

Contacted at his home in Golden Beach, Fla., Rosenbloom told The Parthenon "I felt this needed doing. So many people have given of their time and effort which I couldn't do. So I gave what I could."

Rosenbloom said in response to thanks given by The Parthenon "I am getting a good feeling doing this. It is impossible to give too much. I want each school to get all that they need; it is a most worthy cause."

HE ALSO said he was making the donations because so far the money received had not "been really that much." He also hopes his gifts will motivate other sports figures to do the same.

As of Monday Marshall's

Memorial Fund had reached the $75,500 mark. That figure did not include the split of $80,000 received so far from the nationally televised "Night of Stars" which Wichita State offered to share with Marshall.

Dr. Donald Dedmon said "I talked with Mr. Rosenbloom a few days ago and was immediately struck by his great sorrow over our tragedy and his obvious compassion for all of those affected by it. Such a gift could only come from a man deeply dedicated to athletics as well as the welfare of his fellow man."

"MY WORDS simply do not adequately convey the deep appreciation of our University of this gift. Not only are we grateful for its material worth; we also sincerely appreciate the support and encouragement it communicates to our university community. I know Marshall will do everything possible to live up to the trust which this unusual gift entails."

Dr. Dedmon said further "I talked to Mr. Rosenbloom this morning (Tuesday morning), discussed the gift and attempted to express the gratitude which all of us at Marshall University share."

IN TALKING further with The Parthenon Tuesday, Rosenbloom said he had heard of the possibility Marshall may hire Sam Huff, retired pro football great, as head football coach.

Rosenbloom said "I think it would be just wonderful. He is a fine all around man and was a tremendous football player."

Rosenbloom closed by saying he wished Marshall "all the luck in world and much future success for your University."

Preliminary registration up by 700

By GARY RAMSEY
Staff reporter

The increase in students pre-registering for the spring term over those of last year is nine per cent, according to Registrar Robert H. Eddins.

"Approximately 6,500 students had pre-registered before the 4 p.m. deadline Friday, Eddins said. This was an increase of 700 over the 5,800 registering last year.

He said reasons for the increase may be attributed to many factors. One is many students want to avoid regular registration, which insures a longer vacation and many students do not know what they are going to do after the summer term so this is a reason they wait to register in the fall.

EDDINS said, "It is common knowledge that the more students we have in the University the more we will have to pre-register." He continued to say "I would like to think we have an increase due to the fact we have made practically painless and labor free to pre-register."

Students who do not receive approved schedules in their campus mailboxes Jan. 4 will receive a listing of closed classes and information about resubmitting their entire schedule.

STUDENTS should note that if their schedule was rejected because of one closed class or a mistake in section numbers they must resubmit the entire schedule, Eddins said.

Days scheduled for resubmission of schedules are Jan. 4-6.

According to the registrar if the schedule is rejected for the second time then the student will receive an application for a time card and the student will have to go through regular registration.

Fortas has praise for idealism

By JOHN WILSON and
RICK BANKS
News editors

Abe Fortas, former justice of the U.S. Supreme Court praised the idealism of the young and criticized certain American institutions Monday night in a Community Forum address.

Speaking before an audience of approximately 400 in Old Main Auditorium, Fortas discussed "Understanding the Social Revolution."

"The young question our ideals and standards with the wisdom of a child's eye which is not distorted because of custom," he said.

Fortas said the young have added a new dimension to American life by turning their backs on such philosophies as "America's destiny is the dollar."

"The young have told us that there are more than materialistic values."

Fortas said that through the idealism of the young we have obligated ourselves to provide full rights and privileges of American citizenship to blacks, the poor and other previously neglected groups. "We have obligated ourselves but we can't deliver."

He then called for a major revision of many of our social institutions to turn these promised rights into actualities.

Fortas was particularly critical of the process of handling juvenile offenders which puts them through an "elaborate process" making them "hardened criminals." Fortas warned that another explosion of violence will come unless we find a way to fill the benefits and rights we have promised.

"The young have broadened the vision of a nobler, more idealistic country." However, he said it is up to the older generation to supply the answers and solutions which he feels involves finding new ways to deliver social services through newly created or completely revamped social institutions.

Fortas left his audience with the challenge to "think and consider how to translate new idealism of the young into realities of American life."

Fortas spoke to newsmen at a press conference Monday afternoon in his room at the UpTowner Inn. Fortas said the present Supreme Court is a "good court." He also said "we had a great Warren court."

Fortas was asked that if the courts were open 24 hours a day would it help to eliminate the number of people waiting for trial. "I don't believe opening the courts for longer periods of time would eliminate this problem. What we need is a revision of the judicial process to solve this problem," Fortas said.

He said he agreed with some of Vice President Spiro Agnew's speech lashing out at the press. "However, I don't think he should have said it. He was intimidating the press with his actions. I do think the press is making vain attempts to suppress prejudices in their reporting," Fortas continued.

Seven days in anytime

By Arthur Hoppe

Thursday -- A Pentagon spokesman today confirmed reports that "a small, tactical nuclear device" had been dropped on Red China Tuesday.

He said it may have inflicted "some casualties" on a "little village in remote Sinkiang Province." He said "one or more" American planes were involved.

There was no protest from Peking. Peking Radio has been silent for the past 48 hours.

Friday -- Secretary of Defense Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Chinese casualties "might be somewhat higher than at first anticipated."

He denied, however, that it was an American bombing

VICS organized and 'in action' says O'Rourke

By GRACE JANE MOORE
Staff reporter

Three hundred Volunteers in Community Service (VICS) have organized in specific programs and are "in action," said Frank O'Rourke, New York City senior and VICS chairman.

A committee of 25 VICS members, headed by Gilbert Wilson, Kingwood sophomore, is working to form a senior citizens group in Guyandotte, he said.

"This committee will be providing transportation, advertisement, and program planning for the senior citizens group," said Wilson.

"The group also will be working from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 15 and 16 at the Campus Christian Center in a sale of Appalachian arts and crafts made by elderly people in the area."

Another phase of VICS' work is with Huntington State Hospital, said Ruth McQuade, Gauley Bridge junior and chairman of VICS mental health program.

"Student volunteers spend each Saturday afternoon at the hospital working with patients under the supervision of Tom Gray, director of adjunctive therapy," said Miss McQuade. Activities include square dancing, relays and other games, while future projects include painting of hospital wards and birthday parties for patients, she said.

O'Rourke added that the bus which picks up VICS students at 1:00 p.m. and returns at 4 p.m. each Saturday at the Campus Christian Center has room for students interested in observing or helping with the mental health activities.

Recreation is conducted Monday through Friday from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the Emmanuel United Methodist Church for children of the Marshall area, said O'Rourke.

Don Stull, Clifftop senior, and Roger Weis, Huntington junior, are guiding the recreation program with help from VICS members and members of a Marshall education class, he said.

VICS tutoring program has begun in St. Joseph's Grade School, but "we are still waiting for the O.K. from the board of education in Huntington to enter public schools for tutoring purposes," he concluded.

attack. It was, he said, "an advance retaliatory protective mission" aimed at "saving American lives in Southeast Asia."

The mission was necessary, he said, to prevent Chinese anti-aircraft batteries from firing on unarmed American reconnaissance planes attempting to assess the damage.

Saturday -- President Nixon was to have told four Republican women from Dubuque at a private White House garden reception that they need "no longer worry" about Red China. "It has ceased to exist," they quoted him as saying.

The Pentagon would say only that it was "revising its casualty estimates." One source, however, said, "It won't go any higher than 500 million at most."

Sunday -- Appearing on Face

the Press, Senator Fulbright accused Secretary Laird of having lied to the Foreign Relations Committee. Instead of "one small device," he said, "we rained more than a thousand megatons of nuclear bombs on every corner of China."

Secretary Laird immediately called a press conference to deny he had lied. "Senator Fulbright," he said, "didn't ask the right questions."

At the same time, Laird said radioactive fallout from the mission "poses no danger at this time, except to localized areas of the Western Pacific."

Monday -- Evacuation of American troops and officials from Vietnam and other Asian areas began this morning. The Pentagon described the move as "precautionary" in view of "a small radioactive cloud in the area."

Tuesday -- The White House said The Cloud was now centered over Guam but "should dissipate within a very few hours." A spokesman said U.S. regrets for any inconvenience The Cloud may have caused had been cabled to American allies in the Far East. No replies have yet been received.

Wednesday -- In a televised address tonight, President Nixon said there was "no cause for alarm." At the same time, he paid tribute to "our brave fellow Americans" in the Western United States.

"They were part of our cherished national heritage," he said, "and both Pat and I shall deeply miss them."

Thursday -- The President, broadcasting from Air Force One at 50,000 feet, said "the short-lived crisis" was definitely over. The Cloud, he said, was now moving out over the Atlantic.

"I know I shall be criticized for having done what was right, as I have been in the past," he said. "But never before have we been given a greater opportunity to build a better and stronger America."

"Each of us, in my opinion, has been given a fresh start. And that goes, rightly or wrongly, for every living American down there below me tonight."

Unfortunately, there weren't any.

WMUL to move Nitro studio to new building

WMUL-TV will transfer the on-the-air operation from the Nitro studios to the new studios located in the Telecommunications Building by Dec. 21, according to George Parnicza, chief engineer.

Parnicza said all new equipment has been installed in the on-the-air control room in the Telecommunications Building. Most of the equipment, he added, had been stored for up to two years awaiting the opening of the Huntington studios.

The main difference between the Nitro studios and the new Huntington studios is that in Huntington the production and on-the-air control rooms will be separate.

Speaker's squad return home with two trophies

Members of speaker's squad brought back two trophies from California State College, California, Pa., while members of novice debate team won two and lost six debates Friday and Saturday at Butler University, Indianapolis, Indiana.

In individual speaking events at California State, Steven Hayes, Huntington sophomore, won first place in oratory, and David Cooke, Huntington freshman, placed second in the poetry interpretation division.

In competition with fourteen colleges at Butler, novice debate team, consisting of Charlene Miller and Paul Dick, Huntington freshmen, arguing for the affirmative, and Mary Stout, Marietta, Ohio, freshman, and Bruce Tucker, South Point, Ohio, freshman, presenting the negative views, had a record of two wins and six losses.

The next tournament for debaters will be held Friday and Saturday at Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio.

Miss Jacqueline White, instructor of speech and assistant debate coach, commented, "The formidable competition at Butler should be a help in preparing for Marietta."

Miss White added that next events for the speaker's squad are Feb. 5-6, 1971 at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. Any student interested in representing Marshall in these events is to contact Miss White or Dr. B. W. Hope in the department of speech.

'I am not interested in being No. 2-- only No. 1'-- Huff

Pro coach discusses MU position

By CHUCK LANDON
Sports reporter

If Sam Huff is to come to Marshall University, it apparently won't be just to fulfill the head football coaching position.

When asked if he was interested in assuming both the coaching and athletic director jobs, Huff replied that he would be "very interested" in applying for both positions in some sort of a package agreement.

The assistant coach of the Washington Redskins was scheduled to be interviewed in regard to the coaching job Friday but his plane was forced to turn back due to bad weather.

Another interview will not take place until after Christmas, according to Huff.

"Right now I have to devote my full interests toward the two remaining Washington games," Huff said.

"However," he continued, "I am sure there would be a lot of roadblocks before I could come to an agreement with anyone at Marshall. I would first want to know what the situation is and then take inventory of it."

"I would not be interested in the Marshall job unless they show me that they desire to have a top-notch program in all facets," Huff stated. "I am not interested in being number two-only number one, and I think the state is large enough and stable enough to support two major universities," he added.

The primary reason for Huff applying for the coaching position is that he would be his own boss rather than being an assistant as he is now. Another reason for his interest is the chance of coming back to West Virginia and building a football organization from the ground up.

Huff, in his second year as a coach with the Redskins, was an All-American at West Virginia University in 1955, and was named to that year's National Collegiate Athletic Association scholastic All-American team.

Following graduation, he was a third-round draft choice of the New York Giants, and was a five-time all-pro selection with the Giants.

Goal-3,000 tickets

Dr. Robert Alexander, student ticket sales director, said his goal for the 1970 Marshall University Invitational basketball tournament is to sell 3,000 student tickets.

"This is the time when the students will show whether they're going to support the team," said Alexander. "Up to now, they've just been able to get in with their activity cards, but the tournament will show if they're willing to pay to see their team play," Alexander added.

He also said that he doesn't think having the MUIT after classes are over is a bad idea.

"On the contrary, it's an advantage having it then. Students won't have to worry about classes the next day or getting up in the morning," said Alexander.

Student Senate has made a proposal to ask the Housing Office to leave the dorms open until Dec. 20 to promote student attendance at the MUIT.

"By Dec. 16 I would like to go home knowing that the student section is sold out for both nights," concluded Alexander.

The fourth annual MUIT will be played as a memorial to the late Drs. R. R. Hagley and H. D. Proctor, who founded and helped lay the groundwork for the first MUIT in 1967.

The Marshall University Alumni Association has also chosen to re-name two of its most coveted invitational tournament trophies in honor of Hagley, Proctor and the remaining 73 who perished in the tragic airplane crash.

The championship team of the MUIT will receive the Marshall Memorial Trophy and most valuable player will receive the Hagley-Proctor Memorial Trophy.

Applications for reserve seat tickets may be made to the Marshall Athletic Department or to the Marshall Alumni Office. Reserve seat tickets may also be purchased at Humphrey's Southside Pharmacy, Dan's Sport Shop, Twin Tower's West lobby and Smith Hall lobby.

Reserve seats are $4 per round, general admission tickets at $3 per round and student tickets at $2 per round.

Greek tournament to be this weekend

The third annual Greek Invitational Tournament, sponsored by Zeta Beta Tau fraternity, will be Friday and Saturday at Gullickson Hall.

Invitations for the basketball event were issued to all social fraternities, according to ZBT team captain Bill Bayert, Ironton, Ohio sophomore.

Coach meets with players about studies

Coach William A. (Red) Dawson, acting head football coach, met with the remaining football players and told them that class attendance, grades and behavior would be checked as it has in the past.

He said that study halls would be available as well as tutors for players that needed extra study.

Dawson asked those attending the meeting, about 40 to 45, mostly freshmen, to give him the names of high school players from their hometowns that they thought were good players and might want to play college ball.

POOL TOURNAMENT

Any Twin Towers East resident interested in participating in a pool tournament should contact Joe Smith, Parkersburg junior, by Friday.

Fraternity members participated in the drawing for first pairings of the tournament Monday at the ZBT house. The game schedule will be announced as soon as all fraternities have participated in the drawing, according to G.I.T. coordinator Rick Altare, Alderson sophomore.

Trophies will be given to first and second place teams and seven all-tournament members. The all-tourney members will be chosen from participating teams by game officials.

Referees will be area students who have volunteered their services, with the exception of the final championship game when two sanctioned professional area referees will be hired to officiate.

Winner of last year's G.I.T. was Kappa Alpha Psi. Sigma Alpha Epsilon placed second.

Dr. Cerveris to premier multi-media

"Why Am I Afraid To Tell You I Am?," another multi-media presentation by Dr. Michael E. Cerveris of the Marshall University music faculty, will premier Dec. 17 at 8:15 p.m. in Evelyn Hollberg Smith Music Hall.

Last season at Marshall University and this fall at the Huntington Galleries, Dr. Cerveris presented his "An After Dinner Farriago," a multi-media program based on the music and wit of Eric Satie.

Dr. Cerveris, associate professor of music, said, "The performance makes use of music, literary excerpts and art work. The art work will be in the form of slide projections."

He added, "The program is an attempt, or an experiment to combine various art forms. It's almost like a conversation between these art forms in which each form speaks about a certain idea. Each form talks about the same idea, but express different views."

One section of the program creates a stylistic point of view by virtue of the music involved. In another section, the literary excerpts are to complement the presentation, either to reinforce a musical philosophy or to express a counter view. Six scenes will be presented.

Christmas plans for cafeterias outlined today

By GRACE MOORE
Staff reporter

A window decoration contest and a special dinner featuring steamship round of beef carved to order are highlights of the Christmas festivities planned by Marshall cafeterias, said Charles E. Moore, food production manager.

"Various windows and doors in the Twin Towers cafeteria will be designated for dormitory groups who wish to enter the contest," said Moore.

"The only restrictions placed upon students in this contest is they may use no permanent oil-base paints and each dormitory may send only one representative group to decorate," he said.

Windows should be completed by 5 p.m. Dec. 15 and will be judged by a panel of judges which has not been determined. The winning group will be announced during the Christmas dinner and will receive a steak dinner served in the cafeteria at a later date, he said.

The dinner, served buffet-style in the dining room, will feature other specials as egg-nog, candies and treats for the students, said Moore.

"Santa Claus will be there for the big party and will make periodic visits between South Hall and Twin Towers."

Christmas music, specially taped by WKEE radio and announced by Jack O'Shea, will be played in Twin Towers cafeteria throughout the week, he said.

A decoration committee, headed by Joseph White, Weston sophomore, has begun decorating Twin Towers cafeteria and will continue to add Christmas decorations until Dec. 16. They also will coordinate the window decorating contest, said Moore.

include: "Critique of Pure Reason," by Emanuel Kant; "A Year From Monday," and "Silence," by John Cage; "Decent Into Hell," by Charles Williams and "Knoxville: Summer 1915," by James Agee.

Included in the piano music are compositions by Brahms, Bach, Mozart, Scheonberg, Poulenc, and Debussy.

This program also features original artwork by Fred Gros, artist-in-residence at the Huntington Galleries, and spoken words by John S.

Benjamin, Myna Frazier, Paul Osborne, Fred Gros, and Michaela and Marisa Cerveris.

Dr. Cerveris will play the piano, Charles Biern will give technical assistance and Betty Benjamin will handle photography.

Pianist recital given tonight

The Department of Music will present Mrs. Lavelle Thompson Jones, pianist, in a faculty recital at 8:15 p.m. in Evelyn Hollberg Smith Recital Hall.

An associate professor of music and member of the MU faculty since 1947, Mrs. Jones will be presenting her first on campus recital in several years. The program will include Sonata in E Flat Major, Opus 31, No. 3, by Beethoven; five Preludes from Book II by Debussy; Suite, Opus 14, by Bartok; and Chopin's Ballade in G Minor.

Mrs. Jones received a bachelor of music degree from Cincinnati Conservatory and a master's degree from Peabody College. Additional graduate studies include work at Chicago Musical College, University of Denver, Cincinnati Conservatory, Temple University and the University of Maine.

Faculty recitals are open to students, faculty and townspeople free of charge.

CCC worship services to feature Hanger Trio

The Howard Hanger Trio of Atlanta will be presented Dec. 12-13 at the Campus Christian Center in a Christmas performance.

Rev. Hardin W. King, Presbyterian campus pastor, will coordinate the program which will be sponsored by the CCC and the following Presbyterian churches: Beverly Hills, Enslö Park, First Huntington, First Kenova, and Spring Valley.

"The key to this type of 'experimental worship,'" Reverend King said, "is that it is designed for the campus and community people together."

He added that "along with the music, multi-film projections, light shows, dramatic readings, poetry, and often a column from a current newspaper are used as spurs to bring about a creative experience for the participant."

"A presentation by the Trio involves communication. The attempt is made to have the audience respond and react in such a way that they, in effect, create an experience for that moment," Reverend King said.

His description of this kind of performance was "spontaneous liturgy."

The trio will informally discuss with musicians and those interested in the drama of Christian worship the techniques and dynamics of authentic worship, according to Reverend King.

He explained that the group had performed since the Fall of 1965 with Howard Hanger playing piano, Paul Reeve on drums, and Mike Givens on the string bass.

He added that Hanger, a graduate of Emory University and Chandler School of Theology, was an accomplished musician and a member of the Experimental Worship Project of the Commission on Worship of the United Methodist Church.

During his home life, Hanger teaches music and works with children on a foster care basis, according to Reverend King.

The program Dec. 12 will last from 1:30-5:30 p.m. in a Worship Workshop program and begin again at 8:30 p.m. during the Coffee Hour.

The University Service of Worship will introduce the Trio at 10:45 a.m. Dec. 13 and at 7:30 p.m. the Trio will perform at the Enslö Park Presbyterian Church.
